MONEY-ORDER SERVICE WITH CUBA SUSPENDED

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Suspension of money-order service between the United States and all postoffices in Cuba except the city of Havana was announced today by Postmaster-General Burleson at the request of the Cuban government.

"The Postmaster-General's order," said an announcement, "instructs postmasters to suspend payment of money orders issued at any office in Cuba except Havana after February 17 and to refuse to draw orders on any office in Cuba except Havana. Havana alone will continue to issue and pay orders on or from the United States.

"Also postmasters at all money order offices in the United States are directed to suspend payment of any money orders drawn upon them by postmasters in the provinces of Camaguey and Oriente after February 12. In case of doubt, as to the proper action postmasters should apply for special instructions to the Third Assistant Postmaster-General, division of money orders."

The effect of this order will be to prevent Cuban revolutionists from having financial intercourse with the United States through the mails.

COMMENT ON THE SITUATION. Attacking in force the German lines on both sides of the River Ancre, in France, British troops on Saturday penetrated about 1000 yards on a front of one mile and a half south of the stream, and gained ground on the northern side. The latest success follows upon the British capture of Grandcourt, also on the southern bank, and brings them within a short distance of both Miraumont and Petit Miraumont, northeast of Grandcourt. Field Marshal Haig's forces also carried an important German position north of the Ancre on a front of about 1000 yards north of the Baillescourt farm. German counter-attacks were withstood successfully by the British who report that they inflicted heavy losses on the Germans. The British also captured at least 268 prisoners, including 5 officers. Continuing their advance on Kut-el-Amara, in Mesopotamia, British troops have taken more positions from the Turks, and prisoners captured Thursday number nearly 2000, including 89 officers. On the right bank of the River Tigris, the British seized important strategic positions. Belated Turkish official statements admit retirements in this region.

The report that Villa has gone to Japan is the most illuminating item that has come from below the border. The bodies of the victims of the Corner ranch have been recovered, and a $5000 ransom was paid for one of the Americans held by Villa bandits.

BULLETINS

HAVANA, Feb. 17.—In the fighting which resulted in the capture of Sancti Spiritus, in the eastern part of Santa Clara province by government forces, it is unofficially reported that between 100 and 200 rebels were killed. The government force is said to have lost only six men killed.

SPRINGFIELD (Mass.) Feb. 17.—Henry Safford, 77, believed to be the last survivor of those present at the deathbed of Abraham Lincoln, died here today.

CHARLESTON (S. C.) Feb. 17.—Capt. J. R. Klattenhoff and eight other officers of the German steamer Liebenfels, sunk in shallow water here January 31, were formally accused today of wilfully sinking the vessel or allowing it to be sunk. Hearing before a Federal commissioner was postponed and the men were allowed liberty under $5000 bond each.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 17.—Universal brotherhood as one of the outcomes of the war was the topic of an address delivered today by Dr. Kuno Meyer, former German exchange professor to the University of California, before the Commonwealth Club here.

"We may not live to see it," said Prof. Meyer, "but probably the youngest among us may live long enough to glimpse the beginning."

The obstacles to the coming internationalism, he said, could be overcome only by universal and open-minded education.

HOOVER FEARS FOR RELIEF WORK.

MILLIONS MORE NEEDED, HE TELLS AMERICANS.

Declares Belgians may Yet Starve if United States Does not Come to the Front and Assist British and French in Contributions.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—A fear that the American Commission for Relief in Belgium may not be able to carry its task to a successful conclusion was voiced by Herbert C. Hoover, director of the organization in an address tonight before the National Geographical Society. "We need an additional three to five million dollars a month," he said. "We need for the children $1,250,000 per month to pay for the added imports. Five months ago, we appealed to the American government to find this money for us, but despite the efforts of thousands of devoted supporters in the United States, the apathy of the country caused failure, even for this modest sum. Yet within two months I have stood ashamed before a thousand children who on my entrance rose from their daily meal and sang the opening stanzas of 'The Star Spangled Banner.'

"We had hoped to have written a bright chapter of American history in this war—of American efficiency, of American humanity, of an institution devoted, not to destruction, but dedicated to self sacrifice and the saving of life—but I fear tonight that this chapter will never be completed, and that we may have failed in the great task which we set for America in the saving of ten millions of helpless people.

"We initially appealed to the world, and during the first nine months, twenty to thirty million dollars poured into our treasury. Up to the present time, however, the cost of supporting the destitute in Belgium has exceeded one hundred millions of dollars and the seventy millions of dollars which public charity has failed to provide, has been so far provided, one-half by the British government and one-half by the French.

"One great proof of the necessity and efficiency of Belgian relief has been the million who have died in Serbia and Poland because they had no such support and protection."

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDONDO BEACH, Feb. 17.—A storm struck this port at 10 o'clock last night, and the breakers were ten and fifteen feet high near the shore. The ocean tonight is a mass of whitecaps and all yachts, barges and fishing craft were towed in after the wind came up.

Two moving-picture concerns are filming the churning ocean and milk-white breakers. The storms, which come in February, often toss the breakers about for two and three days at a time. This time the waves are dashing over the new pier.

"LET'S CLEAR THE SEAS, MAKE COMMERCE SAFE"

Members Agree on the Formula of Our Duty in the Great Crisis.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Feb. 17.—The House of Representatives today practically served notice on President Wilson it will not grant him full powers to conduct operations against Germany as he sees fit in case his severance of diplomatic relations leads to war.

Member after member voiced a protest against general participation by the United States in the European war.

Man after man as he spoke asserted that the President was not to be criticised for breaking off relations with Germany, but should be criticised, if in his future conduct of the relations between the United States and Germany, he allows himself to be drawn into the general European war.

The House clearly demonstrated it is opposed to having the President take any action without first consulting Congress.

THE KEYNOTE.

Representative Lenroot of Wisconsin struck the keynote of the day's debate when he said:

> If we are too cowardly to fight for our rights on the sea we are too cowardly to fight for our rights on the land.
> But, Mr. Speaker, that is not the spirit of the American people and when the time comes that will not be the spirit of this Congress. Representing the great American people here, we will vote to maintain by force, if need be, our liberties upon the sea, but that does not mean that we will vote a general declaration of war against Germany. It does not mean that we will intervene in the European war.
> It does not mean that we will send over men to the trenches of Europe. It does not mean that we are to sit in and determine the terms of settlement of European questions. It means only that we are going to settle our difficulty with Germany by compelling Germany to respect our rights upon the sea.
> If war must come, it will be a war upon the sea, destroying every German submarine that we can and protecting our own ships until such time as Germany shall cease to be an outlaw upon the sea. When Germany shall again respect our rights, our quarrel with her will be over and we will be ready to make peace with her, regardless of European nations or European quarrels.
> I believe the American people and this Congress will stand for this policy, and that those who would drag us into this world war for any reason other than maintaining our rights and those who are for peace at any price together constitute a very small minority.

DEBATE CLOSED.

Mr. Lenroot closed a debate which was participated in by Representatives Gardner of Massachusetts, Moore of Pennsylvania, Reeves of Nebraska, London of New York, Bailey of Pennsylvania, Garrett of Tennessee and a host of other Congressmen.

This debate completely sidetracked consideration of the army appropriation bill during most of the day. It fairly indicated the temper of the House in the present crisis.

London and Bailey, extreme pacifists, pleaded that the United States should not go into war under any conditions.

Bailey precipitated a bitter row when he asserted that Congressman Gardner placed loyalty to Great Britain above loyalty to the United States.

Representative King of Illinois jumped to the floor and moved that the House expunge the reflection from the record. A viva voce vote was taken, and the Democratic supporters of Bailey made more noise than the Republicans. King demanded a division and won. Hardy of Texas, supporting Bailey, demanded a roll call. By a large majority the House ordered the reference to Gardner stricken from the record.

Then Bailey in turn demanded that remarks made by Gardner on Thursday, declaring that the followers of Bryan, the pacifists, and the pro-Germans were all a peril to the country, should be expunged. The House refused to grant his demand.

As the debate proceeded it was apparent that the views of the members differed widely on what course the United States should follow in case Germany committed an overt act, bringing about war.

NEBRASKAN'S VIEW.

Representative Reaves of Nebraska spoke strongly against a general participation in the European war. Representative London was against war on any condition.

When he asserted there was danger in the old slogan of standing by the President when "the President stands on his head," he produced cheering from the pacifists; likewise when he declared the only issue involved in the present crisis is whether or not "munition makers shall be allowed to sell munitions," the pacifists applauded him.

It was after Mr. London concluded that Mr. Lenroot took the floor and asserted that Congress could not delegate its duty to the President in the present crisis.

RESPONSIBILITY.

After asserting what kind of a war he believed the United States should wage on Germany if Germany brings about a war, Mr. Lenroot said:

> If we are called upon to act in this matter it will be the most solemn responsibility ever laid upon any of us. If any member in that hour is influenced in the least by party politics, by prejudice, by sympathy for either side in the European American girls mobilizing.

While American women are mobilizing to scrub, to shoot, to do Red Cross duty and anything else that the country may demand of them, the first real work by women in the making of munitions was done in the Terench company's shops in the Bronx, N. Y., by sixteen California girls. The girls are giving voluntarily their services towards making bandages, sewing and making munitions to assist in the work now going on for a possible contingency of war between the United States and Germany. Garbed in overalls they have taken to the greasy surroundings found in the munitions plants as if to the manner born. The picture gives one a graphic idea of just what these girls are willing to do to contribute their bit to the patriotic wave that is sweeping the country from coast to coast.

HAVANA, Feb. 17.—Optimism over the revolutionary outbreak in the eastern provinces continues in government circles. The military forces of the government will attempt to crush Gen. Jose Miguel Gomez, the leader, in the province of Camaguey, by attacking him from all sides. Later it is expected the government troops will move on Santiago, where everything is reported quiet.

Gen. Agrement has reinforced the Havana police by arming eight hundred special constables.

The General Staff of the Cuban army today issued an order granting indulgence to all deserters from the army who surrender now.

Reports of unimportant engagements between government troops and rebels in Santa Clara and Camaguey provinces were received here today. Aurelio Havia, secretary of government, who went to Santa Clara yesterday, reports all quiet there and with no important rebel groups in the province.

Services of Two Thousand Professional Nurses of State to be Called on for Red Cross Work in Case of Hostilities—Notables Zealous for Preparedness.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HARTFORD (Ct.) Feb. 17.—The women of Connecticut have refused to be left out of the census which Gov. Holcomb is making of the human and material military resources of the State.

At the urgent request of official representatives of the more than 2000 professional nurses of the State, Joseph W. Alsop, of Gov. Holcomb's committee, is preparing a list of questions to be used in enumerating not only the professional nurses, but also other women who desire to be placed on the reserve list for possible service as Red Cross members. The American Red Cross society has a list of the nurses of the State, but Mr. Alsop was told this was incomplete in several particulars.

In other lines, women are showing their zeal for preparedness. Miss Myrtle C. Lawson, an expert statistician, formerly with one of the large insurance companies, but more re-

Villa on the Way to Japan.

Bandit Leader is Reported to be Three Weeks at Sea en Route to Tokio.

Mormons Guard the Border While Ransom is Paid for a Captive.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO, Feb. 17.—Francisco Villa, whose movements have been a mystery to his enemies, as well as to the mass of his followers, has made his way to the West Coast and embarked for Japan, according to W. L. Crawford, a well-known cattleman of Dallas, Tex. and a former Texas Ranger, who says his source of information is one of Villa's most trusted agents and a man personally known to him to be reliable.

Villa is said to have traveled to the coast in disguise and got safely aboard a ship in Mazatlan and now is three weeks at sea.

Various versions of a story that Villa informed his leaders of his intention to absent himself for three months and to return with news "that would make his followers throw their hats into the air with joy," have been reaching the border for several days. His object was not disclosed in any of these stories, which were received here both by mining men and government agents.

No direct word of Villa's whereabouts has been obtainable here in weeks. Reports given out by his local junta have placed him in various parts of Chihuahua. Carranza officers and officials have admitted they did not know where he was.

News was received here tonight that the Mexican Central Railway now is open south from Chihuahua City to Mexico. Recent fighting in Lower Chihuahua along this line, according to Carranza reports, was not with bands led by Villa, but by lesser chiefs. Salazar is in command of the rebels in the country recently evacuated by Gen. Pershing, according to all reports.

THE BORDER SITUATION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO, Feb. 17.—A report was received here tonight that several hundred Americans have organized a posse to cross into Mexico to pursue and attack the Mexicans who raided the Corner ranch this week and killed three Americans. One report said the Americans had crossed the border and had engaged a band of Mexican bandits in battle on the Mexican side below Hachita, N. M. Hachita says nothing is known there of a posse crossing. Corner ranch is nearly sixty miles from Hachita.

THE MORMON PATROL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CAMPBELL'S RANCH (N. M., via automobile courier to Hachita, N. M.,) Feb. 17.—When the bodies of A. P. Peterson, Burton Jensen and Hugh Acord were committed to the earth here late today the final chapter of the Corner ranch raid was ended and three more names added to the list of Americans killed by bandits in Mexico.

While the Mormon church choir chanted "Oh, My Father," as the caskets were lowered into the ground, mounted Mormon scouts patrolled the Mexican boundary line to prevent a surprise attack by bandits, and cowboys and homesteaders stood about the graves with their wide brimmed hats in one hand and their rifles in the other.

The closing scene of the triple tragedy was staged within sight of the Corner ranch where the three Mormon cowboys were captured late Monday by Mexican raiders, dragged across the border and killed, after which their bodies were mutilated. Off across the Llanos of Mexico could be seen the Saddleback Mountain at Ojitos ranch, where Salazar's 500 troops were encamped while the patrols of the Twelfth United States

FAMINE GRIPS EMPIRE AS WAR BLOCKADE HOLDS.

People Fall in Streets from Lack of Food, Says California Girl.

BY MISS KATHLEEN MAY DORMER,
A California Girl Just Returned to America via London.
[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BOSTON, Feb. 1.—I think Americans will find it difficult to leave Germany. The German authorities will either try to prevail on them not to leave the country just now or they will make it difficult, if not impossible to obtain passports. The German authorities are very anxious not to allow anyone to leave the country just now. There is a very good reason for this. Once out of Germany, these Americans will tell terrible tales of hunger and privation that has the Teutonic Empire in fast grip.

The Germans do not intern any Englishman who is over 55 years of age unless there is something against them, or women, and as my father was over 55 years of age when war was declared none of our family were interned. Our comfort was not interfered with in any way. We had just the same liberty as the Germans, except that we had to be indoors between 8 p.m. and 7 a.m., and each of us had to report to the police twice a week.

BRITONS AVOIDED IN BERLIN.

During the whole of the times I was in Berlin I never saw or heard of any English people being insulted or molested in the streets, but the Russians were badly abused at the beginning of the war. I myself saw a Russian with the side of his face cut away as the result of an attack in the street.

People avoided us a little, and would not speak to us, but they did not openly insult us.

As the war went on, however, and the internal condition became worse, they were more friendly disposed, and shortly before I returned to England they advised me not to do so, as I would either be torpedoed or killed by the Zeppelins.

You do not see young men about the streets of Berlin like you do in London, or Manchester, or any of the big English cities. All young men of Germany have gone to fight, and only the older men are left. The people generally are suffering far more privations than are the people of England, who are extremely well off by comparison. Among the poor there is much destitution.

ALL ON RATIONS.

The mass of the German people are very underfed. They are now yellow-looking, with hollow eyes and sunken cheeks. Their whole appearance is that of persons afflicted with jaundice. People are even falling down in the streets, too ill to walk for lack of food.

I have seen both men and women fall down. I do not suggest, however, that this is a common spectacle. It is not, but the privation is reaching most serious proportions.

NO MEAT FOR SIX WEEKS.

There is a scarcity of almost everything and every kind of food in Germany, and the more nourishing kinds are almost unobtainable. It was about October, 1915, that the shortage first began to be seriously felt. Then things got steadily worse, and a little before Easter last the meat shops closed all of a sudden. They were shut down for six or eight weeks, and during that time meat couldn't be procured at any price. When I left Berlin cards even for soap were in operation.

The milk cards were only for invalids and children under four years of age. All other persons were absolutely deprived of milk. The last milk we got was condensed at 49 cents in American currency for a small tin, and that was Danish.

Practically everything was doled out on the ration system, and a few samples will convince you of the desperate plight in which the German civilian population now find themselves.

The authorities allow for each person half a pound of meat a week in Berlin and 1-4 pound of meat in Saxony; two eggs in three weeks; ½ pound of sugar every ten days; 3 4-5 pounds of bread a week; 1-8 pound of butter or margarine (sometimes); and soap 1-10 pound per month, and the cost of that is from 20 to 25 cents in American money. No soap is supplied for laundries; they must only use chemical washing powder.

ALL SUFFER ALIKE.

Potatoes are very scarce. The last crop was a failure. Peas, beans and lentils are conspicuous by their absence.

Then as to prices: Lard costs 96 cents per pound. It is months since I was able to get any bacon, and the price was $1.20 per pound.

About nine months ago the large stores belonging to Wertheim had unclarified lard to sell at 72 cents per pound, and women of all classes were waiting during the night until the following morning for the opening of the shop. By 8 a.m. the queue reached over half a mile in length and was kept in order by the mounted police.

THERE IS NO COFFEE.

The coffee is made from acorns and is very dear. There is no real coffee. Ceylon tea costs $1.88 per pound, but latterly a mixture has been sold at $1.20 per pound. Ordinary sized chickens cost from $5 to $6 each.

DRESS GOODS ARE RATIONAL.

As regards dress materials, you can buy materials which cost you over $2.50 per yard; but it is necessary to get a permit from the police before you can purchase any cheaper woven material, either cotton or woolen.

I stopped in England for about two weeks and found that the great difference between the position in England and that in Germany is that while there may be a shortage of some articles in England you can buy them if you have the money, whereas in Germany there are many articles of food you cannot buy even if you are rolling in wealth.

You can go with your pocket full of money in Germany, but you cannot get more than half a pound of meat a week.

Taking the German people as a whole they have not got the money to pay the prices that are now being charged for foodstuffs. It is only the people on munitions who have the money, but if you have the money you cannot get the goods. After that, who will say that the British blockade has not been effective?

I have said that even if you have the money you cannot buy certain commodities. Nevertheless it is a fact that the rich folk, especially those who can live in hotels or who live in the country, 'do themselves' very well indeed. It is the poor who are on the brink of starvation.

The extraordinary thing is that the more these people suffer the more docile they seem to become.

They are told—and they believe implicitly—that great as are their sufferings, the people in Great Britain are enduring greater privations.

When I left Berlin I did so because I was ill, owing to the lack of nourishing food. My condition may be gauged from the fact that when I crossed into Holland I was so overjoyed and excited by the sight of ham and bread that I was unable to eat.

PEOPLE WANT PEACE.

The present demeanor of the German people has undergone tremendous change.

In the early stages of the war they went about the city singing and cheering, and flags were constantly flying. There is none of that enthusiasm now. It has all gone. The poor people want peace because they have not enough to eat.

They still believe that Germany will win the war. As a matter of fact, before I left people often said to me 'Germany has already won the war, and we cannot understand why England won't have peace!'

They keep saying, 'Look at all the territory we hold,' overlooking the fact that they have lost all their colonies, that they do not occupy any British territory, and that Britain has command of the seas.

The educated classes are now realizing that all is not well with Germany on the western front, and have begun to fear for the result.

The metal shortage is proving a serious handicap to the Germans. Aluminum is very scarce. Some time ago the authorities took all the brass fittings from the fireplaces of the houses in Berlin; women sold the copper pans in which they boiled jams, and it was a common sight to see big lorries laden with these household utensils passing along the streets. The housewives parted with the articles willingly because they were well paid for them, but the landlords and property owners were very wroth at the removal of the fireplace fittings.

At the time the cry in Germany was 'only to win' signifying that they were prepared for any sacrifice so long as victory was achieved.

Elastic and rubber are extremely scarce, and private motor cars are not allowed to go from one suburb to another.

SOCIALIST POSTERS.

During the evening on which Dr. Karl Liebknecht, the famous Socialist leader, was arrested, the following poster was put up on the Potsdamerplatz (Potsdam Square) in Berlin by the extreme Socialist leaders:

England Hat Gold.
Russland Hat Speck.
Deutschland Hat Marmelade und Dreck.

The translation of which is:

England Has Gold.
Russia Has Bacon.
Germany Has Jam and Dirt.

As German soldiers who had been stationed in the occupied territory on the eastern front were returning to Germany with bacon and other foods, the Germans began to see for themselves that it was only they who were so short of food, and therefore the discontented feeling arose.

FAITH IN ZEPPELINS.

Well-educated Germans firmly believe that the English print two newspapers, one for home and the other containing cheap-food advertisements for abroad.

When the Zeppelins were brought down in England the Germans would not believe that they had been shot down, but declared that the mechanism had gone wrong.

To this day thousands of Germans believe that to be true, but when the better classes got to know that the Zeppelins had really been brought down by the English gunners and airmen they were very depressed.

We were naturally delighted at the news, but had to celebrate it quietly and secretly at home. We also considered it discreet to remain indoors for a few days. After their last experience I doubt if the Zeppelins will ever visit England again.

GERMANS DESERT.

On my way to England I crossed from Holland on a Dutch boat. On another boat there were about 200 Russians who had escaped from Germany. They told me that about thirty Germans escaped over the frontier every day and that the Germans were thinning the outposts to lessen the number of deserters.

LEST WE FORGET.

Nothing so well demonstrates the value of a newspaper as an advertising medium as the extent to which its advertising columns are used. This is due to the fact that successful business men and women soon learn by experience to discriminate between newspapers that bring them satisfactory advertising results and those that do not.

The Times' tremendous popularity, and the superior profitableness of its columns to its advertising patrons, are attested by the fact that it regularly prints both a greater volume and a greater variety of display and classified advertising than any other Los Angeles newspaper.

The interesting figures that follow tell the local advertising story for the week ending February 17, 1917:

GERMANY REDUCES THE HEAT IN HOUSES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Feb. 17.—The Havas correspondent at Geneva, reports that the Berlin local government has decreed that on account of the lack of freight cars and impossibility of obtaining sufficient supplies of coal, houses which are served from central heating plants, must not have a temperature of more than 59 degs. Fahrenheit. All central heating plants must cease operations March 31. Hot water supplied by the city to apartments is to be cut off immediately.

JOINT ULTIMATUM SENT TO PERSIA.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Feb. 17 (via Sayville)—The Russian newspaper Russky Slovoe is quoted by the Overseas News Agency to the effect that the Russian and British representatives at Teheran have transmitted to the Persian government an ultimatum requiring Anglo-Russian control of Persian finances. Objections raised by Persia, the news agency says, are answered by references to a treaty which has not been ratified by Persia.

CAR SHORTAGE IS WORST IN YEARS.

MORE FAVORABLE WEATHER EXPECTED TO HELP.

Great January Increase in Available Rolling Stock is Attributed to Accumulation of Freight at Eastern Seaboard and to Congestion in Interior.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—The country's car shortage situation was, February 1, the worst in ten years with one exception, according to figures made public here today by the American Railway Association. The railways look to more favorable weather and to an increase of trans-Atlantic cargo space as chief remedial measures and unless these are early developments, it was stated on behalf of the association, immediate relief may not be expected.

On February 1 the net shortage of freight cars numbered 109,770 as compared with 62,247 on January 1. On November 1 the number was 114,908, which had stood as a record since February, 1907. Figures covering last Thursday, February 15, will be made public in a few days and it is not known yet whether the shortage has decreased or increased since the first of the month.

The January increase is attributed to the accumulation of freight at the eastern seaboard, the severe weather in various parts of the country and the freight congestion in the interior. It is declared that the shortage exists for the most part in the West, Northwest, and Southwest, as opposed to surpluses in many parts of the East.

STAND IDLE LOADED.

The association's statement asserts that consignees "for various reasons" are holding shipments in freight cars at eastern ports and are paying demurrage charges for the continued use of these cars, which, though loaded, stand idle. In this connection it was pointed out that, while some of these cars have been thus used as storage houses longer than since the first of the year, the consignees prefer to pay the charges rather than to contract for warehouse space. They are able to do this, it was stated, because, with the accumulation of freight, warehouse charges have increased, and because certain commodities, such as pig iron, have so increased in value that some shippers find it cheaper to keep the freight in cars than to pay the cost of removal and storage rentals. It was pointed out that, as the cars are contracted for at Interstate Commerce Commission tariffs, the railroads are unable to interfere.

Another factor in the accumulation of freight cars in the East, it was stated, is speculation by consignees, who hold shipments while waiting for prices to go up. This factor was, however, regarded as a minor one, it was declared, the association not considering it of sufficient importance to call it to the government's attention.

All these cars, if loaded, the statement says, could have been started towards those parts of the country where they are needed.

The association sees hope for relief in the additional cargo space offered through the resolution of sailings by Scandinavian and Dutch freight steamers. This is expected to enable shippers to make many cars available for sending to the West.

It was stated that the co-operation among the eastern roads in sending empty cars west has never been more efficient than it is today.

FIFTY BRITISH AIRMEN BOMB GERMAN TRENCHES

Exciting Day in France Described by Pilot of an Allied Machine.

BY LIEUT. G. L. FAULKNER.
Of Imperial British Flying Corps.
[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

[The author of this series of articles describing the various phases of air fighting on the western battle front in France and Belgium, became a lieutenant in the Imperial British Flying Corps, November 23, 1915, receiving his commission direct from civilian life from the Duke of Connaught, brother of the King of England, and at the time Governor-General of Canada. Lieut. Faulkner is a native of Canada, his home city being Toronto. For over a year he saw active service in England, France and Belgium, and then, following a crash of his machine to the ground in a fight, he was invalided home. He expects shortly to return to his post in the Imperial British Flying Corps. He writes from intimate first-hand knowledge of aeronautic conditions on the western battle front, and his articles are vivid, yet accurate, pictures of what an army aviator has to undergo daily, all the while in the face of death in more than one guise. This is the first of a series of six articles by Lieut. Faulkner on air fighting along the British front in France. The second article will appear next Sunday.]

TORONTO (Can.) Feb. 10.—The tinkling of the mess-room piano, which, because of exposure to dampness and almost incessant use, was sadly out of tune, was the last thing I heard as I rolled in a blanket and went to sleep that first night in France. It was five miles in rear of the lines, in one of the "Armstrong" huts, "made in America," in which the men of the First Canadian Division of the Royal Fying Corps are housed.

The next thing I knew some one was shaking me roughly by the shoulder, and above the tinkling of the baby grand, there came the distant boom of big guns and the closer roar of exploding shells. Our boys had not yet finished the party they were giving in the mess hall, and a certain German general facing our sector was just starting a different kind of a party, which I afterwards learned he invariably did at precisely 2 o'clock every morning.

It has been said that the Germans are phlegmatic people. This chap had a sense of humor—a grim one, perhaps, or maybe he was troubled with insomnia and couldn't sleep after that hour anyway.

It was my observer who had wakened me. We were ordered to the aerodrome, he said, and it looked as though my first fight was to come before I had had a single night's sleep in France. If there is any time when a soldier might be excused for not being keen for a fight, I think it would be at 2 a.m. I shivered in the cold night air and wondered, as I strode along, how I was going to make out—not about whether I would come out with a whole skin, but how I would accomplish my mission, whatever it might be. I didn't want to fail the first time I tried.

I couldn't help thinking of the peaceful England I had left only a few hours before, where I had been flying over the country made famous by Shakespeare and Tennyson, and where none would have guessed that war with all its horrors was stalking abroad, just across a narrow channel, for, outside the big cities, England shows no signs of war times.

EYE OF AIR NEVER CLOSES.

One of the British night patrols was out—the eye of the service that never closes—and as we walked toward the aerodrome I could see the flashes as shrapnel exploded near him and as his machine gun occasionally spat. He and some of his comrades were paying a friendly visit to the Boches in appreciation of the general's 2 a.m. soiree.

Suddenly there was a flare of light directly above our aerodrome. I was startled. I'm not ashamed to admit it, but a second later I knew that it was one of our scouts, returned and signaling for a landing.

In response to his signal, lights showed on the ground and rockets were sent up. Just as we arrived at the field his little B-E 2-C plane glided to earth. The wings were slashed in several places, mute witnesses of the accuracy of German fire even at night with only a swiftly-gliding, darksome blur to fire at.

The pilot staggered from his seat. His face was seared with a bullet mark and his leather coat was torn in several places, from one of which blood had oozed and congealed. He wasn't badly hurt, and at any rate he was back.

Very often they don't come back—these boys that get up from the tinkling old piano to dance with death a thousand feet in the air. A bit of shrapnel explodes the petrol tank, or perhaps a missile from an anti-aircraft gun finds a billet in the body that controls the machine. But it's all in the game.

The hospital company was caring for the wounded pilot and my observer and I had tested my plane, which mechanicians had rolled out of the aerodrome. For an hour or so we shivered in the cold and then ammunition was distributed. We were going on a bombing expedition over the German trenches.

How did I feel? I didn't feel at all, not in those first minutes when we were busy in preparation. It didn't seem real yet. That came later.

BUSINESS OF PREPARATION.

There were fifty of our machines stretched in a line across the flat table lands. Here and there we pilots gathered in little groups, receiving our last instructions and studying maps and photographs which had been made by the reconnaissance service at the expense of many a splendid machine and many a brave fellow.

At last a bugle sounded. We scrambled into our machines and all along the line engines began to throb and sputter. On one side of me was a 300-horse power Rolls Royce with a mighty voice—think of it, the power of 300 horses hurling that fragile craft through the air with 300 times 300 death power explosives ready to turn loose over human flesh and blood.

On the other side of me was a $10,000 Larone Rotary engine, like my own, vying with the others in making a noise. It seemed as though the Germans in their far-away trenches must hear us starting. Then there were a swarm of little fellows humming and spitting, the "Vipers" or "Maggots" as they are known in the service.

The squadron commander with his observer took his place and soared into the air. The other machines, forty-nine of us, followed him into the heavens and swooped and maneuvered like a flock of swallows until the formation was right. A crack from the commander's pistol and we were off, like bees following the queen bee, straight for the enemy's lines.

Dimly there rose to us the cheering of the mechanics and riggers from the aerodrome, but we rose so swiftly that soon it was lost. Always we climbed higher—six, eight, ten thousand feet. Against the pinkish gray sky the Boches may have seen us then, and to them we were not bees nor swallows nor eagles. We were vultures. It makes a difference—the viewpoint.

Then for the first time it came to me—the business we were engaged in. I had been trained for war, but now I was in war. My business was to kill.

ENEMY PLANE FOR EACH.

At first I was glad that my observer would throw the bombs, not I, but still, if he was to be effective I must handle the plane skillfully. We were over the British trenches. I could make out specks that were men, beneath. The better we did our work, the fewer of those boys down there would be tagged and ticketed and laid in wholesale graves. It made our work seem human again.

They were behind us now and we were flying over No Man's Land, desolate and waste, a huge earth-face scarred with plague marks.

A stone's throw ahead were the German trenches. A quick look at the map and photographs told us that—those maps and photographs the price of which had been human life. A score of lives for a flimsy paper map perhaps.

Tiny specks began to rise far in the rear of the German lines. They were planes coming to meet us. Later I learned that through some strange coincidence there were fifty of them. One for each of ours. We might have fought them, but that was not our mission.

One cannot always follow one's inclination in war. We had been sent out to bomb the German front line and support trenches, to smash their morale, shatter their elan before our boys went yelling and stumbling and dying across the pock-marked earth to bayonet them. The more of the fear of death or God or Britain that we could put into their hearts the fewer of our boys they would get, and so we were to try to butcher them and not stay to fight the German planes. Our ammunition was for the enemy below us.

HELL LET LOOSE.

My observer was watching the commander's plane. He saw the signal. He let go his first rack of bombs. Forty-nine other observers did the same almost simultaneously.

Hell was let loose in the heavens and fell crashing down on the men beneath who could find no shelter.

We flew lower. Another rack of bombs was turned loose from our machine. I don't know for sure, but it seemed to me that I could see our own bombs strike and scatter earth and men and parts of men all over the ground. I was getting sick.

Then I remembered the two Canadians whom the Boches had crucified. I am a Canadian. My control was as steady as the Rock of Gibraltar.

Lower and lower we flew. I found myself talking to my machine as one does to a horse one urges to greater and greater effort. We could use machine guns now. The beautiful weapons were spewing death and destruction into the pits below. Their wonderful singing drowned the whirs of the powerful engines.

Directly ahead of me a column of flame shot up from one of our machines and I caught a momentary glance of the pilot's face, ashen gray—gray as the sky of dawn under which we were fighting. His petrol tank had been hit and exploded.

Another spurt of flame and his machine swooped more swiftly and spiralled toward the earth. I sobbed a prayer that it would right itself, for Tom Billings was a friend of mine. It did not right itself. Down it went, pitching and zig-zagging crazily, and then it dropped—dropped like a plummet out of my sight and I was praying that Tom was dead—dead when he struck the earth.

The German squadron was upon us, flying in mass formation and scattering fire and lead as they came. I have read descriptions of cavalry charges, but I do not know whether the man lives who can describe a charge of airplanes.

We had been pumping death into that thin gray line below and their anti-aircraft guns had been barking at us, for the most part futilely, but now we had a real enemy, an enemy as strong as we. And we must ignore him as long as we could and continue to scatter bombs over the trenches, for we must never forget our mission—to smash the morale of the men in the trenches and to get back behind our lines with as many machines as possible when our ammunition was gone.

Just over to the right of me one of their fliers dropped out of sight. My partner had let go another rack of bombs. Suddenly an explosion roared directly underneath me.

I tightened my grip on the levers as the machine gave a dangerous lurch upward. I do not know whether the explosion had sent it there or whether I involuntarily threw it skyward. In either case it was a narrow squeak. Death itself could not have loosened my grip on those levers now. Next time I must be more careful. A little bit more and this story would never have been written.

I didn't worry about flying position any longer. Our formation had ceased to exist. All we cared about was to dodge the German planes and keep on pouring explosives and machine gun fire into those trenches, trying to erase that gray line down below while their air patrol tried to knock us out of the sky, and their high angle fire guns nagged at us.

One drum of our machine gun ammunition was already spent. My partner whirled around on his little stool, a sort of piano stool—it always made me think of that crazy, tinkling, piano back in the mess hall—and grabbed for another drum and slammed it into the machine gun to send a parting message to the Boches.

Suddenly he lurched forward. He was hit.

Not a word from him—not even a sigh. I took a quick look, but, above all, I must save the machine. A thin stream of blood trickled from his hair down his face.

I headed my machine westward. Just then came the commander's signal to retire. Along we raced like the wind, the German planes spitting lead at us from behind and those of our machines with observers left alive cracking back at them with what little ammunition remained unspent.

As we whirred over the British trenches now, the Scots were clambering out of them and dashing over the bullet-swept plain to fight with steel with the Boches, who call them the "Ladies from hell" because of their kilts.

They haven't much use for British steel, the Boches, and, flying low, I have seen scores of them throw down their arms and surrender when it comes to the point of the bayonet, although they will face a hailstorm of lead.

CREW THAT CAME BACK—DEAD

It was grim work, flying back to quarters after that first fight, the wind whistling through the torn planes of my machine and my partner leaning against the empy bomb rack—silent.

Fifty of us had flown away that morning. Not all of us glided back to earth on the wide table-land. They lifted my partner out of the machine and while I stood there half dazed, they carried his body away—poor Jack Simpson, he did not fly again.

Ambulances were darting here and there. The pilot of the big Rolls Royce which had been next to me was lifted groaning, out of his seat. He and his observer had been badly scalded when the radiator of his machine was struck, but they had fought it out and did not return until the last.

As I walked toward the aerodrome, the machine which had been the other side of me glided to earth, but neither the pilot nor his observer got out. The observer was shot through the head and had been dead for half an hour. The pilot was hit in a dozen places, but, he made a perfect landing, then keeled over—dead.

This borders on the miraculous, but it is not infrequent for a machine to come down with both occupants dead, for all the machines are equipped with stabilizers.

Some of the men were hungry. I was sleepy. I staggered over to my hut. The tuneless piano was still strumming in the mess hall, but I went to sleep for all of that.

It isn't a sign of brutality, this singing and playing and amusing one's self while death is leaning over one's shoulder and taking, a few at a time, the companions that one loves. It is a necessity. Men couldn't stand the strain without amusement. Even at that, three months is a long stretch for an airman on active service. If he isn't dead by that time he has to be sent for a rest back in England or somewhere where things are peaceful and do not look or sound or smell of war.

Sometimes a man gets leave to go to America, especially if his home is there. There are many Americans in the Royal Flying Corps, most of them having enlisted through Canada. In a way it is like the Foreign Legion, made up for the most part of men who smile at death and face the enemy grimly. A man who cares for his life would not be eager to get into the flying corps. The first consideration is duty, success—safety does not enter into it, except where the orders are to get back with information.

EXPLOIT WIN'S MEDAL.

Some men do enough to earn the D.S.O. medal every day, but it is all a matter of comparison. A man can't expect an order of merit when he is simply carrying out the day's work.

But occasionally one of our chaps does something that is so extraordinary that he is singled out from among his daring fellows and decorated. One of my closest friends got the D.S.O. He was flying alone behind the enemy's lines on patrol work. Off in the distance he spotted a railroad train loaded with supplies, ammunition and men. Swooping down to within 200 feet of the earth, he swung straight for the train while rifles and machine guns crackled at him.

His speed and his daring must have saved him, for the Germans couldn't touch him and just as he was over the train he let go one side of the bomb rack.

With the sound of its explosion, he let go the other side, which struck clean in the middle of the train.

Men, splinters, provisions and everything went into the air almost as high as the flier's plane and he sailed off leaving a wreck of humanity behind him.

Ruthless? Well, every German that died in that train might have killed one or more of our men. There is no telling what damage they might have done.

That's war, and my friend got the D.S.O. for his act.

The very next day the Germans got him, but he fell behind our lines and they buried him with his medal pinned to his breast.

HOW STOP "RUSTLING?"

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 16.—Land and labor, the two sources of California's material prosperity, are made the targets of a number of vicious measures, introduced in the forms of bills and proposed constitutional amendments in the preliminary session of the California Legislature. It is proposed to tax the one and harass the other by imposing laws that would work to the benefit of the few, but to the injury of the many.

Single tax appears again, slightly modified in form, in a proposed constitutional amendment introduced by Senator Kehoe. This amendment proposes that all the taxes of the State shall be paid by the land owners and the corporations. Those who neither own land nor an interest in a corporation are to go tax free; they are to receive the benefits of a free government at the expense of their more thrifty neighbors.

Senator Kehoe announces that he has introduced the bill in the Legislature in order that its proponents, The Single Tax League of California, shall not be put to the expense of securing signatures to submit it at the next election as an initiative amendment. The amendment contains all the confiscatory features of the single tax amendments that have been beaten at the last three State elections.

WOULD TAX LAND INCREASE.

Assemblyman Baldwin has introduced in the Assembly a bill, prepared by the State Tax Commission, providing for the taxation of the so-called "unearned increment" in land. This means that the owner of land, whether acreage or city lots, will be taxed the same as owners of other property for the support of city, county and State; and that in addition to this he shall pay an extraordinary tax each year on the estimated increase in the value of his property.

It is not enough that the assessor is watching for these increases with an appetite whetted by the clamors of the pay-roll brigade. Whenever the increase comes the owner must pay the additional tax on a higher valuation, and an added tax which penalizes him for having made a profitable investment.

If a person were to buy a lot for $2000 and sell it four years later for $1500 he would stand the loss, but if he sold it for $2500 he would have to divide the profit with the State pay-roll brigade. In addition to this the lot would be assessed each year and he would pay a constantly increasing "unearned increment" tax on its supposed increase in value.

This would appear ludicrous but for the fact that the bill has the backing of the State administration and is to be handled by the administration whips in both houses. The 1915 Legislature appropriated $65,000 for a State Tax Commission which was to make recommendation on a new basis of taxation in California. That commission has recommended a State income tax and this unearned increment tax.

Taxing the "unearned increment" is advocated at length in the report of the Tax Commission. It seems to be under the impression that millions of dollars are being made yearly by big holders of land who convert desert lands into orchards and farms and sell them at a profit.

But their attitude is contradicted by the last Rural Credits Commission. Chairman Weinstock of that commission made the unqualified assertion that conditions are such that it is utterly impossible to secure outside capital for any land colonization in California, that 80 per cent. of the colonization projects fail.

IMPERIL REALTY MARKET.

This bill might increase the revenue of the State and in that way make places for a fine fat commission with a few score clerks and deputies; but it would come perilously near wrecking the real estate market in California. It is not easy to sell real estate in many sections of the State now. The population keeps shifting and in many sections the value of land is less than it was from four to ten years ago. There is no provision that the person getting a bad bargain would be freed from his taxes, but the one who was fortunate would be penalized to the extent that he would soon be paying ten times, in some instances fifty times, the tax on land that he pays now, and this in addition to the regular property tax.

Under such a law California real estate would become a liability in place of an asset to its owner. This is just another form of the single tax malady.

Senator Breed proposes that the State shall go into the land speculation business. He has introduced a bill providing for the creation of a land colonization commission. This commission is to buy tracts of land and hold them for speculative purposes. [illegible] liminary appropria[illegible] His purpose is to [illegible] buy the land, subdivi[illegible] sell in small parcels.

Origin of Hair and Scalp Troubles Discovered

Up to 38 Years Ago Causes of Hair and Scalp Troubles Were Practically Unknown.

Then Prof. John H. Austin, bacteriologist, hair and scalp specialist of Chicago, discovered that with the aid of a powerful microscope the origin of the troubles could be traced and a cure effected.

The people of Los Angeles are especially fortunate in being able to consult with this great professor—who has won medals and recognition for this work in both Europe and America—at Hamburger's.

Professor Austin says that using dandruff cures, mange cures, etc., without the proper advice is like taking medicine without knowing what you are trying to cure. The particular trouble with which your hair or scalp is afflicted—and there are many of them — must be known before it can be intelligently treated. For example, one person may require an astringent, another a healing ointment, and another an antiseptic for an itching scalp, (which is caused by vegetable parasites,) and still another something to relieve an excessively oily condition.

With the aid of the most powerful compound microscope ever brought to Los Angeles, Professor Austin is able to quickly determine the exact cause of the trouble, and will tell each one what is best to do in his or her particular case.

During the past two years Professor Austin has made over 50,000 free microscopic examinations of the hair and scalp of our patrons—they enthusiastically appreciate this free service.

Both men and women are invited to take advantage of Hamburger's liberal offer of a free examination by Professor Austin. Women need not take down their hair for the examination. His office hours are from 10 to 12 in the morning and 2 to 4 in the afternoon. Private office, Second Floor—Hamburger's.

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD---TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacupful at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Eccentricities of the late Mrs. Hetty R. Green, reputed to have been the richest woman in the world, were disclosed in the Surrogate's Court here today through the filing of testimony given by her son, Col. E. H. R. Green, before a transfer tax appraiser. The State is endeavoring to prove that Mrs. Green was a resident of New York when she died last July.

Hitherto unrevealed methods that Mrs. Green adopted to conceal her identity to avoid cranks, her fears for her personal safety after the attempt on the life of Russell Sage, the numerous aliases under which she lived in unpretentious neighborhoods, and her persistent devotion to business and financial transactions, all were related by her son.

USED MANY ALIASES.

Among the assumed names used by Mrs. Green, her son testified, were Mrs. Dewey, Mrs. Warrington, Mrs. Norton, Mrs Smith, Mrs. Nash, Mrs. Martin, Miss Hickey and others he could not recall. A list of checks drawn in 1915, covering twenty-five weeks, showed that the rich woman paid from $10 to $14 a week for board and lodging.

Asked if his mother remained long at a time in her boarding-houses, Col. Green replied:

"No sir, a short time. The newspapermen and the cranks used to get after her and the charity people would get after her and she would move, keep moving around. Every place she went she had a different name. Her favorite name was Dewey. She had a little dog by that name, so she put on the dog's name."

Of Mrs. Green's social life, her son said: "My mother was not much given to social life. My mother was nothing but business, business, business."

NO FURNITURE IN NEW YORK.

Col. Green said his mother never owned any furniture or household effects in New York, although she spent a great part of her time in this city attending to her financial investments. Asked where his mother lodged after 1911 he testified:

"I don't really know. She was moving around from one place to another. I think she used to visit the Countess Leary and then she would be in Hoboken skipping around to boarding-houses. She used to go to a Mrs. Reynolds, who kept a house up in Sixty-odd street."

Col. Green said his mother was born a Quaker but was baptized into the Protestant Episcopal Church. He said he retains his residence in Texas and votes there.

ANOTHER CALAMITY LIKELY TO HAPPEN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Asserting that it will be a national calamity if the pending $39,000,000 rivers and harbors bill fails of passage, Senator Fletcher, chairman of the Commerce Committee, issued a statement today attacking the plan of Senator Kenyon and others to substitute a lump appropriation of $25,000,000, to be expended in discretion of the Secretary of War and army engineers.

Senator Fletcher said adoption of the substitute would mean that "now, when our rivers are sorely needed to supplement the carrying power of our railroads and when inland waterways along the coast would serve such highly useful functions as defense of the coast would call for, we are to abandon this work under a policy of the government which has been proceeding for half a century."

PORTO RICAN WOMEN IN LINE FOR VOTE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—In the opinion of many Senators, an amendment to the Porto Rican citizenship bill tentatively agreed to by the Senate today would give women of the island who become citizens of the United States the right to vote.

As accepted, the provision would define qualified voters in the island as citizens of the United States, 21 years of age or over, who exercise the right of suffrage at the first election, or who can qualify thereafter by demonstrating that they are able to read and write Spanish or English.

There is no reference to sex and during the discussion woman suffrage possibilities were not mentioned. Senators Poindexter, Norris and others who aided in perfecting the amendment, said afterward, however, that it would give women who otherwise qualify the right to vote.

SIX STEAMSHIPS SAIL FOR EUROPEAN PORTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 17. — Six steamships sailed from here for European ports today, including the big Holland-America liner Noordam. None of them, as far as could be learned, carried passengers. The British steamship Verdi started for Liverpool, but turned back and anchored off Quarantine after proceeding as far as Sandy Hook. No explanation was forthcoming as to the reason for the Verdi's return.

It was announced that the Noordam, bound for Rotterdam, would put into Halifax instead of Kirkwell for examination by the British authorities, but whether any of the other vessels would follow the same course could not be ascertained.

Six steamships including one which sailed after Germany announced her unrestricted warfare arrived here today from European ports.

The Burmese Prince, British, reached here in ballast from Brest, whence she sailed February 5. The other arrivals were the Madonna, French, from La Pallice; the Egyptian transport, British, from Bristol; the Alphard, Dutch, from Rotterdam, and the John Knudsen, Norwegian, from Fowey, and the Lincolnshire from Bordeaux.

Two more British steamers which left the other side after the beginning of Germany's present unrestricted submarine campaign, arrived late today. They were the Lancastrian, which sailed from London February 1, and the Horby Castle, from Cardiff, February 3. The Noordam of the Holland-America line, sailed from here today for Rotterdam via Halifax. She carried no passengers.

Legislative Bucaneer

pay, and to strike if the pay is not allowed. This bill, like the maximum hour and minimum wage bill, is fathered jointly by the American Federation of Labor and the California branch of that order.

Senator McDonald—"Roughhouse" McDonald of South of Market notoriety—has introduced a cement container bill as a form of reprisal against the Portland Cement Company, for making a stand for industrial freedom. The terms of this bill are so drastic that the company could not compete with firms outside the State if it were enforced. McDonald himself admits that it is practically a hold-up bill. He has introduced it at the last three sessions and always stands ready to withdraw it if the Portland Cement Company will unionize its works.

With the exception of two bills indorsed by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, practically the whole of the labor legislation proposed at the present session tends to increase the cost of production. I tis the old fight of the drones for shorter hours and more pay, just a modern form of brigandage by which industry is compelled to pay tribute to idleness.

New additions are proposed to the Workman's Compensation Act which make its burden still more onerous to the employers of labor. One effect of this act is already apparent: a workman out of employment at the age of forty, might as well put into practice the Osler theory; only the gas route remains open to him. In no other State in the Union, it is claimed, are so many avenues of employment closed to a middle-aged workman. The risk of supporting him for the rest of his life is too great for the average employer to take. No more brutal piece of legislation has ever been put into effect by a modern State. A man of forty-five out of a job is a social leper; his one chance is to flee to the mountains or the desert, where the grinding heel of modern civilization has never trod. The injustice of this brutal act is just beginning to make itself felt, instances will multiply as time passes, while its chief beneficiaries to date have been the high salaried commissioners and overpaid deputies charged with its enforcement.

BERNSTORFF READS ALL THE NEWSPAPERS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HALIFAX (N. S.) Feb. 17.—Count von Bernstorff, former German Ambassador to the United States, and members of his party, homeward bound on the Scandinavian-American steamer Frederik VIII, had a comparatively quiet time aboard ship in British waters here today. They were free from every possible source of disturbance, for none except government officials and inspectors was permitted to pass the cordon of naval boats of every description that steamed back and forth near where the Frederik VIII was at anchor.

The monotony of the enforced stay, was relieved somewhat when a batch of American newspapers was taken aboard, to be eagerly read by Count von Bernstorff, who is known to be keenly interested in the development of the international situation, since his departure from New York on Wednesday. All editions of the local newspapers were sent to the ship during the day and these constituted the stock of information obtained by the former Ambassador and several hundred German consular agents with him, as there was no mail to be picked up here.

It was learned that the examination of the Frederik's cargo was well under way tonight. Some of the inspectors intimated that it might require a week or more to complete the examination, although this view was not shared generally by port officials. Every effort is being made to expedite the work so that the ship may resume her voyage without unnecessary delay.

Battles are Again Resumed on Rumanian Front.

Reconnoitering Parties of British are Repulsed.

Turks Admit Retirements on the Tigris River.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Feb. 17 (via Sayville.)—Fighting has been resumed on the Rumanian front, the War Office announced today as follows:

"On the heights north of the Oitus Valley engagements were begun at dawn this morning."

"It is officially stated," says an Overseas News Agency announcement today, "that German naval airplanes February 14 copiously bombarded airplane stations in the vicinity of Dunkirk and Coxyde. Good hits were obtained.

"A hydroairplane successfully bombed trading ships anchored in the Downs."

"Naval airplanes dropped heavy bombs with good results on the Ghistelles airdrome on Friday," says a British official announcement this afternoon.

"At the same time Bruges Harbor and shipping were again attacked. Bombs were observed exploding on objectives."

FRENCH ATTACKS.

French troops made attacks yesterday on the Aisne, west of Berry-au-Bac and in the Champagne, south of Ripont. Today's official communication says these efforts failed. The statement reads:

"On the Artois front and in the Somme sector, especially on both sides of the Ancre, the artillery duel reached considerable violence. At several places attacks by British reconnoitering parties were repulsed and south of Miramount a stronger attack, launched after drum fire, was repulsed.

"On the Aisne and west of Berry-au-Bac and in the Champagne, south of Ripont, French advances failed.

"Our air squadrons extensively bombarded important establishments behind the hostile front.

"On the Somme several ammunition depots of our adversaries were blown up. The explosion and earth-shaking were noted as far away as St. Quentin."

FIGHTING IN ANCRE.

Infantry fighting was renewed today in the Ancre River sector of the Franco-Belgian front, according to the supplemental War Office announcement tonight, which says:

"During a strong artillery fire new infantry engagements developed on the Ancre before noon today. No important events are reported from the eastern front."

ITALIAN FRONT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, Feb. 17 (via London.)—"The Adige Valley area was the scene of considerable activity by the artillery," says today's War Office statement.

"Our batteries caused fires to break out on the enemy's Zugna line. Minor encounters favorable to us are reported from various places.

"On the Julian front there were the usual artillery actions. The railway station at St. Lucia di Tolmino was hit by our fire."

PARIS WAR OFFICE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Feb. 17.—The War Office this evening reports:

"There was intermittent cannonading on the greater part of the front; the fighting was more pronounced in the direction of Ribencourt. An enemy surprise attack on one of our small posts northwest of Bezonvaux failed."

Belgian communication:

"The German batteries were only slightly active."

FROM PETROGRAD.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, Feb. 17 (via London, 1:50 p.m., British Admiralty per wireless press.)—At the War Office today the following statement was given out:

"Western front: Scouting reconnoissances and rifle firing are proceeding. Snow is falling in the Carpathians.

"Rumanian front: Military activity was limited to infantry firing and engagements among advanced detachments.

"Caucasian front: Heavy snowstorms are raging.

"On the Black Sea our vessels destroyed sixteen sailing schooners off the coast of Anatolia."

ON THE TIGRIS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Feb. 17.—The Turkish official communication received today admits retirements on the Tigris. The communication under Thursday's date says:

"After an enemy attack on the German right wing had been repulsed our positions were evacuated, according to orders, to prevent needless losses."

A second communication, undated, reads:

"On the Tigris front we executed a slight backward movement to avoid unnecessary casualties."

FARM LOAN BONDS EXEMPT FROM TAX.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—To correct reports published in Western States to the effect that Atty-Gen. Gregory had given an opinion holding unconstitutional the law exempting from taxation, mortgages taken and bonds issued under the farm loan system, the Farm Loan Board issued a statement today saying:

"The fact is that the opinion of the Attorney-General declares the law perfectly constitutional. The newspaper statements which have created widespread uneasiness are exactly opposed to the facts. Farm loan bonds are declared by the Attorney-General of the United States to be legally and constitutionally exempt from all taxation."

This magnificent golden eagle belongs to an officer on the Balkan front and is so tame that strangers can handle him. When first caught he was only just fledged, a mere ball of fluffy feathers, but he flourished exceedingly in captivity and does full credit to his upbringing. He takes long flights daily, but never fails to return to his master, with whom he is here seen indulging in a friendly tussle. The eagle balancing on the leathern glove recalls the hawking scenes of ancient days.

SMASHING BRITISH GAIN ALONG THE ANCRE FRONT.

Capture German Positions Extending About One and a Half Miles, Penetrating German Defenses—Several Important Successes Against Turks in Mesopotamia are Recorded.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Feb. 17.—British troops today captured German positions on a front of about one and one-half miles, penetrating the German defenses to a distance of about 1000 yards and coming within close range of Petit Miraumont, which lies to the northeast of Grandcourt, on the Ancre front in France. Another important German position also was carried along a front of about 1000 yards, according to the official report from headquarters tonight.

The text reads:

"Successful operations on both banks of the Ancre were undertaken by our troops this morning. Very considerable further progress was made south of the river. The enemy's positions opposite the village of Miraumont and Petit Miraumont were attacked and captured on a front of about one and one-half miles. We have penetrated more than 1000 yards into the enemy's defenses and advanced our line to within a few hundred yards of Petit Miraumont.

"North of the Ancre an important enemy position on the upper slopes of a spur north of Baillescourt farm was carried on a front of about 1000 yards. Hostile counter-attacks were successfully driven off. In addition to heavy losses inflicted on the enemy, 258 prisoners, including five officers, have passed through the collecting stations.

"We carried out two raids this morning south of Neuve Chapelle and northeast of Ploegsteert, where our troops reached the enemy's second line. Large numbers of Germans were killed and many dug-outs and machine guns were destroyed. We captured a few prisoners in each case.

"Hostile raiding parties west of Lens and east of Givenchy were repulsed with loss. We blew up two mines last night with good results west of La Bassee.

"In the course of the air fighting yesterday one German airplane was brought down in our lines and two others were driven down damaged; one of ours is missing."

GAINS OVER TURKS.

Several important gains against the Turks in Mesopotamia are recorded in the official report made public tonight. In addition to forcing the Turks back on the Tigris River, the British captured 1995 prisoners.

The text of the report reads:

"Mesopotamia — The offensive against the Turks on the right bank of the Tigris was resumed Thursday. An important tactical point in front of the enemy's right was first seized. An attack on his right center followed, resulting in the securing of our objective on a front of 700 yards. This was afterward extended by bombing to a depth of 500 yards on a front of 1200 yards. The half-hearted Turkish counter-attacks were easily repulsed.

"Some hours later an assault was launched against the enemy's left center, securing our objective on a front of 850 yards.

"During the night the enemy was cleared out of small areas they held on the river bank. By dawn Friday all the ground in the Dahra Bend was in our hands.

"The prisoners taken numbered eighty-nine officers, including two regimental and three battalion commanders and 1906 other ranks. We captured five machine guns, 2500 rifles and a large quantity of ammunition, equipment and stores.

"A further advance of 1200 yards was made Friday south of the Shumran Loop. Our advanced troops now hold the southwest corner of this bend."

EARL OF DERBY'S VIEW.

The Earl of Derby, Secretary of State for War, speaking at Bolton today, expressed the opinion that the critical period of the war would occur in the next few months.

"I would be a false friend," he said, "if I did not warn the country that the war is going to be long continued and a struggle even more bitter than in the past. It can only be won by everyone doing his utmost. The three things most vital are money, men and munitions. Money and munitions are being supplied in large quantities. Men we want and must have. The nation will have to make greater sacrifices in the way of giving its manhood to fight its battles. You will not win the war by saying you have won it.

"I am as confident as anyone of the eventual result but do not be led away into the too great optimism of thinking that the end is near. There is nothing that pleases us more than to hear that the German nation is at its last gasp. I do not think it is true. I believe the German nation is suffering, but it still has an enormous reserve of power and will make a great and gigantic effort to gain the mastery.

"I believe we are going to see the critical period of the war in the next few months. We must face it with courage. I confidently predict it will be a successful six months for us, but at the same time I do not think it will be a walk-over.

"You must receive bad news equally with good news, with the same courage, the same gameness and the same determination. There is but one motto for every man and woman in the country, namely, 'To stick it out.' That is what you have got to do. At whatever cost, at whatever sacrifice, stick it out to the bitter end and the bitter end will mean for you perhaps privation, but for those who come after you, freedom from the horrors which we have experienced during the last two and a half years."

SIR GILBERT PARKER HEEDS GERMAN ADVICE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 17.—On the recommendation of a distinguished German chemist, Sir Gilbert Parker, director of publicity in America for the British Empire, is here today on his way to Los Altos, Cal., for the benefit of his health.

The chemist was Herr von Muenther of Berlin, and the recommendation, Sir Gilbert hastened to explain, was given five years ago, when Von Muenther declared that Los Altos was one of the five known healthiest spots in the world.

"Von Muenther's scientific opinion is good enough for me," said the distinguished Briton, "and I know a ten days' visit will restore my vitality to a normal condition.

"I believe the war will come to an end next summer," he added, "by the collapse of Germany, because she is nearly exhausted now."

HUSBAND SLAYS WIFE'S ENTICER.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

KENNETT, Feb. 17. — William Herniman was shot dead here today by Claude M. Reppert as he stepped through the doorway of Reppert's home. Mrs. Reppert said Herniman, who was a frequent caller, wanted her to elope.

Reppert heard of the attentions, and, instead of going to work this morning, he secretly lay in wait.

"Hands up," he commanded Herniman, as the caller appeared.

Herniman started to run, but dropped in his tracks with a bullet through his head.

HEAVY SEAS SWEEP STRANDED CRUISER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EUREKA, Feb. 17.—A thirty-mile gale which for two days caused heavy seas to hammer the stranded cruiser Milwaukee left the derelict tonight with a list of only twenty degrees, instead of the twenty-seven degrees at which she was inclined before the storm.

The surf was still heavy tonight. The cruiser's gun and berth decks were covered with water, there was twenty feet of water in the engine-room and the seas were breaking over the upper decks.

PRO-MOONEY AFFIDAVITS.

More Attempts to Dispute Testimony to Save Murderer.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 17.—Two affidavits disputing testimony on which Thomas J. Mooney was convicted of murder in the first degree here a week ago for a bomb explosion costing ten lives were filed in the Superior Court today in a plea for a new trial.

The affidavits were made by Herman F. Beese, a real estate dealer, and Mrs. Richard E. LaPese, wife of a shoe salesman.

Frank C. Oxman, an Oregon cattleman, testified in Mooney's trial that he was standing at the scene of the bomb explosion and saw an automobile draw up with Mooney and others accused of the crime, and that a suit case was deposited near the spot where the explosion took place.

Beese says in his affidavit that he entered a crowded jitney bus with a suit case at the corner where the bomb exploded at the time mention by Oxman. Mrs. La Pese stated in her affidavit that Oxman was standing beside her, many blocks away from the scene of the explosion, at the time he testified he was at the bomb corner.

Beese said under oath that he told a detective (unnamed) of the incident related in the affidavit and the detective cautioned him to keep quiet and say nothing.

TUGBOAT CAPTAIN SHOT.

Mysterious Shooting in Oakland Investigated by the Police.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

OAKLAND, Feb. 17.—Joseph C. Bliss, a tugboat captain, lies dead in the morgue today with a gunshot wound through the head, while his wife, Jewel, is in the City Prison, unable, because of her condition, to give a coherent account of the mysterious shot which killed him. The dead man was found mortally wounded in their home and rushed to the Emergency Hospital, where he died this morning.

Investigation by the police pointed to the fact that there had been a sharp struggle in the room before the fatal shot was fired.

According to Mrs. M. B. James, Bliss's sister, Bliss had been despondent of late and had spoken several times of suicide.

FOR NAVAL DEFENSE.

Organization Started in Los Angeles to Promote Naval Militia—Fund Headed by E. L. Doheny with Ten Thousand Dollar Subscription.

AT THE invitation of Mr. Morgan Adams, a number of Los Angeles men met last evening at the home of Mr. James H. Adams in Chester Place to greet Capt. Williams of the battleship Oregon, who presented in a most effective manner the need of the Pacific Coast for naval protection and the problems confronting our inadequate United States Navy. It was a significant gathering, full of purpose.

Not only are we short of ships, but our ships are insufficiently manned and there is immediate need of organizing a naval reserve to be called upon if a blow is struck.

The plan of Capt. Williams is to add 100,000 men to the Naval Militia and to induce them to not only enlist but to go into active training by sufficient financial inducements in the form of make-up of pay from private subscriptions. Los Angeles' quota of this 100,000 would be 600 men; and last evening's meeting readily formed a preliminary organization for the purpose of encouraging this movement and building up the Naval Militia of California.

Mr. E. L. Doheny was unanimously made president of the organization and Morgan Adams chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

There was a great burst of enthusiasm when Mr. Doheny started the proposed fund with a subscription of $10,000.

The evening's speeches and informal talks were glowing with patriotism. The idea of the men present was that it would be unfair to ask young men to serve in the Naval Militia without a guarantee of fair payment for their time. The movement started with deep earnestness and every member of the organization is pledged to secure volunteers for the service, realizing that active work must be taken up for the protection of Los Angeles.

The organization will expand its membership at once and will hold its next meeting on Washington's Birthday aboard the Oregon at the invitation of Capt. Williams.

Our equipment for actually sending troops is so slight that the prospect of war against Germany is not so menacing as are the consequences that might follow the war.

In other words our greatest danger is not in going to war with Germany, but in becoming one of the Allies. The problem of American diplomacy is to stand stiffly against Germany, yet at the same time to preserve a complete detachment from the Triple Entente.

It would be a national calamity for the United States to find herself, after the war, in a more or less permanent alliance with any European power.

ENEMIES OF AMERICA.

Both England and Germany are at heart bitter and designing enemies of this country. Neither of them has ever lost a chance to injure this nation. And both of them feel that way about us now, except that they could use our money and resources to pay their bills.

For a long time, Germany has been a menace hanging over our horizon with designs upon South America and with the charitable intention of doing us up in the Orient. Great Britain has never overlooked an opportunity to show her venomous hostility. Perhaps in all history there is no example more heartless and cruel than the attitude of the British toward this government when, during the Civil War, we were absolutely gasping for our national breath and our very existence as a nation was in doubt.

The pretense of the British government of helping Admiral Dewey when our fleet was menaced at Manila Bay by Admiral VonDiederichs was hypocritical and uncandid. It is true that the British admiral scared the German warships away from a threatened attack upon Dewey. It is also true, however, that the German government was, at the time, negotiating with Spain for the purchase of the Philippine Islands, and England knew if this deal went through, her trade routes into China would be dominated by the Kaiser, and the British tenure of certain profitable "spheres of influence" would no longer be safe. So the British government suddenly discovered that blood was thicker than water. Up to that time all the British government ever found out about American blood was how it looked when shed by British bullets.

Both the Germans and the English feel about as friendly to us as the wolf did toward Little Red Riding Hood.

They both love us because they are hungry and we look rather appetizing.

VIRTUALLY AT WAR.

In a certain sense, it will be next to impossible to avoid such an alliance. We are virtually at war with Germany now. Under the eyes of our Federal officers the Germans are dismantling and breaking up their own interned steamships. Along the Mexican frontier there are strong evidences of German activity.

No sane person could help seeing that German money is keeping Mexican affairs in a continual turmoil in order to give occupation for our troops along the border and to keep some of our ammunition at home instead of going abroad to the Allies.

On the other hand, British money is also being spent in Mexico to maintain one of the many armies in the field, in this instance with the understanding that the British oil fields be afforded protection.

A curious and very menacing feature of our present difficulty is the attitude of Japan. As our difficulties with Germany increase, the Japanese enthusiasm for the Entente perceptibly cools.

The latest bunch of Japanese newspapers to arrive show several facts very plainly; among them that:

Japan is getting cold feet on the war. The Japanese papers openly complain about the needless sacrifices of it.

Japan has enormous sums of money. From a pitiful bankrupt nation, she has suddenly become one of the richest and most powerful in the worl.

Japan has no interest in this struggle except self-interest. She went into the war because she saw a chance of digging her toes into China without interference from any of the great powers who had previously warned her to keep off the grass.

If it should be to the interest of Japan to flop over to the other side she would feel no compunctions Tabout flopping.

NEW RULING ON HOMESTEAD LANDS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—By a new construction of the law relating to soldiers' additional homestead rights, announced today by Secretary Lane, heirs and administrators of estates of Civil War veterans, other than widows or minor children and their guardians, are excluded from the right ao acquire public lands.

Speculators are said to have made large profits by securing letters of administration on the estates of soldiers and, says a statement issued by the Department of the Interior, "the appropriation of the public domain by such means has acquired the proportions of a scandal."

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

The bills, drawn on lines of the Federal child labor law, would nationalize conditions for working women, which now prevail in the District of Columbia, Arizona, California, Colorado and Washington. It would apply to women over 16 years of age. Enforcement would be prescribed by a board to consist of the Attorney-General, Secretary of Commerce and Secretary of Labor.

PRESIDENT LOBBIES TO HASTEN BILLS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—President Wilson went to the Capitol late today in an effort to get prompt action on important bills in his legislative programme and avoid an extra session.

The measures discussed by him at a series of conferences with Senators included the naval appropriation bill, the Webb bill allowing American exporters to establish common selling agencies abroad, water power bills, the espionage bill, railroad legislation and the revenue bill. The President saw Senators Simmons, Pomerene, Bankhead, Hitchcock, Overman, Thompson, Newlands, Chamberlain, Tillman and Swanson, and all of them assured him that every effort was being made to complete his programme. Doubt was expressed by several, however, as to whether all the items desired could be acted on in the remaining two weeks of the session.

Presbyterian Clergyman of Atlanta, Ga., Hearing Screams Enters a House and is Shot Down by Former Inmate of State Hospital.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ATLANTA (Ga.) Feb. 17.—Secreting himself in the home of his mother-in-law, where his wife had been living since their separation, Claude Anderson, recently released from the State Hospital for the Insane, tonight shot and killed the Rev. Gaston E. Buford, seriously wounded Mrs. M. Zahn, his wife's mother, slightly wounded Mrs. W. J. Zahn and was himself killed by W. J. Zahn.

The Rev. Buford, pastor of the Moore Memorial Presbyterian Church, had rushed into the house when he heard the shots and screams of the wounded women. Mrs. Anderson told the police that Anderson hid in a room and that when Mrs. Zahn entered he opened fire. She fell dangerously wounded. Her daughter-in-law ran to the room and was shot. Buford, passing with his family, ran into the house and Anderson killed him instantly.

W. J. Zahn, who conducts a business near the residence, heard the shots and hurried home. He wrested from Anderson one of two pistols he was using and shot the man down. Zahn was arrested and is being held for an examination.

Mr. Buford, who came here five years ago from Louisville, Ky., was 42 years old.

Mrs. M. Zahn died at a hospital tonight.

It Works! Try It

Tells how to loosen a sore, tender corn so it lifts out without pain.

Good news spreads rapidly and druggists here are kept busy dispensing freezone, the ether discovery of a Cincinnati man, which is said to loosen any corn so it lifts out with the fingers.

Ask at any pharmacy for a quarter ounce of freezone, which will cost very little, but is said to be sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You apply just a few drops on the tender, aching corn and instantly the soreness is relieved and soon the corn is so shriveled that it lifts out without pain. It is a sticky substance which dries when applied and never inflames or even irritates the adjoining tissue.

This discovery will prevent thousands of deaths annually from lockjaw and infection heretofore resulting from the suicidal habit of cutting corns.

Former American Officials in Germany Getting Out.

No Reports of Indignities Come Since Protest.

Minister Vopicka Arrives Safely in Sweden.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Full information on the departure of former American consuls in Germany was delivered to Secretary Lansing today in a note by the Swiss Minister. It is understood that every facility is being given for the departure of the eighty-six former American officials and their families.

While Ambassador Gerard had expected that a second trainload of the officials would leave Munich for Switzerland some day this week, there has been some delay in their assembly and officials do not know when or how they will come out. No alarm, however, is felt.

No reports of indignities by search and detention to Americans leaving Germany have come to the State Department since its protest against such practices was sent to Berlin, just before diplomatic relations were broken off. It was stated officially today that the German government had not replied to the protest.

Consul Seltzer at Breslau and Consul Pike at St. Gaul forwarded reports of bad treatment by German military authorities upon which the State Department made its protest. In the cases reported men and women were stripped of their clothing.

MAY BE HELD FOR WEEKS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Feb. 17.—United States consuls still in Germany, may be unable to leave the empire for some weeks, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to the Times, quoting an American who has arrived there from Germany. This informant said at the time he left Berlin the government had not arranged for the special train which it had promised for the use of the consuls and that it was thought some weeks would elapse before the arrangements could be made.

DUE IN BERNE TUESDAY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERNE (via Paris) Feb. 17.—The American legation received notice today that the American consuls who were left in Germany when Ambassador Gerard departed will arrive in Switzerland via Schaffhausen, Tuesday afternoon. It is expected that a large number of American residents in Germany will arrive with them.

The American consuls were left behind either because the Ambassador was unable to communicate with them or because they needed more time in which to settle up their affairs. The other Americans were unable to have their passports vised in time to leave with the Ambassador.

AMERICANS IN TURKEY.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Permission for the departure of the American refugees from Turkey has been given by the Ottoman government. Ambassador Elkus at Constantinople advised the State Department today that a Turkish authority had expressed the hope that the Americans would be given passage soon and their departure would in no way be interfered with.

American missionaries in Syria, Palestine and Turkey are awaiting transportation at Beirut. The naval collier Caesar and the cruiser Des Moines are now at Alexandria, Egypt, loaded with food supplies and relief stores for delivery in Syria and Palestine.

State Department officials said the question of Germany's submarine blockade, which extends into Mediterranean waters, would have to be taken into consideration before the two vessels were dispatched to Beirut. Permission also must be obtained from the British and French governments for the vessels to pass through the Allied blockade. France already has consented to such an arrangement.

Ambassador Elkus said the Turkish government had reduced the quarantine from thirty to one or two days that the Americans might leave immediately.

ANTI-INTERVENTION CAMPAIGN TO OPEN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Feb. 17.—The Mexican Property Owners' Non-intervention League, a California organization, of which Gould Harrold of Berkeley is president, and Representative Kent second- vice-president, announced today it will open headquarters here to extend the scope of its operations among all foreigners owning property in Mexico. The basic work of the league is to prevent intervention in Mexico by the United States. Harrold today gave out the following letter from President Wilson, dated at Asbury Park, N. J., September 21, 1916:

"I most heartily welcome and approve the organization of the Mexican Property Owners' Non-intervention League, and hope that its influence will be immediate and conclusive in preventing a radical misunderstanding of one of the most critical questions of the moment. It will serve the country to admirable purpose if it will undertake to expose the intrigues that are now going on against the peace of the country."

LOS ANGELES WOMAN FOUND NOT GUILTY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BOSTON, Feb. 17.—Mrs. Charlotte Therek, the young wife of the 20-year-old bank embezzler, was found not guilty of aiding and abetting in the $20,000 Shawmut bank robbery, in the United States District Court, after the jury had remained out for eight hours and a half, had twice reported to Judge Morton for instructions and had been more than seven hours without eating.

Mrs. Therek said she will remain by her husband until sentence is pronounced and will then go back to her home city of Los Angeles to find work if possible in her old capacity as manager of an engraving company, which netted her an income of $22 a week before she met the dashing young "millionaire" who courted her for three days and then took her traveling about the country. She will work, she said, always looking forward to the day when the man she married as Edward Thacher steps from the prison walls to begin life anew as David Douglas.

TROOP MOVEMENTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Feb. 17.—Gen. Funston announced today that three companies of the New Mexico National Guard have been ordered from Columbus to Hachita to strengthen the border patrols in that section.

RANSOM PAID.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HACHITA (N. M.) Feb. 17.—The $5000 ransom demanded by Jose Ynez Salazar for the release of "Bunk" Spencer and his Mexican wife has been paid by check delivered to Spencer at the international boundary. It was announced by Warren representatives here that the check would be honored upon its presentation on this side of the border. It was understood here the ransom was paid on condition that the Ojitos ranch property, 1000 head of cattle and other ranch property, would not be molested.

Border patrols in the Corner ranch district are being strengthened in expectation of another dash across the border by Mexican raiders.

Three companies of New Mexico infantry from the camp at Columbus have been mobilized, ready, if need be, to protect American lives and property.

Ranchmen living in the "jog" say the fact that the raid Monday was accomplished without opposition will make the raiders more bold.

BATTLE REPORTED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO (Texas) Feb. 17.—Villa partisans announced today a battle was fought near Santa Rosalia yesterday between the forces of Francisco Villa and those of Gen. Francisco Murguia, the de facto commander. No details were received, they said.

They also announced the probable selection of Juan Bautiste Baca of Parral, to be provisional president of Villa's revolutionary government at the San Andres (Chihuahua) conference, which they claim is still in session. Miguel Diaz Lombardo was declared ineligible, they said, as he had left the republic. Baca is a merchant of Parral.

PRISONERS TRANSFERRED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Feb. 17.—After twenty-one Mexican prisoners captured in Mexico by Gen. Pershing's troops and held in connection with the Columbus raid, have been transferred by the army to Federal civil authorities, they will be taken from Columbus to Deming, N. M., for trial, it was learned today.

Charges will be brought against them in the United States court here.

Following the receipt of orders for release of all State troops remaining in the Mexican border service, Gen. Funston and members of his staff this afternoon began preparations for sending home the 50,000 guardsmen. Movements will not be commenced, it was announced, until organizations designated to go home under previous orders have left their border stations. Practically all of the troops included in the earlier lot will be out of the way before February 20.

SALAZAR'S THREAT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Feb. 17.—While at Sabinal, ninety-eight miles south of Juarez on the Mexican Northwestern Railroad, February 8, Jose Ynez Salazar made a threat to attack Juarez and kill all of the Americans attending the Juarez races, according to a Mexican who escaped from Salazar's command at Sabinal and walked to the border, arriving here last night.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Feb. 16 (via Tuckerton, N. J., Feb. 17.)—One German submarine, returning to her home base, reports that during a period of twenty-four hours she sank merchants ships aggregating 50,000 tons. Another German submarine has a record of sinking a total tonnage of 35,000 in five days.

RAIDER IDENTIFIED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Identification of one of the German South Atlantic sea raiders as the cruiser Vineta was definitely established with the arrival here today of eleven sailors, seven of whom are Americans, who were members of the crew of the British steamship St. Theodore.

The Vineta, after capturing the British freighter early in January, turned the St. Theodore into a raiding vessel by mounting guns on her deck and supplying her with a German crew. The Vineta then resumed her mission of destroying Entente vessels, and the man arriving here today said they were allowed to witness, from the cruiser's deck, the sinking of two French sailing vessels and five British steamships.

THE LADY ANN SUNK.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Feb. 17, 1:07 a.m.—Lloyd's announces that the British steamer Lady Ann, 1016 tons, has been sunk by striking a mine. Two of the crew were killed and five injured. The captain and eighteen men were missing.

Sinking of the following British steamers was announced by Lloyd's this afternoon: Marie Leonhardt, 1468 tons; Marion Dawson, 2300 tons; Queens Wood, 2701 tons.

The crew of the Queens Wood was saved except three men killed.

The steamer Marie Leonhardt is listed in marine records as a German vessel, owned by Leonhardt & Blumberg of Hamburg. She is probably one of the interned German ships requisitioned for Entente service.

SINKING OF THE LAW.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Ambassador Page at Rome has obtained affidavits from the officers and crew of the American schooner Lyman M. Law, recently sunk by a submarine in the Mediterranean. A brief summary of the affidavits, submitted to the State Department today, said the survivors were of the opinion that the submarine was of German nationality. Previous dispatches had said it was an Austrian vessel without flag. Before the Law was sunk, the dispatch said, about $1400 worth of stores were seized by the submarine's crew.

GOVERNMENT WILL TAKE IDLE MINES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 17.—The Mexican government has given notice that mining properties which have not been operated for two months, and the owners of which, because of unsettled conditions, have not made application for an extension of the time limit within which the mines must be operated, will be taken over by the government.

The time limit on unworked mines, as originally fixed, expired about November 15, last, but the government extended it until the middle of February.

MOTHER! LOOK AT YOUR CHILD'S TONGUE

Give "California Syrup of Figs" If Cross, Feverish, Sick, Bilious, Constipated—They Love It.

Watch Children Now! Guard Against Colds, Grippe, Sore Throat and Sickness by Keeping Liver and Bowels Free from Poisons.

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother; if coated or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has the grippe, or a sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is ofttimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrup. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. See that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't merely ask for Syrup of Figs, but ask for "California Syrup of Figs." Remember, California.

HARKNESS A NEW YORKER.

Oil Magnate's Inheritance Tax Goes to the Empire State.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—L. V. Harkness, Standard oil magnate, who died at Paicines, Cal., two years ago, leavin- a fortune estimated at $170,000,000, was a resident of this city, according to a decision rendered in the Surrogate's Court today, and therefore the estate is subject to a transfer tax here of more than $6,000,000 if all the real and personal property are located in this State. Just how large is the New York estate is yet to be determined.

The Harkness executors sought to avoid paying the tax here by maintaining the decedent's residence was Kentucky, not New York.

THE CALIFORNIA CASE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 17.—An action to collect about $8,000,000 inheritance tax from the heirs of the L. V. Harkness estate now is on appeal before the State Supreme Court in California, the appellant being State Controller John S. Chambers. The estate was probated in San Benito county and after the inheritance tax was determined the State Controller learned that Harkness had made affidavits in New York that he was a legal resident of California. A petition to reopen the estate so that the State could collect on the basis that he was a resident here was filed with the court, but was denied. An appeal has been taken from this ruling.

It developed that Harkness not only made affidavit that he was a resident of this State, but that he filed his income tax statement here. The ruling of the New York court apparently is on the basis that the affidavits were not true. The ruling will have no effect on California's claim, it was stated today.

Schlueter had been missing since Wednesday night from his ship, and it is believed he accidentally fell overboard.

Sixty-fourth Congress.

INDEPENDENTS FAIL TO AGREE.

Are Unable to Act as Unit Upon Any Proposal.

Randall is Hobnobbing with a New York Socialist.

Hope to Get Promises from the Two Big Parties.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Four of the five so-called Independent Representatives-elect, who may have the balance of power in the organization of the next House, held a conference here tonight to make plans for co-operation, but failed to agree to act as a unit on any proposal. They did agree to meet again shortly before the convening of the new Congress, after sounding out both Democratic and Republican leaders as to thier attitude on reforms favored generally by the Independents.

The conferees also pledged themselves not to caucus with any party before their next meeting. Those present were Representative-elect Fuller (Independent) of Massachusetts, and Representatives Martin (Progressive-Protectionist) of Louisiana, London (Socialist) of New York and Randall (Prohibitionist) of California.

Representative Schall (Progressive) of Minnesota was absent from the city.

TIP TO INDEPENDENTS.

Pending the next meeting leaders of both big parties will be asked to inform the Independents in a general way whom they propose to place on the important committees and what attitude they would take toward changes in the rules designed to obtain record votes in committees, including the committee of the whole, and to prevent bills from being buried in committees.

The personnel of the new House is expected to include 215 Republicans, 215 Democrats and five Independents.

Two hundred and eighteen votes are required to elect a Speaker.

Coincident with the meeting of the Independents it developed that on the Republican side of the House where a split had been threatened over the Speakership, a peace proposal has been brought forward under which the so-called Progressive wing is expected to join in supporting Representative Mann for Speaker on the condition that Representative Lenroot of Wisconsin be made floor leader. The peace negotiations have been going on quietly and well-informed members say they are showing good results.

Although Representative Gardner has announced he will support Representative Lenroot for Speaker, much doubt is expressed in Congressional circles if the Republicans ever permit more than one candidate from their side to remain long before the House. While doubtless several members will be given complimentary votes on the initial ballot, it is expected that the race quickly will narrow down to a contest between Representative Mann and Speaker Clark.

The Republicans have by no means abandoned hope of organizing the new House, but the Democrats say Speaker Clark is sure of at least two Independent votes and probably will also get on the first ballot, the one additional necessary to elect.

The Ambassador will continue his journey to Mexico City probably tomorrow, and will immediately present his credentials.

I CURE PILES FISTULA and all Rectal Diseases WITHOUT AN OPERATION

For twenty-five years I have been curing diseases of the rectum and lower bowel. During that time my experience as hospital and railroad surgeon, as college lecturer and professor, has enabled me to develop a method that is superior to others. I cure without surgery and my patients are not confined in bed and seldom lose a moment's time from their business.

My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment" but it is an application of skilled treatments administered under the most rigid antiseptic conditions in my office.

I solicit old, severe and obstinate cases of fistula, prolapsus, fissure and ulceration that have heretofore resisted all treatments employed. If you are a sufferer from rectal trouble I invite you to investigate my method thoroughly by talking or writing to any of my cured patients. If you will call at my office I will be pleased to give you the names and addresses of many well-known Los Angeles people I have cured, whom you may interview in regard to my treatment.

Read what a few well-known Southern California people have to say of my method. Many similar letters are on file in my office.

Has Used Duffy's Since 1879

MR. MICHAEL J. GIBBONS

A noted physician prescribed Duffy's for indigestion and gastritis when Mr. Gibbons was 37 years old. Today at 74, he is hale and hearty which he attributes to having religiously followed the advised dosage of this famous tonic stimulant for nearly 40 years. Read his straightforward statement:

"I am in my 74th year of age. I was born Dec. 17, 1842—came to this country in 1866 from Ireland. Shortly after that I contracted Gastritis and Indigestion. I suffered very much from those complaints and tried all sorts of medicines to cure me, but failed to get anything to do me good until a distinguished physician (the late Dr. John T. Doyle, of WilkesBarre, Pa.) advised me to take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I followed his advice and have been taking Duffy's Pure Malt ever since 1879 in small doses, two or three times each day. That accounts for the perfect health I am now enjoying and a big appetite. I go to my meals regularly three times each day hungry. Previous to my taking Duffy's Malt tonic my appetite was always impaired."—(Signed) Michael J. Gibbons, 2337 Christian Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

has earned the undisputed reputation of an excellent tonic stimulant for temperate use. Because it improves digestion and assimilation of the food and helps give tone and vitality to the system, it is to the troublous hours of waning life like oil is to machinery. To delay the effects of old age and bring back some of the vivacity of youth, many medical men recommend Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, for it aids in generating sufficient strength to enjoy the peaceful retrospective which should be the blessed lot of all in the evening time of life. CUDAHY MAY BE MARTYR.

Refuses to Produce Data Bearing on Income for Taxation.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Feb. 17.—Edward A. Cudahy, Jr., is going to be either a martyr for the rich or a famous man. He filed a response in the United States District Court today to a contempt citation in which he challenges Julius F. Smietanka, collector of internal revenue, to make him bring in books, data and personal memoranda bearing his financial condition. Smietanka is not satisfied with the income tax schedule filed and on which payment has been made by Cudahy.

Should Cudahy come off victorious, it is pointed out, the government would be deprived of means of verifying income tax schedules filed with the collector. When Assistant District-Attorney Fleming learned the defendant planned a contest he agreed before Judge Landis to a continuance until next Saturday.

Cudahy was not in court, being represented by his lawyer, George T. Buckingham. Attorney Buckingham says there is nothing in the Federal statutes which gives Smietanka the authority to force the production of personal ledgers and memoranda.

TO LEAD SUFFRAGISTS.

Vida Milholland Takes Up Work of Her Sister.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Feb. 17.—Vida Milholland, the young sister of Inez Milholland Boissevain, who died on the suffrage battle-line in California last fall, has volunteered to take up the work that her sister made the final sacrifice for. Miss Milholland will make her first appearance as an active suffrage worker on the afternoon of March 4, when she will lead the suffrage hosts to the White House for the demonstration there by women from all parts of the country.

It was Inez Milholland who led the big suffrage parade just prior to the inauguration ceremonies four years ago.

In addition to leading the suffrage deputation to the White House on the afternoon of March 4, Vida Milholland will take part in the programme that is being arranged for the big mass meeting at the National theater that night. She will sing "The Woman's Marseillaise" and will be in charge of the hundred choristers in purple, white and gold surplices, who will furnish the musical portion of the programme.

FRANTIC DASH FOR WRONG MAN.

After a frantic dash from Mojave to Reno in an effort to identify a prisoner held in the latter city as the man who shot and robbed Al Josephs, a pawnbroker in this city, on the last Christmas morning, Lieutenant of Police George Home early today wired that the Reno man was not the thug wanted. The description of the Reno man was an exast duplicate of the man who shot Josephs, but was able to show that he was not in Los Angeles on Christmas Day.

STEPHENS TO SPEAK.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HERMOSA BEACH, Feb. 17.—Lieut.-Gov. Stephens and Assemblyman Charles E. Lyon will speak February 19 before the members of the Hermosa Beach Chamber of Commerce at a banquet to be held here. Dr. Charles E. Hill is chairman of the Committee on Programme Affairs and the members of the Redondo Beach Chamber of Commerce are invited to attend.

Let's Clear Seas.

war, he will be untrue to the oath of office he has taken here. If ever in our lives we should be American citizens only, it will be then.

I am not so greatly alarmed about possible trouble with Germany as I am about a divided country here. Divisions now may not only prevent peaceful settlement of our quarrel with Germany, but may result in disorder in our own border, with consequences much more serious than war with any foreign power.

The propaganda now going on throughout the country to avoid war at any cost is a greater peril to the republic than war with Germany would be. The proposition for a war referendum is likewise a great peril. Suppose, at this time, a referendum was held. Suppose 10,000,000 votes were cast, 5,100,000 for war and 4,900,000 against war. If war is declared on this vote does it require a prophet to foresee possible civil war among ourselves? Or suppose 4,900,000 vote for war and 5,100,000 against, and we refuse then to exercise force to maintain our rights, how long would it be then before we would have no place upon the seas anywhere, England without impunity cutting us out when to her advantage and Germany doing likewise when to her profit.

We each have duties and responsibilities here which we can delegate to no one, chief among which is to do that which will best preserve those liberties which the fathers of the republic gained for us and preserve this Union we have each sworn to support.

THE SUBSIDY CHARGE.

Objection by Representative Adair of Indiana provented the House from considering a resolution to investigate charges which Representative Callaway of Texas inserted into the record on February 9, that twenty-five American newspapers had been subsidized by English money under the direction of J. P. Morgan & Co., and others.

"Doesn't the gentleman think," asked Adair, "that enough money has been wasted on investigation of matters which had no foundation whatever?"

Precaution.

AMERICAN SHIPS TO SAIL SECRETLY.

DESTINATION OF VESSELS NOT TO BE MADE PUBLIC.

United States will Take Steps to Prevent Information Concerning Movements Being Conveyed to German Submarines—Nature of Cargo Also to be Kept Quiet.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17. — The practice of making public the destinations and manifests of merchant ships leaving American ports is to be discontinued during the crisis with Germany as a step in the protection of American interests from the German submarine campaign.

No word as to the port for which any vessel sails or the cargo she carries will be made public by the government officials who grant clearance, and the great merchant fleet carrying American commerce abroad will come and go with all the secrecy of war vessels in time of war.

This decision of the Treasury Department will be made effective at once, it is said tonight, as a measure of precaution. It is already virtually in effect at New York and will be applied within forty-eight hours to every other American port on the Atlantic, Gulf, Pacific and in the island possessions.

OWNERS' PRIVILEGE.

Ship owners who wish to announce the destination of their vessels and the nature of their cargo will remain at liberty to do so, of course, but otherwise vessels may sail without their movements becoming known.

The decision to withold from the public the manifests and clearances granted vessels is not ascribed to any new development in the international situation, but has been reached, it is said, in the course of consideration of measures to safeguard shipping. Officials decline to discuss it.

It has been pointed out, however, that announcement of sailings from American ports for points in the German war zone would be of great value if communicated to submarines, which would thus be enabled to lie in wait for their prey. The policy of withholding this information at New York, the chief port for such sailing, was determined upon a week ago, it is said, and with German raiders operating in the South Atlantic officials felt that the same safeguards should be extended to vessels plying between this country and South American ports.

VIEW OF DEPARTMENT.

Should the departure and destination of a vessel become known, despite the government's precautions, to warships which might lie in wait for it, or to submarines operating in the war zone, it is felt that the withholding from publication of the ship's manifests still would prevent the dessemination of knowledge as to whether the vessel carried contraband.

At a conference today by Senators of the Commerce Committee and members of the shipping board a tentative draft of the bill sought by the administration, authorizing the taking of ships in time of war or national emergency, was agreed upon and will be taken up for disposition by the committee Monday.

ARIZONA MAN MINUS HIS ROLL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, Feb. 17.—Andrew Hill, an Arizona mining man, lost $190 last night as result of an encounter with confidence men in a local hotel. He and Alfred Carlson, another Arizona man, met three strangers in a local saloon with whom they had several rounds of drinks.

They were invited to the room of the strangers where more drinks were served. Hill retired and when he awoke this morning his money and the street strangers were missing.

Ship owners who wish to announce the destination of their vessels and the nature of their cargo will remain at liberty to do so, of course, but otherwise vessels may sail without their movements becoming known.

The decision to withold from the public the manifests and clearances granted vessels is not ascribed to any new development in the international situation, but has been reached, it is said, in the course of consideration of measures to safeguard shipping. Officials decline to discuss it.

It has been pointed out, however, that announcement of sailings from American ports for points in the German war zone would be of great value if communicated to submarines, which would thus be enabled to lie in wait for their prey. The policy of withholding this information at New York, the chief port for such sailing, was determined upon a week ago, it is said, and with German raiders operating in the South Atlantic officials felt that the same safeguards should be extended to vessels plying between this country and South American ports.

VIEW OF DEPARTMENT.

Should the departure and destination of a vessel become known, despite the government's precautions, to warships which might lie in wait for it, or to submarines operating in the war zone, it is felt that the withholding from publication of the ship's manifests still would prevent the dessemination of knowledge as to whether the vessel carried contraband.

At a conference today by Senators of the Commerce Committee and members of the shipping board a tentative draft of the bill sought by the administration, authorizing the taking of ships in time of war or national emergency, was agreed upon and will be taken up for disposition by the committee Monday.

ARIZONA MAN MINUS HIS ROLL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, Feb. 17.—Andrew Hill, an Arizona mining man, lost $190 last night as result of an encounter with confidence men in a local hotel. He and Alfred Carlson, another Arizona man, met three strangers in a local saloon with whom they had several rounds of drinks.

They were invited to the room of the strangers where more drinks were served. Hill retired and when he awoke this morning his money and the street strangers were missing.

To Attack Rebels.

Santisima Trinidad, Santa Cruz province, reports say, and seven rebels were killed, including Cruz. Troops have dynamited the bridge at the mouth of the River Zaza, in the southern part of Santa Clara province, to protect cable communications.

It is reported that Sancti Spiritus, in the eastern part of Santa Clara province, has been captured by government troops. Near Cidra, Camaguey province, government troops killed two rebels, including the second in command, named Odelin.

CUBAN GUNBOAT DETAINED.

[BY CABLE AND A. P.]

SANTIAGO, Feb. 17.—The Cuban gunboat Enrique Villuendas, which reached the harbor here late yesterday, is being detained by the United States gunboat Petrel, in accordance with the agreement signed by the commander of the Petrel and Maj. Loret de Mola, the military Governor of the province. The commander of the Enrique Villuendas, not knowing the situation here, came ashore and was arrested. Later he was surrendered to the custody of Commander Knox of the Petrel, who returned him to his ship.

Reports received here today said the sugar mill owned by President Menocal at Palma Soriano had been taken and that the forces there had retreated.

WANT ELECTION COMMISSION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—American business interests let it be known to the State Department officials today that they would welcome the sending of a commission to Cuba to review the election returns, but there appeared little likelihood that such a measure would be adopted at present. Administration officials have made it plain that there is no disposition to interfere with Cuban affairs unless they are compelled to in order to guarantee to the people of that country a stable government.

A close watch on the situation created by the insurrection of the Liberals was continued by the State Department today, but no further steps were decided and official reports indicated no radical development either in the plans of the rebels or those of the government. The rebels still hold Santiago and Camaguey and minor successes in small towns and in the country near by were reported. Government troops, it was said, were moving steadily toward the occupied districts and reports from Havana indicated that President Menocal's call for volunteers was being answered by many of the better class.

RATE INVESTIGATION.

Petitions Are Being Circulated for an Examination by the Railroad Commission of the Rates Charged by the Southern Counties Gas Company.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Feb. 16.—Petitions asking the State Railroad Commission to investigate the rates of the Southern Counties Gas Company were placed in circulation here today and were freely signed before noon. They will be filed with the City Council at the meeting next Tuesday, according to M. H. Potter, who placed them in circulation.

The petitions ask for an investigation for the purpose of determining whether or not it will be possible to give this city and district a rate similar to the alleged seventy-five cent rate said to be enjoyed by many cities and towns in Orange county.

The City Council ordered the City Attorney two weeks ago, to prepare the papers necessary in order to submit the gas rate matter to the Railroad Commission, so it seems altogether likely that the Council will, at its next meeting, call for a hearing. The present gas rate here is $1.10 per 1000 feet, the same as was paid for artificial gas.

ENGLAND BARS WOMEN LAWYER

Profession Declines to Revise Attitude.

Proponents Declare Sex is Capable of Work.

Supporters See Need for Their Aid After Peace.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Women, whatever their qualifications, are not to be permitted to practice law here if British lawyers can prevent it. At the annual meeting of the bar, just held, they declined even to consider the question of admitting them. By a large majority they defeated this motion:

"That the general council of the bar do consider and report upon the desirability of making provision for the admission of duly-qualified women to the profession."

WAR CHANGES VIEWS.

Sir Frederick E. Smith, Attorney-General, presided. "He would be a bold man," he declared, "who would deny that the experiences of the war might not be reasonably held to modify previous prejudices and views."

He would not seek to prejudge the issue. Still he might be permitted to point out that they were invited to consider the matter at a time when 1800 of their number were not present. These men were the very flower of the profession and would ultimately become its leaders if they were fortunate enough to return. It was just a question whether the meeting could, "with propriety, or even decency, decide the matter of considering the admission of women to the bar in their absence."

Holford Knight, who proposed the motion said: "Women in a diversity of capacities have displayed high qualities of the integrity, dignity and sense of responsibility. All I ask is that the Bar Council should consider whether the time has not arrived for deciding whether suitable women might not, with advantage, be admitted to our profession." After the war, he added, it would be imperative to mobilize all the available capacity of the country and he suggested that the country had women evidently fit to become members of the legal profession.

J. H. Menzies, a lawyer who had been to the front as a captain in the Scottish Rifles, said he knew the views on the question held by his legal colleagues, who had been serving with him in the war. He was quite sure they would be strongly opposed to the proposal.

"Let it be remembered," he added, "that the government gave an honorable undertaking that trade union rules, modified during war times, should be restored after the war. Is it fitting that a matter vitally affecting what is perhaps the greatest of all trade unions should be settled in the absence of a large number of its members?"

One reason, he urged, why women should not be allowed to practice law was that "if admitted to the bar they cannot in fairness be excluded from the bench."

DEFEAT EXPECTED.

The defeat of the motion occasioned no surprise. That was regarded as a foregone conclusion by those who, like Lord Robert Cecil and Sir John Simon, are in favor of admitting women to the legal profession.

W. Joynson-Hicks, M.P., writing about the proposal before the lawyers had vetoed it, called attention to the work done by women during the war, not only as munition workers, farm laborers, street car conductors, etc., but in occupations calling for a high degree of mental ability and good judgment. After the war, he argued, there must be an increasing number of avenues opened both for the working and the intellectual woman.

"Today the law is nothing more or less than a glorified trade union," he says. "I suppose the bar is the strictest trade union in the land, and where every other trade union has willingly in the public interest seen its cherished principles set on one side, its rules invalidated and its members diluted with any amount of women workers, is the law to be the only trade union to escape dilution in the public interest? We have women doctors, why not women lawyers? I do not suggest that they would have many clients to begin with, but I can imagine them of great use, both in a solicitor's office and in the chambers of a barrister."

MANY PRUSSIANS TAKEN IN A BRITISH ATTACK.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Feb. 17 (via London, Feb. 18.)—The British today carried out an attack on a two-mile front west and south of Miraumont on both sides of the Ancre for the purpose of gaining the higher ground commanding the town, toward which the Germans retired after evacuating Grandcourt. Tonight it was estimated at corps headquarters that approximately 200 prisoners have been passed back, with more expected.

Not one of these prisoners had had food in twenty-four hours, some having been for forty-eight hours without food, for during that time the British guns had cut off all supplies from behind the lines. The prisoners virtually all were Prussians, and the first request made was for food.

The British troops easily attained the first objectives. Then they continued to go forward, just south of Miraumont in an effort to gain entire control of all the higher ground. The first fog in five weeks interfered with the artillery, but tonight the fighting was still in progress. British airplanes ventured boldly into the fog banks, but could see nothing by which to direct gunfire.

One of the most daring incidents of the day's operations came toward the close of the preliminary bombardment, when an artillery officer crawled out of the trenches with a telephone, stationed himself forward in a shell hole and calmly directed the fire which cut the German barbed wire to pieces. An English sergeant, losing his way, was captured and was being escorted back by two Germans when the British barrage crept up to them. The captors fled and the sergeant returned to his own lines directly through the curtain of fire. He was wounded badly, but managed to reach a dressing station unaided, where he was able to give valuable information concerning the German positions.

cently with the State Board of Health, has offered her services and has been placed in active charge of the office staff of the State headquarters. She will have nearly two score clerks under her, many of them men.

Many society women at Hartford, including descendants of Revolutionary families, are to experience for the first time the sensation of earning wages. Coming to Mr. Alsop with a desire to help in the census, they are being assigned to desks and will assist in the tabulation of the results. As a matter of policy Mr. Alsop has made it an inflexible rule that all clerical workers in the headquarters must be paid. Thus, women who arrive at the offices in limousines will spend the week at hard work which will net less than the price of a veil. But they insist they want to help and will turn their earnings over to the war relief funds.

William T. Church of Chicago, commander-in-chief of the Sons of Veterans (Civil War,) with more than 56,000 members in the country, was here today and not only gave the Connecticut census a strong indorsement, but said he intended to urge a similar movement on the Governor of Illinois.

The luncheon table was lovely with spring flowers, violets being used in profesion with a corsage bouquet for each guest. The birthday cake held place of honor, covered with its many candles. The luncheon was but one phase of the fete day, as open house all day in accordance with a long established custom was observed, and many felicitations were received. Early in the evening a song service was conducted for her further pleasure, and more congratulations were received from Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Hannaford, Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Ralstin, Rev. and Mrs. J. B. HENDERSON PREDICTS THE DECISIVE BLOW.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Feb. 17.—Arthur Henderson, member of the War Council, speaking at Manchester today, said:

"In government circles, confidence regarding the final close of the war was never so high as now. I believe that our commander-in-chief and all the leaders of the Allied nations will be surprised if during the coming summer they do not strike such a blow as—with other conditions which prevail—will lead the war to close on lines entirely satisfactory for us and other Allies."

WEST BEACH FOLKS URGE SUBWAY PLAN

MORE INDORSEMENTS POURING IN DAY BY DAY.

Mass Meeting Devoted to Project for Railway Bore to Shorten Pacific Electric Running Time to Santa Monica Bay Evokes More Commendation.

Following a mass meeting at Venice last Monday night for the discussion of the Pacific Electric subway project, many prominent men of that city and Santa Monica have expressed themselves as strongly in favor of the undertaking and have pledged themselves to work for its success. The meeting itself was marked by great enthusiasm upon the part of the west beach people. President Lee of the Venice Chamber of Commerce, Mayor Gerety of Venice, Mayor Berkeley of Santa Monica, Harry H. Culver, Edward Winterer, E. P. Benjamin and other speakers for the subway being heartily applauded.

Additional indorsements for the subway project were received by Secretary Benjamin of the Subway Rapid Transit Association from many sources during the past week. W. A. Barker, president of Barker Brothers, wrote that the advantages of the subway are so apparent that his only thought on the subject would not be "how soon shall we have it," but "how soon can it be accomplished."

"The subway will be a great boon to the traveling public, and especially to lady shoppers," wrote C. H. Dickinson, secretary of the Vogue Company. "It will enable suburbanites and residents at the beaches to visit the business section more frequently."

"We fel that our beautiful Santa Monica Bay beaches will derive more of the benefits of the city, and that the people of Los Angeles will have more opportunity for enjoying the pleasures and comforts of our wonderful seaside, when the subway is completed," is the way Rosamond Borde of the Hotel Windermere at Santa Monica, put it.

J. Albert Campbell of the same city said: "The proposed subway would have the same effect on the outlying districts of Los Angeles that the Union Loop had in Chicago. It spread the city out and was beneficial to all."

H. O. Davis, vice-president of the Universal Film Company, wrote that the Pacific Electric subway is the means of salvation from the congestion problem now confronting Los Angeles and urged public co-operation in the project. S. S. McKinney of Lyon-McKinney-Smith Company also expressed approval of the plan.

The Book That Couldn't Be Written Today

THE war would make it editorially impossible to produce the new Encyclopaedia Britannica today.

The war has made it mechanically impossible to publish this famous work today, even if it could be written.

One of the reasons why the Britannica stands out as the greatest work of its kind is that the 1500 contributors were chosen regardless of what country they lived in, on the basis that each man was the best man in the world to handle the particular subjects. This editorial feature makes the new Britannica the most universal book of reference in existence.

More American experts contributed to this masterwork than ever contributed to any other encyclopaedia.

More English authorities assisted in its preparation than in that of any English work.

More French experts wrote for the Britannica than for any French encyclopaedia.

More German scholars contributed to it than to any German work.

These facts are some of the reasons why the new Britannica could not be duplicated today.

Today it would be impossible to organize this great international board of contributors and obtain from them what they gave to the Britannica when it was compiled. Some of them, indeed, are in the trenches. Most of the others have a direct interest in the war and could not write free from a strong, unconscious, if not bitter, prejudice. They could not present national or historical subjects in a neutral way. Even the Americans, writing upon European subjects, would find it difficult to restrain their feelings one way or the other.

If the Britannica were not already in existence it could not be prepared today. The present edition was written before men's passions were aflame and their judgments warped.

Even if it were written and had only to be put into book form, this too, would be impossible.

The reason why the Britannica stands as an unexampled triumph of bookmaking as it does of knowledge-collecting lies in the use of India paper. India paper—so extraordinarily thin, so exceptionally strong, so opaque—makes a volume of 1000 pages only one inch thick and as easy to handle as a magazine.

The Britannica could not be printed today on India paper any more than its contents could be duplicated. War has cut off all importation of the flax necessary to the manufacture of this marvelous paper.

The fact that the war has made the new Britannica impossible of duplication either in content or form makes the possession of a set something beyond the mere owning of a great reference work. But if you are to own a set printed on genuine India paper, you must get it now. For the only ones available are those in stock at the present time. Their number is limited. Decide today to own a set and select your issue and binding.

Of the total number of sets of the Cambridge Issue printed on India paper, less than 5 per cent. remain unsold.

This is the large-page, large-type, wide-margin issue. 29 volumes, each one inch thick, 30,000 pages, 41,000 articles, 1500 contributors, 15,000 illustrations, full-page plates and maps. (For prices of the popular "Handy Volume" Issue see below).

Sets of the Cambridge issue are offered on the following terms: Cloth Binding—$166.75 cash, or $5 with order and 36 monthly payments of $5 each.

Three-quarter Red Morocco—$203.25 cash, or $5 with order; 44 monthly payments of $5 each.

Limp Suede, Full Leather—$255.25 cash, or $5 with order; 54 monthly payments of $5 each (a very original bookcase is included).

Genuine Full Morocco—$267.50 cash, or $5 with order; 57 monthly payments of $5 each.

The popular-size, popular-price "Handy Volume" Issue is identical with the Cambridge Issue in text and illustrations, with a smaller page and smaller type, and sells for about 60% less. Sets are offered on these terms.

Cloth Binding—$74.70 cash, or $1 down; 27 monthly payments of $3 each.

Full Brown Sheep, Morocco Grained—$90.75 cash, or $1 down; 28 monthly payments of $3.50 each.

Three-quarter Crushed Green Levant, Morocco Grained—$104.40 cash, or $1 down; 28 monthly payments of $4 each.

Full Crushed Green Levant, Morocco Grained—$117.55 cash, or $1 down; 28 monthly payments of $4.50 each.

Which do you prefer—the large or the small book? To help you decide we will gladly send, on request, for your inspection, a volume of both the Cambridge and the "Handy Volume" Issues in any binding desired. But act at once. The number of sets in some of the bindings is very low.

KIDNAP, SHOOT AND ROB DELIVERYMAN.

GUNMEN GET FIFTY DOLLARS BY ROUGH WORK.

Force Autoist to Drive Them Into River Bed, Send Bullet Into His Leg and Take Cash—One's Finger Hit by His Companion's Shot.

Forcing the victim, Manly Jennings, a driver for the Western Wine Company, to drive them from Fifteenth and Newton streets to the river bed near Thirty-fifth street and Santa Fe avenue, early last night, two armed highwaymen robbed him of about $50 after firing one shot which struck the driver in the right leg. On securing the money the men fled.

According to the story told the police by Mr. Jennings, while being treated in the Receiving Hospital, the bandits covered him with their revolvers just as he was leaving his wagon to make a delivery at Fifteenth and Newton streets. They both climbed into his wagon and forced him to take them into the river bed.

The bandits then ordered Mr. Jennings from his seat and demanded all his money. He reached for his hip pocket for his purse and one of the bandits, mistaking the motion for a threat, fired a bullet into the victim's leg. They then robbed him.

Mr. Jennings told detectives that when one bandit fired at him the bullet first passed through the little finger of the second highwayman. All the hospitals were searched for the injured robber, but no trace of the man was found.

Girl Takes Poison, but is so Quickly Treated at Receiving Hospital that She Recovers, but Refuses to Say Why She Sought Death.

Locking herself in her apartment at No. 1349 South Flower street early last night, Miss May Wulsten, 25 years of age, attempted to end her life by swallowing poison. Attracted by her groans others in the house broke down the door and took the suffering woman to the Receiving Hospital. She will recover, the police surgeons say.

When questioned by police detectives Miss Wulsten refused to state any reason for her action beyond that she wished to die. The girl's family in Santa Barbara was notified and Miss Wulsten was released in the care of her brother.

CAPTAIN OF THE LAW DESCRIBES ITS SINKING.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

CIVITAVECCHIA (Italy) Feb. 17 (via London, 9:15 p.m.)—Capt. McDonough, commander of the American schooner Lyman M. Law, which was sunk by a submarine, with the members of his crew has arrived here aboard an Italian steamer. He was met by United States Consul Tredwell and several newspaper correspondents.

In describing the destruction of his ship, Capt. McDonough said they were sailing peacefully along when they heard a cannon shot. About five miles distant they observed a submarine, which was not flying a national flag, but had hoisted a signal with the letter "H," which in the international code means "halt."

This was 9 o'clock in the morning and the Law, obeying the injunction, stopped. The submarine approached with two guns showing.

Capt. McDonough, undisturbed, as he already had been visited several times by submarines, prepared to show his papers, but all on his ship were ordered to go aboard the submarine, where they were interrogated by an officer, apparently the commander. According to Capt. McDonough this officer had all the physical characteristics of the German race. The master of the Law showed his papers, which were examined, and described his cargo, which, meanwhile, had been inspected by another officer.

Capt. McDonough was then permitted to return aboard his ship and was allowed to proceed. The ship had scarcely moved when the submarine again stopped her, the commander of the underwater boat declaring through the megaphone that he considered that the cargo, which was consigned to an Italian firm, was contraband. He ordered the captain and crew to quit the Lyman M. Law, which, he said, must be destroyed. The submarine gave them time to take to the water in their own steam launch with a supply of gasoline and food, and it was indicated that it would be advisable to follow a certain route to reach Cagliari. The submarine commander then removed a quantity of gasoline and food from the American ship as well as some instruments.

The steam launch with Capt. McDonough and his crew aboard hoisted the American flag and saluted the vessel when she was blown up and left burning. The ship's papers were retained by the submarine commander.

Consul Tredwell and the American Embassy at Rome are making an investigation with respect to whether the cargo can be considered contraband. In the evidence given before the Consul, Capt. McDonough expressed the opinion that the submarine commander decided to seize and sink the Law with a view to taking her supplies aboard his own boat. In fact, the captain said, after having given the ship permission to continue her journey, there was a twenty-minute discussion between the commander and another officer of the submarine before the final decision was taken.

The rainstorm of yesterday morning, which covered the Southland, did not last very long, but while it did the rain came down in a rapid manner. The storm was timely and ranchers all report the effect was of the best.

No part of the Southland seems to have been overlooked and last night it was raining in Bakersfield, where there was every indication that the total would be of considerable moment. Bakersfield now has 4.06 inches to its credit for the season, which is in excess, by an inch, of a year ago.

Porterville reported half an inch, with a better crop condition than had been experienced in years.

FOOD RATIONING STARTS IN HOLLAND.

AMERICAN ARTIST IS PRAISED FOR HEROISM

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Feb. 17, 9:01 p.m.—Herman Webster of Chicago, a well-known artist, who commands section two of the American ambulance field service, has been cited in an order of division for "the greatest disregard of danger and for coolness in all circumstances."

This disregard for danger, says the order, was shown "notably on the night of December 28, when he proceeded in an automobile of the sanitary service under an intense bombardment to an advanced first-aid post, which he did not leave until the removal of the last wounded."

JAP GUARANTEES IN THE PACIFIC.

AMERICAN PACT WITH TOKIO TOLD OF BY RUSSIAN.

Writer in Petrograd Newspaper Says Assurances are of the Utmost Importance and will Have Enormous Influence on Future World Policy.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, Feb. 17 (via London.)—The fact that the United States is not at war with Germany after the lapse of a fortnight since the breaking off of diplomatic relations, is the subject of lengthy comment in the Bourse Gazette. Citing the sinking of the American schooner Lyman M. Law and the British steamer California the paper says:

"The only new factor that might bring war would be an armed collision on the sea, but since such collision is precluded by the failure of the American government to authorize the arming of merchant ships, it is impossible to imagine that further provocation for war can arise. It is further realized that before passing to a state of actual hostilities, she must first guarantee her interests in the Pacific."

The writer mentions alleged diplomatic exchanges between the United States and Japan and continues:

"America could not be on guard in the Far East if engaged in a war with Germany and therefore requires proofs of Japan's good intentions. Such proofs are understood to have been given by Tokio. If it is true that friendship has been assured between these two nations, the fact will have an enormous influence on the world policy and the greatest profit from such development would accrue to the Near East allies of Japan, namely Great Britain and Russia. It would mean that Germany had lost all hope of sea domination and was expelled forever from the Far East. Japan, in giving such guarantees, acts in full solidarity with the Allies. The friendship between America and Japan cannot relegate to the second place of importance the relations between Russia and Japan. On the contrary, it would give those relations more stability."

ENSENADA IN HARBOR.

The Mexican patrol cruiser Ensenada suddenly appeared in the harbor today, startling fishermen who believed that the vessel was beached on the coast of Lower California, off a reef near San Quentin.

As mute evidence of the battle in which Austrian fishermen riddled her upper works and drove her ashore, eighteen rifle bullet holes were counted today in her pilot house. A smashed window showed where one or more additional shots had taken effect, attesting the accurate marksmanship of the attackers.

Not one of her crew was injured. They all got below the waterline and allowed the boat to steer herself on the reef, it is said.

VIOLENT ERUPTION OF LASSEN PEAK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

REDDING, Feb. 17.—Lassen Peak was in violent eruption today and for two hours spouted smoke and ashes thousands of feet into the air. The eruption, as violent as that of January 17, which was the greatest outburst for more than a year, was plainly visible from here.

KIDNAP, SHOOT AND ROB DELIVERYMAN.

GUNMEN GET FIFTY DOLLARS BY ROUGH WORK.

Force Autoist to Drive Them Into River Bed, Send Bullet Into His Leg and Take Cash—One's Finger Hit by His Companion's Shot.

Forcing the victim, Manly Jennings, a driver for the Western Wine Company, to drive them from Fifteenth and Newton streets to the river bed near Thirty-fifth street and Santa Fe avenue, early last night, two armed highwaymen robbed him of about $50 after firing one shot which struck the driver in the right leg. On securing the money the men fled.

According to the story told the police by Mr. Jennings, while being treated in the Receiving Hospital, the bandits covered him with their revolvers just as he was leaving his wagon to make a delivery at Fifteenth and Newton streets. They both climbed into his wagon and forced him to take them into the river bed.

The bandits then ordered Mr. Jennings from his seat and demanded all his money. He reached for his hip pocket for his purse and one of the bandits, mistaking the motion for a threat, fired a bullet into the victim's leg. They then robbed him.

Mr. Jennings told detectives that when one bandit fired at him the bullet first passed through the little finger of the second highwayman. All the hospitals were searched for the injured robber, but no trace of the man was found.

SHE WISHED TO DIE.

Girl Takes Poison, but is so Quickly Treated at Receiving Hospital that She Recovers, but Refuses to Say Why She Sought Death.

Locking herself in her apartment at No. 1349 South Flower street early last night, Miss May Wulsten, 25 years of age, attempted to end her life by swallowing poison. Attracted by her groans others in the house broke down the door and took the suffering woman to the Receiving Hospital. She will recover, the police surgeons say.

When questioned by police detectives Miss Wulsten refused to state any reason for her action beyond that she wished to die. The girl's family in Santa Barbara was notified and Miss Wulsten was released in the care of her brother.

CAPTAIN OF THE LAW DESCRIBES ITS SINKING.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

CIVITAVECCHIA (Italy) Feb. 17 (via London, 9:15 p.m.)—Capt. McDonough, commander of the American schooner Lyman M. Law, which was sunk by a submarine, with the members of his crew has arrived here aboard an Italian steamer. He was met by United States Consul Tredwell and several newspaper correspondents.

In describing the destruction of his ship, Capt. McDonough said they were sailing peacefully along when they heard a cannon shot. About five miles distant they observed a submarine, which was not flying a national flag, but had hoisted a signal with the letter "H," which in the international code means "halt."

This was 9 o'clock in the morning and the Law, obeying the injunction, stopped. The submarine approached with two guns showing.

Capt. McDonough, undisturbed, as he already had been visited several times by submarines, prepared to show his papers, but all on his ship were ordered to go aboard the submarine, where they were interrogated by an officer, apparently the commander. According to Capt. McDonough this officer had all the physical characteristics of the German race. The master of the Law showed his papers, which were examined, and described his cargo, which, meanwhile, had been inspected by another officer.

Capt. McDonough was then permitted to return aboard his ship and was allowed to proceed. The ship had scarcely moved when the submarine again stopped her, the commander of the underwater boat declaring through the megaphone that he considered that the cargo, which was consigned to an Italian firm, was contraband. He ordered the captain and crew to quit the Lyman M. Law, which, he said, must be destroyed. The submarine gave them time to take to the water in their own steam launch with a supply of gasoline and food, and it was indicated that it would be advisable to follow a certain route to reach Cagliari. The submarine commander then removed a quantity of gasoline and food from the American ship as well as some instruments.

The steam launch with Capt. McDonough and his crew aboard hoisted the American flag and saluted the vessel when she was blown up and left burning. The ship's papers were retained by the submarine commander.

Consul Tredwell and the American Embassy at Rome are making an investigation with respect to whether the cargo can be considered contraband. In the evidence given before the Consul, Capt. McDonough expressed the opinion that the submarine commander decided to seize and sink the Law with a view to taking her supplies aboard his own boat. In fact, the captain said, after having given the ship permission to continue her journey, there was a twenty-minute discussion between the commander and another officer of the submarine before the final decision was taken.

No part of the Southland seems to have been overlooked and last night it was raining in Bakersfield, where there was every indication that the total would be of considerable moment. Bakersfield now has 4.06 inches to its credit for the season, which is in excess, by an inch, of a year ago.

Porterville reported half an inch, with a better crop condition than had been experienced in years.

"The Ad Club invites all Los Angeles" was the slogan sounded by the Ad Masque Committee at a meeting yesterday of the committee chairmen, to prepare the final plans for the big Ad Masque ball next Saturday evening.

It is expected a great crowd will fill the Shrine Auditorium to see the popular and well-known advertising characters of the age portrayed in real life.

Chairman Rogan of the Ad Masque Committee is urging everybody to delve into the pages of newspaper and magazine advertising to win the $50 gold cash prize offered by the Advertising Club for the most original and representative costumes suggesting popular advertising characters.

"The American Patrol," Ethel Davis and her pickininny babies, and a beauty chorus are a few of the features that will divide up the dancing programme.

Illuminated by a myriad of multi-colored lights and a battery of flood lights and touched by the magic wand of "advertising," the Shrine Auditorium will be transformed into a fairyland for this ball.

Famous "imps" of advertising copy will be entered in the grand march by more than 125 business houses of this city and a score or more of the big national advertisers. Booths on both sides will provide scope for more elaborate decorating, and unique displays are promised.

Five thousand tickets have been offered to the public and the Masque Committee reports a large advance sale. Arrangements have been made to have tickets on sale at the Ad Club headquarters, room No. 339, Hotel Clark, each day until the date of the ball.

INJURIES MAY BE FATAL.

Aged Mexican Struck by Car That Had No Lights.

Jose Salazer, an aged Mexican whose address the police were unable to discover, was probably fatally injured early last night when he was struck by an automobile owned and driven by J. J. Hill of Camp Raymer. The accident occured near the San Fernando Mission. Hill was arrested by Patrolman Varey, who said there were no lights on the car.

In the Receiving Hospital, to which Salazar was taken in the police ambulance, he was treated for a fracture of the skull, a broken arm and a broken leg. The police surgeons say his chance for recovery is slight.

Examination.

MAY SOON SOLVE GOEBEL MYSTERY.

DOCTOR WON'T SAY WHETHER POISON IS FOUND.

Organs of Late Pomona Rancher are Still Being Subjected to Action of Chemicals—Physician Considers it Unfair to Make Any Interim Statement.

The mystery of the death of Henry Goebel, the well-to-do Pomona rancher, who died January 31, and whose funeral was held up by his daughters, who demanded an autopsy, may be solved by the middle of the week. Dr. Lyman B. Stookey, the pathologist, who is making the chemical analysis of the viscera, last evening refused to affirm or deny that he had found poison, or traces of poison.

"I have separated the several parts into their different fractions and it will be several days before I can state positively what I have found," he said. "It would not be fair to either party at this time to make an announcement, as the process is in progress and there may be developments that only the action of chemicals can announce."

Mr. Goebel died of anemia, according to his physician. The body was held at a Pomona undertaker's establishment for eight days, pending the arrival of the daughters, Carrie and Sadie. When they reached the city they demanded and obtained an autopsy to which the widow objected. Dr. Stookey was then retained to make an analysis of the internal organs. Prior to the arrival of the daughters, Mrs. Goebel, formerly housekeeper for the aged rancher, had her family physician perform an autopsy. She also had X-ray photographs made of the body and these are said to have shown a diseased heart, an abcess on the liver and a general diseased condition of the arteries.

The daughters say that Mr. Goebel, after his marriage last October, deeded property valued at $30,000 to the widow. This property, which the widow says is worth only half of the daughters' appraisement, may later be the object of a court fight, the girls intimated. The widow declares that the deeding of the property was a voluntary act on the part of her late husband, who had become estranged from his family. In demanding an autopsy the girls made no charges of any nature, merely asserting their right to have the county surgeons perform it.

Where's Mrs. Frampton?

WOMAN DISAPPEARS.

She Left Her Fullerton Home and Two Babies on Friday and Her Husband is Anxiously Searching the City to Find Her.

With only $5 in her purse, Mrs. Pearl Frampton of No. 514 Spadra road, Fullerton, left her home early Friday afternoon, boarded a train for Los Angeles, and, according to her husband, who reported the matter last night, has not been heard from since.

Mrs. Frampton, who is 21 years of age, took her two small children to a neighbor's home in Fullerton and informed her friend that she was going to Los Angeles to do some shopping. She stated she would return in several hours.

Mr. Frampton told Detective Tom O'Brien, who is investigating the case, that his wife is very pretty, has red hair and gray eyes, and weights about 140 pounds. She wore a yellow dress and a black and white check coat.

SURPRISE IN STORE FOR HIS PARENTS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VAN NUYS, Feb. 17.—"A surprise is in store for father and mother," stated D. E. Link when he purchased ten acres of land in the new Bungalow Farms Tract this week. Mr. Link is a native of Ohio and came to California three months ago, which time he spent in a diligent search for an ideal homeplace. He decided Van Nuys was the proper place, made his selection and paid cash. He is now engaged in building a bungalow, chicken-houses, planting fruit trees, vegetables, a little patch of alfalfa and when the father and mother arrive this fall from the East they will find a complete home with everything on a productive basis.

OVERHEAD FLUME WILL BE REPLACED.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BRYN MAWR, Feb. 17.—The Riverside Trust Company, which owns the big overhead water flume crossing the paved road between Redlands and Riverside at the mouth of Pigeon Pass, near here, has agreed to replace the overhead flume with an inverted concrete flume underground where the road crosses. This is the news given out by the County Highway Commission here today.

The big flume with the trestle work is considered dangerous and it cuts off the view of the mountains and valley as the motorist comes down the Pigeon Pass road. This road has just recently been paved by Riverside county from Riverside to the county line and by San Bernardino county from Redlands to the county line.

The road is the best and safest, as it eliminates dangerous railroad crossings.

DOES A HOODOO HANG AROUND?

Strange Accident Takes Place Near Needles on Santa Fe Railway.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

NEEDLES, Feb. 17.—Santa Fe trainmen are wondering if there is a hoodoo hanging around. On two nights this week the west-bound Phoenix train has met with the same sort of an accident within a few miles of the same spot. In both instances the locomotive threw a high rod, wrecking the interior of the engine and causing a narrow escape for the engineer and firemen. The result has been that traffic has been considerably demoralized for two or three days on the Arizona division. None of the passengers was hurt in either mishap, though they were badly shaken up.

Accident Happens Within Short Distance of the Death Curve. Big Realty Deal Closed When Long Beach Man Buys Ranch of Dr. E. A. Reid of Portland, Or.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONROVIA, Feb. 17.—When the auto delivery car of the Miller Baking Company of Los Angeles hit a wet spot on the boulevard pavement, between Monrovia and Sierra Madre, bread, cakes and all kinds of pastry goods took a sudden rise, followed by as sudden a drop. Distribution for that particular load of the company's production was swift but not very accurate, the highway getting the greater share.

Coincident with the fluctuation in bread, the driver of the car and his assistants were thrown out, the latter suffering an ugly cut on the head. The car was smashed against a telephone pole.

The accident happened within 100 feet of the ill-omened death curve, corner of the Foothill boulevard and Sierra Madre avenue, where so many automobiles have been wrecked.

BIG REALTY DEAL CLOSED.

A real estate deal in which the property involved totals $50,000 valuation was closed here today when J. M. Staggers of Long Beach exchanged his $30,000 apartment house there for the Monrovia show place owned by Dr. E. A. Reid of Portland, Or., and valued at $20,000. The different has been adjusted by cash or mortgage, it is understood. The Monrovia estate comprises a beautiful residence and three acres of grounds elaborately landscaped and terraced, extending back into the canyons north of the city.

Manhattan Beach Experiences Touch of Realism When Flames Break Through the Roof. Caused by a Defective Flue.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MANHATTAN BEACH, Feb. 17.—Fire, caused by a defective flue, broke out at 1 o'clock this afternoon in the City Hall here, corner of Harlan and Fourteenth streets, and did damage to the amount of $5000.

The fire started in the attic and played havoc with the roof of the newly-constructed building. The Hall was built last May at a cost of $30,000. Insurance, amounting to $10,000, is carried.

The Hermosa and Redondo Beach fire departments responded and aided in suppressing the flames.

The records and other contents of the concrete building were not injured.

Diesel Type Oil Burners to be Used First Time.

Students Place Crepe Upon Campus Flagpole.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Feb. 17.—While the ships are not quite ready for their trial runs, the work of installing the engines in the two United States submarines L-6 and L-7, nearing completion at the plant of the California Shipbuilding Company on the harbor, was completed today. The interior mechanism will be tried out Monday for the first time, when the big engines will be "turned over," for their initial run, installed.

To witness this performance, A. Tacchella, a representative of the Busch-Sulzer Company of St. Louis, Mo., manufacturers of the Diesel oil-burning engines that are being used in the L-6 and L-7, arrived in Long Beach today.

Naval officials and officers of the California Shipbuilding Company, who witnessed a block test of the powerful engines just before they were placed in the undersea craft, say they believe that the new Diesel type oil-burners will be the most efficient, modern and improved engines now in use by the United States government.

BLACK FLAG FLIES.

A black flag flew at half-mast from the flagpole on the campus, all the front doors of the institution of learning were decorated with crepe, and several hundred students of both sexes wore crepe on their arms to school today, in mourning for the fourteen prominent students who were expelled from Long Beach High School last Monday for violating the State law barring fraternities from high schools.

Japanese Captain of a Fishing Boat Asserts that the Master of the "Unknown" Boat Asked Him to Land Cargo of Packages.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Feb. 17.—That the fishing launch Shinu Maru was boarded by a strange craft, answering the description of the mysterious vessel seen by Santa Monica police officers Friday morning in Santa Monica Bay, was the statement of the captain of the launch today. According to Capt. Yamata Toga, his vessel was stopped in the trade route off Santa Monica Bay and he was asked to take off the strange craft, a black-hulled vessel, apparently built for speed, an individual of whose identity the Japanese knew nothing. He also said that there were certain packages in the cargo he was supposed to land. He said he knew nothing of the contents of the packages.

The Japanese said that the vessel that stopped him had the appearance of some of the fast steamers of his own country, but he was not sure about the flag at the stern. While the fisherman said that he had been stopped, he did not admit that he had taken any contraband or anything that resembled contraband to the shore.

CHOP DOWN TREES.

Famous Redlight District of Beautiful Boulevard Meets the Fate of Progress. Many Accidents Took Place.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SIERRA MADRE, Feb. 17.—The redlight district in this city is a thing of the past. The cause of much discussion, harsh feeling and dissension has been abolished.

Ever since the incorporation of this city and the creating of boulevards and streets, Central boulevard was adorned with a number of handsome oak trees. These trees grew in the roadway close to the carline tracks. Many accidents occurred to those driving vehicles, particularly on dark nights. The city trustees had electric lights placed on each tree. This did not prove effective and an additional red light was added. A rumpus was raised some years ago by somebody terming it the redlight district. The name clung, however, and trainmen and commuters alike would often refer to the red lights as the cars swung into this section.

For years there has been an effort made to preserve these trees. Each board of trustees had the matter brought before them. Pre-election promises have been made to spare the trees by aspiring candidates on the City Council. Owing to an increase in the dangerous condition and the report of many near-by accidents, the city trustees, in spite of considerable opposition, ordered the trees removed. Workmen are now chopping up the last remains of these historic oaks. The cry of "Trustee, spare that tree, touch not a single bough," will no longer reverberate through the Council chambers at the City Hall. The continued march of progress has spoken.

ORANGE GROVES CHANGE OWNERSHIP

STRONG MOVEMENT MANIFEST IN POMONA DISTRICT.

In Several Cases the Cash was Paid for the Property and Prices Which Prevail are Said to be Top-notchers—St. Louis Man Planks Down Forty Thousand.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Feb. 17.—Real estate in this locality has shown more activity during the past sixty days than has been known here since 1912. Cash sales of citrus groves are of not infrequent occurrence, and property is bringing good prices. The real estate men declare that it is really difficult to secure first-class listings. Several twenty-thousand-dollar deals have been turned here within a month.

Oscar Mock has sold his five-acre grove on Foothill boulevard, near Claremont, to Robert Koonter, taking in exchange a fifteen-acre alfalfa ranch near Arlington and a business lot there, consideration totaling $25,500. Lon Nesbitt has sold his five-acre orange grove on Orange avenue, between Pomona and Claremont, to G. E. Kimbrell, taking in exchange a good residence property on Garey avenue. The deal totaled $20,000. J. M. Thorneley of St. Louis planked down $40,000 cash for the W. M. Littlewood twenty-acre orange grove near Upland. Mr. Littlewood offered to take the crop on the trees at $10,000, but Mr. Thorneley is said to have held out for more money.

W. M. Golliher of Redlands has sold his five-acre grove near Upland to A. T. Smith of Pomona, taking as part payment a residence property near the Pomona High School. The total consideration was $14,500. S. C. Crizow has sold forty acres of San Fernando land to Mrs. A. H. Martin, taking in exchange a peach orchard near Chino, the total consideration being $11,500. L. C. Myers has sold Mrs. A. H. Martin a five-acre peach orchard between Ontario and Chino for $8500. Ira M. Church of Ontario has sold a fine five-acre peach orchard south of Ontario to C. H. Reynolds for $5000 cash.

H. H. Schaper, the Pomona fumigator, has purchased the twenty-acre navel orange grove of Louis Wright on the Foothill boulevard. The consideration was not mentioned, but the price is understood to have been a top figure. A. T. Smith has sold his five-acre navel grove in Upland to A. H. Hardt of this city, taking a bungalow on San Antonio avenue as part payment, the total consideration being $17,000. W. M. Vandeford has sold a ten-room residence on North Gordon street to Leonard Hargraves, taking some industrial property in Pasadena. The deal involved $7500. A. H. Austill has exchanged with Miss Rose Brown a six-room bungalow in Los Angeles for a residence on Gordon street, in this city. D. N. Bacon has sold his seven-acre deciduous fruit ranch northeast of Ontario to A. H. Shrode of Chino. The consideration was $10,750.

GRAND OPERA SINGER GETS THREE YEARS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 17.—Three and a half years was the sentence meted out to Don Pasquale, reputed Sanish grand opera singer, in the Superior Court today, for leaving town with a violin belonging to A. Kretachmann, who claimed an almost fabulous value for the instrument, pawned by Pasquale for $5. Interest in the case was enhanced by an exchange of correspondence between the musician and a daughter of Kretschmann, the letters serving to reveal the whereabouts of Pasquale, a denouement evidently not anticipated by Miss Kretschmann, judging from the tone of her letters.

Horses Run Away with Load of Potatoes.

Wagon Lands on Top of One of the Animals.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LORDSBURG, Feb. 17.—Gordon Nesbit, a Pomona High School boy, had a narrow escape from death today when he rolled down the side of Live Oak canyon near here, with a team of horses and a wagon load of potatoes. The wagon landed on top of one horse after rolling and sliding fifty feet and young Nesbit unhitched the other horse, riding it to the home of Elsbery Reynolds at Relay Heights, where he secured assistance and went back to the rescue of the other horse.

Nesbit was on his way to the Upper Reynolds ranch when the mishap occurred. He had twenty bushels of potatoes which were already cut for planting and when he started to drive down grade on the mountain road the brake refused to work. The team being unable to hold back the load, broke into a gallop and ran off the grade at a sharp curve. The seed potatoes were scattered all over the side of the canyon and it took a dozen people to pick them out of the sage brush.

Gordon was taking the spuds to the Reynolds ranch where he and James Reynolds, a High School chum, intended to plant them on a piece of ground, the use of which had been given to them by Elsbery Reynolds, the publisher, who is James Reynolds's father.

FAVORS FUMIGATING SACKS OF PICKERS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ONTARIO, Feb. 17.—Sounding a warning to orange growers who are desirous of sparing their groves from infection from the dread mealy bug, which is said to have gotten such a foothold in some groves of the Upland section as to seem almost impossible of extermination, H. A. Spies, deputy horticultural commissioner of this district, is today out with an earnest recommendation that citrus men insist that pickers going from grove to grove have their picking sacks and other equipment thoroughly fumigated before being allowed to work in groves which are free from infection.

Although numerous efforts have been made to stamp out the mealy bug in the Upland section, the dread pest is said to have gotten such a foothold in some of the groves of the upper part of the district that it has so far been impossible to find a satisfactory means for its extermination without destroying fruit-bearing wood.

The mealy bug is said to be one of the most serious problems confronting citrus experts today. They are continually working on plans for getting rid of the pest and hope soon to hit on a satisfactory solution of the problem.

Mr. Spies declares that the mealy bug may very easily be communicated from an infected to a clean grove by means of pickers' sacks, and warns fruit men that they cannot be too cautious. He is in favor of a law making the fumigation of picking equipment compulsory in districts where the pest abounds. Ontario groves have so far escaped infection, according to the Mr. Spies.

TODAY'S AID TO BEAUTY

Hair is by far the most conspicuous thing about us and is probably the most easily damaged by bad or careless treatment. If we are very careful in hair washing, we will have virtually no hair troubles. An especially fine shampoo for this weather, one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair, that dissolves and entirely removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt, can easily be used at trifling expense by simply dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox (which you can get at any druggists) in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. This chemically dissolves all impurities and creates a soothing, cooling lather. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and pliant, while the hair takes on the glossy richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem much heavier than it is. After a canthrox shampoo, arranging the hair is a pleasure.

KNOW-DOC Pore Treatment
An Ideal Skin Clarifier

Takes out all impurities and makes the skin noticeably clean and clear.

It penetrates through the pores, stimulates the nerves and tissues, brings color to the cheeks, greatly improving the complexion. Apply lightly, let remain a minute or two, then rub off with dry towel. Be sure and try it—it's wonderful.

"USE IT THREE TIMES"

For sore nerves and pain it should be applied plentifully over the affected parts and allowed to absorb.

One detail of the plan, it was learned last night, includes the construction of a system of tunnels. It is understood excavation for these underground refuges will be the first work undertaken. No information could be obtained last night from Maj. Pillsbury or his assistants as to the number of tunnels planned or their location, or details of their construction.

"The field supports of a coast fort and the location of earthworks to be used for defense against a land force are always kept secret," said Maj. Pillsbury. "Wherever possible even the works themselves are disguised so that an ordinary individual would not suspect their military character.

"Of course, it would be most unwise to make no provision for the defense of the fort on land side and it would be equally foolish to tell every one what and where those defenses are. The War Department is doing everything it can to afford adequate protection, but further than that I am permitted to make no statement."

AT PANAMA.

If the land supports of Fort MacArthur are to be anything like those in Panama, Los Angeles may well be proud of them.

The field fortifications and earthworks which the army engineers have constructed in the Canal Zone are said to be the most extensive military field works in America. Prior to the European war it was stated they were the most elaborate in the world.

Both entrances to the canal are fortified with coast forts, strong enough to withstand a terrific attack from sea. To withstand land attacks, the mountains on both sides of the canal have been trenched and tunneled. The locks at Gatun, Pedro Miguel and Miraflores and the section of the Culebra Cut at Gold Hill are regarded as the most vital spots of the system from a military point of view, as the use of a few sticks of dynamite at any one might tie up the waterway. Consequently the mountains surrounding the locks and the cuts are the most heavily guarded.

Commencing at the boundary lines military roads have been built. In strategic locations trenches have been dug, land-mine sites marked and intelligence stations located. As the army engineers worked back toward the canal, the defenses were made stronger, until at the mountains directly contiguous to the locks, the whole country is practically a mass of earthworks.

The trenches and tunnels are heavily screened and practically invisible even from an airplane. Concrete bases for use of heavy field pieces have been carefully covered with thin layers of earth and cannot be distinguished from abandoned clearings.

This will mean twelve to fifteen 25-kilowatt dynamos connected directly to four-cylinder gasoline engines.

The last concrete work for the fortifications was completed last week. Capt. A. H. Acher, who is in charge of the work, has made a record for battery A, the second of the 14-inch gun batteries. Since last November nearly 20,000 yards of concrete has been poured.

The mortar battery with eight guns is now practically completed with exception of the electrical wiring and rails for the ammunition carriages. The concrete work on one of the 14-inch gun batteries is also completed and the gun carriages are now being installed. One of the carriages is all ready to receive the gun barrel, which has not yet been shipped from the arsenal.

As soon as the concrete work is completed the fortification site will

SHOULD WE VOTE THESE FLOOD CONTROL BONDS?

Both Sides of Costly Proposition to be Decided Tuesday.

ON TUESDAY the voters of the county will cast their ballots—if they go to the polls—on the question of whether or not they shall bond themselves for $4,450,000 to finance the scheme for flood control devised by Engineer J. W. Reagan and his associates. On the advisability of doing so there is a wide difference of opinion.

The Times here presents the arguments of Long Beach and her sister communities, strongest proponents of the bonds, and of the Chamber of Commerce of Los Angeles, Municipal League, special board of expert engineers employed by these two bodies, Hollywood Board of Trade and others, leading opponents of the bonds.

FOR THE BONDS.
LONG BEACH AND OTHERS.

Firmly believing that there can be no sound, permanent prosperity for Long Beach until its harbor is protected from silt, citizens of Long Beach and other flood-affected communities will work tirelessly until Tuesday for the flood control bonds, and expect to get out a record vote.

Prominent business and professional men as well as many property owners not directly affected by the yearly ravages of the flood waters, have indorsed the flood-control measure. They look upon it as necessary to this community's civic programme to make itself a successful industrial center with plenty of employment for both capital labor.

"A loss of soil is a loss irreparable," declared C. F. Vandewater, a leading member of the Flood Control Campaign Committee, yesterday. "Wasted soil can never be replaced. The flood control plan, as approved by the county, will save both water and soil, and what is of still greater moment, the inner harbors of Long Beach and Los Angeles.

"Three floods in the last seven years have wiped $25,000,000 off the assessment rolls of taxable property in Los Angeles county, and in that proportion increased taxation. One year's flood costs more than the entire expense of the flood-control plan proposed. If the bonds win Tuesday it will only mean a tax of 3 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

"Three-fourths of the cost of the flood-control project would be paid to labor. The result would be a steady, annually increasing pay roll to labor, guaranteed by enlarged activities of commerce, manufacture and production, benefiting every taxpayer and reducing the cost of living.

"Probably the main feature of the issue is that it provides for permanent harbor protection for both Long Beach and Los Angeles. The annual expense of dredging the channels and the loss caused by suspending the operations of some of the principal harbor industries would be eliminated.

"Flood control would mean the change from a present mud-filled, silt-barriered channel that has given this community a 'black eye' as a port, into a clean, economic, ornamental waterway that could easily handle this city's share of the world's shipping.

"Long Beach is the dumping ground for county floods. It would remain so without flood control. In the earlier stages of investigation the outlet route of Alamitos Bay was favored by nearly all concerned in Long Beach, the county and nation. Further investigation, however, has shown the outlet alongside Long Beach's industrial district to be the most feasible route, fair to the entire county and of greater benefit to the city. This is the route specified on the bond ballot.

"It is not only recommended by local engineers, but by the greatest engineering body in the country, the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors, at Washington."

AGAINST THE BONDS.
OPPONENTS' ARGUMENTS.

Following is the flood control bond situation as seen by opponents of the Reagan scheme:

An affirmative vote for the county flood control bonds, Tuesday, will mean the taxing of 95 per cent. of the people for the benefit of the remaining 5 per cent. No more striking example of the subordination of the advantage of the whole to the greed of the minority could be adduced.

Briefly, it is proposed to vote $4,450,000 in bonds as a nucleus for initial expenditure on a system of control from which owners of municipal property and hill property will derive little or no benefit, while the benefited 5 per cent. is made up of a coterie of large land owners whose willingness to profit through the mulcting of the majority is in inverse ratio to their present contribution of taxes to the county's exchequer.

In a protest against the proposed bond issue filed with the Board of Supervisors last week by the city Chamber of Commerce and Municipal League, following an exhaustive survey of Engineer Reagan's control plans by a committee made up of

PLANS FOR PLEASURE PARADISE PART OF ANNEXATION PROJECT.

Breakwater and Millionaire Yachtsmen's Refuge, Municipal Beach Playground and More Mansions for Los Angeles Visioned at Santa Monica.

INTERTWINED with the proposal to annex Santa Monica to Los Angeles are plans that in their consummation would bring within this city, twenty-five minutes from Broadway, one of the country's finest watering places and a rendezvous de luxe for the nation's millionaire yachtsmen.

The founders and first settlers at Santa Monica dreamed a great dream. They saw a giant breakwater stretching seaward, with a smooth harbor under its shelter, a thousand pleasure craft at their moorings, scores of palatial homes on the Palisades and a multitude of bathers on a clean, fine strand. The vision has not been realized, but late developments have brought changes that bid fair to make the dream come true.

The city's annexation of the Westgate section, north of Santa Monica, with plans drawn for irrigating the region with aqueduct water, and other conditions render the pioneers' vision even grander in its revival. And it is declared a combination of unique conditions at Santa Monica furnish every element to make of it, with proper development, a seaside resort perhaps not rivaled in this hemisphere.

PROPOSITIONS LINKED.

The present plans for building a giant breakwater at Santa Monica are closely linked with those for annexation to this city. It is believed that, with a mile of fine bathing beach brought within its limits and the possibility of embracing a watering place de luxe, Los Angeles would lend its resources and enthusiasm to the development scheme.

It is declared an influx of yachtsmen, people of wealth, would be assured; that more fine homes would rise on the Palisades and dot the newly-acquired city lands at the north of Santa Monica. The old Port Los Angeles, that was once a landing place for seagoing vessels, is even now in the Los Angeles city limits and at the time of the Westgate annexation plans were formed for the development of the beach there, under the belief it belonged to the city. The plans were abandoned because it was found the property is privately owned.

However, a fine stretch of strand waits at Santa Monica to become Los Angeles city property through annexation. And for making Santa Monica return the maximum advantages as a portion of this city, these plans are actively advocated:

PROJECT IN FULL.

To build a breakwater of concrete and great rubble rock, starting at a point near Santa Monica Canyon and running seaward at least to twenty-five feet of water and 1600 feet out, and southward for a greater distance. This, according to engineers, would break the currents and the wash of the breakers and form adequate protection.

To provide stalls for yachts and launches, and rent these out on a yearly basis.

To make the breakwater sufficiently wide to permit travel on it, so that owners could reach yachts moored in the stalls.

To erect or encourage the erection of a yacht club building.

To make of the section a regular city playground, with surf bathing, yachting and motoring all within easy reach.

The first cost of such a breakwater has been estimated by experts at $1,000,000, and it would require another sum, considerably smaller, to complete the structure. Advocates of the scheme declare it would soon pay, in the patronage of the rich, fabulous dividends on such an investment.

Moreover, it is said that all now needed to make Los Angeles the most wonderful hostess city in America for the world's tourists is a municipal beach.

DEMAND EXISTS NOW.

At Santa Monica are numerous yachtsmen, all of whom keep their craft at Los Angeles Harbor or at some southern anchorage. They say the open stretch of a water including Santa Monica Bay offers the best local conditions for yachting and they regret they cannot moor their craft right in the bay near to their homes.

Other wealthy residents of that city say they would own yachts if they could obtain shelter for them in the bay. Still others who now own yachts say they would build homes at Santa Monica or on the hills to the north, now a part of Los Angeles, if they could enjoy their favorite sport.

When the late Collis P. Huntington made plans for the use of Santa Monica Bay he carefully studied the undersea topography there. He learned that the shallow water, to a depth of thirty feet, runs out to a sort of deep-sea canyon, which drops off to 1000 fathoms. He planned to build a breakwater along the northerly side of Long Wharf, then used as a port of call, and southward, along an irregular line toward what is now the Santa Monica municipal pier. This would have formed the protected harbor desired to build up a yachting center. The present plan proposed takes in this idea of the great railroad builder, but also takes into consideration modern conditions and the fact that the hills to the north of Santa Monica, the famous San Vicente Rancho lands and Huntington Heights, as well as the Palisades of Santa Monica, afford the best of sites for stately mansions.

Seafaring men have long said a breakwater at Santa Monica would bring to that section, and consequently to Los Angeles, developments that would make of it a great watering place.

SUBWAY CONSIDERED.

Other late conditions contribute to the breakwater plan. One of these, peculiarly, also comes from an idea of a great railroad builder, E. H. Harriman, and is the railway subway which is being urged by the Subway Rapid Transit Association. With the best boulevards in the country leading to the section which the breakwater would improve, and an opportunity for automobilists to reach their homes or yachts in quick time, the additional feature of rapid rail transit, cutting the time to Santa Monica to thirty-six minutes from Fourth and Hill streets, this city, via the Venice short line and the Sawtelle-Beverley line, and twenty-five minutes on the Santa Monica air line, Los Angeles would have done what has at times been deemed impossible—it would have brought the beach, and this includes territory now inside Los Angeles' limits, close to the city's center.

Chief Engineer Mulholland of the Public Service Commission has announced he has prepared plans for the proposed main to carry aqueduct water to the lands north and east of Santa Monica which were recently annexed to Los Angeles. This land comprises the Westgate section and a fertile mesa to the north and west of Santa Monica, including the San Vicente Rancho and Huntington Heights. Irrigation on these sections would open to the builders of fine country estates a wide selection of sites and would work in with the comprehensive plan to develop Santa Monica, it is pointed out, in that it would give to the yachtsmen and others of the wealthy easterners who come here to spend several months of each year locations for their homes with ample entertainment at hand.

The recent annexation took in abut 30,000 acres and the irrigation plan would provide water for about 12,000 acres of that section.

ENGINEER'S VIEW.

One Santa Monica engineer said a concrete breakwater could be built at Santa Monica for about $1,000,000, but that an additional sum should be available to make the

BOTH HERE AT SAME TIME LAST SPRING.

LOVELY ELVA AND "RICHEST BOY IN WORLD."

This may be Basis of Mother's Amazing Claim that Her Daughter's Engaged to John Nicholas Brown III, Which He Absolutely Denies—"Peach," Says Judge.

Miss Elva Diestelhorst, the Kansas City beauty who became overnight nationally famous through her mother's declaration in court that she is to marry John Nicholas Brown III, "the richest boy in the world," was in Los Angeles last spring at the same time that young Mr. Brown and his mother were making their yearly stay in Pasadena.

Investigation yesterday of the mother's amazing claim—which Mr. Brown absolutely denies—shows that the girl and her mother were here in April and May, and during a portion of that time, at least, young Mr. Brown also was a visitor to the city.

Rumor was matrimonially busy with young Mr. Brown when he was here last year. Miss Veda Macpherson, one of the richest girls in Canada and niece of the head of the great Molson's Bank, was at the Huntington and she and Mr. Brown were apparently friendly. A report that they were engaged was denied on April 19, shortly after Miss Macpherson had left the hotel but while Mr. Brown was still in the Crown City.

While the beautiful Elva was here, she had her photograph taken—perhaps intending to give one of the bewitching pictures to Mr. Brown. At any rate she had a sitting at the Stephens studio, No. 328 South Spring street, May 17, 1916. She was accompanied by her mother. The studio man distinctly remembers them for two reasons—first, because of the remarkable beauty of the girl, and, secondly, because her mother appeared to be very nervous. They didn't give any local address but the mother said they lived at No. 3835 Harrison avenue, Kansas City. She called for the photographs before leaving the city.

The photograph gives some idea of the girl's charms and an exclamation made by the Kansas City judge who ordered her to go to school seems justified. When Mrs. Diestelhorst said to the judge of the Kansas City Juvenile Court: "She's a lovely girl, how can you do anything against so pretty a girl?" the judge replied, according to Kansas City advices:

"Madam, I'm not saying anything against your daughter. Heavens, she's a peach! She's the prettiest girl that ever came into my court but she'll have to go to school every day."

Who will Love Her?

RICH, ORPHANED INYO COUNTY SEEKS SOMEONE TO ADOPT HER.

Bishop Chamber of Commerce Appeals to Los Angeles to Decide Whether Political Waif Belongs to Northern or Southern California.

WANTED—A daddy, a mama, or both, by a waif with a fabulous heritage to offer for a rightful place in the world—the position to which she considers herself entitled by virtue of birth, character, attainment and beauty. Address Inyo County, Where?

Who is willing to adopt an orphan—not a poor little one, but a rich big one? A political orphan, let us say, endowed with more than one-fifteenth of the territory and a large share of the charm and wealth and romance of California, yet ofttimes pensive by reason of isolation.

Inyo, the second largest subdivision of the State, coyly admits orphanhood, sadly admits it. She feels forsaken, almost ostracized, a bit hurt. Apparently none of her equals will vouchsafe the close companionship she craves. Ever hear of such unneighborliness, such neglect?

Nevada has been trying to flirt with her, openly and even officially, but with becoming dignity she spurns the advances of strangers. She may like the silvery sagebrush, but she loves the golden poppy. Her heart is in the keeping of the great commonwealth to which fate or chance gave it. Her loyalty is unwavering, though she believes herself slighted.

Is she a northern or a southern county? Where is the dividing line? She is confused. She desires to know where she may expect a welcome. Commercially and sentimentally she feels the more at home here. Stupendous heights, titanic walls of granite, shut her off from all save us. Shall the eight, sometimes nine, "official" Southern California counties open their arms, receive her as a sister, and add Inyo to the list, making ten?

The galaxy now comprises San Diego, Imperial, Riverside, Orange, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Ventura, Santa Barbara, and sometimes Kern. Shall we embrace the opportunity to add another star? Inyo shyly offers herself as a jewel for our diadem. Shall we accept the proud maiden?

INYO'S APPEAL.

This extraordinary situation and the peculiar questions involved are brought up by the following letter received yesterday morning from the representative commercial organizations of the immense region concerned, with headquarters in the metropolis thereof:

"BISHOP, Feb. 16, 1917.
"Chamber of Commerce,
"Los Angeles:

"Gentlemen: We are appealing to you for light on a problem that has caused considerable confusion in the minds of the people of this county—Inyo.

"We would like very much to know to just what part of California our county properly belongs. In the minds of most persons this State is divided into two parts, generally speaking, Southern California and Northern California. Which division should include Inyo? Or is it an orphan with no claim of kinship?

"We are asking this question in all seriousness, not because the seeming orphan is unable to take care of itself, but because we believe the answer is due us. It may have significance for one or the other division as well as for Inyo.

"We are often called upon, as in the present instance on the part of Southern California, to take part and assist in advertising campaigns and promotion work designed to increase the popularity and prosperity of sometimes this, sometimes that, of the divisions above noted. While the Bishop Chamber of Commerce is at all times eager to do all in its power to assist in the development of the State as a whole, we feel that our chief efforts should be directed to the advancement of that particular division to which this county may be accredited, be that Southern, Northern or Eastern California—for the latter can be in itself an empire.

"Geographically, Inyo is north of the imaginary line which separates the north from the south, but it is cut off from the south by the Tehachepi. Climatically, it differs materially from the extreme southern counties, but from the commercial and political standpoints it might well be considered a part of Southern California.

"We understand that San Diego, Imperial, Riverside, Orange, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Ventura, Santa Barbara and Kern are your 'official' southern counties. Will you kindly inform us whether Inyo is ever included in the list by your organization, or whether you know of any reason for the somewhat general impression that this county is a part of Southern California?

"Candidly, we are trying to get our hearings. And we are not urging that Inyo be adopted, but unless it really is an orphan we would like to establish its parentage.

"Yours truly,

[Signed]
"BISHOP CHAMBER OF COMMERCE,
"By W. C. Parcher, President."

There is the "call." What are we going to do about it? The reply of the Chamber of Commerce will likely be widely interesting. It is expected that many other southern chambers will be heard from on the subject.

INYO—WHAT, WHERE.

"Where in hell's Inyo?" About six men out of every ten asked that question a few years ago whenever the county was mentioned. Some ask it yet, but now it's from sheer force of habit, for everybody knows where it is—except itself. Certainly it looms large on the map with its expanse of 10,019 square miles—two-thirds the size of Switzerland, a third the extent of Ireland. It could hold, and with room to spare, Maryland, Delaware or New Jersey, or any New England State except Maine. Could it be towed through the U-boat zone to the British Isles and plumped down, it would cover one-sixth of England and Wales.

SPEAKING OF WEALTH.

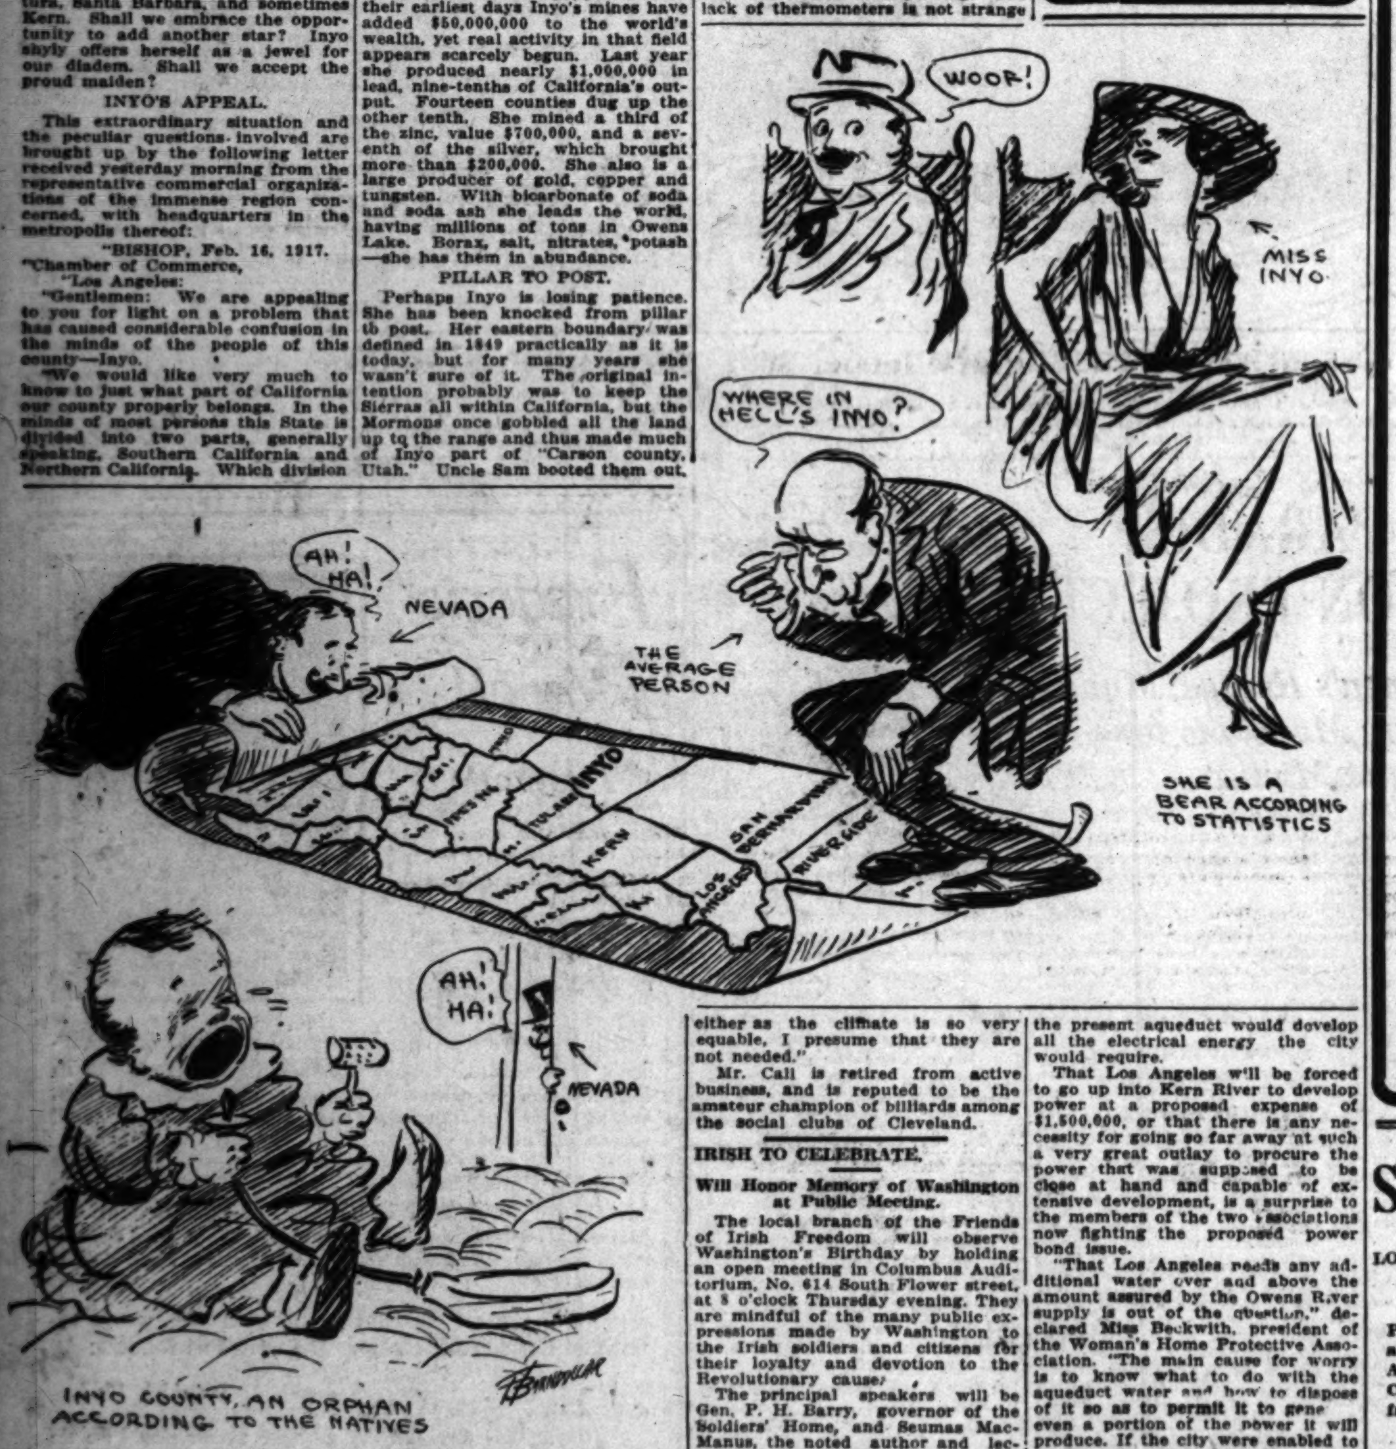
No, she's not a pauper. Since their earliest days Inyo's mines have added $50,000,000 to the world's wealth, yet real activity in that field appears scarcely begun. Last year she produced nearly $1,000,000 in lead, nine-tenths of California's output. Fourteen counties dug up the other tenth. She mined a third of the zinc, value $700,000, and a seventh of the silver, which brought more than $200,000. She also is a large producer of gold, copper and tungsten. With bicarbonate of soda and soda ash she leads the world, having millions of tons in Owens Lake. Borax, salt, nitrates, potash—she has them in abundance.

PILLAR TO POST.

Perhaps Inyo is losing patience. She has been knocked from pillar to post. Her eastern boundary was defined in 1849 practically as it is today, but for many years she wasn't sure of it. The original intention probably was to keep the Sierras all within California, but the Mormons once gobbled all the land up to the range and thus made much of Inyo part of "Carson county, Utah." Uncle Sam booted them out. Then Nevada was organized and more years of dispute followed over matters of jurisdiction between it and the Golden State, with Inyo dodging the bullets. She didn't know where to have letters directed to herself. Old-timers say she once had representation in the Legislatures of Nevada and California at the same time.

Nevada has sought to acquire her in recent years, has twice adopted measures looking to a cession of her territory, but California hasn't responded so anybody could notice it. And Inyo has never indicated a desire to jump over the traces. But her inclusion in California and exclusion from Nevada in the first instance was doubtless a matter of accident rather than design.

Anyway, she wants to get settled. Blame her?



It's certainly tough to be an orphan county.

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce received a remarkable appeal yesterday from Inyo county's leading business men asking that it be decided, once for all, whether she belongs to Southern or Northern California, or neither.

Cleveland Millionaire Visiting Here Notes that Scales are to be Found all Along Our Streets to Prove How Tourists Gain Flesh.

"They don't have any thermometers here, but I have noticed scales on almost every corner, and numerous ones in the middle of the blocks," said J. J. Call, Cleveland millionaire registered at the Lankershim.

"You know I've figured out the why of the scales. The average tourist is a loafer, or, in more polite phraseology, he doesn't work, and enjoys his idleness immensely. The result is that he picks up a few pounds in most instances, and then writes home and tells them all about how his health is improving. The lack of thermometers is not strange either as the climate is so very equable, I presume that they are not needed."

Mr. Call is retired from active business, and is reputed to be the amateur champion of billiards among the social clubs of Cleveland.

IRISH TO CELEBRATE.

Will Honor Memory of Washington at Public Meeting.

The local branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom will observe Washington's Birthday by holding an open meeting in Columbus Auditorium, No. 614 South Flower street, at 8 o'clock Thursday evening. They are mindful of the many public expressions made by Washington to the Irish soldiers and citizens for their loyalty and devotion to the Revolutionary cause.

The principal speakers will be Gen. P. H. Barry, governor of the Soldiers' Home, and Seumas MacManus, the noted author and lecturer. The former will speak on "The Irish Soldier in the war of Independence," and the latter will dwell on the "Glories and Sorrows and Hopes of Ireland." A programme of patriotic music has been arranged.

Application.

MORE WATER TO DEVELOP POWER IS CITY DEMAND.

ADVICES from Bakersfield set out that Los Angeles has made application for 200 second feet of the waters of the south fork of the Kern River in Tulare county "for the purpose of generating electricity and power."

The additional statement is made that it is proposed to "build a diversion dam twenty feet high and 150 feet long at the top and forty feet wide at the bottom, "and to construct a conduit and pipe line five and a half miles long, by which to deliver the water to a power-house, at which it is expected 18,000 theoretical horse power will be generated.

The application sets forth the cost of the project as $1,500,000 and that this generating plant will constitute one of several in Inyo and Mono counties.

The advices in question contain the further statement that an effort is being made in the present Legislature to confine, where possible, the benefits of Kern River water to exclusive local public service.

This application introduces a new feature in the power project of Los Angeles, and will come as rather a startling announcement to a great number of taxpayers who had assumed the 20,000 miner's inches of water supposed to be furnished by the present aqueduct would develop all the electrical energy the city would require.

That Los Angeles will be forced to go up into Kern River to develop power at a proposed expense of $1,500,000, or that there is any necessity for going so far away at such a very great outlay to procure the power that was supposed to be close at hand and capable of extensive development, is a surprise to the members of the two associations now fighting the proposed power bond issue.

"That Los Angeles needs any additional water over and above the amount assured by the Owens River supply is out of the question," declared Miss Beckwith, president of the Woman's Home Protective Association. "The main cause for worry is to know what to do with the aqueduct water and how to dispose of it so as to permit it to generate even a portion of the power it will produce. If the city were enabled to produce its power from the waters of a stream the flow of which the city was not afterwards obliged to care for, the city officials might be relieved of a problem that is causing them no end of worry."

Promising Young Man Loses Life Through Mine Accident.

Funeral services for William Mellion, aged 19 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raphael Mellion of No. 1134 East Twenty-first street, who was instantly killed in an accident in Clarksville, Ariz., the 9th inst., were held at the family residence last Monday. Burial took place at the Home of Peace Cemetery.

The young man was employed by the United Copper Smelter Company and was killed when struck by a falling beam. He was a graduate of a New York public school and had completed a course in electrical work. He also took a course in art in New York several years ago. His friends considered him a very promising young man.

Decision.

SQUATTER LOSES NILAND ACREAGE.

LOCAL LAND OFFICE UPHELD BY WASHINGTON.

Peculiar Situation is Cleared up and Though Entryman was Allowed to Live on Tract He Cannot Acquire Legal Title to it from the Federal Government.

Adolph L. Johnson doesn't get that valuable 6.66 acres of land, located on the townsite of Niland. The action of Register Roche and Receiver Mitchell of the local Land Office in rejecting his entry under the homestead law, has been upheld by the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

The local officials held that the land on all sides of the proposed entry had either passed to patent or had been entered, besides it was on the Niland townsite and therefore not subject to homestead entry. This view is affirmed by the Washington authorities. It is estimated that the land is worth not less than $3000 a acre.

The situation is peculiar. The land claimed by Johnson is surrounded by the entries of Richard H. Hobgood, and Mrs. Ada L. Wilkinson, and what is known as the Daly tract. In fact the land claimed by Johnson is a part of the latter subdivision.

The plat of the survey, affirmed February 18, 1916, does not indicate the existence of the tract described, and as all the land has been patented or entered the United States, so the General Land Office holds, has no further control of the same, and if the entryman (Johnson) has been allowed to reside on a tract within the area he can acquire no legal title from the government because of his undisturbed residence, and although the tract is unclaimed as alleged. The land is out of the control of the government, having so passed when the patents were issued, or are in progress of proof by reason of entries already made.

It is claimed that Johnson has been a squatter on the land for some time, and allowed to remain there by the sufferance of those who really had legal title to the land that includes not only his claim, but all the surrounding land. It is covered by surveys already made, and in no sense vacant.

BACK TO PRISON.

Mysterious "Jones," Smuggler, to Pay for Breaking Parole.

The mysterious "John Jones," whose identity has been the unsuccessful subject of inquiry by Federal officials at every port between San Diego and Seattle and who is again in the toils of the law on a charge of smuggling smoking opium, will be returned to San Quentin to serve out his sentence expiring the 26th inst. He was sentenced to eighteen months in the penitentiary by Judge Bledsoe, and was later paroled through the efforts of Los Angeles friends. Having violated his parole he will automatically be returned to prison, to be tried for his latest alleged offense after he is regularly released.

The seven five-tael cans captured with Jones at Del Mar last week are supposed to be a part of the trunkload that formed the basis of the first prosecution.

"Jones" was once a practicing dentist in the City of Mexico.

RUBBER NECK CAPITAL HERE.

Operators of Sight-seeing Cars Come to Learn Latest Methods.

When the "rubber neck" wagons were originated in New York, many of the tips on their operation were sent out from that community. The "rubber-neck" capital has changed from the far East to the distant West. When information about the latest wrinkles in bus operation for sight-seers is wanted, the seekers for knowledge come here.

Charles Asher, who is the pioneer sight-seeing bus man of San Francisco, is at the Hotel Angelus while finding out something of the latest plans of local operators.

"I would willingly wager that there are more sight-seers in this community right now than in any city in the world, not barring my home town," he stated.

JAIL TERM TIMED TO LAST MINUTE.

STRANGE PENALTY IS PAID BY HOT-TEMPERED MAN.

Fined Five Dollars, He Launches Long Tirade at Court—Then Forfeits Money and Goes to Jail for Twenty-three and Three-quarters Hours.

"Ten-fifty," called a jailer in the County Jail yesterday.

"Four minutes yet," said a man with the heavy keys.

Shortly afterwards came the call: "Ten-fifty-two."

"It will only take one minute to let him out."

And then came the call: "Ten-fifty-three."

The man with the keys hurried to a cell, and exactly one minute later, at 10:54 J. A. Dunham, a Long Beach clothes presser, was released from the jail, having served one of the strangest sentences ever imposed—thirty-two hours and forty-five minutes in the jail.

Dunham had paid $5 for fifteen minutes of freedom. He was arrested in Long Beach on a charge of having violated the city ordinance there affecting the proprietors of cleaning and pressing establishments.

Justice Hawkins of Long Beach found him guilty and imposed a fine of $5.

Long, loud and vehement was Dunham's protest. He did not argue; he merely exclaimed or perhaps commented, using expletives and even less gentle words to express his opinion of the justice.

It took him fifteen minutes to finish his tirade. Justice Hawkins watched the clock.

"You have taken fifteen minutes of the court's time," said the justice, "in an absurd exhibition of anger. That will cost you $5, as you were free during that interval. And now I sentence you to serve twenty-three hours and forty-five minutes in jail."

SUES ON SHARES.

Henry A. Moss, receiver of the Royal Chemical Company, a St. Paul (Minn.) corporation has brought an action against F. W. Fiegenbaum to recover $20,770, alleged to be due on 2077 shares of the capital stock. It is alleged the defendant accepted the shares, and that they were worth $10 each.

APPOINTED DEPUTY.

W. E. Cavanaugh, of Santa Monica, has been appointed a deputy in the office of United States Marshal C. T. Walton, succeeding Fenton G. Thompson, who tendered his resignation. Cavanaugh was at one time a captain of the Santa Monica police, and recently has been working as one of the Keystone movie police.

IN FAIRYLAND.

Hundreds of characters of Fairyland were represented in the march that preceded the initial dance of the attendants at the Allied Carnival in Shrine auditorium. In the history of the world which shall be written after the close of the present war there may be many pages which should be blue-penciled before being placed in the hands of children, but the guardians of youth should see to it that no fairy story ever goes out of print.

A KIND-HEARTED TICK.

A Lassen county man was awarded $144 by the State Industrial Accident Commission to remunerate him for the sufferings caused by a tick bite, the tick having attacked him while he was out killing coyotes by order of the State Board of Health. The hunter probably killed the tick. He should have pensioned it. In the first place it is a crying shame that the State budget does not provide for the treatment of sick and wounded insects; but, since it doesn't, surely this hunter should be grateful enough to establish a home for superannuated ticks.

YOUNG VOLUNTEERS.

Two thousand boy scouts in Los Angeles county are ready to offer the government their services in any possible capacity in case of need. If the Boy Scout movement were productive of no other good than the love of country it has instilled in the heart of young America it would still be worth all that it has cost. It may be that the American Boy Scouts may never be called upon to aid the national military organization in any way, yet the discipline they are receiving along mental, moral and physical lines is preparing them for ideal citizenship. Patriotism is worth just as much in times of peace as in times of war.

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

The Arizona Legislature has doubled the appropriation for the common schools of the State. Not in canals or dikes, railroads, bridges, parks or pikes can a State expend its money to so great an advantage as in the education of its youth. Money spent for education means less crime, fewer jails, fewer officers, greater efficiency in every department of social and political life, better brains and bodies for generations to come. Money spent for education is money which the State loans to itself at a rate of interest impossible to compute, but an interest which is certain to be returned with thanksgiving.

HE DONE HIS DUTY.

When Gov. Emanuel L. Philipp of Wisconsin was asked as to the attitude of his State in the present crisis, he outstretched, or rather upstretched, himself to the full length of him, upraised his puissant right arm and, in a basso profundo voice, exclaimed, "Wisconsin will do its duty."

When Jerry Rusk was Governor of the Badger State, there was a riot in Milwaukee. His Excellency led a regiment from Madison down to the Fair White City and quelled the riot. On his return he was greeted by a crowd of friends and admirers who cheered him tumultuously. "Oh," said Uncle Jerry, in response to their cries, "it was nuthin'. I went to Milwaukee and conditions was awful. But I seen my duty and I done it."

Could Cicero or Bonaparte have done more?

HAVE YOU MILLIONS TO WASTE?

This is no time for the Los Angeles people to vote for more bonds, and, even if it were, it would be folly for them to burden themselves with an expense of $4,450,000 for an undertaking like this reckless flood-control plan which has been so unmercifully condemned by a board of engineers as certain to result in failure if tried.

This flood-control bond proposition comes before the people with doubt written all over its face. It is fathered by the county's Supervisors, but they are by no means a unit in its favor. One member of the board has, indeed, campaigned actively against the bonds, and two other members are lukewarm. The bond proposition is really Chairman Hamilton's baby.

The proposals of Engineer Reagan have been condemned as inadequate by three equally competent experts. They declare much of the work contemplated will be largely of a temporary character, meaning to say it will have to be done over again. To prevent that waste it is desirable to defeat the bonds.

And voters, ladies and gentlemen, hit 'em so hard that other people who are thinking of asking you to vote bonds will take notice.

A protest was filed in Congress against the counting of a majority vote in the Electoral College for Woodrow Wilson, on the ground that the Constitution provides that when, for any reason, the right of suffrage has been denied to the voter, a corresponding reduction in the Electoral College must be made. The protest did not amount to anything, but some day that question is going to be settled in this country.

The Pope is now about to move for peace. Well, he has his hand in. He has tried it several times.

THE UNPROTECTED PACIFIC COAST.

No city in the United States has a more direct personal interest in military preparedness than Los Angeles; no State a more vital interest in national defense than California.

In the event of a foreign invasion of American soil, this would probably be the first city to see an enemy's soldiers in its streets.

The present condition of our nakedness to our enemies is appalling. The Pacific Coast is practically stripped of naval defense. With the exception of a few slow torpedo boats and a few ancient reserve cruisers, all the naval strength of the nation is concentrated on the Atlantic Coast. In the event of an attack on this side of the country, our hope lies in the condition of the Panama Canal. If it should be closed by a landslide, or if an enemy should designedly block it up, this coast would be almost helpless.

Of land defenses we have almost none. There isn't an army post south of Monterey. The garrison of the tiny artillery post at San Diego represents the total armed strength of this, the most exposed section of the United States.

It is clear that we will never get adequate protection until we go after it—and with vigor. Congress ought to have a vigilant eye upon the exposed spots of the country's armor. Congress ought to follow the advice of the army. Place forts where forts are needed. Station soldiers with the single purpose of serving the nation's need. But the fact is, Congress is governed to a painful degree by hay contracts, pork barrel opportunities and the main chance. If this section gets the needed military protection it will only be because we have gone after it with such vigor that Congress yields to the pressure.

There is no value in rushing back to Washington and raising the weary echoes with our wails and cries. There are so many other wails that ours will never be distinguished above the general din.

We must first decide exactly what is needed for the adequate defense of the shores and cities in Southern California. In coming to this understanding, we must take the advice of recognized military authorities. Amateur strategists will only make us ridiculous and result in the loss of our case. The army knows what ought to be done.

Having once made up our minds, specifically and finally, what it is that we want, let us lay patient siege to Congress. These things are not gained in a day.

The most important act of this siege-laying is the selection of a strong delegation from California in Congress. As a general thing, we lack strong men in Congress from this State. And they are too varied in hue. No Congressional representation made up of a mixed assortment of Republicans, Democrats, Union Laborites, Independents, Prohibitionists and political what-nots, is likely to get anything or have any influence in Washington.

Only by sending back to the capital a closely knit Congressional delegation who are in a position to do team work will we finally get the protection that the safety of Los Angeles absolutely demands.

Meanwhile let a delegation of citizens go into camp at Washington and put up a fight for the safety of the Pacific Coast. WE MUST BE PREPARED!

MORALS EFFICIENCY.

When the Morals Efficiency Association met for a banquet on Thursday evening, Dist.-Atty. Woolwine was the chief speaker, and he told them some things that were scarcely compatible with their recently-declared policy.

The association has recently started a new campaign for the more rigid enforcement of the Red Light Abatement Act. That in effect, under present conditions, means the hunting of oppressed women. And it is doubtful, indeed, whether an evil can be eradicated by punishing only the victim. But there was a certain confused surprise obvious on the faces of his hearers when Mr. Woolwine said that these women were our sisters, walking in lonely, loveless ways of life. [Stolid silence!]

He went on to point out that our Red Light Abatement Act enforces penalties unheard of in any other part of the country; that far from attaining its object, it is as often as not the means of taking away the good character of entirely worthy citizens, of which he gave instances.

"Los Angeles is one of the cleanest cities in the country for its size," declared the District Attorney, at which an ireful voice shouted "No." But he sternly reiterated his belief. While declaring that it was the duty to enforce the law as it stood, he decried many of its anomalies.

There was reason, understanding, mercy, justice in the District Attorney's speech, but if they were to believe him, the people of the Morals Efficiency Association could not justify its being. The meeting greatly preferred the remarks of Dr. Barton, its secretary, who, purporting to speak for Mayor Woodman, drew a direful picture of "our young girls going down to destruction for the lack of a few dollars" to get the necessary evidence against them.

By which one must suppose that the money subscribed to the association is for the purpose of enlarging the army of paid tempters, stool-pigeons and spies which are already a disgrace to the system. Anyone who has sat through a few hearings of the woman's court must appreciate how despicable a thing is this paid-tempter system. The women's clubs are stern in their denunciation of the method by which our city-paid plainclothes men are sent out to win the confidence of unfortunate women, decoy them into breaking the Red Light Abatement Act, and then arresting them, their co-sinners being rarely, if ever, brought before the court. The Morals Efficiency Association itself has long pages of records of cases in which arrests were made, when the man was let off with a $10 bail, which he was expected to skip, and the women sent to jail. And the fact that the plea in such cases is that the man is married and it would hurt his wife and children is scarcely convincing. It was up to the man himself to think of the wife and children before the act. And there is less excuse for a married than a single man in such cases.

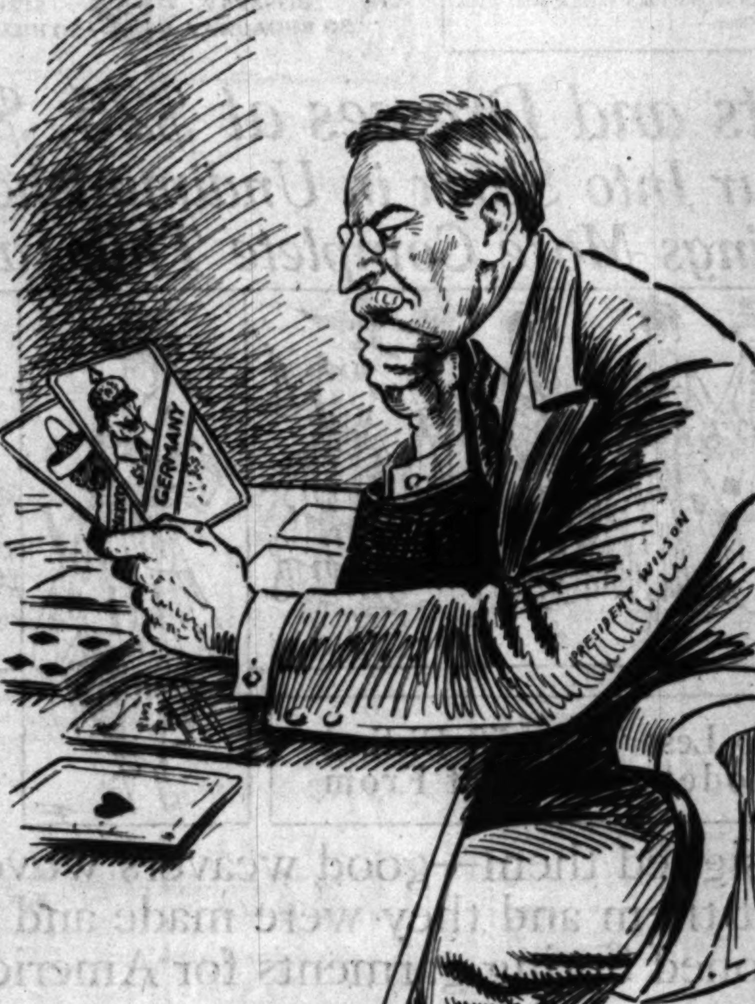
One evil that the system fosters is that of placing the women victims at the mercy of the disreputable lawyer. All lawyers engaged in this sort of work may not be disreputable, but it is a paltry business at its best. Scores and scores of complaints investigated by a member of The Times staff would seem to indicate that several attorneys in this city regard the woman victim as legitimate prey. They have the victim at their mercy, and the amount of their worldly possessions is the exact amount of his fee.

And his fee for what? His defense when she is guilty is or should be superfluous. And when she is innocent, it is preposterous that it should prove so costly to prove it.

For which reason the bill before the Legislature to provide public defenders in all courts meets with the enthusiastic approval of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

One can well appreciate that a Morals Efficiency Association has justification for being, if it will attack this sort of immorality. The mere persecution and trapping of the victim for the benefit of the shyster attorney is not efficiency, nor anything like it. It is collusion and injustice.

A Difficult Hand to Play.



MORE COMMISSIONS, MORE GRAFT.

Judging from the number of new commissions named in bills introduced during the first half of the 1917 legislative session, government by commission in California is only in its infancy. Thirty-five new commissions are proposed; their estimated cost is more than $3,000,000 a year; some are bloated commissions that would handle millions of dollars annually; some are just little petty larceny bureaus which would take care of but four or five deputies and cost but a few thousands. But in all the principle is the same; every profitable line of industry and amusement is to be placed under regulation by some commission or bureau; politics is to be injected into business to the extent that every business man and corporation will be forced into politics for self-protection.

It is not enough that California is now the heaviest-taxed State for its population in the United States; it is not enough that the administration budget increases the cost of government under our present bureaus and commissions $5,700,000 over that of two years ago; a whole drove of new commissions is proposed which would entail a 20 per cent. addition to the number of State employees. New and extraordinary taxes are proposed to pay the freight.

In the whole list there is not a single commission that would tend to increase productivity or cheapen the cost of production in any line of industry; every one of them provides a new avenue for spending money. They force the producers of the State to pay more money in taxes and licenses; they withdraw so many units of labor from the producing class and place them on the State pay roll where they become so many parasites feeding on those who toil; they place a premium upon idleness and a tax upon thrift.

Bills creating some of the more formidable commissions have been introduced by the lackeys of the State administration, and an attempt will be made to force them through the Legislature as administration measures. Each commission carries with it a new tax on the industry which it is supposed to regulate and some of these are formidable indeed.

Assemblyman Baldwin has introduced a bill, drawn by the State Tax Commission, providing for an extraordinary tax on the "unearned increment" in land values. This act would affect every parcel of land in the State, whether country acreage or city lot. It provides that, in addition to all taxes now levied, a special tax shall be levied each year on every piece of property that has increased in value by reason of the general prosperity of the community in which it is located. That is to say, the owner of a house and lot valued three years ago at $5000 and this year at $6000 would have to pay a special tax on that increase. The rates are so adjusted that it would be impossible to make money by buying a piece of property and holding it for a rise in values, regardless of the fact that the land would be used as business, residential or agricultural property while held.

A special commission, a dynasty in itself, would have a monopoly on the profits accruing from the increase in value in real estate in California. All the receipts would go into a strong box of which this commission would hold the key. The money could not even be applied to defray the cost of our public schools and our penal and medical institutions; it would not reduce taxes now paid, but would create a new fund for the support and luxury of the State machine.

As a companion to this commission on "unearned increments" there is to be another commission known as the Land Colonization Commission. This commission is to start with an appropriation of $260,000 for the purpose of buying tracts of land, subdividing them and selling at an increased rate to private buyers. The land so taken would be withdrawn from all taxation, city, county and State. There would be no unearned increment to look after, and it would be subject to neither income nor inheritance tax. Naturally, it would be impossible for private owners or corporations to compete with this State-favored dynasty, and land colonization and tract subdivision would be wholly in the hands of this State bureau.

Taken in conjunction, the two commissions would be able jointly to force the worst features of the "single tax" upon the State, and the only beneficiaries would be the pay-roll brigade. Both these bills are already labeled "administration measures." The "unearned increment" act is to be referred to as a "tax upon the rich." It contains a $5000 exemption which applies only when the land is improved and used as a home site by the owner. Once the act is in force, however, that $5000 exemption can easily be amended, just as a Democratic Congress has recently passed a revenue bill in which it empowers the President to lower the exemption on incomes if he deems it desirable. Like the income tax, the unearned increment tax would be a tax, not upon the rich, but upon industry and thrift.

These two commissions are considered in detail, not because they are worse than a score of others, but because they illustrate so well the trend of the legislation proposed in the 1917 California Legislature. There are other big commissions that would enforce acts providing for old-age pensions, annuity pensions, social insurance and the like. Then there are little commissions, a "Weed Commission," a Seed Commission," an "Apple Commission," a Commission on Athletic Amusements, a Commission to Investigate the Sale and Consumption of Liquor. It is even proposed to repeal the anti-racing bill in order that a Racing Commission may be created.

There is no limit in these bills to the army of deputies, attorneys, clerks and stenographers these commissions can employ. They are to appoint as many assistants as they see fit. The appropriations made when they are named is no check on their extravagance, for a complaisant Legislature always passes emergency bills to make up the deficits. The present Legislature passed $385,000 in emergency appropriations to make up for the overdrafts of the State bureaus and commissions last year.

Apparently, the word "economy" has been stricken from the legislative lexicon. A new saturnalia of greed and extravagance is under way; the State machine is running full speed down grade, and the joy-riders have clogged the brakes.

Revival of Tatting.

[Ohio State Journal:] We see that tatting has been revived in our best circles, but we don't suppose it will be any more difficult for a thoughtful man to hold his wife's undivided attention as he discusses the tariff in its various aspects and ramifications than it has been under the filet-crochet regime.

Miss Law, the aviator, is of the opinion that the trip from New York to San Francisco can be made by airplane in three days, or less if a relief driver should be furnished. And we know of some airmen who are ungallant enough to allow her to make the experiment.

HITS AND MISSES BY OTHER PAPERS.

Two Can Play It.

[Baltimore American:] The boycott is a game at which two can play, and, perhaps, in a way to make the one who started it cry quits.

When Genius Is Spurred.

[Rochester Herald:] Paint men say that the supply of dyes and colors has increased 500 per cent. in a year. That proves what American ingenuity can do when it has to.

Another Flower Distinguished.

[Brooklyn Eagle:] Every movement needs a flower for its buttonhole. The Food Price Reduction Combine can make only one logical selection, the blossom called in New England "Butter an' Eggs." It is not a hothouse bloom, but abhors cold storage as do the agitators who would wear it.

Reason for High Prices.

[Philadelphia Bulletin:] It would not be in accord with fact to say that speculation is responsible for the advance in the cost of wheat, or of other food supplies, in its entirety, but it is a fact, discreditable to the boasted capacity of government in this country, that a considerable percentage of the increased cost is due to the fact that this necessary sustenance of the nation is in large part being used as stakes in a betting ring and is kept out of the normal channels of supply and distribution.

Bernstorff Has Enough.

[Boston Transcript:] The Kaiser is grateful and has rewarded Bernstorff with the Iron Cross with the white ribbon, as he has others who have been the instrument of violation of American rights. This should be enough for the retiring diplomat. Let him not be burdened with sympathy engendered by the passion for triviality which recent events seem to have inspired in certain newspapers and individuals.

Time to Keep Calm.

[Washington Star:] The business world has no sorrows that arbitration cannot heal. Give and take is the law of all useful activity. Capital must consult the interests of labor, and labor the interests of capital, and both the interests of the public. "My terms, or your life," is as reprehensible an order as "your money, or your life." Profitable business is not conducted in that way. The strength of a country is not increased in that way. Good citizenship is not encouraged in that way. We are all in the same boat; and it is equally the duty of all to keep the craft well trimmed and seaworthy, in times of calm as well as in times of storm.

The Inevitable Readjustment.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat:] The industrial readjustment is inevitable. It may be better to have it come gradually. In so far as it may bring a reduction of wages it will come at a peculiarly unfortunate time. The cost of living is the highest this country has known in a generation, and there is little prospect of immediate relief. But as long as the war lasts there will be a continued demand for many of our products, aside from foodstuffs. A gradual readjustment will not bring the shock that a sudden shutting off of our export trade would cause. But the situation is critical and it demands the best thought the business world can give it.

The Terms of Peace.

[New York Sun:] The sincerity of the demands formulated by the Allies can no more be doubted now in Germany or Austria-Hungary than their severity. The very fact of their severity, under the present circumstances, must be regarded there as proof of their sincerity. To whatever extent the suffering and patriotic Teuton peoples within the lines of the Central Powers have been kept in ignorance of this main fact—this immovable and irreducible fact of the steadfast resolution of their adversaries to consent to no peace short of a permanent peace with full reparation and adequate guarantees for the future—it is now made clear to their minds in its full significance by President Wilson's well-timed initiative.

England's War Bread.

[New York World:] England also, like Germany, has a war bread, but she calls it standard or regulation bread, and it is made of what is known as straight-run flour in which part of what has heretofore been known as offals is used. It is provided also that not more than 76 per cent. of the whole wheat is to be used, which makes it different from our American whole-wheat bread. The millers are also trying to agree upon a name for the new flour, and among the names suggested or used by some are "Early Victorian," "Seventy-five," "Abundance" and "Waterloo." The latter name would make a parallel to France's "Bread of Victory." In both cases the new bread is preferable to the old in its dietetic values.

Why Bread Goes Stale.

[Baltimore Star:] An interesting study has just been made of how and why bread grows stale. Contrary to popular impression, staleness in bread is not merely a drying out. Bread will grow stale if kept in a damp box. The staling is due to the fact that the starch grains in the bread harden and dry, even if the air is moist, the moisture going over to the grains of gluten. The nutritive constituents of the starch are changed from a soluble condition to a more insoluble one. All this is the exact opposite of the process that goes on in baking. As a result of the character of the baking process bread may be kept perfectly fresh for twenty-four hours by keeping it at a temperature of 108 deg. Fahr. The digestibility of stale bread is due to the fact that it has to be thoroughly chewed before it can be swallowed.

The local postoffice inspectors have abandoned all efforts to locate the wretch who sent those dynamite cigars through the mails. They have discovered that they were no worse than the kind the fellows who bet on Wilson's election got.

CHILE CON CARNAGE.

BEING THE PARTICULAR PEPPER IN SOME PERSONAL OPINIONS

Of Don Ye de Chiltepin.

An epigram would always rather be Smart than Right. It has to be near-right, but it still more has to be Catching.

Madame de Stael was no exception when she said: "The more I know men, the more I love dogs." And she did not altogether disdain the biped breed, either!

Myself, I would amend to read: "The more men and dogs I know, the more I love a few of them." But that would never make an immortal epigram—it's too long and too precise.

But I can say heartily that the more I read modern authors, the gladder I am that I Don't Have To! And the gladder that in musty volumes we can still find proof that there was a time when only they that Could Write Did, and only they that did write could. A Smell of the average modern book suffices me. Some stink. Some have no smell, good or bad—and a Book without a Bouquet, what's it for, anyhow?

When I get tired of the day, all I have to do is to reach for my "Revolver" and "shoot the lights" out of the Present with some book of true aim from that wheeling bookcase. I can grab almost any book there, and open it at random—and in five minutes I've forgotten (and almost forgiven) Today.

Of course the little limp-leather King James gets the most wear-and-tear—its The Book, though I hold no brief for its superstitions. And William of Avon, and Homer, and Dante, and Poe—why then I'm Alive again, instead of just Going Through the Motions of modern existence!

Tonight I chanced to thumb that sad wag the Earl of Rochester who added to the gayety of nations 250 years ago—and wrote the cleverest epitaph ever given a king alive or dead. His king was very much alive—witty, dissolute, futile. And Rochester penciled on the door of the bedchamber of Charles II:

"Here lies our sovereign lord the King,
Whose word no man relies on;
Who never says a foolish thing,
  Nor ever does a wise one."

It wasn't carved on Charles's tomb—but it is branded on his memory.

* * *

And the slyness of this other of Rochester:

"It's a very good world to live in,
To lend or to spend or to give in;
But to beg or to borrow or to get a man's own—
It's the very worst world that ever was known."

Anybody here present remember any worse world? Or any better?

Oliver Cromwell cut more necks in England than figure in our literature. He was about as sour and dour a man as history records, and did as little as any to enrich our sayings. But he did leave us one good word—at least, Col. Blacker says so. It has been attributed to American heroes; but it was undoubtedly "Nollie" who first said (as his men were about to ford a river and fight on the other side:)

"Put your trust in God, my boys,
And keep your powder dry!"

That isn't a bad word today. The Aitch of it is that we "ain't got no powder." Nor much of anything else. Are you aware that when the government sent an engineer, at the beginning of the Spanish war, to mine New York Harbor, he couldn't find a mine in this country; and being the Man for the Job, he made the mines himself—of what do you think? The "mining" this government provided for the chief port of the United States was—Thirteen Beer Kegs! But a Man had done the rest—and the beer kegs were efficient mines.

Would any little thing like this cause you to Think?

And on the same shelf with Rochester was another breed of cats in the way of Rememberings. I had almost forgotten about Privateers—though an ancestor of mine, the founder of the American Navy, was one.

We called 'em "Corsairs" or "Pirates"—if they were the Other Fellow.

U-Boats are new, but not their practices. A little over seventy-five years ago, French privateers snagged so many American ships that President Andrew Jackson—the "Teddy" of his day—seized an equal number of peaceful French ships. And we came near having war with France about it.

And in 1862, when our North and South were in the death-grapple, Great Britain was at peace with America.

Nor will you need to sprain your Remembery to recall that in our Crisis the only thing that saved this Nation from dismemberment was the fact that while the natural desire of British "Statesmen" was (for obvious commercial reasons) to pit two rival American republics one against the other, the slow, thick instinct of the British nation was a stone wall against which the politicians butted their heads in vain.

You may also remember that so early as 1818 the United States and Great Britain had passed laws forbidding filibustering against a friendly nation, by land or sea; and making it the duty of the government to prevent such piracy. Also, that the Convention of Paris in 1856 abolished privateering; and that this had become a world-recognized tenet of international law. The United States did not happen to be a signatory; but it recognized the pact then, and has never since broken it.

FROLIC TO GREET PICO BOULEVARD'S OPENING.

People of Los Angeles, North Beaches and the County Generally will Join in Parade and Celebration Thursday Because of Completion of Needed New Air-line Outlet to the Sea.

The opening of the high-line, air-line Pico boulevard will be celebrated next Thursday with parade from Los Angeles to Santa Monica and a celebration at the beach city in which the people of Santa Monica, Sawtelle and Los Angeles county generally will participate.

The beautiful highway has been the dream of business men for many years. The first move was made nearly seven years ago, when an effort was made to widen, pave and otherwise improve Fremont avenue in Santa Monica. It was understood that when this ocean outlet was secured, the Supervisors would construct the balance of the road.

The advantages of the short-cut boulevard to the sea were so obvious that in spite of many setbacks, the campaign was continued. Carl [illegible] and other men of Santa Monica and Los Angeles have been working on the project since 1910. The Pico Boulevard Association, of Los Angeles and Santa Monica, was organized in 1913 to take up the work commenced in 1910. In the early part of 1914 rights of way for the entire distance, with the exception of one piece adjoining the city of Sawtelle, were obtained, much labor and energy being expended in getting this work through. The following year a deed for the remaining link was put up to the county and efforts made to have the road built by the Board of Supervisors from the general fund.

MONEY APPROPRIATED.

Owing to the necessity for having this new artery completed to ease the crowded condition of Washington and Wilshire boulevards, the Board of Supervisors on December [illegible] appropriated the funds necessary and started the work on the plans and survey for the boulevard. The contract was let about the middle of 1916 and work has just been completed.

The officers of the Pico Boulevard Association are Sidney L. Briggs, president; Frank H. Ayres, vice-president; A. K. Brauer, treasurer, and Owen E. Wolfe, secretary.

The new boulevard cuts off more than two miles in distance, is on good grade and possesses great scenic advantages. It will relieve the crowded and often times dangerous traffic conditions of Washington and Wilshire boulevards, hitherto the two main arteries of travel to the north beaches.

There are no severe grades. The highway is reached from Los Angeles over paved Pico street, yearly becoming more important as an east-and-west thoroughfare. From the Los Angeles city limits the road runs in almost a direct line to Ocean avenue and what was originally known as Fremont avenue, Santa Monica.

The beach city has changed the name of the latter avenue so that now it is Pico boulevard over the entire distance. The outlet into Santa Monica is into a wide, paved, well-lighted street, giving ready access to Santa Monica, the Palisades, Malibu Canyon, Ocean Park, Venice and Playa del Rey.

PARADE AND FROLIC.

Thursday's celebration will begin with an automobile parade in which it is hoped there will be many hundreds of Los Angeles and Santa Monica cars. The parade will form on Broadway between Eleventh and Twelfth streets and start at 10 o'clock. The line of march will be as follows:

Broadway to Eleventh, to Hill, to Seventh, to Broadway, to First, to Spring, to Main, to Pico and west to Santa Monica, where an entertainment, consisting of band concerts, daylight fireworks and free concessions will be given.

He hurled defiance in the faces of his political enemies when he was the first person to obtain a nominating petition for his candidacy for re-election. He declares the public cannot be fooled and will repudiate the action taken to oust him when they go to the pools in May. President Betkouski of the Council, takes about the same view. He, too, has been attacked for his efforts in turning a real estate deal, but he says his hands are clean and he will vigorously prosecute his campaign for re-election. Both of the officials, however, may run into a snag, according to reports around the City Hall, which are to the effect that the law will not permit them to be candidates.

City Prosecutor Williams will make the race for City Attorney, no matter how many other candidates there are. Yesterday he said he is in the fight to stay. Albert Lee Stephens, the incumbent, is the only one to have secured nominating petitions, but it is said others will be taken out during the present week. Howard Robertson says he wants to run, but will not give it any more thought since his superior officer has entered the race.

W. C. Mushet, former City Auditor, refuses to state positively whether he will be a candidate against Mayor Woodman. He says he does not want to run, but conditions may arise which will compel him to set aside his personal feeling in the matter.

With thirty candidates already in the field for the Council, there surely will be no less than 200 out for the honors before the time expires for securing nominating petitions. As usual, some of the aspirants are unknown outside of their own family circles, but under our foolish primary laws anybody can be a candidate and there is no telling who will face the barrier in May.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE!

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, the bowels and the liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel—there's never any sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result.

Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

Keeps Her Children In Perfect Health

Mrs. Aug. Doellefeld

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin the Family Laxative for Many Years.

Mrs. Aug. Doellefeld of Carlyle, Ill., recently wrote to Dr. Caldwell, at Monticello, Ill., that she has used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in her home for a number of years, and would not be without it, as with it she has been able to keep her four children in perfect health.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that acts on the bowels in an easy, natural way and regulates the action of this most important function. Nearly all the sickness to which children are subject is traceable to bowel inaction, and a mild, dependable laxative such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should have a place in every family medicine chest. It is pleasant to the taste, and children like it and take it readily, while it is equally effective for adults.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold in drug stores everywhere for fifty cents a bottle. To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure you get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a facsimile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

"BRAINS" OF MAC ARTHUR NEXT BIG DEFENSE JOB.

Elaborate and Intricate Fire-control System for Our Great Guns.

FORT MAC ARTHUR, the most modern sea-coast fortification on this side of the Pacific, has just entered upon its most interesting stage of construction. The "muscles and bones" are well toward completion. Now comes the job on the brain and nerve system.

The "muscles and bones" of Fort MacArthur are her big guns and mortars—her massive emplacements and powerful electric motors. Without the fire control system—the range-finding and plotting apparatus, the intricate system of telephone and telautograph communication, and the methodical time-interval gong that strikes simultaneously in each emplacement and station every fifteen seconds to co-ordinate the activities of each man—without these, the guns and mortars would be as ineffective as a man without brain and nerve centers to direct his activities.

The first step toward the installation of Fort MacArthur's fire control system was taken when a party of government engineers recently selected sites for fire-control stations. Strategic considerations, as to the most probable point and method of attack, enter largely into the selection of station sites and make advantageous location of prime importance.

WHAT IT MEANS.

Under the broad term of fire control system is included all stations, apparatus, signaling devices, searchlights, and lines of communication used in obtaining, correcting, and transmitting orders and information relative to the position of targets and the manner in which the various guns, mortars and mines are to attack.

Probably the first thing to be done at Fort MacArthur will be the construction of stations and the laying of telephone and telautograph cables. There will probably be more than twenty stations, including primary and secondary observing stations, a range or plotting station, and a battery commander's station for each battery. There will also be a fort commander's station, three fire commanders' stations, including one for the mine commander, three or more searchlight stations, and probably two observing and one range station for each fire commander. In addition there are meteorological and tide stations.

The stations, with the exception of the tide station, will be unimposing one-story box-like structures of steel perched on steel or concrete bases sufficiently high to barely command a view of the field of fire. Usually they are about twenty feet square for fire command and plotting stations and ten to fourteen feet square for observing and other stations. Frequently the primary observing station and the plotting station of a battery are combined. Stations are usually reached by a spiral stairway. In each observing station a reinforced concrete or heavy steel pillar, extending down to bed-rock must be provided as a base for the depression position finder, as an exploding shell or the jar from the discharge of a heavy gun would otherwise throw the instrument out of adjustment.

After the plans for the stations are complete, engineers will ascertain the exact elevation above mean low water of each depression position finder. They will then compute by triangulation the exact distance to two fixed objects or "datum points" in the field of fire.

From these figures they will, by trigonometry, work out the proper scale of calibrating the revolving range drum of the position finder. This range drum is a cylindrical affair, tapering from about eight inches to about six inches in diameter. It is calibrated to translate angles of depression into plain everyday figures in yards.

As the angular coefficient for a given range varies, according to the variation in the height of the instrument, each position finder must be calibrated according to its individual altitude above sea level. The instrument, when mounted on its base and adjusted by focusing the cross hair on one of the datum points and then arbitrarily setting the proper range on the range drum, will read the range to any point on which it can be focused within the limits of the range drum. Another fire-control mechanism that requires special individual adjustment, construction and calibration for each battery, is the plotting board. A plotting board is a semicircular table on which the exact position of the guns, and the primary and secondary observing station, is fixed on a composition-nonshrinking metal base. Everything is drawn to exact scale and even the variation of ordinary metal under different degrees of temperature would throw the whole apparatus out of adjustment.

Prominent among the various fire-control apparatus is the time-range board, which makes corrections for variations in range, due to height of tide, atmospheric density, variations in muzzle velocity of the projectile, direction and velocity of wind, etc., and also determines the "prediction point" or distance the target will travel during one observing interval; i. e., between strokes of the time interval gong which starts activities anew each fifteen seconds.

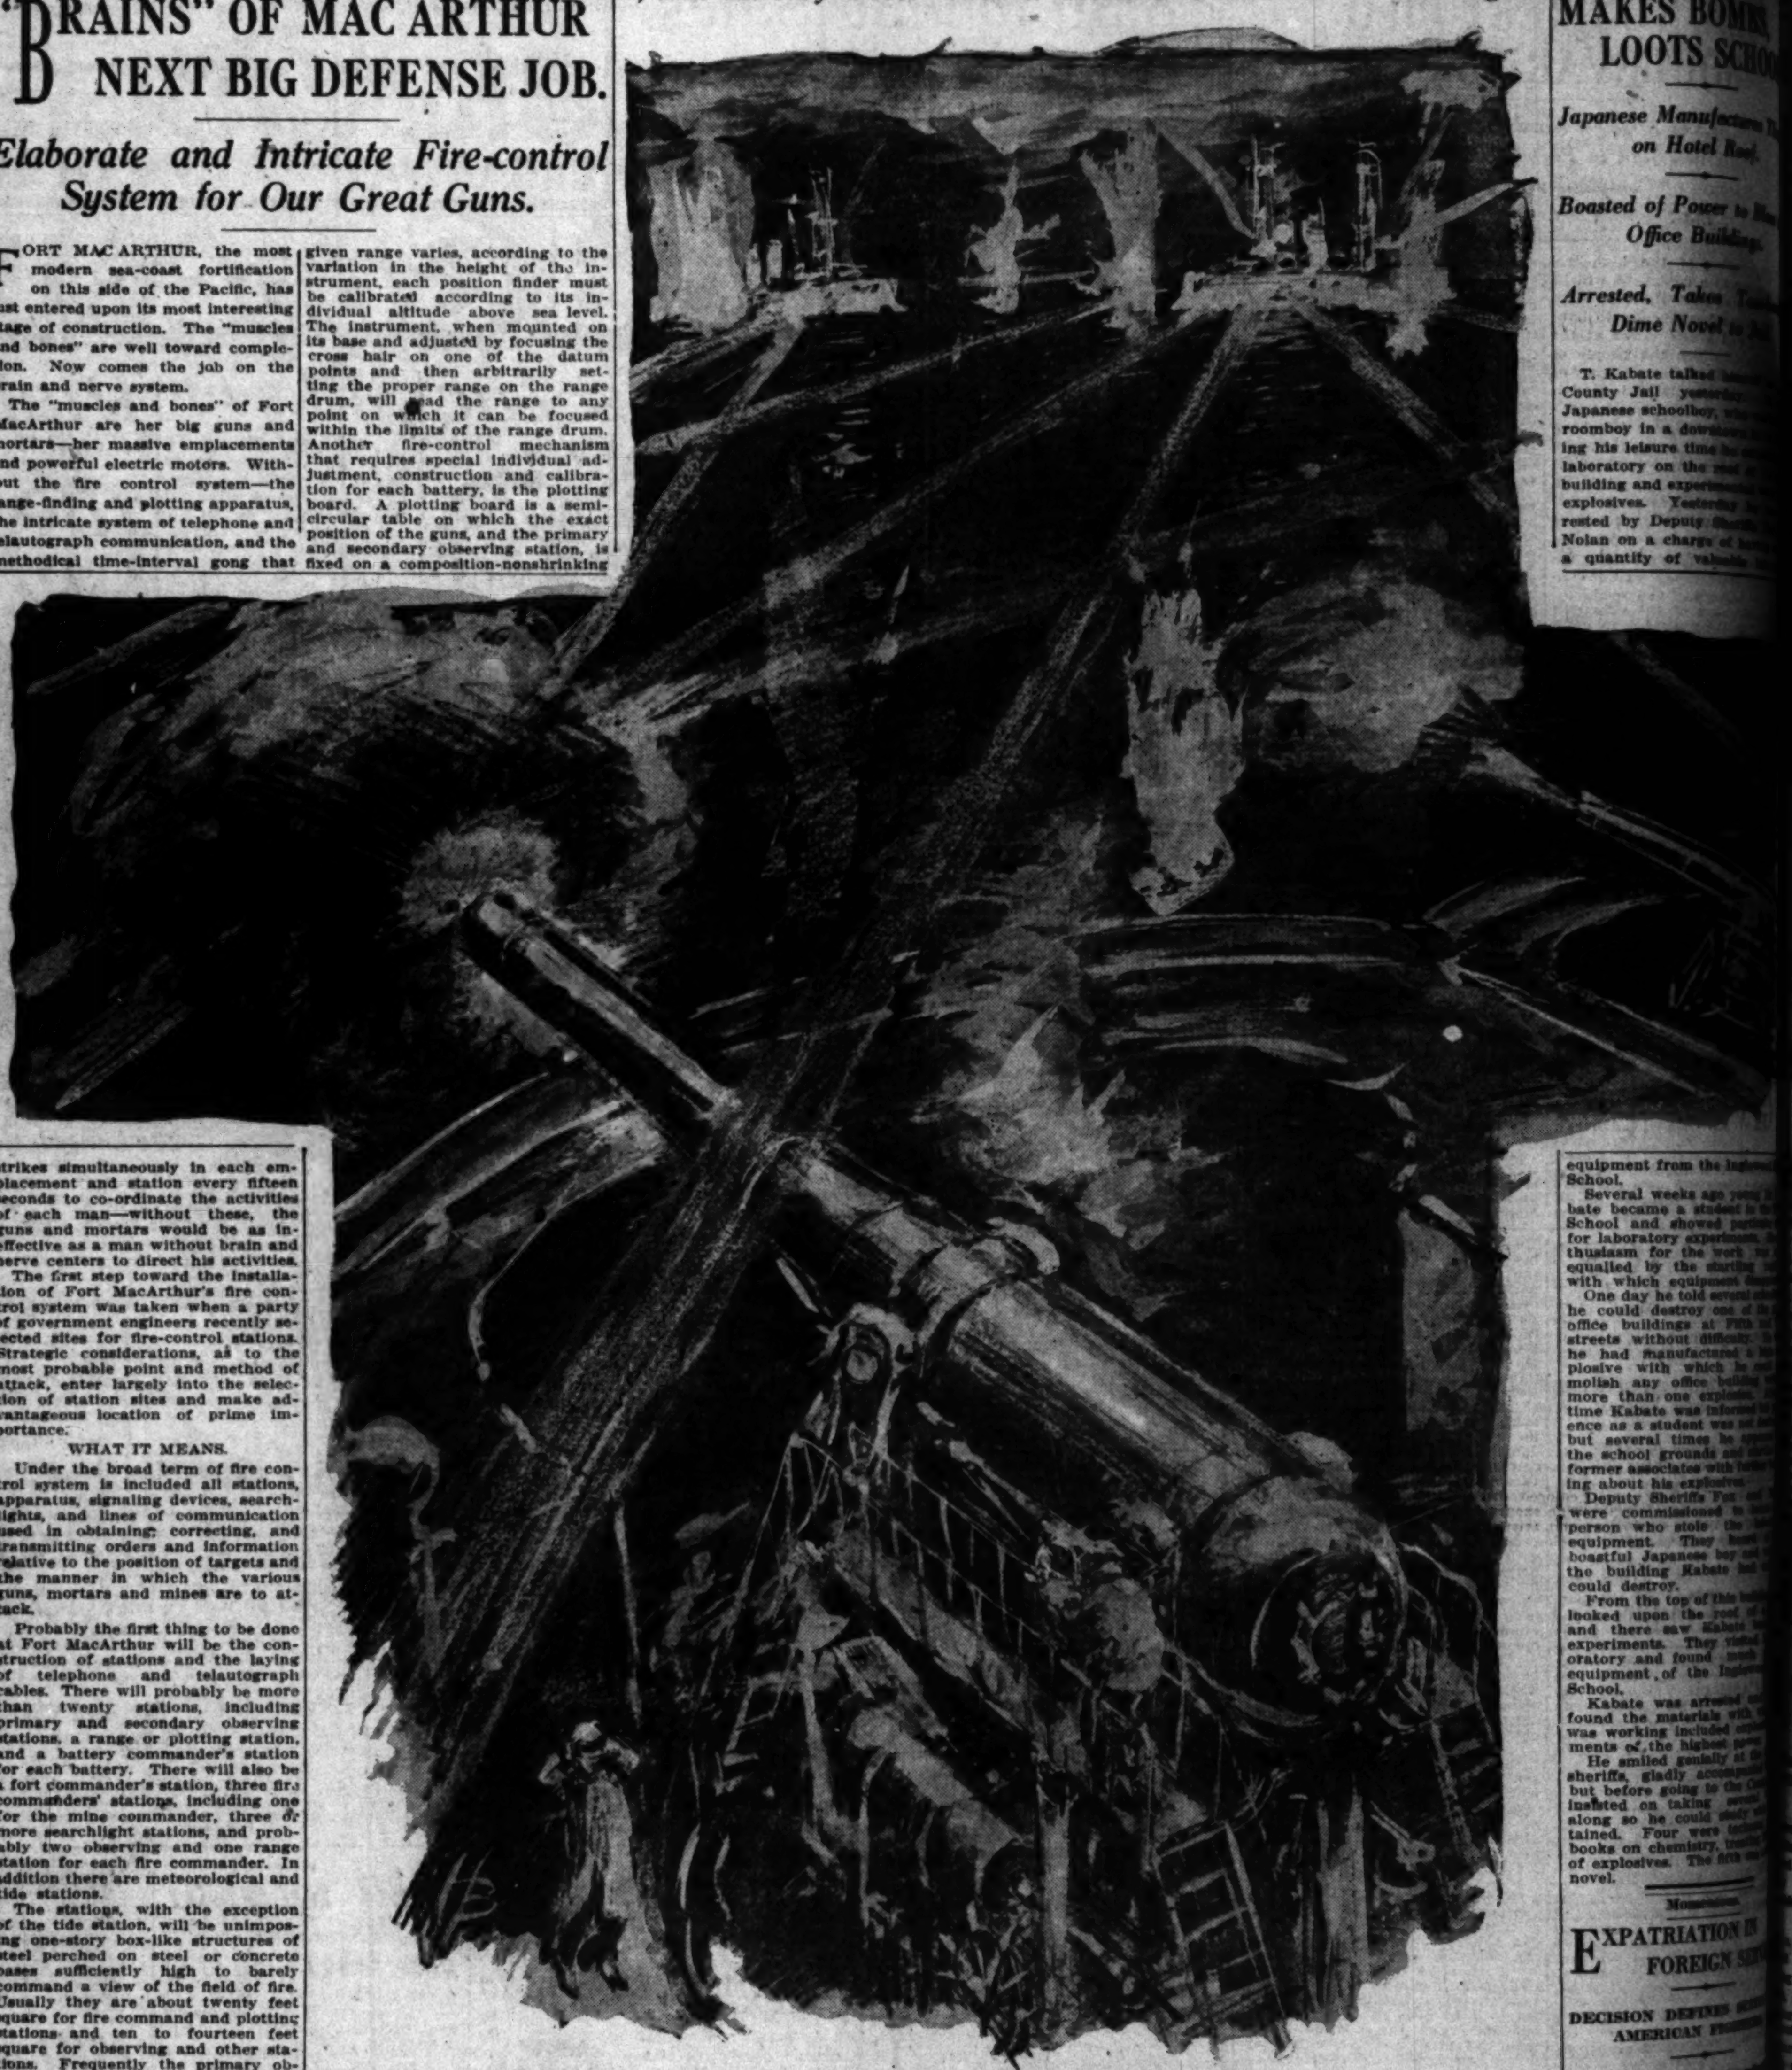
There is also a wind component indicator, which works out reference numbers to be set on the time-range board dial for wind correction. Data for the wind component indicator is obtained from the meterological station. Another device is the deflection board on which is worked out corrections in azimuth that must be set off on the deflection scale of the gun-pointer's telescopic sight, to compensate for the effect of windage and the drift of the projectile due to the rotary motion imparted by the rifling of the bore of the gun.

HOST OF TELEPHONES.

A detailed description of the various devices used would fill a small volume. At Fort MacArthur there will be approximately 125 direct-trunk telephones in use by operators of the fire control apparatus. There will also be several telautographs. In addition to the apparatus used by the gun companies, the mortar batteries and mine casemates have special appliances too numerous to mention. A modern mine station includes a complete electric plant and duplicate sets of storage batteries in its equipment.

While every piece of fire-control apparatus is an integral part of the system, and the loss of even one link would destroy the chain that makes for greatest accuracy, a battery is never out of action as long as one line of communication, one position finder and one gun remains serviceable. That is one of the triumphs of modern artillery.

If An Enemy Fleet Should Attack Our Harbor at Night.



Imaginative engagement between Fort MacArthur and hostile war vessels.

The battle is supposed to occur at night, when the tremendous searchlights which will be a part of the fort's equipment would be used to seek out the attacking ships and keep them constantly illuminated as targets for the men handling the huge Coast defense rifles and mortars.

Ordered Here.

RIGID ENFORCEMENT OF ACT TO HOLD SHIPPING.

COLLECTOR OF CUSTOMS ELLIOTT yesterday advised the deputy collectors at San Pedro and San Diego that the proclamation of President Wilson, indicating an emergency in the water transportation of the United States, must be strictly enforced.

The executive order provides that no vessel registered, or enrolled and licensed under the laws of the United States, shall, without the approval of the United States Shipping Board, be sold, leased or chartered to any person not a citizen of the United States, or transferred to a foreign registry or flag.

Ship owners of the country have been permitting their vessels to change to alien registers and foreign trade, in which this country does not participate, and from which they cannot be bought back to serve American water-borne commerce without the permission of foreign governments.

The President in his order states that there exists a national emergency from the insufficiency of maritime tonnage to carry the products of farms, forests, mines and manufacturing industries of the United States to consumers abroad and within the country.

The order will be of considerable importance to the ports within this collection district, where the sale and transfer of vessels is continually going on. Hereafter none can be transferred to alien ownership without consent of the government.

U.S.S. CHEYENNE HOME AFTER MANY MISHAPS.

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, Feb. 17.—After a series of accidents that delayed her arrival for several months, the U.S.S. Cheyenne, mother ship for the H group of submarines, finally put into port tonight. Last summer the Cheyenne left here to convoy the three submarines H-1, H-2 and H-3 to Bremerton for their annual overhauling. After several weeks' work there the fleet started on the return trip.

No sooner was the Cheyenne well out to sea than she lost her propeller. This necessitated her returning to the navy yard and it was several weeks later before the vessels again put to sea bound for this port. Then the H-3 went ashore north of Eureka and another delay was encountered. The last of the series of unfortunate accidents of the voyage, came when the $7,000,000 cruiser Milwaukee was dispatched to pull the H-3 off the beach and save the $18,000 that had been bid on the salvage job by private contractors. The cruiser is on the beach and may be a total loss.

The H-3 is also still on the beach but late reports on the salvage operations seem to show satisfactory progress. The contractors are now engaged in forming an artificial lake around the diver. A hydraulic drill will be used to bore a way under the diver in the sand, so as to pass cables around the vessel for the first attempts to dislodge her.

Although plans to salvage the Milwaukee hull have not been abandoned, bids have been called to construct a trestle from the beach to the wreck to take off what equipment can be removed before an attempt is made to pull the hull off the beach. The railroad to the scene of the Milwaukee wreck is now practically completed. Bids will probably be asked for the salvage of the hull after guns and other equipment are removed.

be fenced and planted to trees that will hide effectually the location of the guns.

The searchlights used at seacoast fortifications are the latest word in appliances of the kind. Equipped with a sixty-inch reflector and a special lens they will illuminate objects within a radius of ten miles or more under ordinary atmospheric conditions. They are so powerful that soldiers operating them must wear heavy black goggles and then it is most difficult to stand the glare long enough to adjust the carbons.

The recently-organized regiment of Coast Artillery Reserves is evincing an interest in the work at the fort and each Sunday several interested groups of officers and noncommissioned officers discuss the progress of the week. Members of the regiment have embraced the unlimited opportunity to gain practical knowledge of fortification work and are anxiously awaiting the installation of the fire-control apparatus.

Sleeping on Water.

[Popular Science Monthly:] One of the things neded by physicians is a bed that can be heated or cooled according to the needs of the patient, and one that a patient can lie upon for months, if necessary, without getting bed sores. An inventor has filled this want with what he calls a water bed. The bottom and sides of the bed are built of galvanized steel, and the top is made of rubberized canvas. When this is filled with water it makes as soft a mattress as any one could desire. A reservoir is stationed at the head of the bed, which holds enough water to make the pressure in the mattress the same at all points.

It is promised that the orange show this year will eclipse all previous efforts in the number of exhibits and in the programme of entertainment. It is said there will be some "thrillers" the exact nature of which is being kept secret so that the disclosure may come as a surprise.

Among the Los Angeles visitors to the show will be the Misses Leila and Pauline Joselyn, who will aid in the distribution of choice oranges on the train and who will wear orange-colored dresses for the occasion. ASKS DAMAGES FOR BLIGHTED CAREER.

MUSCULAR CONTROL RUINED, SAYS DANCER.

Court will Adjourn to Home of Invalid Defendant, Whose Jitney Bus Struck Woman and from Whom She Would Get Twenty-five Thousand Dollars.

An automobile accident is alleged to have halted the stage career of Miss Ada P. Younger, a strikingly handsome young woman. The result of the accident, she alleges, is a nervous twitching of the muscles, which interferes with the free movement of her limbs as a classic dancer. The trial of her suit before Judge Hewitt started yesterday and will be resumed tomorrow, when court will adjourn to the home of the defendant, M. H. Quirk, a jitney bus driver, who was in charge of a machine when Miss Younger was struck at Eighth street and Broadway April 19, 1916. She is asking $25,000 damages.

Mr. Quirk is an invalid and it will be necessary to take his testimony at his residence, No. 621 West Forty-second place.

Miss Younger says she was returning from the theater on the night of the accident and when trying to dodge an approaching automobile, she was struck by the car driven by Mr. Quirk.

FOR NEW TRIAL. ARGUMENT IS BEGUN.

Argument for a new trial in the libel suit of E. T. Earl against The Times-Mirror Company, tried last November, was begun before Judge Myers in Department Eleven yesterday and continued for further argument next Wednesday. The grounds for a new trial advanced by Joseph L. Lewinsohn, associated for the defendant with Hunsaker & Britt, are that the court erred in admitting a certain line of testimony not admissible in the case; in giving certain instructions and excluding others as to damages; that the $30,000 verdict was excessive, and that a member of the jury, William Noble, was guilty of misconduct in withholding facts with regard to his attitude toward The Times. Counsel for the plaintiff will conclude the argument Wednesday.

IN AND OUT ABOUT THE COURTS.

CHILD ACTRESS. Edith Kohn, 15 years old, earns $50 a week as a moving-picture actress. In a petition to the Probate Court yesterday for the appointment of her mother, Florence Kohn, as her guardian, she says the money is necessary to support, maintain and educate her and for clothing, and that a guardian is necessary. Mrs. Kohn resides at No. 1055 North St. Andrew's place.

DECIDES LIEN CLAIM. The Mortgages Securities Company claimed the automobile of B. Chatt under a chattel mortgage. P. Pfaffman held it for a repair bill of $349, and the Securities company brought suit against Mr. Pfaffman to establish prior lien. The case was tried and decided by Judge Taft in favor of the company yesterday. Mr. Pfaffman will appeal from the judgment.

DAMAGE SUITS. Mrs. Pearl Lee Solomon and her adopted daughter, Ruth Pearl Miller, filed suit in two actions against the Southern California Gas Company yesterday for an aggregate of $25,200 damages for injuries alleged to have been caused by a gas explosion on the 5th inst. at No. 206 West Fifty-ninth place. The complaint charges an employee of the company hammered a hole in the gas pipe leading to the kitchen range, through which gas escaped.

DEMANDS DAMAGES. Earl A. Lynn asks $1000 from C. S. Brooks, W. H. Allison and Charles C. Burdge, the latter an attorney, for alleged malicious prosecution, on the ground that after he had obeyed a summons of the justice court and the defendants failed to appear, he was subsequently arrested, found not guilty and discharged. The arrest caused him mental suffering and put him to inconvenience, he declares. The original action was a suit by Mr. Brooks and Mr. Allison to recover $40, Attorney Burdge representing the plaintiffs in the justice court and judgment for $55 being given against Mr. Lynn.

ON THE BENCH. Norman Sterry, attorney, was selected by litigants to try a case and occupied the bench in Judge Finlayson's court yesterday. He presided with grace and dignity in the action, which involved a note for $1745. The suit was brought by James P. Kerlin against Willis E. Wilsie.

INCORPORATIONS. The Merger Mines Corporation, incorporators, G. W. Hughes, C. C. Caley, Fred G. Heath and J. Henry C. Backmann, capital stock $1,000,000; subscribed $5. The Tweedy Company Incorporated, incorporators, Albert J. Tweedy, John E. Weaver, Helen Weaver and Lillian Hatfield, capital stock $15,000, subscribed $4. The Sunshine Photoplayers, incorporators, W. J. Ford, E. C. Rose, E. M. Hempell, J. M. Concannon and W. A. Davey, capital stock, $50,000; subscribed $500.

AMERICANIZED NAME. Holsten Holstensen petitioned the court yesterday to change his name to William C. Stone, which is approximately the translation of the Swedish appellation. He desires also that the names of his wife and son be correspondingly changed.

Attention, Oil Men!

The PETROLEOGRAPH, or CRUDE OIL INDICATOR, is the most wonderful of all modern discoveries. With it I can locate and trace any oil deposit existing in the earth, and without failure. It tells where the oil is before drilling. It removes all possibility of dry holes. It has been proved in nearly every oil field in the United States. If you want to make a success of the oil business from the beginning, see G. H. Jones, Oil Locator, 480 West Broadway, Glendale, Cal.

HEALER VERY ILL.

Trial of "Prince" Shrader and His Partner May be Delayed Because of Erysipelas Which Doctor Fears May Affect Brain. Case is Near Close.

It is more than likely that the trial of "Prince" August Shrader and "His Majesty" Francis Schlatter, the "divine" healers, will not be resumed in Judge Trippet's court tomorrow morning, as scheduled, by reason of the illness of Shrader, that according to the views of his physician, has taken or may take a serious turn. Shrader is suffering from an attack of erysipelas that has affected his right ear and bids fair to cover that entire side of his head. Complications involving the brain are feared.

Shrader has been ill all through the trial and the government was willing to postpone it until he should recover, but Schlatter insisted on going ahead. The result has been that his partner has been compelled to lie on a bed in the courtroom, totally unable to take any part in the trial. On one occasion his condition was so bad that it was necessary to adjourn court. There is considerable sympathy expressed for him.

If the case goes on, the government will have in all its testimony by the hour of adjournment. Forty-eight witnesses were summoned and more than half have testified. Some of the others will not be heard. So far as the attorneys for the defendants are now apprised, there will be no testimony in behalf of their clients beyond that furnished by themselves. The prisoners are penniless.

TRUCK CRUSHES HAND.

Gustave Margolo of No. 802 North Broadway has a crushed hand. A heavy truck, driven by William Goldman of No. 4104 South Park avenue, knocked him down and then ran over the hand at Second and Alameda streets yesterday afternoon. He was treated at the Receiving Hospital.

BUYS CONFEDERATE BILL.

Frank Bass, a young Austrian, recently arrived at No. 602 East Sixth street, this city, requested the aid of the police yesterday afternoon in locating the affable countryman of his who succeeded in selling Mr. Bass a $50 Confederate bill for $25. Mr. Bass realized he had been swindled only after he appeared at a downtown bank seeking to cash his purchase.

IT'S FEAST OR FAMINE IN THE CHURCH FIE

Survey by State Federation Reveals Many Co
Have More than Enough Institutions of W
Others Much too Few—Home Missions are N and Preachers are Poorly Paid.

MANY towns of California are very much "over-churched," while some sections in the large cities and many rural sections are actually neglected. California sends thousands upon thousands of dollars to foreign mission fields, yet neglects some of its most crying home opportunities. In other places missionary money is squandered in keeping up rival missions in the same field. The ministers of the Protestant denominations, as a class, receive relatively smaller remuneration for their services than men in other trades and professions. These are some of the interesting facts brought out by a survey of California's Protestant religious resources, recently completed by the California State Church Federation, of which E. Guy Talbott is the executive secretary and which has its headquarters in Los Angeles.

As an illustration of the fact that some communities of the State are "over-churched," while others are neglected, it is set forth that Downey, with a population of 500 people, has six churches, with 298 members; Eagle Rock City, with 1800 people, has five churches with 231 members; Lemoore, in Kings county, with a population of 1800, has five churches and 278 members; Clovis, with 1500 people, has seven churches, with 876 members, and the climax is reached at Fowler, with a population of 674 and nine churches.

On the other hand, the report shows that the section of Los Angeles bounded by First, Eighth and Main streets and the Los Angeles River has an estimated population of 50,000, in which there are only a few struggling churches with a handful of members, and several missions, some of the latter conducted by religious fanatics of the extremist type. San Francisco has no downtown Protestant church, although there are surging multitudes in that district.

MISSIONS NEGLECTED.

The greatest neglect in the home mission fields, the report sets forth, is among the Latin-American groups. There are eight times more churches and missions in Sacramento, for instance, for its 2500 orientals, than there are churches for the entire English-speaking population. Only one denomination has put a worker among the 18,000 Southern Europeans in the capital of California and the Church Federation maintains a polyglot mission for eighteen of these nationalities.

Los Angeles, with a population creeping up towards the 600,000 mark has 281 Protestant churches, with 58,686 members. Los Angeles county, with a population of 815,000, has 104,418 Protestant church members while San Francisco city and county, with a population of 528,705, has 106 Protestant churches with 15,713 members.

Protestant church statistics in comparison with the population in several of the larger counties are given below, the population figures being those of the California Development Board:

Use Cocoanut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless,) is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

WOMEN'S WORK AND WOMEN'S CLUBS.

MRS. LLOYD W. HARMON, who has just been appointed to the State Library Board, the first woman so honored, is devoting her energies to obtaining a new public library building worthy the great city of Los Angeles. As president of the District Federation of Los Angeles, her speech at the Friday Morning Club's public affairs meeting Tuesday aroused considerable enthusiasm for the project.

As Mrs. Harmon said, for three years now the women's clubs have been sounding public opinion on the subject, and without doubt there is a preponderance of desire that our splendid library should be properly housed. It is undignified that so important a municipal enterprise should be housed in a mere office building, handicapped for space. Of course, it will entail a bond issue and Mrs. Harmon provoked a smile by declaring the men shy at bond issues.

"Talk about your new library building all you like," they say, "but fight shy of a bond issue; the people won't stand for it."

However, even masculinity favors certain kinds of bond issues and it is apparent that many of the original opponents are relenting as public opinion becomes more obvious. The women mean to build that library. The enthusiasm with which Mrs. Harmon's speech was received by her large audience, representing many women's clubs, left no doubt of that. The library bonds are going to be the women's pet bonds, even if they amount to $3,000,000, which is the estimated cost—$1,300,000 for the site, $1,500,000 for the building and the rest for incidentals.

And these women financiers have worked out the whole project with an efficient nicety, on a thirty-year basis, by which $100,000 must be set aside each year for paying off the bonds in addition to the interest—a total of $250,000 a year, which they consider cheap for so large and desirable a boon. Considering the library appropriation each year amounts to about $238,000, the additional cost is quite trifling, they say. It would, said Mrs. Harmon, mean 40 cents assessment per $1000—about the cost of two good cigars to the average man. The average voter will pay an assessment of about 20 cents a year and the women feel sure that it will be worth that much to sit in Central Park and look at the beautiful new building.

It is the sort of institution that compensates us for our lost opportunities—the people's university. And the women have decided that we are going to have it. With Mrs. Harmon on the State Library Board the prospects look more than hopeful.

The Woman's City Club.

There is a long programme for the Woman's City Club tomorrow, when Mrs. Gertrude Rader will talk on the citrus farm school of Southern California; Senator Harry Chamberlain on the bills providing for additional judges, qualification of judges, charity bequests, colonization of voters and the Pico memorial. H. H. Duryee will speak on the amendments to the child-labor law, and other speakers will take the liquor bill for their subject. Luncheon will be served at noon and the programme will begin at 1 p.m.

The Friday Morning Club.

Next Friday's session of the Friday Morning Club will be addressed by John Spargo, Socialist, on "The Spiritual Significance of Socialism." An Englisman, with university honors from Oxford, he came to the United States in 1901, since when he has been associated with the Prospect House Social Settlement of Yonkers, N. Y., which he founded, and it is upon the working of this that he will make his address.

The Drama Committee offers what promises to be a delightful guest programme for Tuesday afternoon, the 20th inst., at 2:30 o'clock, when the junior college will present the play, "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," by Anatole France, in which the artistic work of the young students is highly praised. Robert E. Jones will be responsible for the stage setting, and the color scheme and costumes are in the hands of Miss Elizabeth Waggoner. There will also be a motion picture entitled "The Yellow Girl," by Edgar Keller, which won such laurels in the East. The High School orchestra will furnish the music and members must obtain special guest cards for the occasion.

The L. A. Million Club.

Senator Rominger will address the Million Club at the Brack Shops tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. He will discuss the Rominger liquor bill.

A "white elephant sale" for the benefit of the club fund will be held after the meeting. On Washington's Birthday, Thursday, the 22nd inst., the club will entertain with a party in the Brack Shops auditorium, in the evening. Besides a musical programme of unusual kind, in which Prof. Anton Stahl, pianist, will be a star performer in court costume, Mrs. Mary Hart of Alaska will give a recitation in native costume, and produce a genuine Eskimo girl in a native dance.

Woman's Catholic Club.

This club will meet at 2 o'clock p.m., on Wednesday in Columbus Auditorium, when Dr. John V. Carling will talk on orthopedic surgery, illustrated with slides. Mrs. Leslie Gaynor will give a reading from Polyanna, and Senor Budrow will sing.

The Cosmos Club.

The Cosmos has appointed its delegates for the convention at Santa Monica as follows: Mrs. H. L. Musser, Mrs. Andur Beyrle, Mrs. K. Moore, Mrs. Ernest Snoir, Mrs. S. A. Silover, Mrs. W. A. White, Mrs. T. P. Shepherd and Miss Kathleen Glendennon.

Senator Brown was the speaker at the last meeting, making a strong plea for the State Marketing Commission. Miss Dorothy Willis gave club women generally a gentle admonition to make the most of their intellects and abilities. Miss Helen Tappe, soprano, rendered a group of songs.

Lillian Burkhardt Goldsmith, who will return from the East this week, will give a series of interpretative recitals at the Cosmos, beginning February 28.

Congress of Mothers.

The first district California Congress of Mothers held a special session on Thursday morning at the Board of Education to discuss national, State and board matters. Mrs. A. L. Hamilton submitted a report for the revision of the constitution and by-laws, which was approved.

Mrs. W. A. Galentine of Redondo Beach, president, will represent the Congress at the convention at Washington, D. C., in April. The district convention will be held April 12-13.

Dr. Lulu Peters will lecture on sex hygiene on three consecutive Tuesdays, February 27, March 6 and March 13, at the Hamburger auditorium at 3 o'clock. Mothers will find this a most illuminating discourse.

The Business Women.

When the Business Woman's Civic Club meets tomorrow in the lecture hall of the Public Library, Miss Lloy Galpin, who is giving a course of lectures on the fundamentals of government, will speak on "Political Parties" and briefly discuss the flood-control bonds to be voted upon the following day. The programme begins at 7:45 o'clock and the attendance of nonmembers, both men and women, is welcome.

At the last meeting of the club Miss Edna Gearheart gave an instructive and entertaining talk on the "Harmony of Correct Dress," taking line, space breaking and color harmony as the fundamental facts to be considered. She cleverly illustrated by chalk talks. Mrs. Herbert A. Cable, president of the Women's Legislative Council, spoke on the various bills indorsed by that body. These include the women juror bills, custodial care of the feeble-minded, and community property.

The Echo Park Mothers.

Federation day, February 9, found the Echo Park mothers in happy mood and Dr. Phelps had arranged a programme of giving rather than receiving. Each section was represented—a home-product exhibit, as Mrs. Lloyd Harmon described it. Mrs. Elizabeth Baker Bohan delivered an opening address, after which gymnastics, music and dancing proved interesting. Reports were made on economics, education, legislation, civics, social service, membership and parliamentary law, in all of which the club is active. Mrs. Lloyd Harmon's address was followed by a musical programme. Many prominent club women were in the audience at this enterprising club.

The Owensmouth Club.

Members of the music and drama section of the Owensmouth Club made their debut on Wednesday evening at the high school auditorium. Mrs. E. G. Harbold of the music section and Mrs. W. E. Bechtelheimer of the drama section, were responsible for unearthing some fine local talent, and a really high-class musical programme was enjoyed.

Legislative Council.

The Women's Legislative Council will hold a conference tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Friday Morning Club House, when the measures now before the Legislature will be discussed. The meeting is open to the public.

Woman's Improvement Association.

At its next Wednesday meeting the South Pasadena Woman's Improvement Association will have a photo-dramatist and poet on the highly-attractive programme. B. J. McConville, scenario writer for D. W. Griffith, will talk on films for children, and James W. Foley of Pasadena will give a reading on the "Psychology of Childhood." There will be an appropriate musical prelude of children's songs by Mrs. Adelaide Wolcott, soprano, and Mrs. Clayton Hinnan, at the piano.

The Hollywood Club.

An interesting legislative programme occupied this club at the regular meeting last Wednesday, when the speakers were Senator W. Brown and Assemblyman Burlingame Johnson. As at other clubs, Senator Brown talked about his pet municipal market bill, the panacea for high cost of living, according to his view. Assemblyman Johnson compared legislative processes of the United States and China. Mrs. A. S. Forbes spoke for the Pico and Fremont memorials.

The next meeting will be devoted to Mrs. Elsa Barker, novelist, who will give readings from her poems.

The civic department will hold an open meeting, with several good speakers, on Tuesday.

A patriotic luncheon has been arranged for February 21, when Dr. James A. Francis will speak on "The True American."

The Press Club.

Miss Nita Marquis presided at the shop-talk meeting of the Press Club on Tuesday. Miss Ruth Sterry talked on "Life's Short Story Contest." She, as one of the winners, was in a position to give some highly-interesting information. In her opinion, the original stories submitted to the club were not "short stories" in the true sense of the word. There was a spirited argument on the subject.

Mrs. Mary Hart of Alaska was an interesting contributor to the programme. There will be a literary programme at the next meeting of the club, when Dr. Zeigner Uriburu of the Spanish department of the University of Southern California will make an address on Latin-American women.

Strongly Indorsed.

From all over the State are coming indorsements of Mrs. W. C. Mushet for president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, the southern and San Joaquin districts being solid for the popular Los Angeles club woman. Her own home district is coming out strong for her, club by club, with assurance that she will have but little opposition. And in the north she has always been a favorite, where her splendid federation spirit was shown at the time she served as vice-president of the State.

The withdrawal of Mrs. R. C. Shipman from the Los Angeles district ticket leaves Mrs. Mattison B. Jones as the only indorsed candidate for president. Mrs. Emma B. Reed and Mrs. John J. Abramson are talked of to head the district, and it may be that their supporters will write their names on the ballot. Mrs. Jones would be the first to make the motion to allow nominations from floor, should the coming fifteenth annual convention, which is to be entertained by the Santa Monica Bay Woman's Club next month, so desire. So matters are sure to be adjusted amicably at the proper time.

Mrs. Frank Garrett is not making the run for president of the Woman's City Club, conceded to Mrs. Clarence Van Graham. Only in the Friday Morning Club is there noticeable activity. But the finals are a long way in the distance. Mrs. A. S. Lobingier will not confirm that she is to head an opposing ticket to Mrs. E. R. Brainerd, popular candidate. Neither will she deny it.

Wednesday Morning Club.

The Shakespeare section of the Wednesday Morning Club put on "Julius Caesar," last Wednesday afternoon. Taken as a whole the play was well done. Mrs. C. A. Holland played Marc Antony, Mrs. Grace Burns, Julius Caesar, Mrs. W. E. Bush, Portia, and Mrs. Gass Calpurnia.

The friends of Mrs. Grant Housh were delighted to welcome her to the club after her absence on account of illness. Mrs. Matilda Louthnick was hostess at the luncheon served to a large number of members and friends.

The Ruskin Art Club.

Mrs. W. S. Bullis will have charge of the programme of the Ruskin Art Club for next Wednesday. The Puranic Age of India will be the general subject. Mrs. C. E. Day will talk on the most important reign of this age and its effect upon the development of India. Mrs. E. Stanton Hodgin will take up the two chief religions of the period; Mrs. E. A. Dial will consider the science and literature, Mrs. Bullis will give the reports of Chinese travelers who have left fascinating accounts in the Chinese literature of their impressions of the India of that day.

The Reciprocity Club.

The regular meeting of the Reciprocity Club will take place on Tuesday at the Broadway Department Store, the business meeting beginning at 11:30 a.m., followed by luncheon and a programme at which Mrs. R. C. Bryant will be the principal speaker. Mrs. Bryant has lately returned from South America and has much that is interesting to tell. Mrs. Harriet Wright, district chairman of reciprocity, will also speak. And there will be three-minute talks by other guests and members. Any visiting clubwomen from other cities and States are welcome.

Social Affairs in Clubland.

One of the largest social affairs of the week will be the colonial dinner-ball at the Alexandria on Tuesday evening, the 20th, given under the auspices of the Eschscholtzia Chapter of the D.A.R. All Daughters and their friends will assemble in colonial costume and old-fashioned minuets will be a feature of the evening. The proceeds of the occasion will go for patriotic work, a major dole of it towards the George Junior Republic, of which Mrs. Stephen Randell is one of the good fairies. The boys have already done all the brickwork for their library and clubhouse and the funds will enable them to start on the buildings themselves. It will go for the purchase of lumber.

Another smart club affair will be the Schubert Club's colonial tea at the Alexandria on Wednesday afternoon, which bids fair to be a very large event. The receiving line of colonial dames will include the president, Mrs. J. T. Anderson, and a host of other charming dames. A most elaborate programme has been arranged.

The Wade Hampton Chapter of the U.D.C. will give a benefit card party on Monday, February 26, from 2 to 5 p.m., at the Broadway Department Store, Mrs. J. W. Barton, president, and an able committee in charge.

The music section of the Travel Club enjoyed a Russian musical programme on Friday, given by Mrs. Harriet S. Laughlin, whose lecture recital proved most captivating.

The Travel Club will also be responsible for a card party on Wednesday, the 21st, at the home of Mrs. Grace Nicholson, No. 1302 North Santa Barbara street.

Members of the Rosecrans Club were entertained with a Valentine party at the home of Mrs. Belle Brudholme last Wednesday. Cards were the diversion. This club will hold their reciprocity day at the Y.W.C.A. Building on Wednesday, next, when officers and members of other clubs will be entertained.

The P.E.O.'s are to have a monthly luncheon party at Hamburger's on Monday, the 26th, when all visiting P.E.O.'s will be entertained.

The Pacific Review, No. 46, of the W.B.A.O.M. entertained their friends on Wednesday evening. A mock wedding was part of the fun, concluding with a grand march to the banquet hall.

The children of the Tierra Alto Chapter of the D.A.R. were entertained at the home of Mrs. C. B. Moore on February 9. They had a sumptuously patriotic time of it.

The Rose Croix Chapter of the O.E.S. will entertain with a card party at the Kramer Studios on Tuesday, February 20, at 2 p.m.

The Boyle Heights Entre Nous Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Lillian Gibson, No. 144 North Chicago street, on Wednesday, the 21st, when six ladies in colonial costume will dance a minuet among other diversions.

The Hollywood Club will hold a subscription dance on Friday, February 25. A New York dancing master is an interesting importation whose preliminary instruction is to lend distinction to the affair.

The Parent-Teacher Association.

The Cambria P.-T.A. celebrated with a patriotic programme on Thursday afternoon, at which Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner read a paper on military training, after some stirring recitations and exercises. Mrs. Miner also urges a naval base hospital at Los Angeles under the supervision of the Red Cross. Assemblyman George Watson also urged the passing of the military training bill.

The McKinley-avenue Intermediate P.-T.A. will meet Tuesday, the 20th, when Prof. Tully Knoles of U.S.C. will make a discourse upon patriotism. A musical programme will also be given.

The Malabar P.-T.A. met last Tuesday, when encouraging reports were heard from committees. Home garden work by the children is making promising headway, and there will be some keen competition for the prize offered for the best garden. After a musical programme by the fifth grade the meeting concluded with a birthday party at which five children were the guests of honor. The next meeting is for fathers—Thursday evening, March 15.

The Seventh-avenue P.-T.A. will meet on Tuesday to hear Dr. Lulu Peters and Miss Louise Graf speak on the needs of schools in the poorer districts.

Ebell Social Service.

The social service department of Ebell, under the chairmanship of Mrs. William Read, held a practical meeting on Thursday, when Assistant Superintendent of Schools Bettinger addressed them on "How Ebell Can Best Assist in Neighborhood and Public Schools," and Mrs. Betts reviewed Conyngton's "How to Help," which offers so much food for thought and discussion.

Mrs. Read reported much practical work done, including the furnishing of an apartment for a destitute mother and children, the gift of a layette to an expectant mother with four children, and the gift of 185 sleeping hoods for tubercular patients in the County Hospital.

On Wednesday morning the music department enjoyed a lecture on the opera "Iris," which is to be produced by the Boston Opera Company this week. Mrs. Ethel Lynde gave a most illuminating interpretation of the work.

The Verse Writers' Club.

The Verse Writers met at Trinity Auditorium on Monday last when it was quite evident that Los Angeles possesses some talented poets.

Miss Grace Denen read five original poems selected by the club committee and the secret ballot vote resulted in the choice of two poems, "The Perfect Robe," by Sarah McLean, and "My Love," by an anonymous contributer.

Readings and recitations concluded a delightful meeting.

The Highland Park Ebell.

Mme Jules Clerfayt made an instructive address on the women of France and Belgium at Highland Park on Wednesday. The fact that the women in France are filling the municipal offices of Mayor and Council and have been tentatively conceded the vote in the absence of the men at war, was interesting and surprising news. And that Paris boasts a federation of women's clubs, 100,000 strong, based upon the American idea, is not generally known. In fact, Mme. Clerfayt kept her hearers intersted with her most informative discourse.

The next regular meeting of the club will be devoted to civics, when Fred Nelles of Whittier will talk upon his work at the State school.

At Redondo.

The Civic Outlook Club of Redondo has elected its new officers for the year. They are as follows: President, Mrs. W. A. Galentine; vice-president, Mrs. J. C. Fowler; secretary, Mrs. W. L. Sedkins; treasurer, Mrs. Gabriel Johnston; federation secetary, Miss Faith Hardy.

Projected Los Angeles yacht haven and municipal beach,

Plans for annexing Santa Monica to the city are linked with a project to build a great breakwater and put through other improvements designed to bring within the limits of the municipality a watering place with advantages such that, in the opinion of the moving spirits, it will be second to none in America. The map illustrates the projected scope of the improvements. The beach and Palisades that would be circled by the sheltering arm of the breakwater, and therefore front the yacht harbor, are shown in the photograph, which is a view to the northward of the Santa Monica municipal pier. In the foreground is the present bath-house.

breakwater self-sustaining. The second amount would not be nearly so great as the original cost. He pictures a smooth surface of water with a multitude of yachts moored about in such a fashion that automobiles could be run right out on the breakwater to the yachts.

Such development would make Santa Monica perhaps more than a rival of Catalina Island for yachting, as the islands are within sight and a short cruise from Santa Monica. Many other points of interest can be easily reached from Santa Monica, including the Santa Barbara Islands.

From an engineering viewpoint the breakwater can be built with little trouble and would accomplish the desired results.

Santa Monica now owns nearly a mile of beach land, including about 2288 feet stretching from Kinney street to Dwight avenue, and a stretch from Pacific avenue nearly to Looff's Pier, 1600 feet, and 1087 feet north of Santa Monica municipal pier.

Go to Polls.

URGES PEOPLE TO BE SURE TO VOTE.

THERE'S DANGER IN APATHY, SAYS SUPERVISOR.

Woodley Asserts People in Outside Districts are Trying to "Put Job Over" on City Taxpayers and that All Sorts of Reckless Promises are Being Made.

Supervisor F. E. Woodley stated yesterday that he has learned on good authority that $500,000 of "labor plums" have been promised "to the colored friends of someone, if the bonds carry." He also said he has heard there is to be no civil service regulation of jobs given out under the flood control department.

"There is provided by the bond issue $864,000 for rights of way, damage, etc., through the big land holdings north of Long Beach and in Long Beach. These lands will benefit to the extent of millions of dollars by the flood protection work if it is effective, as it means practically reclaiming such lands. To receive great benefits in the way of increased values, as well as getting nearly $1,000,000 for rights of way, is a rich plum to pick up.

"The proponents of the bonds are not stirring anything in Los Angeles and territory, where the bonds are not popular, but in Long Beach and other outside districts pages of newspapers are being bought for advertising and a great stir made.

"In Los Angeles, however, they are keeping very quiet, thinking the people will not take the trouble to vote and this fine job can be put over by those interested, who will vote to a man.

"A strenuous objection was raised by these same people against combining this flood bond election with a city election on the liquor question. Of course, such a combination will assist in getting out more city votes, which they do not want.

"Read the report of the engineers appointed by the Chamber of Commerce, Municipal League and City Council, and be sure to vote next Tuesday."

Flood Control.

John H. Quinton, engineering expert, Capt. Charles T. Leeds, formerly of the Engineer Corps, U.S.A., and S. A. Jubb, acting harbor engineer for the city of Los Angeles, is the following, confirmatory of the above:

"Under the Baker Act the whole cost of the proposed work is to be borne equally by all real property in the district, although almost 95 per cent. of the land owners receive only a very indirect benefit from the money to be expended, while the other 5 per cent. of special propertied interests will derive the chief gain. Surely the county as a whole should pay some portion of any comprehensive flood control project, but those whose property is directly enhanced in value should pay more than those who realize no immediate benefit."

HARD ON HOME OWNER.

Or, to put it another way, the owner of a piece of improved Los Angeles realty—the home owner, for instance—who will not profit one iota by the works, and who, moreover, has already paid probably for flood control under the less mellifluous title of sewer assessments, will be taxed full value without any return whatever.

But if this purge for depleted pocketbooks was the sole legitimate indictment against the proposed flood-control plans, it would not be so bad, having long suffered under a plunderbund State government. But, according to Messrs. Quinton, Leeds and Jubb, the survey engineers, impotency is written large on Mr. Reagan's control plans, while the method of handling bond disbursements under the Baker measure is one that opens the flood gates to graft.

Says the engineers' report:

"Much of the work contemplated in the report is not permanent and its certain failure will discourage future efforts. . . . The sum of $4,450,000 is insufficient to carry out the necessary works . . . the plans as a whole would inadequately meet the flood-control problem of this district."

FUNDAMENTALS NEGLECTED.

The engineers further point out that the fundamental principles of proper flood control, namely minimizing erosion, and increasing the absorption of rainfall in the mountains by cutting off the high peaks of the floods by large regulating reservoirs and by low restraining dams at frequent intervals, have been almost entirely neglected in Mr. Reagan's report.

Furthermore, it is set forth that "by the provisions of the law, known as the Baker Act, under which the bonds are submitted, the proceeds of the issue must be expended absolutely in accordance with the report of the engineer of the district, Mr. J. W. Reagan, submitted in advance. No deviation from his proposals can be made in case of the passage of the bonds except in case of a radical change of physical conditions, no matter how much such an alteration might be urged by competent engineers, consequently the statement of the Supervisors that they would 'not expend a dollar of the proceeds until the plans had been passed upon by three engineers' is wholly worthless."

CIVIL SERVICE EXEMPTION.

Other pertinent paragraphs in the letter of transmittal follow:

"By Section 3 of the Baker Act the employees of the flood control district are specifically exempted from the operation of the civil service provisions of the county charter. Such exemption marks the return to the worst conditions of political and personal appointments, and is an insidious attack on the principles of the merit system fraught with danger to the public and the taxpayers. We should be on guard lest, in an attempt to control the damage by water floods, irreparable injury be done by opening the flood gates of patronage and inefficiency.

"Another feature of the Baker Act allows the Supervisors, in addition to the charges necessary to support the proposed bond issue, to levy a tax of 10 cents on each $100 of real property in the district. Such a levy would yield about $750,000 annually, and it is doubtful whether one person in twenty voting on the question of the bonds will realize that the amount of money expended by the Supervisors under the operation of the law may be many million dollars in excess of the bonds voted by the people.

"Again, in view of the temporary and certainly incomplete character of the work proposed in the Reagan report, the flood control district is unquestionably incurring enormous liability for damage both from the diversion of water already claimed and by the likelihood of flood damage where the proposed works will deliver the storm waters.

"There has been, we believe, considerable misunderstanding with respect to the Federal appropriation for flood control in this county. The sum made available is not contingent upon the passage of the proposal now before the voters, but merely upon the undertaking on the part of the county, or other local interests, of an adequate programme of flood control, as evidenced by providing the rights of way necessary for certain works. This Federal appropriation will not lapse if the bonds are now defeated."

Two in One.

DOUBLE-HEADER.

City and County Consolidate for Tuesday's Election, but Different Ballot Boxes will be Used and Separate Voters' Rosters.

The county flood control district bond election and the city special election to be held Tuesday have been consolidated to the extent that within the city the election officers, polling places, voing booths and supplies for same, precinct registers and index to precinct registers will be the same for both elections. In all other respects, the elections are to be conducted the same as if they were separate. The flood control district and the city will each furnish the necessary supplies and ballots for its election.

The roster of voters, poll list, tally lists, challenge list and assisted voters' list of the flood control district will be used only by or for electors desiring to vote a flood control district election ballot. Electors desiring to vote a city election ballot must write their names in a separate roster of voters furnished by Los Angeles city.

Two ballot boxes will be used at the election, one for the county flood control district and one for the city, each box being labeled accordingly. Therefore, there will be no good reason for placing a ballot in the wrong ballot box.

Qualified electors who have registered or transferred on or before January 20, 1917, have the right to vote at both elections. Any qualified registered elector, who has moved within the boundaries of the consolidated precincts, has the right to vote, providing the affidavit of registration has not been canceled.

ABSURDITIES IN PROPOSED PLAN.

ENGINEER HALL PROTESTS AGAINST FLOOD BONDS.

Says Reagan Proposals are Wholly Impracticable, will Result in Loss of Money and Discourage Proper Work—Millions in Fresh Water will be Wasted.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I will greatly appreciate the favor if The Times will print my protest against the proposed county bond issue of $4,450,000 under the scheme of Mr. Reagan and the Board of Supervisors for the ostensible object of preventing overflow and silting up of the harbor.

My experience of twenty-two years, as an engineer and surveyor in this State, convinces me that the proposed plan of improvement is wholly impracticable, will result in loss of money and discourage practical work.

I will venture the statement that no amount of money expended in constructing channels and erecting levees at any point around the harbor, below the twenty-five-foot contour line shown in the government's geological survey map will control the flood waters of the Los Angeles and San Gabriel rivers.

The reason is perfectly obvious to any person of ordinary intelligence. The fall or gravity of the proposed waterway is not sufficient to carry the water silted up, as it will be and always has been, with soil and sand from the alluvial valleys between the harbor and the foot of the mountains.

The county engineer (flood control) claims that his canal has a gravity fall of one foot in 650 feet, but the fact is the fall or gravity of the ditch from the Dominguez Slough to the ocean is twenty-three feet. The distance is over 25,000 feet or about one foot to 1000 feet.

The learned county engineer gets his fall or grade by excavating his canal four or five feet below the low water mark of the ocean, and any schoolboy knows that if built that way the ocean will carry its silt or bar as high up as the tide will reach. This would fill up the canal from five feet below low water to five feet above the same to the ordinary high water mark, or in other words would fill up the canal with sand from the ocean to a depth of about ten feet, if no silt at all was coming down the canal.

The fact is plainly shown from the government maps that at the mouth of the San Gabriel and Los Angeles rivers around Long Beach and Anaheim Slough, there is an area of 25,000 acres of land lying below the twenty-five-foot contour line, which has been filled up with silt in recent years from flood waters of the Los Angeles and San Gabriel rivers.

The actual fall or gravity of the Rio Hondo and Los Angeles River from the Southern Pacific Railroad to Dominguez is about one foot to 500 feet, the distance being 35,000 feet and the fall seventy-five feet. This is twice as great a fall as the learned county engineer will have in his canal from Dominguez Slough to the ocean, and yet nature has shown us that a fall of one foot to 500 feet over the territory mentioned is not sufficient to carry the silt in the waters of these streams, but it is deposited over surrounding farms in every flood season.

Two absurdities exist in the proposed plan; (1) that the canal is to be below the level of the ocean, and (2) that it is proposed to carry the silted-up waters of these streams on one-half of the gravity or fall, which naturally exists above Dominguez and where we all know the fall was not sufficient to carry the silt.

There are numerous places for reservoirs where the waters of these streams can be impounded during flood periods, and where the waters can be used for irrigation and other useful purposes.

This State, which has led all others in conservation of water and in irrigation, ought not to spend millions of dollars to waste its valuable fresh water in the ocean when it can be conserved and at the same time be made harmless in flood seasons.

There are two natural reservoir sites in the San Gabriel Canyon, one at the forks and one in the gorge below the forks, and there are also two other large sites below those, where the flood waters could be impounded.

It will be plain to everyone that if the waters of the San Gabriel and other streams were reservoired near their fountain head and before the waters passed over the alluvial plains, that they would not become silted up, but would remain clear, having passed over nothing but the rock and gravel of their natural channels.

I submit that the places to impound these waters are above the place of silting, and that the way to prevent damage to the harbor and to farm lands is to reservoir the waters.

It is my belief that one-half of the proposed bond issue would build ample reservoirs for these purposes.

I have not discussed the damages which will doubtless result to valuable property around Long Beach from constructing the levees as proposed.

WILL ATTACKED.

Eastern Relatives Oppose Widower In Probate Court Here.

Under the purported will of Mrs. Katherine Zailor, her husband, Frank Zoller, was named as the sole beneficiary. The will was admitted to probate several months ago, and yesterday relatives living in the East attacked it, through a petition filed in the Probate Court. They allege that at the time she affixed her mark to the will she was too ill to sign her name; that the will was not read to her; that she did not read it and was too sick to understand its contents if she had been able to read it. The estate is valued at $15,000.

POSTPONE ARGUMENT.

The argument on the demurrers and motion to quash the indictments returned against L. R. Garrett, Joy A. Winans, W. B. Judson, S. H. Garrett, James A. Green, H. W. Peterson, Rex De Barr and H. C. Galloupe, former officers and directors of the Home Builders, that was set for Judge B. F. Bledsoe's court tomorrow, has been postponed until Saturday, March 3, at 9 o'clock a.m. Attorneys representing the accused could not get ready for an earlier hearing.

MISDIRECTED EFFORT.

Walter Sargent was arrested yesterday on the charge of sending morphine to Eddie Gourdin, an inmate of the County Jail, where Sargent was some time ago confined on suspicion of a felony. The dope was concealed behind the flap of the envelope, and addressed to Gourdin, in care of John Shand. Sargent is held on $1000 bond for an examination before United States Commissioner D. M. Hammack.

Doctor Tells How To Strengthen Eyesight 50 per cent In One Week's Time In Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Philadelphia, Pa. Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weaknesses? If so you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful prescription. One man says after trying it: "I was almost blind, could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said, "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family."

Don't Wear A Truss!

Ten Reasons Why You Should Send for My Appliance.

I Send It On Trial

The above is C. E. Brooks, of Marshall, Mich., who has been curing Rupture for over 30 years. If Ruptured write him today.

1 It is absolutely the only Appliance of the kind on the market today, and in it are embodied the principles that inventors have sought after for years.

2 The Appliance for retaining the rupture cannot be thrown out of position.

3 Being an air cushion of soft rubber it clings closely to the body, yet never blisters or causes irritation.

4 Unlike the ordinary so-called pads, used in other trusses, it is not cumbersome or ungainly.

5 It is small, soft and pliable, and positively cannot be detected through the clothing.

6 The soft, pliable bands holding the Appliance do not give one the unpleasant sensation of wearing a harness.

7 There is nothing about it to get foul, and when it becomes soiled it can be washed without injuring it in the least.

8 There are no metal springs in the Appliance to torture one by cutting and bruising the flesh.

9 All of the material of which the Appliances are made is of the very best that money can buy, making it a durable and safe Appliance to wear.

10 My reputation for honesty and fair dealing is so thoroughly established by an experience of over thirty years of dealing with the public, and my prices are so reasonable, my terms so fair, that there certainly should be no hesitancy in sending free coupon today.

Remember I send my Appliance on trial to prove what I say is true. You are to be the judge. Fill out free coupon below and mail today.

IOWANS TO GATHER.

Big Annual Picnic Reunion of the Hawkeyes of the Southland to be Washington's Birthday Happening; Two Former Officials to Speak.

The Hawkeyes of Southern California will have their annual picnic reunion in Eastlake Park next Thursday. This is really to be ninety-nine picnics in one and the counties headquarters will be the meeting places. Basket picnic dinners will be brought and many parties will renew the old ties of the home State.

Among the speakers will be former Gov. Warren Garst and Lieut.-Gov. Milliman. A new feature will be the singing of Byers's Iowa song by the whole multitude, led by H. J. Brubaker from Waterloo. The patriotic Iowans will also join in singing "America" with the same leader.

Judge Willis, the president, will preside during the programme, to commence at 2 o'clock. Every Hawkeye in this State is included in the invitation, whether tourist or resident.

TRAFFIC MAN SAYS SOUTH AMERICA NEEDS TRADE.

But, He Informs Exporters' Organization, this is not Yet Maritime City; Draws Comparisons with North—Predicts Sea Investments in Future.

"When is Los Angeles' own ship coming in?" was the big question asked by F. P. Gregson, traffic manager for the Associated Jobbers of Los Angeles, who was the principal speaker Friday night at a meeting of the Export Managers' Association, held under the auspices of the Foreign Trade Extension Bureau, at the Chamber of Commerce.

He urged a campaign of education to show Los Angeles capitalists and bankers the big opportunity to employ shipping in building up a big foreign trade. He said the countries of South America are waiting with open arms for Los Angeles ships and for her salesmen.

"Los Angeles," he said, "is strange to the game. It is a city of the greatest wealth, but its inhabitants are made up of a class of residents different from those of the north, which has an enormous foreign shipping trade. Many Los Angeles residents are retired or semi-retired capitalists and people from the Middle West, whose environments and early training have prejudiced them against maritime investments, but before we can hope to get our share of foreign trade our capitalists and bankers must be educated to invest in ships.

"Los Angeles, as far as shipping is concerned, is hardly on the map. It is not a maritime city, but some day it will be."

He pointed out the benefit the Panama Canal tolls are to the Pacific Coast shipper, providing a sort of high protection to them against other ships passing through the canal.

S. L. Kreider, chairman of the organization, presided.

Corns Loosen Off With Magic "Gets-It"

2 Drops Do the Work, Painlessly

"I tell you, before I heard of 'Gets-It' I used to try one thing after another for corns. I still had them. I used bandages and they made my toe so big it was murder to put on my shoe. I used salves and other things that ate off more of the toe than they did the corn. I'd cut and dig with knives and scissors, but now no more fooling for me. Two drops of 'Gets-It' did all the work. It makes the corn shrivel and get so loose that you can just pick it right off with your fingers."

There has been nothing new discovered for corns since "Gets-It" was born. It's the new way—the common-sense, simple, sure way.

"Gets-It" is sold everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

MELODY HOLDS SCEPTER

RHYTHM AND SOUND TO EXERT SWAY AT THEATERS.

Mostly it's to be music at the local theaters this week. There is grand opera de luxe at Clune's Auditorium; Victor Herbert's haunting melodies, coupled with Blossom's lilting lyrics, at the Mason, and a melange of song at the Burbank. There is Phyllis Neilson-Terry, the singing tragedienne; Trovato, the eccentric genius of the violin, and Adair and Adelphi in "Song Definitions," at the Orpheum; the Harmony Maids and the Courtoom Girls at Pantages, and "Four Hundred Pounds of Harmony" at the Hippodrome. Moreover, the organists, pianists and orchestras of the various picture houses have arranged special programmes for this week. At the Morosco, theatergoers are to Seven."

Mason.

"The Princess Pat"—which means Victor Herbert music, Henry Blossom lyrics and a brilliant cast of songsters—is coming to the Mason. The first performance will be given tomorrow night and the production will be here for one week only, with the regular Saturday matinee and a special performance on Thursday afternoon, Washington's Birthday. "The Princess Pat" deals with an Irish girl, an Italian nobleman who is her husband and a bunch of interesting Long Islanders who are absolutely necessary to arouse jealousies, fight duels and help out in the chorus. Some of the song hits of the piece are "Make Him Guess," "Love is Best of All," "I'd Like to be a Quitter but I Find it Hard to Quit," "All for You," "The Shoes of Husband Number One as Worn by Number Two" and "Laughing Irish Eyes."

The big cast includes Florence Press, Blanche Duffield, Oscar Figman, William Quimby, Louis Casavant, Ben Hendricks, Jack Pollard, Isabelle Jason, Eva Fallon, Alexander Clark and Erne Scanlon.

Morosco.

By all rights a pair of queens should beat a pair of sixes. Los Angeles theatergoers have had the opportunity to see "A Pair of Sixes" and enjoyed the result very much. This afternoon they will have the chance to see "A Pair of Queens" at the Morosco.

The Morosco management makes claim for this play that it has all the spice and paprika that go to create the real, live American comedy and it is filled to the brim with mirth-provoking situations. The New York papers stated that it was by long odds the best farce New York had had in many years, and that it kept the audience in laughter from start to finish. The play was written by the authors of "The Silent Witness," "High Jinks," "Madam Sherry" and "The Three Twins."

The Morosco cast will include Ramsey Wallace, Douglas MacLean, Bertha Mann, Warner Baxter, Sue MacManamy, James Corrigan, Richard Dix, Lola May, Joseph Eggenton, Audell Higgins and others. Fred J. Butler will direct in his usual capable manner.

Burbank.

One more week of songs and jokes, pretty maids and ukuleles, smoking volcanos, shredded-wheat costumes, moonlight nights and rolling blue waves—for such is the rollicking combination at the Burbank called "Hello, Hawaii!" The comedy is to run another week because the people have been going to see it and hear it, and that is what counts at the box office.

The cast remains unchanged, with Lillian Wiggins, lyric soprano, in the leading role, supported by Ben Dillon, Hazel Ragen, Carl Case, Bob Sandberg, Bobby Ryles, Maxie Mitchell and a host of others.

Miss Wiggins's most popular number seems to be the humorous song entitled "The Dance They Did in the Days of Mother Eve."

Orpheum.

Will M. Cressy, who has written 142 successful vaudeville playlets, comes to the Orpheum tomorrow with Blanche Dayne, his wife, in "A City Chase," Mr. Cressy's newest sketch, said to be one of his best. A joint headliner is Odiva the Water Witch and her trained seals. Odiva learned her art among the Samoan pearl divers, the most expert water folk in the world. Another entertainer who will be heartily welcomed will be Trovato, an eccentric genius of the violin, whose music is always enjoyed and who is said to have a number of new selections to offer. Other excellent numbers on the bill

MUSICAL.

Opera.

NOVELTY OF JAPAN.

MASCAGNI'S "IRIS" A FEATURE FOR NIPPONESE SINGER.

Surpassing in the number of its principal singers the organization that last season delighted this city, and with a repertoire of an equally popular type, the Boston National Grand Opera Company will open its season tomorrow night at Clune's Auditorium. The offering will be Verdi's "Aida." The cast will be an exceedingly brilliant one, headed by Giovanni Zenatello as Rhadames and Luisa Villani as Aida.

The visit of the Boston National is the central feature of an exceedingly big week in local music. Very many of the leading attractions seem to have been concentrated into February, and the climactic point for the month, it appears, will be reached this week, so it behooves the music lover and the general public to arise and take observations.

As last season Max Rabinoff's opera company brought one novelty to local music lovers, so, in their present engagement, they will bring another. "Iris," which is to be presented Tuesday evening, with that fascinating little Japanese prima donna, Tamaki Miura, in the title role, is not as much of a novelty as "L'Amore dei tre Re," for, to the writer's recollection, there have been one or two performances of the Mascagni opera locally by Lambardi organizations. Nevertheless, the work will be distinctly unusual, as given by the Boston National, first because of the character of its star and second because of the adequacy which will doubtless mark this scenically difficult opera.

The Boston National has gone to especial pains to enforce the scenic realities of "Iris." The costumes and scenery were designed by Ikuma Arishima of Tokio, one of the leading artists of Japan. They are said to be splendid examples of the Nipponese art, which retain all the beautiful color tones of the oriental impressions and yet are sufficiently modern to be enjoyed by the occidental eye.

Aside from being laid in Japan, there is practically only one other respect in which "Iris" resembles Tamaki Miura's other starring vehicle, "Madame Butterfly"—both heroines taking their own lives. Aside from this, the two works have little in common. "Iris" concerns the plottings of a certain Osaka and Kyoto to work destruction in the life of a little Japanese girl. Mascagni's music has compared very favorably with that of his "Cavalleria," which has been a perennial favorite with lovers of the lyrico-dramatic.

STORY OF MASCAGNI OPERA.

"Iris" combines both allegorical and realistic elements. "Light is the language of the eternal ones—hear it!" this is the motif of the allegorical mood of "Iris," with which the opera opens and closes. The chorus of the sun, which immediately follows the prelude, is one of the most famous numbers.

The story proper of the opera begins with Iris in her garden beneath the shadow of Fujiyama. She is playing with her doll and reflecting on a dream that has disturbed her. While spying upon her, Osaka and Kyoto determine to execute their design against her by bringing a puppet play on the scene, and stealing her away while it is in progress. The motif of the sun is the crux of this little play within a play, which also deals with the sufferings of a young girl, whose father plans to sell her to a merchant.

The design of Osaka and Kyoto succeeds. The father of Iris is later informed by the people that his daughter has become an inmate of the Yoshiwara. His anger is roused against her, and he goes to curse her.

Iris, having mistaken Osaka for Jor (the sun) because he played that role in the puppet drama, does not recoil from his advances until he declares his name is Pleasure. She has been taught by the priest in an allegory that pleasure and death are one. Over her then comes fear and the longing for her home. Osaka is becoming weary of his plaything, but Kyoto, the arch-villain of the opera, plans to rouse his sensuality still further. He clothes Iris in rich robes and places her on the balcony, where the people cry out in amazement at her beauty. Then it is the father comes on the scene. He curses his child and flings mud from the street in her face. The strain has been too great upon the mind of Iris; it gives way and she rushes down a hallway and casts herself out of the window.

There is a sort of epilogue dealing with the discovery of the body of Iris. She is not quite dead. As she expires she stretches out her arms

ANIMALS IN THE MOVIES.

FOLLOWING the chickens, various other animals are breaking into the movies.

When animals first began to be used in pictures they were decidedly impromptu. When a director needed a dog or a cat he chased in front of the camera the first one he could lay his hands on, and then let it go back into private life again.

In these days the animals have become temperamental like the rest of the actors. Many of them have become famous on the screen.

Some of them are owned by the companies. Others are owned by private individuals and are leased on regular salaries to the studios. Some are even under contract like the actors. There are "extra" animals like extra actors.

One of the best-known animal actors is Teddy, the Keystone dog. He is an enormously powerful Great Dane as big as a buffalo calf. Teddy is all but human. In a comedy now running on Broadway Teddy rescues a baby from drowning; lugs it home with his immense jaws a-hold of the little dress; puts the baby in a cradle and finds the nursing bottle, which he puts in the infant's mouth and tucks him in to sleep. Teddy belongs to a lanky individual whose orders are the only ones he recognizes. His master makes a good living by reason of the fact that the dog will take no one else's orders.

A few years ago there was a great vogue for wild animals in motion pictures. Both the Selig and the Universal companies had several famous lions and tigers. Selig still devotes much attention to jungle beasts. Most other companies have gradually abandoned them because of the difficulty of getting good stories to go with them.

Lions were very easy to work with. Some of them became as gentle as dogs. In fact, one of the difficulties is to keep them from looking as though they were about to go to sleep on the job. De Wolf Hopper's ferocious lion had to be coaxed by a trail of sugar to pursue the villain. One well-known actress left animal pictures because she said it hurt her tender sensibilities to have them beat up the lions so much before a picture to make them look interested and fierce. Some one named Wallace invented a way to make a bored old lion spring into the air as though leaping upon his prey. They call that "wallacing" a lion. And it is carried under that name in all stage directions.

Tigers and leopards are quite different. It is a matter of common experience that the polar bear is the most dangerous of all animals to

SHADOW SPECTACLES.

PROCESSION OF BIG FEATURES IS CONTINUING.

Grand opera has dared to crowd "The Eyes of the World" out of its home in Clune's Auditorium, but let not picture lovers weep for, succeeding the brief opera season, the management promises a cinema entertainment to equal Wright's story. The new picture is the Fox masterpiece, "A Daughter of the Gods," which is scheduled to start the week of the 26th inst. "Joan the Woman" continues to hold the screen and the attention of big houses at the Majestic, and it looks as if it's going to take an earthquake to "oust" the beautiful French heroine from her stronghold on South Broadway.

There's not a picture house in the city that does not offer a good programme this week, and the interest of film "fans" is guaranteed by the actors and actresses who are to take part in the photoplays at the various local houses.

Among stars to appear in the cinema sky this week, are Ford Sterling, Hugh Fay, May Emory, Gene Rogers, Lionel Barrymore, Ethel Dayton, Mary MacLaren, Harrison Ford, Lenore Ulrich, Anna Luther, Theda Bara, William Courtenay, Robert Harron, Clara Kimball Young and Anita Stewart.

Tally's.

Few stories published in recent years have been so widely read as Robert W. Chambers's novel, "The Girl Philippa." Aglow with color and romance, set in an atmosphere charged with secret agents, intrigue, society and a wealth of colorful detail, the author wove a delightful love theme that charmed thousands of readers. The photoplay of this remarkable romance will be unfolded on the screen at Tally's Broadway Theater during the coming week. In this "eight-reeler," produced by the Vitagraph people, Anita Stewart takes the role of the little cabaret French girl.

Clune's Auditorium.

Following the brief grand opera season at Clune's Auditorium (which begins tomorrow) William Fox's stupendous production, "A Daughter of the Gods" will come to the Auditorium on Feburary 26. The big picture, which is said to have cost $1,000,000 in the making, features the physical marvel, Annette Kellerman, who is the "mermaid-in-chief" of 200 other mermaids. Most of the picture was taken at Jamaica and some idea of the magnitude of the production may be gained from the statement that 20,000 persons, 5000 horses and an entire fleet of steamships were used in filming the titanic spectacle.

Majestic.

Six weeks ago Geraldine Farrar, as Joan of Arc, began to entertain big audiences at the Majestic Theater—and she is still "doing the honors." She is proving to be the most charming hostess that has smiled across at happy Majestic guests for many moons. "Joan the Woman," however, is not altogether a pleasant picture. Like "The Clansman," "Intolerance" and other such masterpieces, it is not free from the deeply tragic and the terrible. The haunting music that accompanies "Joan the Woman" is as appropriate as the thunder music that helped in such large measure to make "Intolerance" a success. However, as all great literature and human life itself is tragic, we cannot reasonably expect to escape it in music and pictures. "Joan the Woman" is one of the greatest pictures of its kind ever taken. Its battle scenes, especially, are unsurpassed and probably unequalled.

Clune's Broadway.

The first play ever to have presented Robert Harron as an individual star, is the comedy drama, "The Bad Boy" which today starts the week's engagement at Clune's Broadway Theater. In "The Bad Boy," a Fine Arts production directed by Chester Withey, "Bobby" has the part of a small-town youth who belongs to a bag gang. He is persuaded to assist in robbing his father's bank, but at the last moment backs out and is then forced to become an unwilling participant. This leads to an ordeal, which is a severe lesson to the boy and ends in his reformation. Supporting Harron, are Josephine Crowell, as the bad boy's mother, William H. Brown, as the constable and other stars of the Fine Arts Company.

Superba.

Thousands of Los Angeles picture lovers will be transported to India, the land of mysticism, if they go to the Superba this week and see "The Romantic Journey," in which William Courtenay is the adventurous young American who comes to the rescue of a beautiful girl who is held in thralldom by the hypnotic powers of an oriental Svengali. While Courtenay doubtless does justice to the part he plays, it is said that Macey Harlan is equally great in her role of "Ratoor." In addition to this feature photoplay the bill at the Superba incudes the sixth episode of "Patria" and the Pathe News.

Miller's.

Who said that the vampire play had gone out of fashion and that Theda Bara would have to go to teaching Sunday-school for a living? Whoever said that would do well to take a peep in at Miller's Theater some time during the coming week and see that peer of vampires in "The Tiger Woman." Miss Bara's characterization of Irma, the hard, cold, cruel villainess, is said to outrival any role of the kind that she has ever done. The press agent informs us that the story is "fraught with thrills, mystery and tense situations," and it is easy to believe, for any picture in which Miss Bara appears is pretty sure to be "fraught" with all sorts of thoughts and sensations. Supporting the star are Glenn White, Herbert Heyes, Mary Martin, John Webb Dillon and Kittens Riechert. The additional feature at Miller's is a Fox film comedy called "There's Many a Fool," starring Carmen Phillips. The new programme starts today.

Palace.

Although the beautiful Lenore Ulrich comes to the Palace this week in "Her Own People," an Indian story written especially for her, perhaps the greater attraction at that popular little theater will be Mason's spectacle, "Greater New York," which was enjoyed by so many people last week that the management decided to keep it another week. No photoplay shown at the Palace for some time has "taken" so well with the people as these wonderful views of the great metropolis, showing the Great White Way, Chinatown, the Bowery, all the great buildings and everything curious and beautiful about the Empire City. In "Her Own People" Miss Ulrich is seen as Alona, daughter of John Kemp, a society man, and the Indian wife whom he marries after renouncing his own society, following an unfortunate love affair.

Alhambra.

Beginning with this week, the Alhambra becomes a first-run programme house, and the first production under this new arrangement is the big Fox feature, "Melting Millions," a comedy drama featuring Anna Luther and George Walsh. The story is out of the ordinary, being an account of a young man who attempts to get rid of his vast fortune simply by having a "high time." He is prevented from carrying out his idea, however, by the clever ruse of the girl who expects to marry him—and when a pretty girl "expects" to marry a young fellow he needn't expect to escape. In addition to the big feature the programme will contain another Christie comedy entitled "Out for the Coin," starring Betty Compson.

Symphony.

Featuring Lionel Barrymore, George Baker's production of Earle Mitchell's play, "The End of the Tour," will be the offering at the Symphony Theater this week. Briefly, the story is as follows: Col. Jessup, a man who seems to have no gentleness in his nature, drives his young wife from home. Choosing the first means that offers her a living, she joins a traveling theatrical company. The young wife dies, but her son lives. Later in life he goes on the stage and one day becomes stranded in the town from which his mother had fled and in which his father and sister still live. By a strange coincidence, the lad manages to rescue his sister from the coils of an unscrupulous man, and the family reunion is accomplished. Supporting Mr. Barrymore are Ethel

Decoration and Color
The Vogue in Furniture

RESPONDING to the modern demand for contrast, life and cheer in the furnishing of the home, the decorative influence in furniture which found its origin in the Far East, thousands of years ago, has been revived and is today the ruling vogue in furniture for our American homes.

Unusual stands, tables, nests of tables, sofa-end tables, dinner wagons, muffin stands, cabinets, chairs, rockers and other furniture pieces are shown in lacquer and in enamel in such unusual colors as Chinese Yellow, Mandarin Green, Vermilion and Black, wonderfully decorated in contrasting colors.

Introduced into a room of somber mahogany or oak, an odd piece or two of this furniture gives an accent and tone to the whole scheme and entirely revitalizes the atmosphere of the room.

The "California's" showing of these lacquered and enameled pieces is particularly comprehensive and unusually important—reflecting as it does the master productions of our most noted designers and decorators.

Let us assure you that there is not a more carefully-selected stock of decorated furniture shown in any store in this country, and care in selection is particularly important in the purchase of this type of furniture.

Your requirements may perhaps be only a single piece or two, but we believe that our suggestions and our assistance will help you in making those selections most satisfactory.

Some very beautiful samples of colors and decoration in furniture are now shown in one of our windows

Flonzaley Quartette.

It is unfortunate that the only concert to be given by the Flonzaley Quartette, that very excellent chamber music organization, should come during the engagement of the grand opera. However, many, many lovers of this most refined type of music will no doubt attend the concert Tuesday evening at Trinity Auditorium.

The personnel of the quartette will be the same as for the past ten years—Messrs. Betti, Pochon, Ara and D'Archambeau. The programme will include Schubert's Quartette in A minor, Beethoven's variations from the Quartette in A major and Glazounow's Quartette in D major, a series of numbers that will appeal to public and musician alike.

The Flonzaleys were organized originally by E. J. de Coppet, a wealthy New York patron of music, to play for the delectation of himself and his friends at his villa on Lake Geneva. The soirees were given at his residence, Flonzaley, from which the quartette took its name. A few years later they were brought to America, still a private organization, but so many requests were received for public appearances after the private dates that they finally devoted their entire time to concertizing.

This will be their third visit to Los Angeles.

Brahms Quintette.

However crowded may be the musical calendar there is always a special feeling of interest in the announcement of the Brahms Quintette programmes. The third concert this season by this capable organization will take place Friday afternoon and Saturday evening. Hermann Seidel, second violinist of the quintette, will be soloist.

The principal feature of the programme will be Arensky's piano quintette, Op. 51, in D major. The work is said to be full of fire and spirit, and possessed a striking breadth of harmonic effect. Haydn's melodious string quartette in D major, No. 35, will also be presented.

Mr. Seidell is to play a sonata by Tartini, which will afford him excellent opportunity.

A native of Germany, this young violinist was a pupil of Cesar Thompson, Alexander Sebald and Walter Schultz-Prisca of the Royal Conservatory of Wurzburg. At the age of 13 he played an entire programme in Berlin, and during seasons following appeared as soloist with several symphony orchestras in his native country, and concertized throughout Europe. He has been with the Brahms Quintette for the past two years.

Orpheus Club.

A novelty programme will be presented by the Orpheus Club at its second concert this season Friday evening at Trinity Auditorium. The soloist for the occasion will be Miss Frieda Peycke, composer of songs, which she renders to her own accompaniment. Members of the club, who will give solo numbers, include W. E. Green, Harold Schugart, Lawrence Tibbet. Joseph Dupuy is director. Will Garroway will accompany at the piano and Frederick Herrmann will assist at the organ. Following is the programme:

"Venezuelan Guerilla Song" (C. S. Seller,) "The Lady of the Lagoon" (Granville Bantock,) and "The Song of the Cudgel" (Sionoff-Schindler,) Orpheus Club; "When Tulips Bloom," "Humanity" and "The Vinegar Man," Miss Frieda Peycke; "The Quiet Valley," three-tone pictures for male chorus, with tenor solo (Huntington Woodman,) Harold E. Schugart; "Hens," a barnyard romance (Philip Greeley,) and "Song of the Bullet" (Will Garroway,) incidental solo, Lawrence Tibbet; "The Child in the Garden, "What the Boy Said," "Back to School," and "Corporal Punishment," Miss Peycke; "A Dusky Lullaby" (Hallett Gilberte,) organ solo, Largo from "Xerxes" (Handel,) and "Holy Art Thou" (same composition arranged for tenor solo and male chorus,) W. E. Green and club.

Matinee Musical Club.

The National Spirit of Music was the subject of a lecture by Vernon Spencer at the last meeting of the Matinee Musical Club. Mr. Spencer was assisted by Elgiva Gabrielle Hall.

The next programme will be presented by members and will be devoted to reading of original verse selections. Ben Field will be in charge.

Ida Selby Recital.

An interesting group of modern compositions will be included by Ida Selby, brilliant young local pianiste, in her programme to be presented the 26th inst., at the Woman's Club House. The selections will be from the works of Albeniz, Grainger, Bond, Debussy, Gabrilowitsch. Miss Selby's principal numbers will be Schumann's "Carnaval" and Piano Suite in D major by D'Albert. Prominent local musicians are among the patrons and patronesses of the affair.

Municipal Concert.

Three widely divergent types of songs will be presented by Gloria Mayne, soprano, as the feature of the concert under the auspices of the Schubert Club this afternoon at Trinity Auditorium. She will give tribal Indian songs, Old English and operatic arias, all in costume. The singer will be assisted by Homer Grunn, who will present a group of his own compositions; the Gade trio; Willard Newell, reader, and Hague Kinsey, organist.

MUSICAD NOTES.

The Fuhrer-De Zielinski Trio will present a musical programme this evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Duquette. Members of the trio will be assisted by Miss Sadie Stanton, violinist, and Miss Daisy Walters, viola player. Selections by G. Fitelberg, Rudolf Friml and Anton Arensky will be given. The affair will be in honor of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Genter.

Miss Halesia Hoffmeister, pupil of May McDonald-Hope, will give a recital March 5 at Symphony Hall, in the Blanchard Building. She will be assisted by Mrs. Edith Lane Decker, violin pupil of Robert Martin Staples. Pupils of Mrs. Hope were heard in an interesting programme yesterday afternoon in Music Hall, Blanchard Building. The following took part: Halesia Hoffmeister, Margery Botsford, Florence Kays, Marcella Ringemann, Gladys Bidwell, Gail Cheverton, Margery Stewart, Clement Stewart, Roberta Lauman, Evelyn Ringemann, Mary McConnell and Alicia McCone.

Jean de Chauvenet will present a programme on the organ at St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral this evening. He will play compositions by Guilmant, Batiste and MacMaster, besides his own "Romance." Mrs. De Chauvenet will sing Gounod's "O Divine Redeemer."

Isabel N. Martin, soprano, will appear in a programme of songs at the Stillwell Hotel Tuesday evening. She will be assisted by Mabelle Havens Corbet, reader; Miss Ruth Janes, accompanist; Miss Genevieve Klement, interpretative dancer, and Raymond Schouten, concert pianist. Miss Martin's songs will be presented in costume.

ONE OF THOSE DETAILS.

Getting Horse to Tumble Into Moat In "Joan."

One of the many details in the thrilling battle scenes in Cecil B. de Mille's cinema masterpiece, "Joan, the Woman," in which Geraldine Farrar is seen as Joan of Arc at the Majestic Theater, is the fall of the horse and armored knight into the moat at the drawbridge during the attack on the tower. This was one of the most difficult portions of the entire picture and although it is on the screen for not quite a second, several hours were required to secure it.

The horse and rider having been let in through the gate, the horse is supposed to be killed by a sword thrust, and he and the rider fall into the moat several feet below.

A great deal of trouble was encountered to make the horse fall from the bridge at the proper time. Mr. De Mille worked for some time to make him tumble naturally, but without success. Finally the director had so to arrange the scene that the seething mass of fighting men would crowd the horse from the structure. The horse, resenting this, fought back viciously, both kicking and biting.

The Frankenstein concerts and the Pathe semi-weekly news views are added attractions.

Pantages.

"The Secret Kingdom," Vitagraph's superb serial, in fifteen episodes, will commence tomorrow, with the new vaudeville bill, at Pantages. With Charles Richman, Dorothy Kelly, Arline Pretty and Joseph Kilgour in the leading roles, this serial film, from the scenario by Louis Joseph Vance, is said to be one of the greatest ever produced.

The vaudeville programme will be headed by "The Courtroom Girls," a musical comedy novelty from the pen of George Choos. Following "The Courtroom Girls" come the Cook Sisters, four beauties, whose lively turn has won fame for them wherever they have been. The Melvilles hail from Hollywood and are said to be exceedingly clever, while Chisholm and Breen offer a happy comedy sketch. The Three Harmony Maids and the Four Portia Sisters complete the big bill.

Hippodrome.

A world of variety, with all the vaudeville veterans right up to the minute in their respective lines, is the promise made by the Hippodrome management for its show this week. The programme holds two headliners, one of these being the Two Lowes, de luxe lariat manipulators, and the other being Madison and Nace, advertised as "Four Hundred Pounds of Harmony." A novelty idea is to be presented by the Three Anderson Sisters in a Terpsichorean change act, and Dumais and Floyd are listed with smart songs and funny sayings and are said to be exceptionally clever chaps. Weir, Temple and Dacey, "Just a Trio," also are said to be better than the average, while Evans, Lloyd and company offer a sketch called "The Alternative," being intended as a lesson to the boy who is inclined to sow wild oats. The Pacheco Troupe will do some original acrobatic stunts, while the Pathe News and good photoplays will complete the bill.

William H. Beyer, who has retired as gatekeeper at the Pennsburg, Pa., toll house, is 76 years old, and in the last twenty years has been in bed only once, and then only for three hours. He said he could not sleep in a bed and spent his nights in a chair or on the floor. Because of his ill health he is being cared for by the Pennsburg Lodge of Odd Fellows.

Much pro and con has been stirred up by my suggestion that the profession of emergency woman might be an acceptable one.

I have received letters from women wanting to be that woman and asking me just how to go about it. Letters telling me of qualifications which would answer for almost any emergency in life, from filling the chair of the President's wife to that of household plumber. It is a comfort, anyhow, to know how many perfectly capable women there are in this immediate vicinity. Not that I have ever doubted the competence of women anywhere; I am not a feminine doubter. Quite the reverse.

Thus far, my emergency woman profession idea goes very well; but—there is another side. I hear that the profession is by no means new; and that, on the contrary, at least one woman right in Los Angeles, has tried it—or it has tried her, to a finish. She tells me that she has expended time, strength and money on that plausible profession and with the result that she closely approached the starvation line while waiting for patronage. She warns me that unless I am ready to furnish the clients I am doing wrong to suggest such a profession. As I am not ready to open an employment agency—much as I would like to help all who are in need of sustenance—I shall be obliged to warn all contemplators to keep off that especial plot of thin ice.

Two Views.

We were examining a painting of eucalyptus trees when the discussion arose as to how these trees are esteemed by strangers. One woman declared that they made her sad, with their drooping leaves and their dejected air. "Why!" exclaimed another, "I find them the very reverse! The fact that their leaves are relaxed instead of standing upright, as most leaves do, gives me such a restful feeling! I like those trees especially."

A California Studio.

This talk took place in a studio, which brought to mind, by contrast, the studios in eastern cities. It was located in a ten-acre orange grove, the trees in blossom and full leaf, with loads of golden fruit, and in the background loomed the snowy peaks, while the valley was fanned by summery breezes. "I cannot but contrast this with the shut-in places where we used to work back East," said an artist of the party. "It seems as though wonderful pictures should be produced in such a place as this—and, in fact, these mountains seem to say to one: 'Go forth and be great as we—go forth and do great deeds in art and in all avenues of life!'" And is it not a fact that the works of California artists deal with the bigness of nature rather than with the small details?

In the social whirl.

Miss Phila Miller is a beautiful young society girl of Pasadena and Los Angeles whose approaching marriage to Donald O'Melveny is causing a pleasurable flutter among the smart set. Mrs. E. James Owenhouse is a charming society matron who has come from her Montana home to spend her eighth winter in Los Angeles. Mrs. L. C. Makinson is giving an at home tonight to meet the Countess de Ovies, many celebrities being included. Miss Mabel Sylvia Wigdal is prominent socially in both the Crown City and Los Angeles and an accomplished singer. Miss Sarah G. Verity, with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Verity, of Middletown, O., is at the Raymond. Her father is the president of the American Rolling Mills Company, one of the large iron manufacturing concerns in the world.

Bachelors to Shine.

By all accounts, the legendary Cinderella's ball will be relegated to the background after tomorrow night, when the bachelors give their annual Mardi Gras fancy dress party at the Alexandria. Such wonderfully alluring descriptions have been whispered about that everybody is on the qui vive. Even the Ballet Russe will be outdone by some of our socially elite, and Bacchante, assumed by one of our popular visitors, is to find a strong contrast in her hostess's garb as Hoar Frost. French maids with chic little short-skirted frocks, saucily-tilted caps and fetching aprons are, so says Dame Rumor, to flirt desperately with the chefs, while yama yama maids and Pierrot and Pierrette are to frolic a-plenty, with 200 other cleverly carried-out characterizations.

There are only sixty bachelors, and each member has the privilege of inviting but one married couple and a fair lady, so there are always some sad hearts because of the limited number of the much-coveted invitations.

The board of governors of the bachelors is: Charles A. Henderson, president; Bradner W. Lee, Jr., secretary; Henry F. Daly, treasurer; David O. Brant, Thomas Bruen Brown, Gabriel C. Duque, George H. Ennis, John Llewellyn, Reese Llewellyn, John C. Macfarland, Maynard McFie and Donald O'Melveny.

Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. Ernest A. Bryant, Mrs. Michael J. Connell, Mrs. Edward Laurence Doheny, Mrs. William May Garland, Mrs. William G. Kerckhoff, Mrs. Granville MacGowan, Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner, Mrs. Joseph Francis Sartori and Mrs. Russell McDonald Taylor are to assist as patronesses—this in itself an honor.

Thomas Bruen Brown will give quite a distinguished dinner party—just one of several that have been arranged as a merry accompaniment to the twelfth jinks of the eligibles.

Miss Guendolen V. Laughlin will entertain at her home on West Adams street in compliment to her house guest, Mrs. William D. Barnard of Philadelphia, with Mr. and Mrs. James Rathwell Page, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ridgway, Mr. and Mrs. William Kay Crawford, Miss Anita Feisenheld of New York, Miss Clara Vickers, Miss Inez Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Laughlin Jr., James Utley, Maynard McFie, George Ennis, Roy Noftzger and Dr. Morrison accepting her hospitality.

Mr. and Mrs. John Milner are also to be hosts at a dinner, as will Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Comstock, Miss Helen Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Grimm and Mr. and Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy—the latter to have the two Murphy girls of Santa Monica, Dorothy and Elsie, with Mr. and Mrs. P. Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Volney E. Howard, Miss Jean Macneil, Herbert and Norwood Howard and James Friesner.

The Comstock personnel will number Miss Winifred Maxon, Mac L. Blankenhorn, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Mines, Mr. and Mrs. J. Benton Van Nuys and Charles Hastings. Francis Graves will also be host.

One can't conscientiously dance into Ash Wednesday—this the bachelors circumvented by giving twenty-four hours' leeway, so the happy ensemble will dance well into Tuesday morning. For they have forty days to rest.

The costuming is the all-absorbing topic. Whether one drops in to a luncheon, or where the smart set is teaing, a discussion is going on about milady's attire.

Following the fashion's trend, the wave of orientalism now sweeping over the affairs dominated by the socially elect, East and West, will be noted in many of tomorrow night's creations. They've borrowed much from China, India and Japan, dress and furnishings alike, colors and lines, these days, and the bachelors' ball will reflect this richness and beauty, that can hardly be surpassed.

To Marry After Easter.

Yesterday at a luncheon given by Mrs. Edward Laurence Doheny in the Pompeiian room of her Chester place residence, partly to honor Mrs. Charles J. Canfield of Chicago, announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Clara Leonardt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leonardt of No. 2 Chester place, to Felix S. McGinnis, general passenger agent of the Southern Pacific Company and prominent in the business and social world of Southern California.

Eight years ago Mrs. Doheny had the pleasure of announcing Miss Amy Leonardt's betrothal to Frank Henry Powell, and at that time was given the promise that she might also tell the younger sister's friends when an engagement secret was to be divulged. So yesterday the news was given out. The wedding is to be soon after Easter.

It was difficult to keep the news until yesterday, especially when Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leonardt gave a cabaret dinner Thursday night for Mrs. George A. Stegmaier and daughter, Miss Kathleen, who are here from Pennsylvania to visit in the Forve household. To the dinner were bidden thirty-six guests. Small tables seating six each were adorned in red-shaded candelabra and favors, with red Lawsons about the rooms, and there was dancing between courses. Seated were Mrs. and Miss Stegmaier, Ted Stegmaier, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Forve, Miss Mary Forve and Victor Forve, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene O. McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. George Lichtenberger, Dr. and Mrs. P. G. White, Chevalier and Mrs. Secondo Guasti, Secondo Guasti, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. H. Vollmer, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lichtenberger, Mrs. Louise Denker, Mrs. Isabelle Maier, Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. McFarland, Edward Maier, Will Innis, Felix McGinnis, John McGinnis, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Ray H. Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bayer, Miss Leonardt and the hosts.

Yesterday, following the Doheny luncheon, Miss Leonardt and her fiance, with others to the number of sixty, motored to Mr. Maier's ranch for a week-end house party.

Many entertainments will follow news of the betrothal.

To Meet Mrs. Pessoni.

Mrs. Robert K. Gilbert of No. 620 South Normandie avenue had guests at the Alexandria for luncheon the past week in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. E. J. Pessoni of the north, a visitor in the city.

For English Peer.

For Earl Francis Russell of the House of Lords of England, and Lady Russell, many functions have been arranged and timed with their arrival here Friday. With their 16-year-old daughter, Earl and Lady Russell have been living quietly at Montecito, where the latter has found much inspiration for her literary work as the creator of "Elizabeth" stories.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Wilshire had them for luncheon at Pasadena yesterday, going later to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Upton Sinclair on Sunset avenue. In the evening Dr. and Mrs. John D. Haynes gave a dinner at the California Club in their honor, with the main banquet-room aglow with peach blossoms and spring flowers. A reception followed. Among the guests bidden were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Byrne, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Brundige, Mr. and Mrs. Hancock Banning, Dr. and Mrs. Norman Bridge, Mrs. James Cockins, Mr. and Mrs. James Calhoun Drake, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Dudley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Farquhar, Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Fellows, Mrs. Frank A. Gibson, Dr. and Mrs. West Hughes, Dr. and Mrs. Henry W. Howard, Mrs. John Percival Jones, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Today Earl Russell and his family are to lunch at the Bolsa Chica Club. Mrs. Hugh Livingston Macneil has arranged an informal tea for them today; her daughter, Mrs. Bertnard Smith, will receive with her.

Sunday Evening at Home.

To meet the Countess de Ovies, who is a winter guest of Mrs. Arthur Schellkoff of the Niagara Falls Power Company, now at the Green, an informal at home will be given by Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Makinson tonight at their residence on North Rampart boulevard.

The Countess de Ovies was formerly a Pittsburgh woman and is known as a lecturer on applied Egyptian psychology.

Betrothed.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Spalding of No. 134 North Gages street announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Louise, to Wilfred T. Cooper of this city.

Weds in the Orient.

At Shanghai, China, on St. Valentine's Day, Mrs. Rose Lashbrooke, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hunsaker of No. 643 South New Hampshire boulevard, Los Angeles, was married to William A. Steehler, an influential American who for years has resided in the Orient. The former Mrs. Lashbrooke sailed with a party of friends for the Orient in September, intending to spend the winter there and then continue her travels abroad during the remainder of the year. Crossing on the same boat was Mr. Steehler. Bishop Graves of the Episcopal diocese of Japan officiated at the wedding.

Mr. Steehler and his bride will reside at Shanghai, at least until the war is over, but they hope to eventually join the latter's people in Los Angeles to make their permanent home.

Mrs. William Brill and Miss Florence Hunsaker of this city are sisters of the bride.

Antenuptial.

Lambda Beta Kappa Sorority girls entertained yesterday as a courtesy to Miss Questa Franklin, who is to become the bride of John Franklin Atkinson next Saturday. A matinee party at the Morosco, followed by tea at the Alexandria, was attended by Miss Franklin, Mrs. Norman Norris, Miss Marian Demmon, Miss Bernice Sandstrum, Miss Aline C. Lindsay, Miss Willita Schrieber, Miss Merle Harrington, Miss Mildred Kemp, Miss Bonnie Schrieber, Miss Paulyne McKinney, Miss Frances Schumaker, Mrs. Frank J. Lowry and Mrs. Gardner Walker.

The tea table was done in pink sweet peas, violets and pink tulle, with places marked by hand-painted Cupid cards.

Amateur Players.

Mrs. J. Wells Smith and Mrs. Horace B. Wing will read one-act plays at the residence of Mrs. C. Q. Stanton, No. 448 Andrews boulevard, Tuesday afternoon, when the Amateur Players meet for one of their enjoyable affairs. "Three Travelers Watch a Sunrise," the play by Wallace Stephens that was awarded the prize over Ruth Comfort Mitchell Young's "The Sweetmeat Game," is to be reviewed.

Mrs. Hall's Reception.

Suggestive of the springtime were the decorations used by Mrs. Norman Delmont Hall in her entertainment of nearly 200 guests at tea Friday afternoon, with hand-painted birds and butterflies of indescribable beauty and variety fluttering about here and there or perching on huge boughs of feathery acacia, augmented by old-fashioned bouquets and festoons of smilax.

The affair was in honor of Mrs. Edward Brewster Monk, Mrs. Hall's brother's bride, who was formerly Miss Margaret Davison of Des Moines, Iowa.

Mrs. Hall was assisted by Miss Mary Goodrich Read, Miss Gertrude Gooding, Miss Helen Kemper, Miss Katharine Kemper, Miss Darling, Miss Margaret Gibson, Miss Eudora Clarke, Mrs. Randolph W. Hill, Mrs. Joseph M. Le Roy, Mrs. Arthur Holliday, Mrs. O. H. Davison, Mrs. Thomas Crane and Mrs. Lillian Monk.

An effective pink color scheme was carried out in the dining-room, with pink-shaded candelabra radiating a subdued glow over the profusion of pink sweet peas and rosebuds that were heaped into a central floral mound on the service table. Tea was also served in the library, done in orange with marguerites, daisies, jonquils and tulips, while punch was served in the sun-room that was all in blue. Flights of bluebirds suggested happiness for the bride-honoree.

During the receiving hours music gave added pleasure.

Matinee Dansant.

Mrs. Frank Hall Moon is at present enjoying a gay season at Coronado, and recently gave a matinee dansant at Hotel del Coronado in compliment to Baron and Baroness Gustav C. von Egloffstein of Portland, Or., who are winter visitors on the peninsula.

With her mother, Mrs. W. E. McCord, her sister, Mrs. J. Sherman O'Gorman, and her daughter, Miss Virginia McDonough, Baroness von Egloffstein has been in Southern California several weeks, having been joined by the Baron a fortnight ago. She was formerly Miss Grace McCord and her father is one of the big figures in the Northwest lumber industry. Her husband is a German and was formerly of the imperial army. Their homes, Villa Miramar at Gearhart, Or., and summer place, Casa Blanca, at Oak Point, Wash., are in center of hospitality in that region.

Mrs. Moon's tribute was of exquisite appointments, the personnel occupying two long tables in the center of the domed ballroom. Corsages of sweet peas, violets and maidenhair fronds marked covers for the ladies, with boutonniers for the gentlemen. The guest list is of interest, including:

Baron and Baroness von Egloffstein, Mrs. J. Sherman O'Gorman, Miss Virginia McDonough, Mrs. Read G. Dilworth, Mrs. Francis Mead, Mme. W. Blissard, Princess David Kawananakoa of Honolulu, Gen. and Mrs. John McClellan, Mrs. G. Aubrey Davidson, Mrs. George M. McKenzie, Admiral and Mrs. W. B. Caperton, U.S.N.; Mrs. J. S. Oriental Ball.

Elaboration of detail marked the oriental ball given by the Sierra Madre Club at its rooms in the Investment Building, last evening. More than 400 members and guests attended in garb of the Far East—costumes whose values ran far into the hundreds. The clubrooms were draped in a bewildering manner with tapestry of the Celestial Empire and the land of Nippon, and the rugs of Turkey and Arabia.

It was a most colorful event—sultans robed in many colors with bejeweled turbans; Chinese mandarins in long flowing coats; bearded Moors, who danced with Geisha girls of Japan, gowned in multicolor silken kimonos; petite China maids in silken pantaloons and bob-tailed jackets, Salome dancers of the East, in baggy bloomers and jeweled corsages, and harem houris in dazzling draperies.

Preceding the dancing, a remarkable dinner, featuring the choicest viands of the Orient, was served by attendants wearing the apparel of Chinese coolies. The rare old syrups of the Orient were consumed by the diners, while the fragrant odor of burning incense lent an air of subtle mysticism.

Eastern Guests.

Mrs. Amelia Barbour, her two sisters, the Misses Olive and Josephine Nordstrum, and their brother, Gus Nordstrum of Rockford, Ill., are here on their annual pilgrimage and will remain several months. They are at the Young apartments on South Grand avenue.

Not So Forbidding.

The opening of Lent will see an interesting list of dinners and luncheons at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, this month's last formal dance and dinner having been the St. Valentine fancy dress affair of last Wednesday evening, when more than 300 members and guests made merry. Among the numerous large dinner parties were those of Mrs. Mary Young Moore, whose guests numbered thirty-eight; M. G. Baker, who entertained thirty; Dr. and Mrs. George H. Kress, fourteen; H. L. Deardorff, eleven; R. R. Dickinson, ten, and W. W. Gibbs, Jr., ten. Dancing was enjoyed until late.

Of the recent dinner and luncheon entertainments, a considerable number were for visiting guests. Monday Mrs. Charles G. Shipman gave a luncheon in the Ladies' Annex and Tuesday Paul A. Jasberg and O. H. Moore, Jr., were dinner hosts, each entertaining a party of six. E. G. Desell and H. M. Haldeman entertained with luncheons, the former's party of eleven gathering in the red room, and the latter having the English room for his party of ten. Mrs. P. H. Music—Dancing.

More than 200 members and guests attended the Badger Club musical and dancing party St. Valentine's eve at the Ebell clubhouse. The hour of music was arranged by Miss Margaret Goetz and the singers were the Misses Alice Bartlett, Marjory Botsford, Nellie Coburn, Gertrude Pentland, Georgia McDonald, Ina Ryder, Anna Neuschaser, Serilla Malin, Grace Morgan and Agnes Mosher, with Miss Helen Bruhn, accompanist at the piano. The affair was in charge of Mrs. Walter J. Way, Mrs. H. E. Thickens, Mrs. L. A. Gould and Mrs. Leonard D. Silver.

This was a departure for the Badger Club, which is mainly devoted to the serious work of philanthropy and reform. It was the thought of the president, Mrs. Arthur C. Labrie, and of the music chairman, Miss Margaret Goetz, and such was its success, there is talk of making it an annual event.

The club's twenty-seventh annual entertainment, set for March 23, is the next big event scheduled there. Arrangements are in charge of George Boswell and Joseph Zuckerman.

OUT-OF-TOWN SOCIETY.

Pasadena.

THE social season is in full swing at the Pasadena hotels and every hotel is filled to capacity with easterners who are literally basking in the summer weather. Golf and dancing, bridge and automobile tours fill the days, which seem slipping by on golden wings.

In point of numbers, brilliancy of costume and elaborateness of floral decoration, the ball of flowers at the Maryland Wednesday evening was one of the most interesting social events of the year in Pasadena. Reservations were made for more than 1000 persons at the dinner which preceded the entertainment programme and the ball.

The lobby and ballroom had been made a place of unusual beauty for the occasion. All about overhead was an artistic latticework effect in which wistaria was intertwined. A stage built out from the mezzanine floor was banked with flowers and greenery. Here the programme of special entertainment features was given. The ballroom was filled with chairs, but there were not enough to seat one-half of the crowd, which flowed over into and filled the lobby.

The programme contained thirteen numbers. First came "Good-by to Winter," in which a group of bright-faced little boys in fur-trimmed clothes came gaily onto the stage as heralds of the "Wind Fairies," charming little girls making a delightful picture in gauzy garments of green. They represented spring and brought the breath of spring and the atmosphere of joyous youth with them. The following boys and girls took part in this scene: Nathan Hunt, Sumway Suffel, James Pitcher, Harold Barbour, Winn Canfield, Thomas Klingsmith, Otto Pitcher, Watson Lawton, Fletcher Skinner, Charles Klingsmith, Robinson Pitcher, Sredwick Watkins, Mary Bell, Kate Winn, Hope Brooks, Mary Watkins, Louise Barnes, Priscilla Darlington, Suzanne Anderson, Barbara Ann Levett, Roberta Craig, Louise Carr, Dorothy Bickel, Jane Newell, Marjorie Shute.

Mrs. Edwin Francis Holmes, Queen of the Flowers, led the first dance with Don Blair as her partner. Mrs. Holmes was fascinating in a stunning silver net gown, studded with flowers for jewels. She wore a magnificent rope of diamonds and gems sparkled from her fingers. Among those who entertained at dinner were the following: Mrs. Edwin Martin, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Bower, Mrs. J. Lowman, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Bell, Mrs. H. I. Park, Mr. and Mrs. Watson D. Crocker, W. S. Kienholz, Miss A. A. Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Suffel, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Conkling, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Mr. Hutchins is the head of the legal department of the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank and a business associate of Mr. Shedd's.

One of the prettiest dinner parties given Valentine's night at the Raymond was that of Miss E. G. Pattison and Miss S. S. Pattison of New York City. Cupids and hearts in keeping with the day celebrated were the favors and the dinner was a most enjoyable one. The guests were Mrs. W. S. Simmonds and Miss Gertrude Simmonds of New York and Miss M. R. Hall of Newton, N. J.

HONORING Miss Margaret Ball, who is to wed Reginald Washburn in the near future, Miss Dorothy Smale was hostess Wednesday at a kitchen shower given at her home, No. 1324 Fifth street. The shower was presented by 2-year-old Barbara Smale wheeling in the gifts on a little wagon.

Hearts were played during the afternoon, Mrs. Arthur Frese capturing first prize; Miss Idabelle Vawter, second, and Miss Marguerite Fogel, third. Following the shower Miss Imogene Crane gave one of her clever readings, "Mud Pies."

Those asked to share in the happy affair were Mesdames Arthur Frese, D. V. Swinney, Kenneth Smale, Neil Nettleship, Arthur Gripp, John Horbach and the Misses Margaret Ball, Willie McPherson, Catherine Balsley, Olga Reams, Beatrice Peiffer, Louise and Catherine Cowell, Idabelle Vawter, Berenice Wolf, Martha Westbrook, Avline Jones, Margaret Van Dyke, Marguerite Fogel, Josephine Dodge, Marian Shermerhorn, Dorothy Risk and Pauline and Dorothy Smale. An interesting study of Robert Louis Stevenson's work, "Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde," formed the topic of a very instructive paper read Wednesday afternoon before the travel section of Santa Monica Bay Woman's Club, by Mrs. E. N. Reed. She delved deep into the personality of the author, showing the traits in human life he wished to present in his remarkable story.

A happy little reunion filled with school-day reminiscences was held Thursday, when Miss Marian Shermerhorn of Washington avenue was hostess to a small party of friends, all graduates of Chevy Chase girls' school in Washington. Yellow blossoms carried out the pretty color motif at the luncheon, to which were bidden Miss Matice Horrell of Pasadena, Miss Josephine and Miss Alice Murray of Soldiers' Home, Miss Constance Sharp of Seattle, and Miss Effie May Frazee of Indiana.

Hearts, valentines and kewpies made the tables and rooms gay at the pretty apartments of Miss Berenice Noel, Fourth street and Wilshire boulevard, when she entertained the Monday Musical Club this week. The programme of the day was strictly informal, those contributing being the hostess, Miss Charlotte Lasser, Miss Virginia Myers and Miss Marjorie Nutting. Other guests of the delightful afternoon were Mesdames R. A. Phillips, F. Hillebrand, Hughes Garr and the Misses Frances Roberts, Mary Ward Sanderson, and Mrs. Noel, mother of the hostess.

Garden Grove.

MISS STELLA JESSUP, very delightfully entertained the Thursday Afternoon Club of Santa Ana recently, the young women of the organization enjoying not only the pleasant hospitality of their hostess, but the journey to Garden Grove, which is justly regarded as one of the most attractive small cities in Southern California. Progressive rook was played, Mrs. A. V. Todd receiving the first prize and Miss Mildred Cook taking the consolation. Very delicious refreshment was served after the games. The house was prettily decorated for the afternoon event.

Another pleasant affair given for out of town people, was the evening given by Miss Helen Hedstrom for the members of the Spanish Commercial Club of the Anaheim High School on Thursday. The atmosphere of the evening was distinctly Spanish, only the softly flowing words of that language being spoken and the games all being of Spanish origin. The refreshments were in keeping with the tone of the entertainment and the guests hugely enjoyed the entire evening. Fourteen persons enjoyed Miss Hedstrom's courtesy.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Chaffee, Mrs. A. J. Chaffee, with Mr. and C. G. Reed, and Mrs. Walter Reed and daughter of Santa Ana, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Johnson of Rivera and Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Newsom of Long Beach, with a number of relatives of the latter who are spending the winter in Southern California, formed a party recently for a day in beautiful Orange County Park, where all the joys incident to a picnic were enjoyed. The picnic dinner was eaten under the magnificent live oak and sycamore trees that form one of the chief charms of the park. Others in the party besides those mentioned were Mrs. Herbert Miskin of Vancouver, B. C., Mrs. Della Chaffee and Mr. W. T. Chaffee of Pawpaw, Ill., and Mrs. L. E. Chaffee of Valparaiso, Ind.

Rev. and Mrs. George Francis and family, recently coming to Garden Grove, where Rev. Moneta.

MR. JACOB LONG, a former newspaper man in New York and an older brother of Mr. Ben Long, is staying at the Long home on Cypress street for a few days. He recalls his first love for California, as he looked over these same broad, sweeping acres of his brother now seventeen years since. That this early love remained constant is evidenced by his securing three years ago in Huntington Park a delightful home. At this same hospitable home are other guests, Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Long of Los Angeles, for a couple of days, and Miss Edna Hall of Sangruth, Manitoba. Miss Hall, too, is drinking in a love of California from the Long point of view. She will see to it that her father and mother are in Southern California another winter.

Early in the week Miss Grace McCleery was the guest for a couple of days of Dr. Marian Games of Los Angeles.

Mrs. J. H. Bowen gave a delightful raviola dinner one day last week. This does not name the piece de resistance, but is a delicious entre, according to the hostess, made up of all sorts of things. Violets were given the ladies as favors and were also used beautifully in the table decoration. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Allen Paull, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Towne and daughter, Blanche Towne, Mrs. Barbara Jones, Mrs. May McLaughlin and Miss May Elliston.

On Tuesday evening Miss Elliston was hostess to a small group of friends welcoming Mrs. F. O. Baley of San Diego, who is visiting her brother, Mr. B. Sanning of Gardena.

Birthdays seem to come in bunches here. A delightful party at the O. S. Gorham home on Union avenue celebrated recently that of the host, his daughter, Mrs. M. A. King of Hawthorne, and a cousin, Miss Gladys Usrey of Redondo. Many tiny gifts, all in immense packages, for the three caused much fun. A delightful feast was spread. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. William Usrey, Mrs. Hattie Rathaway, Mrs. Harry Cushman and Miss Arlene Cushman, Mrs. Schmidt and daughter and Mrs. Hollenbeck of Redondo, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stock and Chester Stock of Burbank, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Herring and Ernest, Bea and Ruby Herring and Mr. and Mrs. George Schmidt of Lomita and Miss Mary Gray of Moneta.

At the home of the bride there gathered Misses Justine Whitney, Hattie Powers, Edwina Collins, Ruby Cameron, Vergil Trumbull, Esther Fluor and Hetty Murdy, and Mrs. Elizabeth Donovan, Mrs Orel Hare and Mrs. D. Campbell. From a large bell at the chandelier were streamers to which were tied hearts and cupids. At each cover was found a Valentine with the names of the couple who are to be married in June. At the same hour Joshua Pyle was host at his home to the groom-to-be and several of his men friends, William Keseman, D. Campbell, Orel Hare, Abe Kettler and Willard Shell.

Through the ingenuity of their daughter Mr. and Mrs. George S. Briggs were given a pleasant surprise affair on the evening of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Briggs were called away for a visit with some friends, and while they were gone a party of friends gathered at their beautiful home on North Broadway. During the evening auction bridge was the diversion. Handsome prizes were awarded to Mrs. J. P. Hatzfeld, A. W. Rutan and Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Forgy. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rutan, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hatzfeld, Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Forgy, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Yarnell and Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Scott.

Clear, Peachy Skin Awaits Anyone Who Drinks Hot Water

Says an inside bath, before breakfast helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Sparkling and vivacious — merry, bright, alert—a good clear skin and a natural, rosy, healthy complexion are assured only by pure blood. If only every man and woman could be induced to adopt the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls, with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

Much enjoyment was given those who attended the piano recital arranged by Miss Carolyn Haughton. Among those who gave selections were tots from the kindergarten.

In honor of her sixteenth birthday Miss Miriam Flagg was hostess at a dancing party given at the Hebard Dancing Academy. Valentine decorations were much in evidence. Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Flagg were assisted in chaperoning by Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Campbell. The guests were Misses Guendolyn Hoyle, Muriel Cravath, Florence Neff, Margaret Flagg, Helen Hargett, Marian Scudder, Myrtle Law, Athleta Merigold, Effie Wylie, Lueima Neff, Esther Zimmerman, Virginia Metzgar, Mildred Murphy, Blossom Ward, Mary Smith, Loraine Roberts, Margaret Lyon, Ella Slocum, Dorcas Neff, Mabel Ziegler, Hazel Neidler of Anaheim, Louise Campbell, Kathleen Trago; Messrs. Eugene Trago, Frank Sproul, Charles Givens, Ross McPhee, Charles Kendall, Claude Wilbur, Harold La Mar, Fred Forgy, Robert Jeffrey, Robert Hill, Houston Metzgar, Russell Johnson, Warren Fletcher, Leigh Faul, Virgil Pentecost, Donald McDonald, Cornish Roehm, Eugene Eckley, Basil Smith, Harry Kendall, Lee Eckley, G. E. Hebard, Charles Findley, Ed Darling, Wilfred Schryer of Anaheim, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Campbell.

A dainty three-course luncheon, with Valentine decorations predominating, was served by Miss Lottie Morris Wednesday evening. Music by Miss Carolyn Haughton and Miss Flossie Zerman was much appreciated. Those present were Misses Gladys Cook, Catherine Morris, Carolyn Haughton, Flossie Zerman, Minnie Phillips, Ethel Morris, Lottie Morris, and Messrs. George Ketcher, Bob Morris, Ralph Chappell, R. C. Patton and Lloyd Chappell.

Former residents of Medicine Lodge, Kan., were guests at a reunion given by Mr. J. P. Hall, Mrs. J. S. Runyan and Mrs. Roy Hall. Most of the time was spent in talking over old times in their former home town. Those present were Mrs. C. W. Ellis and Miss Marjory Ellis of Medicine Lodge, Mrs. R. A. Cameron, Mrs. C. H. Eldred and Miss Ruth Cameron, who are wintering at Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Stone of Pasadena, Mrs. M. Y. Barnum, Mrs. M. J. Wall, Mrs. J. P. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Runyan and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hall.

The progressive dinner given by the N.M.U. Club proved to be an unusually pleasant series of affairs. The dinner began at the home of Miss Joy Baker and progressed through the homes of Misses Mary and Eunice Whipple, Miss Zelma Sturgeon and Misses Frances and Gertrude Potts. Miss Frances Potts was toastmistress at a pleasing after-dinner season of toasts. Those present were Misses Lillian Breed, Virgil Potts, Grace White, Minnie Koplin, Harriet Allison, Grace Lee Dickey, Ruth Armstrong, Jennie Dale, Carrie Stafford of Los Angeles, Carolyn Lawton of Sheffield, Ill.; Mmes. Harry W. Wilson, Jr., Jack Hayden, Charles Cotant and John Sauers. The club members are Mrs. Jack Palmer, Mrs. Walter Eaton, Misses Mary and Eunice Whipple, Frances and Gertrude Potts, Alice Wasser, Marguerite Wallace, Adeline Hill, Hazel Stockslager, Zoe Vanderlip, Joy Baker and Zelma Sturgeon.

Tropico.

A MERRY birthday surprise party was given Monday evening at the home of Mrs. J. Burbank of No. 307 Blanche avenue when her grand-daughter, Miss Mabel Glio, was surprised by twenty-eight young friends in honor of her birthday anniversary. The honoree was taken unawares and invited to the home of a girl friend. When she returned she found the rooms gay with Valentine decorations and kewpies, and a host of smiling friends to wish her many happy returns of the day. Games were played through the evening and later a buffet supper was served. The guests were Margie Wallace, Will Hewitt, Ethel Baker, Roger Baker, Helen Muhlemann, Charles Klamm, Beulah, Francis and Hazel Millard, Raymond Fish, J. Dishman, Hazel Stickley, Laura Fillinger, Arthur Norman, Leverett Goddard, Emily Kopp, Edna Philips, Billy Marple, Irene Mauk, Clyde Phillips, Ethel Baird, Enid Deeds, Blanche Cramer and Joe McBride.

An enjoyable Valentine social was given Friday evening by the Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the social hall of the building. A large crowd helped make the affair a success from every standpoint, and the games kept ennui from the merrymakers until far into the night. Miss Edna Philips won the first prize for cutting out a heart blindfolded, and for the best Valentine made from materials furnished, Miss Marion Kennedy was declared the winner of the prize. After a bountiful repast, several pies were auctioned off, the proceeds going into the league treasury.

The Thursday Afternoon Club held a most entertaining meeting. The room was attractively decorated with spring flowers and eucalyptus branches, and vases of bright flowers filled the corners. Dr. Jessie Russell was the chief speaker, and chose as her subject legislation of interests to women. After the meeting tea and wafers were served.

Mrs. H. P. Goodwin of No. 142 West Tenth street entertained the members of Chapter A. H. of P. E. O. Friday, at her home. The house was decorated most effectively with yellow acacia and blue lupines, the club colors, in honor of the occasion. After the business meeting a short programme was held consisting of a piano solo by Mrs. Sina Van Etten, and an interesting paper on "The Women of France" read by Mrs. Ida B. Ludden. Afterward dainty refreshments were served. Those present were Mrs. John Logan, Mrs. J. Stephenson, Mrs. Wesley Bullis, Mrs. Herbert Smith, Mrs. Emil Tholen, Mrs. Leigh Bancroft, Mrs. William C. Mabry, Mrs. Sina Van Etten, Mrs. Ida B. Ludden, Mrs. W. C. Wattles, Mrs. Hal Davenport, Mrs. Alma Philips, and the hostess, Mrs. H. P. Goodwin.

Mrs. Charles Wallace Kimberly, president of the Thursday Afternoon Club entertained the ladies of the executive board Wednesday afternoon at her home at No. 345 South Fernando road. Civic improvement and betterment was discussed, and plans were made for the first March meeting which will be complimentary to the husbands of the ladies of the club. Light refreshments were served by the hostess and a social hour enjoyed.

A jolly picnic and bonfire roast was held Saturday afternoon and evening by the members of the Methodist Episcopal Choir and the Epworth League at Griffith Park. The distribution of the "eats" was most satisfactory, the feminine contingent furnishing the lunch, and the boys the supplies for the evening meal. After watching the moon rise from the famous Bee Rock, the party gathered around the campfire until a late hour to tell stories, sing songs, and watch an impromptu wrestling match between Will Hewitt and Will Marple.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Luce of West Liberty, Iowa, were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wallace Kimberly, who entertained them with a auto ride to San Bernardino, and dinner in Los Angeles.

Mrs. M. Shick and daughter, Miss Lillian Shick of No. 811 North Central avenue motored to Venice and Ocean Park Sunday afternoon with several Los Angeles friends.

Long Beach.

RUSSELL W. LAMOREAUX and Miss Iris L. O'Toole, both of Van Nuys, were married here Tuesday morning at 7:30 o'clock in the parsonage of the First Methodist Episcopal Church. Owing to a recent death in the family of the bride the wedding was a quiet one. Only relatives of the bride and groom were present. Following a wedding breakfast the couple left for a brief honeymoon in San Diego. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Lamoreaux will spend two weeks in this city at the home of the groom's parents in Los Cerritos Heights. Until two years ago Mr. Lamoreaux resided in Long Beach, where he conducted a contracting business. After March 20 the couple will be at home in a recently-completed bungalow, built by the groom, on Lennox drive, Van Nuys.

Miss Mayme Allen of No. 1013 Locust avenue entertained with a prettily-appointed card party Tuesday evening, with five hundred as diversion. Those sharing the favor were Misses Edna and Flora Jewel, Gertrude and Martha Card, Grace Clark, Mattie Paine, Helen Sweet, Ruth Smart, Maud Homer, Bertha and Ella Wasem, Lillian Lahmer, Amie and Hallie Spicer, Helen Sargent, May Knight, Florence Kelly, Mmes. Frank Parmley, C. L. Jordan, Thomas Berry, Clayton Graybill, C. T. Hard, W. L. Lambert of Long Beach; Miss Dennie of Los Angeles, Mrs. H. H. Rockwell of Artesia and Mrs. A. L. Card of Tacoma.

If Every Woman in Los Angeles Knew The TRUTH About the Goodness of These New Spring Styles—

—There would not be a single one left by closing time tomorrow.

—As much of the absolute truth is being told in the words and pictures of this announcement as can be crowded in, but it would take more words than can be put in these columns to tell of all the prettiness and new style points that the new suits and coats, and dresses, we've assembled, contain.

—It would take several hours alone to convey the real smartness of these

Suits at $25.00—The Styles on Which We Have Spent Unusual Effort

—Take this tricotine suit illustrated, for instance. The front shows a very novel belt with two tabs, also four well set and well fitting box pleats on either side. The back shows a finely modeled contour and a large pointed collar. It comes in rose, tan, pearl-gray, beige, Kelly-green, black and white checks and apple green. And that isn't half there is to tell.

—A Norfolk model of light weight wool velour is pleated from a deep-yoke and has a narrow belt all 'round. The white pearl buttons, white collar and cuffs and the white piping on the buttonholes set off the deep American Beauty color.

—These are scores and scores more equally as fine; also a wonderful new assortment of tailored suits in black and navy serges, Poiret twills, gray homespuns, eight different kinds of hairline stripes and checked wool velours. Some are strictly tailored, with Gibson pleats, rows and rows of buttons and pockets. And they are bound in black silk braid and have P. K. facings at the collar and revers. Other new suits are $29.75, $32.50 and $35.

New Spring Coats Are Rich and Gay in Colorings

—But the colors are not the only feature though that is the first thing you'll notice. The styles are decidedly new and quite as bewitching as the colors. Almost every coat boasts a belt, sometimes two.

Three of the Newest Coats Just Received are Invitingly Priced—$13.50, $19.75, $25

—One model at $13.50 is certainly an exceptional value. It is of wool velour and has three rows of silk stitching around the bottom and on the collar and cuffs. The front is neatly belted. There are all sizes.

—Coats at $19.75 are of plaids and wool velours in apple green, Spanish gold, American beauty, Copenhagen, orange and combinations of these colors in the plaids. The styles are full flaring and show new collars and pockets.

—In the $25 assortment there are chiffon wool velours that have yokes in the back, belts in front and silk stitching on collars and cuffs.

It is a Great Delight to Choose Spring Dresses Where the Prettiest are —New dresses just out of their wrappings have lots of interest and you'd be surprised to see how many women are buying two and even three at one time, to wear immediately.

—They are of taffeta, serge, crepe de chine and these materials in combination with georgette. They have many new little features and you'd never suspect their prices were only $19.75, $22.50 and $25.00.

Spring Styles in Lingerie Blouses are Here

—Three crisp, snowy and dainty new models just received—every woman will love them.

—A fine white voile with inserts of embroidered organdy and val. lace. It is $1.95. A voile has a gathered frill down the front. Its new collar, which is cut round in back, is pointed at the shoulders. it is $2.95. The third is also of voile. The cuffs are deep and they turn back. Pretty val. lace trimmings. $3.95.

THE MARK OF GOOD CLOTHES HF

The Machinery of the Body.

(BY DR. I. W. SHORT)

The body is a highly organized machine of complicated parts in which the liver and kidneys work for the common good. Damage to either one of these organs interferes with a man as a motor mechanism. The automobile expert knows how important it is that the carburetor does not get too much fuel, along with sufficient air to burn or explode the gas. Too much fuel in man's machine, such as eating too much meat, or alcohol or tea, and the liver cannot "turn-over," nervous overwork and lack of exercise in out-door air bring constipation and bad health. Eat less meat, plenty of vegetables, and with air and good exercise you need little else. If the liver needs rousing—and most of us need this once a week—take a safe vegetable extract of the leaves of aloe, May-apple, root of jalap made into a tiny sugar-coated pill, and sold by almost every druggist as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets—first put up nearly fifty years ago.

Most people die eventually of an over-acid condition. If the blood can be rendered more alkaline the longer we live. With regular hours, plenty of water between meals, sensible coarse food and a chance to get the poisons out of the system, a man will live to be a hundred. But, unfortunately, our highly nervous way of living brings increased storage of uric acid in the body. This acts as a poison, and we suffer from lumbago, aches or pains, rheumatism, gout.

Get rid of this uric acid poison by taking a harmless medicine called Anuric, which throws out the uric acid by stimulating the kidneys. Drink a pint of hot water before meals and take Anuric (double strength,) three or four times a day. Anuric can be obtained at almost any drug store.

Just One Application and the Hairs Vanish

(Toilet Talks)

Any woman can keep her skin free from unsightly hair or fuzz if she will follow these simple instructions: When hairy growths appear, apply a simple paste, made by mixing some water with powdered delatone. Apply this to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is a harmless treatment, but be sure you get the real delatone.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a 50-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store, all ready for use. This is the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles You.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become over-worked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness, and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How to Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffling, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. Relief is sure.

Dandruff Surely Destroys the Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

A Word

—in general

—The "Not Advertised" portions of Bullock's are so frequent and of such compelling interest that it would seem that one of the most important functions of Bullock's advertising must be to emphasize the force of these "Not Advertised" sections—

—Any business that is sincerely striving in the interests of its customers, is devoting so much time and energy to building service and strengthening regular stocks that it is difficult for publicity to keep pace with progress.

—At this very writing, Bullock's is teeming with new merchandise of springtime.

—Much of it will get first showing on Monday morning—much of it will be in new homes by Monday noon-time—

—All of it will be —"On the Jump and Go"

—It is so with much of the most valuable and desirable of merchandise always—particularly at the opening of the new seasons—

—So this space has been given today to the purpose of Advertising those items that will not be advertised—[to accomplishing the impossible, as it were, as the impossible can best be accomplished.]

—It would urge that, as the sun of springtime rises higher and higher, you remember the new merchandise, that you may know is thronging to Bullock's, and the multitude of items that will not be advertised at all.

—The right Corset will harmonize style with comfort—and comfort with style to the advantage of both.

The Ivy Corset

—It seems as though women will know they are At Bullock's—almost without being told—Bullock's has been doing so many unusual, unexpected things that are worthwhile, particularly concerning STYLE—

Intense Itching Of Large Blotches On Child's Head

Face and Limbs. Red and Fiery. Could not Sleep. In Two Months Cuticura Healed Sound and Well.

"My little daughter began breaking out on her head in small pimples or blisters which discharged a watery fluid. In a day or two these dried and formed a rough, scaly surface. This continued to break out about every two weeks, spreading out larger until her scalp, face, and limbs were covered with large blotches, red and fiery. The itching was so intense we had to keep her hands tied and she could not sleep or let any one else. It was a life of torture.

"We heard of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and began to use them. A wonderful change took place at once and in two months' time she was healed sound and well." (Signed) Mrs. Arch Lagle, Depauw, Ind., Oct. 4, 1916.

Why not prevent these distressing skin troubles by making Cuticura your every-day toilet and nursery soap aided by touches of Ointment now and then to remove the first signs of pimples, rashes and dandruff. Do not confound these delicate emollients with coarsely medicated soaps and ointments.

For Free Sample Each by Return Mail address post-card: "Cuticura, Dept. H, Boston." Sold everywhere.

SOCIETY.

Bowes, and District Deputy Grand Matron, Miss Bessie Pendleton. Two hundred and fifty guests partook of the banquet, which was a feature of the event. The degree team of the visiting Santa Ana chapter put on the work and was highly congratulated for its efficiency.

Earl Grigsby was the honoree of a jolly surprise event on a recent Saturday evening, the affair having been arranged by Miss Emily Miller and Jay Morrison. The company included Misses Emily Hiller, Dorothy Pease, Ilah Adams, Helen McGill, Mary Flaharty, Gladys Claypool, Marjorie Wilson, Florence Miller, Virginia Clement, Marjorie Sears, Messrs. Earl Grigsby, Garland Coltrane, William Brown, James Hiller, Julius Schaffert and Jay Morrison.

Owensmouth.

THE Owensmouth Woman's Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. J. M. Ely Wednesday afternoon, at which time an unusually interesting musical and literary programme was enjoyed. Mrs. G. H. Miller read a well-written paper on current events, followed by an address on education by Mrs. J. L. Waring. The Gary system of education was reviewed by Miss Zena O'Connor, formerly of Gary, Ind. Military training in the high schools of California was indursed by Mrs. W. A. Driscoll, president of the West End Parent-Teacher Association. A number of selections were rendered by the high school orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. John Haas and daughters, the Misses Addie and Edith, entertained the members of the Epworth League and their friends on Saturday evening at their home on Workman avenue. A very pleasant social season was enjoyed, interspersed with a number of original and interesting games.

The Owensmouth branch of the Boy Scouts of America entertained the fathers of the boys at an old-fashioned camp fire on Thursday evening. The affair was staged on Eagle Point, and the boys carried out a programme of events which proved most entertaining to the guests.

The first public entertainment given by the music and drama sections of the Owensmouth Woman's Club took place in the high school auditorium on Wednesday evening, when the club members and their friends were invited to a musical and literary production by local talent. Mrs. E. G. Harbold had charge of the musical portion of the programme, with Mrs. W. E. Bechtelheimer in charge of the dramatic features, which included three short plays and a stately minuet executed by eight young ladies in colonial costumes. The harp selections by W. E. Bechtelheimer were particularly pleasing, as was the piano duet by Mrs. C. F. Hale and Mrs. E. G. Harbold. Mrs. Edith Round Smith of Redlands gave two pipe organ numbers most acceptably. The selections rendered by the Woman's Club orchestra were well received.

Dr. J. A. Frost, former dean of the Northwestern University of Minneapolis, accompanied by his wife, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Hartsough, graduates of that institution. Miss Gertrude Martin, also a student at the university, is a member of the party.

Redlands.

MISS MARY HAMILTON of West Highland avenue, Regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution of this city, whose engagement to Dr. John L. Marquis of Phoenix, Ariz., was recently announced, was the guest of honor at a colonial tea given at the home of Mrs. Fred W. Davis, No. 519 Cajon street. The colonial interior of the Davis home lended itself admirably as a setting for the affair. The rooms were decorated with blue lupine in brown pitchers of olden times. The ladies were all picturesquely gowned in colonial dresses with quaint hairdress and many of them wore prized heirlooms. Miss Cora Lombard furnished the programme for the afternoon, reading a colonial love story written by a Puritan maiden, Ruth Starbuck Wentworth, in 1726, entitled "The First Cup of Tea Brewed on Nantucket Island." The most delightful feature of the afternoon was the handkerchief shower for Miss Hamilton. A prize had been offered for the most beautiful gown and by prearrangement the judges awarded it to Miss Hamilton. She was presented with an old-fashioned nosegay in a lace paper holder, Mrs. Mary M. Ferry Allen, Past State Regent of Utah, making the presentation speech. It was a shower bouquet and at the end of each ribbon streamer there was a handkerchief with an original poem by the donor. During the tea hour the lights were turned out and the rooms lighted by candles in silver and brass candelabra. Mrs. John Shreck and Mrs. William Thorn presided over the tea table. Mrs. Baker of Santa Barbara, Mrs. Weaver of Lowell, Mass., and Mrs. Wanamaker of Philadelphia, were the out-of-town guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kline entertained the members of the Five Hundred Club at their home on Home place, Thursday evening. Valentine ideas were carried out in the decorations. Five hundred was played and Mrs. William Webster and W. W. Taylor were awarded for their skill. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. William Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Starkweather, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shallenberger, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Thornquest, Mr. and Mrs. John Hager, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kline.

Flowers were used profusely about the church and Mrs. Edwin Deffenbach and Mrs. C. E. Hill sang several vocal duets. There was a special song service in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCready of No. 81 Eleventh street entertained at dinner on Friday evening in honor of Father Edward Bradley, who has been transferred from his post at the St. James Catholic Church in Redondo Beach to Bakersfield. Following the dinner Father Bradley was the guest of honor at Hotel El Ja Arms, where a reception was tendered him.

The Epworth League of the Methodist Church entertained with a Valentine party on Friday evening at No. 710 Third street. About fifty were present.

Mr. and Mrs. James Owens of Second street entertained sixteen young people on Tuesday night in honor of their son Harry, who celebrated his sixteenth birthday.

ACHIEVEMENT DE LUXE.

Huge Kellermann Spectacle "The Daughter of the Gods" to Open Engagement Here Following Opera Season at Auditorium.

Never in the memory of the oldest amusement caterer, it is asserted, has there been attempted anything so pretentious as "A Daughter of the Gods," the William Fox $1,000,000 picture beautiful, featuring Annette Kellermann, which will be shown at Clune's Auditorium beginning the 26th.

To give an idea of the colossal undertaking it may be said that for the purpose of his production Mr. Fox built a city, with all modern improvements, that accommodated a resident population of about 20,000 persons. To shelter this great body and to produce the picture, Mr. Fox took over an entire island by lease from the British authorities at Kingston, Jamaica, and, like a supreme sovereign, governed it in every detail from his office in New York, some 1500 miles away.

Meeting with the obstacles of war, plagues, floods and hurricanes, he finally surmounted all of them and accomplished the screen fantasy, it is said, of the century. For two scenes alone, the one in the mythical kingdom of Gnomeland, the other the armed camp of the Mad Sultan, Mr. Fox undertook that which had never before been attempted.

For the former scene it was found necessary to create the effect of a mountain torrent and to do this it was decided to divert the natural course of a river. For the war camp, a range of hills was razed to the level of a plain upon which the armed supporters of the Mad Sultan, to the number of about 10,000, with their tents and horses were given shelter. These instances give a faint idea of the large and unusual undertakings found necessary in the production of this beautiful and thrilling picture.

Annette Kellermann,

The sea nymph of the flickers, who is to disport herself in the big cinema spectacle, coming to Clune's Auditorium next week.

Everett and George Roseberry, aged 18, of Cedar, Kan., claim to be the tallest twins in the world. Everett is six feet two and one-half inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. George is an inch taller and weighs 165 pounds.

Hazel Hersinger, 13, of Maysville, who believed herself to be an orphan, wrote her name and address inside of an almond shell while employed last summer in Yuba City packing almonds. In the shell she invited correspondence, object "just for fun," as she explained. On Christmas Day, in Savannah, Ga., Henry Hersinger opened the nuts while at dinner in an exclusive club. His anger at finding an absolutely empty nut turned to joy when he saw the name written inside. He at once began correspondence, and has established that Miss Hazel Hersinger is his daughter. Mrs. Hersinger is dead. Mr. and Mrs. Hersinger and babe were separated by Mississippi floods when the girl was a baby. Hersinger believed his wife and daughter dead.

Has Made the Indian Live

Victor Georg

Charles Wakefield Cadman,

The distinguished composer, who has made Los Ang home.

Another Composer.

CADMAN AND HIS MUSI

The Struggles and Triumphs of a Great L Musician—His Studies of the Indian Forthcoming Opera.

BY JEANNE REDMAN.

CHARLES WAKEFIELD CADMAN, one of the foremost of American composers, came to this city to live two years ago, and he has won such immediate success, and has played so important a part in the musical life of the present season that I went to see him and asked him to account for the fact that his work is both good and successful. Of course, there is one inevitable road to success, and that is "when John MacCormack sings a song." It makes the song, there is no doubt of that, and the composers are in less doubt of it than anybody else. John MacCormack sang Cadman's "At Dawning," and I saw Oliver Ditson's check for royalties on this one song since last June—and I can assure you that it was sufficient to buy more than one Los Angeles bungalow.

"At Dawning" is a simple ballade of sentiment quite appealing to an American audience, but Mr. Cadman knows well that MacCormack's singing of it was the cause of its popularity. He is an honest fellow, and does not even try to fool himself, and so he states quite frankly that Nordica helped to make him. It is altogether wonderful and inspiring for an interviewer to find a composer who does not insist that his work thrives by merit alone. We never would have had the opportunity to observe that Cadman is one of our very best, had he not been presented to us by such singers as Nordica, who was, indeed, his dearest inspiration and support. There is not one of his most popular things which was not refused by the enlightened publisher many a time before it was accepted.

Now, the publishers are eager, and Cadman can write what he wants to write. He deserves tranquillity, too, for he has not been spared the usual run, and perhaps more than the usual run of tribulation which comes to composers. They seem to be the chosen, in the sense of the chastened, of men. Born in Johnstown, Pa., of British ancestry, and American-born parents, he attended school until he was 14. Since then he has supported himself and those dependent upon him, and for the most part by composing and concertizing, as well as teaching. He wanted to be a musician, and while he was a boy working for the Carnegie Steel Company he composed a march called the "Carnegie Library March" and canvassed it from door to door in Pittsburgh, selling about 7000 copies, and with the proceeds he went to Oehlmer to study harmony. He played the organ and taught in and around Pittsburgh for years, until he came West, and during that time he became known as a composer.

Cadman is best known as the greatest exponent, after MacDowell, of the Indian folk song. When we think of Cadman we think of the Indian. He has been associated with the redskin to such an extent that we think of Indian music in terms of Cadman. But he made a name as a composer before a little book on Indian lore interested him and gave him his impetus. Then he went to the reservations in New Mexico and Arizona and found the tribal themes which he has used to such great advantage in his songs and his "Thunderbird Suite," played by the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra a few weeks ago. Nelle Richmond Eberhart has written the words for Cadman's Indian songs as well as for his "Three Songs to Odysseus," which, by the way, are examples well worth observing of Cadman's counter-Indian style. They are modern, and so thoroughly European that they lack that curiously imitative flavor, which American writing (except ragtime) so often has. These things of Cadman's are not imitations of the French school; they simply belong to that school, and are very much better than much that comes from France today. It is a serious thing to associate a man with a school, as I discovered to my sorrow when I associated Frank Patterson, through his "Little Girl at Play," with the school of Puccini; and so I put myself on record as saying that the Cadman large bundle. Thousands of girls are nursing pieces of it today.

And they think it is George's hair!

Not Necessarily Hereditary.

Stuart Holmes had had a particularly trying afternoon before the camera at the Fox studios in Fort Lee, N. J., recently, when a worshipful "extra" (of feminine persuasion) entered into conversation with the noted villain.

"Yes," said Holmes curtly, "I'm the only actor in the family."

"Strange, isn't it?" persisted his interrogator.

"What's strange about it?" snapped the cynical Holmes. "Lincoln's family weren't all Presidents, were they?"

All in the Business.

Gladys Brockwell, Fox star, received a letter from a big business corporation last week, which had a small map of Europe beneath the company's name, with this legend under it:

"Business going on as usual during alterations."

Got There Just the Same.

William Farnum, the screen's manly man, got a letter from Rio de Janeiro last week, addressed: "Mr. William Farnum, Issued Weekly by the Fox Films."

Sky's the Limit.

Shorty Hamilton is an inveterate gambler and admits it. Whenever he wants money, either to buy tires or to indulge in his pastime, he goes to William H. Clifford, his financial manager, and spreads his tale of woe. The other evening Hamilton dogged Clifford's heels into one of the Hellman banks, where the author keeps his money. While Clifford held conversation with the teller and the bank president stood by, Shorty pulled the dice out of his pocket and fired this one:

"Come on, Marco, I'll shoot you for the bank!"

Two Peaches Grow for K.

Ethel Teare, formerly with Kalem, has just been engaged by the Keystone to play leads in their de luxe comedies. Despite her name Miss Teare has never appeared in anything except comedy.

Blanche Craven is another newcomer to the fun factory, who will appear under the direction of Fred Fishback.

Pretty Baby.

Myrtle Lind, one of the peachiest of the Keystone peaches, is a dare-devil of the first water, despite her blonde curls and baby stare. She doesn't depend on her beauty to get her "over," but cheerfully performs stunts. She was nearly drowned in the studio tank a few weeks ago because she insisted in staying under water to bring realism to her scene, and in her latest picture she hangs from a window sill by one hand five stories up. She has been smothered in bank vaults and shot out of cannon. In swimming and diving she is nearly as fearless as Mabel Normand herself, and she drives an automobile like Barney Oldfield.

His Sweet Voice Mute.

Frank Darien, formerly a Burbank favorite, is now playing leads in comedy under the Keystone banner, with Ferris Hartman as director.

Curtain.

Augusta Otto, aged mother of Henry Otto, well-known picture director, passed away at the Methodist Hospital, last Wednesday afternoon, after an illness of only a few days.

Keystone Spreads Out.

The Keystone flourishes like the w. k. bay tree. That organization has taken over the old Selig studio in Edendale, which now shelters three companies.

See U City and Die.

Last week Universal City fairly bulged with brains. Not the regular ones, kept on hand at all times, but those of visitors. The author that hasn't seen Universal City these days may be considered as having had his education neglected, and may be classed with the fellow that has never read Shakespeare, and thinks Ibsen is a kind of cheese.

George Barr McCutcheon, author of "Graustark," and other famous best-sellers, stopped at the U while en route to Honolulu. Wallace David Coburn, cowboy poet, was also numbered among the guests of H. O. Davis, vice-president and general manager. Coburn has the distinction of being the only white Indian chief in America, this honor having been bestowed upon him by the Sioux Indians of Northern Montana, to whom he had shown some unusual kindnesses.

Dorothy Dix, on her way to Japan, stopped off a few days in Los Angeles and spent a day at Universal City.

Bites and Everything.

Little Frankie Lee, U child actor, is now right in the class with Edwin Forrest, who used to stick people with his swords when he became too earnest in pursuance of his art. The youngster was working in Henry McRae's company, making "His Mother's People," in which Claire McDowell is starred. Frankie was told by McRae: "Throw your arms around your mother's neck, and hug her good and hard; be excited." The scene was to depict the hysterical joy of the little one at finding his mother, from whom he had been separated.

When the scene was shot, Frankie put all his small soul into his work. He threw his arms around Claire's neck and hugged and kissed her, and then—Miss McDowell gave a shriek of pain. Frankie was so full of art that he had bitten her ear.

Asbestos Garment Ad.

Dorothy Phillips, who plays one of the feature leads in Joseph de Grasse's Universal company, had a narrow escape from being seriously burned at her home in Hollywood a few days ago, and, as it is, one of her arms is painfully injured. The actress had been heating some water over a gas range when the sleeve of her kimono caught fire.

Economy Note.

For the first time since its completion, the magnificent half-million-dollar Thomas H. Ince plant at Culver City is offered to the public for inspection. This is through the medium of a screen presentation in conjunction with the production of "The Iced Bullet," by C. Gardner Sullivan, with William Desmond as star.

Rastus Sure Had Alibi.

Moving picture directors do not welcome with any great degree of joy pictures in which children must be used. Infantile ills are many, with a constant danger of the hated retakes.

A case in point happened recently at the Ince studio, during the production of "The Bride of Hate," by John Lynch, in which Frank Keenen and Margery Wilson are starred. For several of the scenes a number of negro children were employed, but one day one of the small boys failed to put in an appearance. Having waited several hours, Director Walter Edwards sent out a scout. While the latter was searching the director did everything except tear his hair and gnash his teeth. Just as he was on the point of ordering a retake of scenes in which the youngster appeared, the scout dashed in with a note. It was from the boy's mother, and it read:

"Dear Mr. Edwards: I hope you will excuse little Rastus for not going to work today. He was awful sick in the a.m. and awful weak in the p.m., but he will sure to be there tomorrow."

Perpetual Motion Note.

If ever a man work hard it's William S. Hart, Ince star. Mr. Hart will shortly be seen in "The Square Deal Man," by J. G. Hawks, in which Hart plays the part of a professional gambler, who is, of course, redeemed by the girl. Mary McIvor, a new ingenue, plays opposite Hart. Others in the case are Joseph J. Dowling, Baby Jane Irving, J. Frank Burk, Darrell Foss, Thomas Kurihara, Milton Ross and Charles O. Rush. Robert Brunton directed and Joe August was the photographer.

Hart's Latest Stunt.

There's really not much left for Hart to do in the stunt line except to rival the prowess of the bovine, and "jump over the moon."

One of the most thrilling feats ever performed by the doughty bad man of the films was put over last week, when, in one of the scenes of his current picture, he allowed "Fritz," his famous pinto pony, to roll with him down a 200-foot embankment at Inceville. Three cameras were trained on Hart as he negotiated the hazardous stunt, and several hundred curious spectators from Santa Monica, having learned of the day's schedule, looked on with awe.

Sylvia Comes West.

Sylvia Bremer, well known on the legitimate stage, was engaged last week by Thomas H. Ince to appear in support of Charles Ray. Miss Bremer recently appeared with Grace George in Bernard Shaw's "Major Barbara."

Bereavement Note.

Girls, you may save your postage stamps now. Crane Wilbur, the Horsley star, surprised his friends last Thursday, when he motored into town with his bride, who was Mrs. Florence Williams. The marriage took place in Reno, Nev., the 13th inst., immediately after Mrs. Williams had secured a divorce from her former husband. Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur are at the Hotel Lankershim.

Still They Come.

The Lasky lot is getting just all littered up with notables. Now it's Robert Thornby, well known as a motion-picture director, who will shortly arrive at the studio. His first picture will probably be one in which Sessue Hayakawa will star.

That Clever Furniture!

It's no use. Mabel Normand just can't make the talented Keystone furniture behave. It happened the other day in a scene in "Mickey," Miss Normand's forthcoming feature.

Mabel was called upon to dust a chair in a scene. She tripped over a rug, took a header, landed up against one of those old-fashioned nine-foot high hall clocks and tipped it over. She had just time to brace herself and throw her hands over her head when the clock came down on her. For several seconds she struggled, and then Bill Colvin, playing in the scene with her, gallantly came to the rescue. But the camera man, with his soul full of chunks of art, never stopped grinding. Wherefore a scene not included in those prescribed by the scenarioist will appear in "Mickey."

She's Balboa Film Now.

Vola Vale, the newest Balboa star, has begun work under the direction of Edgar Jones, on a four-reel production entitled "Mentioned in Confidence." The story is from a well-known magazine tale of the same name written by Capt. Leslie T. Peacocke.

Suspense Note.

Frank Reicher, one of the most successful of the Lasky directors, is presiding over the film destinies of Margaret Illington, who is making her screen debut. The photoplay in which she is engaged is an adaptation of Basil King's play "The Inner Shrine," in which Miss Illington won a big stage success.

De Leon in the Discard.

Ponce de Leon hadn't anything on Eddie Peters of the Balboa company, when it comes to that famous youth stuff. Last week Eddie became the proud papa of a baby girl. The following day he was cast to play the part of a 12-year-old boy, and he got away with it in great style.

Cheer-up Note.

After all, Sing Sing is to be chirked up, if Al Christie has anything to say about it. Last week Mr. Christie donated prints of three of the Christie comedies to the New York State's prison, where the triste gray walls will be brightened by the jovial scene of "His Wedding Night," "His Baby," and "By the Sad Sea Waves."

No Caddie Need Apply.

"Your Move" has supplanted "Fore" as the watchword of the Christie studio, and the caddie boys out at the country club are all wearing crepe. Neal Burns, having been eliminated from the present golf tourney and having a sporting instinct that must find expression, has challenged one and all to meet him of the sanguinary checkerboard.

MOLLYCODDLES AVAUNT!

Real Red Blood is What's Needed Now, Says Serial Heroine.

"A woman who didn't raise her boy to be a soldier won't be very popular in this country if present indications count for anything," declares Pearl White, the motion-picture star, who is widely known for her daring stunts performed before the camera.

"I have never known what it means to be afraid," she said recently, and I think this is because my parents didn't have any false notions about bringing up children. As long as I can remember I have considered health above everything else. By being strong physically I can trust myself to do stunts without getting hurt."

OF ART AND ARTISTS.

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

Dawn and Dusk at Karnak.

Out of the dim, mysterious dawn he came—
The sun-god—the Osiris—clad in folds
Of woven flame; and all the hideous shapes
That lurked along the margin of the night—
Star-dimmers, and the gnomes who blot the moon
And steal the ore of sunset—imps whose veins
Scarce pulsate with their currents of thin dew—
Fled at his glance, while he, through tumbling haze,
Winged slowly up into the billowy sky.

The golden scarabeus of the day
Down the bright west crawled softly; and the faint
Inscriptions faded; and a small, pale cloud,
Brushed by the great sun-beetle's wing, flushed red
And swam a lotus petal, in the blue.
And Karnak, that a long December day
Had lived again within our reverent hearts,
Fled like a dream; and naught remained with us
Save deepening shades beneath slow-clustering stars,
And one dark monolith against the night.

Souvenirs of Travel.

For the globe-trotting traveler there is security and comfort in a very little luggage, and for the peripatetic painter there is the same feeling of support in a pocketable box of water colors and a pad of paper. Thus economically equipped, all the world and its glories are the painter's—not to mention the heavens above, which he may approach with a far greater degree of confidence than the worker in oil.

If the painter in water color happens to be a globe-trotter as well as a peripatetic, there is practically no limit to the "impressions" he may jubilantly record, things quaint, curious, beautiful and bizarre. Whirled hitherto and yon, by steam, electricity or gasoline, he may stop when and where he pleases and stay as long as he likes. He finds "this life more sweet than that of painted pomp," and when he returns to the "envious court" he brings with him yet greater cause for envy. Were I a cracksman I'd crack the treasures of a studio.

One such returned traveler is Theodore Modra, formerly of New York, but for the past two years delightfully domiciled on a little orange ranch down Ontario-way. His spacious studio among the blossoms has become a Mecca for parties of men and women who are not at all peripatetic in temperament, but simply art-loving and motoresque. Here the artist spreads out, on floor and walls, his spoils from many lands, and we gloat and envy. He has been prevailed upon to send about thirty of these charming water-color souvenirs to Los Angeles, and, beginning tomorrow, they will be shown in the Daniell gallery, No. 649 South Hill street, to February 25.

Mr. Modra's aquarelles are so far above his oils that I could wish he would confine all his artistic efforts to the one medium. They are crisp, fresh, delightful in color, often catching a mood or an effect with much subtlety. The artist is quick to see the picturesque, to feel the "note" that makes a scene worth one's attention and sympathy. As he seems to have been almost everywhere, both off and on Cook's routes, he has happened upon a wide diversity of paintable subjects. The present exhibition proves that. Here are "bits" from Tangiers and Cairo, from London, Paris, Rotterdam and Bruges.

I suppose the tower of the Alhambra, where Washington Irving wrote his famous book, has been painted by every painting visitor to Granada, but we can't have too many souvenirs from beautiful places, if they are to "go round," so Mr. Modra's charming one is very welcome. From Granada we have also an attractive "House and Garden," the varied greens of the parterres, and the yellow walk, seen under sunlight from a clear blue sky. From Cairo we have a market, pale gold light playing on the many-colored crowd, and from Tangiers "A Story Teller of the Soko Market," a vivid group of listeners ranged in a semicircle on the tawny-pink square, while the picturesque raconteur poses and gestures.

An attractive bit of color and characterization is "Fisherman at Vollendam," a harmony in grays and pinks. Beautiful, too, are the grays in "Waterloo Bridge," one of the finest of the water colors, and the greens of "Summer Showers," a woman seated inside a glass porch. Light seen through glass is subtly handled in both "Summer Showers" and "Black Forest Inn."

The one pastel of the show, "Chez Maxim," offers vivid reds in the uniforms of the musicians on the stairway, but it is not so interesting technically as the water colors.

Cuprien's Marines.

Custom has not staled Frank Cuprien's interest in the sea. Ever since he fell in love, at first sight, with the Pacific, five or six years ago, his constancy has grown, and he is depicting her moods, especially the gentler ones, with more and more discrimination and truth. He built himself a studio on the very edge of her domain, at Laguna Beach, three years ago, and since then he has not left his beloved out of his sight for so much as two days at a time.

His faithfulness has been richly rewarded. The sea has spread out "subjects" for him on every side, bringing them to his very doorstep, beginning with the earliest morning light and finishing with the pallid splendors of the moon. The sea is never monotonous to her true lover, but has the thousand and one moods and caprices of a beautiful woman who can sometimes be as terrible as she is lovely.

The fourteen recent canvases that Mr. Cuprien is now showing at the Battey gallery in Pasadena are, as I have intimated, the spoils of the happier hours. The most of them depict the sea's peaceful serenities, and perhaps as many as half of them offer us the quiet glories of sunset, a red-gold sky reflected in the burnished mirror of the ocean. Indeed, one of these is called "The Mirror," and the sea it pictures is golden and beautiful, flowing gently over illumined sands. "The Magic Hour" and "The Golden Hour" are two more, both tranquilly poetic in feeling, both richly harmonious in color.

In "The Roseate Foam of Morning" we have quite another mood, of course, and an exquisite one. The sea, just waking from its slumbers, holds the subtle bloom of a rose in its bosom. There is strength in the painting of the gray foreground's rocky highlands in "Agitation," strength, but not much beauty of color, though the sea-green sea is both true and beautiful.

The scope of the exhibition is suggested by the titles of pictures that I have space to mention in this way only: "Breaking of the Storm," "Tranquillity," "Song of the Sea," "Parting Day," "A Summer Day," "As the Sun Goes Down."

Mr. Cuprien's pleasing marines will be on view at the Battey gallery to the end of the month.

February Magazines.

Willard Huntington Wright contributes another illuminating article on "Modern Art" to the February number of the International Studio, treating, this time, of Walkowitz, Monet and Burlin. The two illustrations are not so convincing as Mr. Wright's text. He characterizes Monet, an exhibition of whose works was recently given in New York, as a "brilliant and important, though artistically ineffectual, painter," adding that he is "admirable as history" but "balls far short of greatness."

A timely paper, and a discriminating one withal, is Katherine M. Roof's appreciation of the art and influence of the late William M. Chase. This is accompanied by seven reproductions from portraits by Mr. Chase, not the hackneyed ones we have seen a thousand times. Eugene Castello writes of "Some Philadelphia Exhibitions;" W. H. de B. Nelson of the New York Academy's winter exhibition; T. Martin Wood, of "The Buccleuch Miniatures of the Victoria and Albert Museum," with thirty-one illustrations, many of them in color; Frank Gibson, of two British artists in the war zone, Muirhead Bone and James McBey; Troy Kinney, of "Contemporary American Etchers"—and so on.

Arts and Decoration has its usual color cover, this one being a reproduction of Copley's charming portrait of Mrs. Adam Babcock. The frontispiece is Prince Pierre Troubetskoy's portrait of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, to accompany Guy Pene DuBois's article on Mrs. Whitney's new and old collections of pictures and objects of art. C. Matlack Price writes of the "Possibilities of Picture Making;" Margaret Meade, of "Accent in Furnishing;" W. G. Blaikie Murdoch, of "The Applied Arts in France;" Forbes Watson, of "Sargeant, Boston and Art." Mr. Watson compares Sargeant's new decorations for the Boston public library with those of Chavennes, and makes the great American fall far short of the great Frenchman.

There are numerous illustrations in the Fine Arts Journal for February, to accompany "Poetry in Painting," by Evelyn Marie Stuart; "George W. Russell, Poet and Painter," by J. F.; "Sympathy in Portrait Painting," by Anne Lisle Booth; "The Polasek Exhibition," by Anne Agnes Gertrude Richards; "The Arts Club of Chicago," by Lena McCauley, and accounts of pictures in the galleries of New York and Chicago. Pictures from Prince Troubetskoy are given considerable attention in the article by Anne Lisle Booth.

William Wendt.

A dozen landscapes from the brush of William Wendt would make a notable show anywhere, one not to be neglected by the man who understands and appreciates what is best and most virile in the landscape art of America.

This exhibition is now on in Pasadena at Hotel Green, to remain for some time. Unfortunately, there was no catalogue when I visited the two showrooms at the Green last week and this is why it is impossible for me to write of the pictures at any length today. However, a list of titles was promised me on my next appearance, which will be very soon, and no doubt such a list will be furnished every other visitor.

The pictures are among the finest that Mr. Wendt has done, the rich results of his matured and perfected talent. The subjects are varied, though all, I believe, are Californian. It is here that this artist developed and won fame, though he painted in England—he and Gardner Symons together—for a brief period. No one paints the rich greens of Southern California's winter and spring more delightfully than Mr. Wendt, and we find half a dozen examples of his mastery in the present well-chosen collection. Other canvases give us the vast forms of tawny hills made harmonious and subtle by the "touch of lavender" our light often gives them.

Benjamin Chambers Brown.

Eleven canvases, all of them new except two, from the brush of Benjamin Chambers Brown, are now on view in the gallery at Exposition Park, making another of the notable one-man shows that will be given in this handsome gallery throughout the year. Almost every painter or sculptor of note in Southern California will be permitted his chance here, and sometimes famous men and women from the East will be invited.

Those who have followed the progress of art in the Far West need no introduction to Mr. Brown, for he has been among us for many years, advancing surely and steadily as a landscape painter, though earlier in his career he painted many figure studies. He holds an exhibition of landscapes in Los Angeles and Pasadena several times every year and is a regular contributor to most of the important eastern exhibitions. He is an able craftsman, a genuine artist, painting with a brush that is full and facile, in excellent color.

The diversity of his subjects may be judged from a few of the titles in the present exhibition—"California Cliffs, Springtime," "Frosty Morning, Silver Lake," "The Canyon Trail," "The Sunlit Road," "The Heart of the Sierras," "The Red Steamer," etc. A fuller account of Mr. Brown's exhibition will appear next week.

California Landscapes.

The California landscapes of Thorwald Probst, shown through the past week at the Kanst gallery, give evidence of a marked technical advance in this artist. There were fifteen of them, all, of course, very recent, for the artist has been in Los Angeles a short time only.

Pictures from various parts of Europe were exhibited by this artist a few weeks ago in the Steckel gallery. These showed a fine artistic sensibility, an admirable feeling for the picturesque, the paintable, but they were not always adequate in expression. In the later pictures Mr. Probst has become less conscientious and therefore more free in his handling. I understand that he is a painter of interior decoration. His excursions into landscape painting show that he has a strong bent for it, and better and better things may be expected from his brush.

There is charm of effect in "Sunlit Fog," a group of slender eucalypts seen on a river bank against a golden light, and in "The Glow," more eucalypts, this time by a roadway in the slanting light of late afternoon. "Spring in the Canyon" is finely vigorous in handling and the same is true of "The Crown of the Hill," a yellow, sunlit slope seen against a sky full of dramatic clouds, and of "Santa Barbara Mission at Midday," red roofs and pale yellow adobe walls seen in a diffused light.

Maurice Braun.

The largest and most comprehensive exhibition of landscapes ever held by Maurice Braun in Los Angeles—perhaps anywhere—will open tomorrow in the Kanst galley, and will continue for three or four weeks. All the other pictures in the gallery will be taken down, that the display of 100 canvases from Mr. Braun may have complete unity of effect.

Among the pictures chosen for this notable show will be many large and important canvases, some of which have just been shipped, at the artist's request, direct to the gallery from eastern exhibitions and dealers. Among them, however, will appear numerous smaller pictures, whose importance will be less only because they are smaller, not through lack of intrinsic worth.

Maurice Braun lives in San Diego, where he paints pictures and conducts an art school. In spite of his school his output in pictures is great, and when he is not painting easel pictures he is executing interior decorations. His success as a painter in the past few years has been phenomenal and he now ranks among the strongest and best known of Southern California's landscape artists. His exhibition at Kanst's promises to be one of the most interesting and important of the year.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Anna May Pitts, 11 years old, of Glendale, Ariz., walked away with most of the honors in the Statewide boys' pig contest, held by the University of Arizona. Her registered Duroc-Jerseys took first and second prizes, and, competing with professional swine raisers, carried off a third prize.

President Poincare, on the recommendation of the Minister of War, has conferred a gold medal upon Mrs. Chauncey Mitchell Depew for her hospital work at her home, the Chateau d'Annel, near Compiegne. Justin Godart, Undersecretary of War and director of the sanitary service of the army, wrote as follows in transmitting the medal to Mrs. Depew: "The devotion and abnegation of which you have given proof in accomplishing your task under conditions often dangerous, have merited our gratitude."

Miss Katharine Stinson, the 19-year-old American girl aviator who is now touring Japan, making flights for the amusement of the Japanese, has become a source of wonder and admiration to the natives throughout the land. After her first flight she was presented with $1250 by a Japanese lady and her second trip into the clouds brought forth a deluge of flowers. She made her third flight in Japanese costume dressed in priceless embroidery given by a prominent Japanese social leader and received a gift of gold from Prince Kan-in, a relative of the Emperor. The "Jiji," one of the foremost newspapers in Tokio, gave her a gold medal, a Tokio firm of pearl divers gave her a necklace of beautiful pearls arranged as miniature airplane propellers, and she was swamped with countless gifts of lesser value.

THE RELIGIOUS RA

National Crisis Forces New Issues Amidst
Officers of Federal Council, Captured
Reckoning—Must Cease "Advising"
Religious Leaders Will Stand in Alignment.

SO DELICATE and intricate and interdependent is the modern social structure that unforeseen consequences follow every serious alteration in the stability of any part of civilization. Already it is clear that the national crisis in America, brought about by Germany's decision to prosecute a war of unrestrained submarine "frightfulness," is to have a direct and important effect upon the organized religious life of America. Some grave questions, long in solution, have suddenly been precipitated.

At first thought, the relation of the so-called "German churches," with other denominations would seem to be uppermost among these new issues. There are several bodies, of which the Lutheran is the largest, which have a historical and linguistic and sentimental association with the land of Luther. Throughout the war, their sympathies have naturally been with the Central Powers, just as the sympathies of the Episcopal Church have been with England, the home of the mother church. As a matter of fact, however, the war has caused no estrangement between Lutherans and other bodies. There has been a general appreciation of the situation, and a courteous display of Christian good will on the part of the brethren holding divergent views, concerning the world war. It is not in this respect that the new crisis is disturbing the churches.

IS THE CHURCH PACIFIST?

Mutterings, and outspoken complaints, are now being heard in increasing volume, against the "pernicious activity" of certain salaried officers of the Federal Council of Churches in behalf of the pacifist position. Dr. Charles S. Macfarland and Dr. Sidney L. Gulick, of the Federal Council, have been leaders in the activity of the extreme peace party, and they have popularly committed the organization to a line of activity which, it is declared, does not at all represent the real sentiment of the churches of North America.

There is evidence that a section of the general public, which is not very accurately informed upon things religious, assumes that the Christian churches of the country really are committed to the pacifist policy, which has also been a policy of implied support of Germany and of censure of America's course. The "statements," "messages," "declarations" and "calls" which issue from the Federal Council office with bewildering rapidity are supposed, by these unsophisticated worldlings, to be the voice of the churches; whereas they merely represent the diligence and fervor of a few extremists who happen to hold office in the council; and, in the case of one secretary, who also holds office in certain endowed peace organizations. A coterie of salaried men in New York are primarily responsible for all these reckless pronunciamentos.

As a matter of indisputable fact, no man alive can say authoritatively whether the churches of this country are pacifist in their views, or whether they still hold to the historic position that truth, justice and righteousness must be maintained, even at the cost of all earthly possessions and of life itself. Only the official courts of the denominations could speak for their constituencies, and they have not done so. Even then the rank and file of the membership might refuse to be guided by the ecclesiastical utterance. Obviously, no responsible executive of a denomination would presume to speak for the whole body upon such a grave subject.

WHEN COUNCILS STATE.

Apparently, these considerations do not weigh with the officers of the Federal Council of Churches, which is merely a federation, for purposes of co-operation, of eighteen of the denominations in the United States. The announced purpose in the organization of the Federal Council was to promote comity and co-operation among the churches, and to diminish competition and waste. This function it started out to fulfill, but quickly neglected, though recently one of the Federal Council Commissions, that on federated agencies, has given attention to this primary object.

Carried away, apparently, by the glamour of "representing" 20,000,000 church members, the Federal Council officials have yielded to the alluring temptation to speak "ex-cathedra" for American Protestantism upon public and international questions. Assuming that they stand in a supervisory capacity to all church work, these gentlemen have given themselves, quite enthusiastically, to the congenial work of issuing Protestant encyclicals.

A few days ago they carried to Washington another chunk of advice for the President, upon international matters. Not content with maintaining an office and an agent at the capital, to deal with public affairs, the executive staff have made frequent pilgrimages to the White House and to Congress to inform the government what it should do in delicate and critical national and international situations.

If the Catholic cardinals should attempt one-tenth of the efforts to interfere in affairs of State that the Federal Council officials have made, the country would be in an uproar. Yet the "separation of Church and State" is one of the cardinal tenets of American Protestantism. One not unimportant by-product of the latest and gravest crisis is that it will result in the putting of a "silencer" upon the "big guns" of the Federal Council.

THE VOCAL PULPIT.

Every pulpit in the land is now ringing with the moral and spiritual aspects of the issue which Germany has forced. The eternal integrities of Holy Writ are being brought forward. A Christian's duty is being interpreted according to Bible standards. Evidently the American pulpit, like the American press, is of substantially one mind upon the principles involved.

While the pacifists will not remain silent, their propaganda will no longer go unchallenged. As in Great Britain and other lands, the voice of Christian leaders will be raised in support of a righteous patriotism. A new cult of nationalism may be expected to arise in religious circles.

As in Canada, and other lands at war, the churches are among the first to feel the pinch of conflict. Their young men are prompt to

"SHOWER" FOR ORPHAN ASYLUM

Movement in Behalf of a Deserving Catholic Institution in Los Angeles—Pitiful State of Affairs.

BY JEANNE REDMAN.

ON THE 18th of October, sixty-one years ago, six members of the Order of the Sisters of Charity sailed from New York for the mission of La Reina de Los Angeles. They came by way of the Isthmus and arrived in San Francisco about the first of the year. After a stay there of a few days, they embarked for San Pedro, where they arrived the morning of January 6, and took a stage for Los Angeles, where they found themselves after a ride of about ten hours. They opened the first school, when the city was a pueblo; they were the real pioneers, and now, after sixty-one years of endeavor, the State seems to be about to legislate them into penury—unless a new friend comes.

Many fine schools have come into being since those pioneer days, and many orphanages, but they have had the advantages of a settled civilization, which the Sisters of Charity lacked sixty-one years ago. Now their struggle for existence is almost as trying as it was in the days when their's was the only school in the little town, every pioneer, every old-timer will lend their assistance.

At one time the Los Angeles Orphan Asylum at Boyle Heights, operated by the Sisters of Charity, received $5000 a year or more from the State; now it gets about $1000. It is a Catholic institution, caring for children of every denomination, Jews and Gentiles. The Sisters get not one penny of salary for their work, as do the persons employed by the State for charitable service. They do it for the purest motives of charity and love, and they are almost destitute, with 175 children and twenty-two Sisters in the institution.

Institutions should be abolished, say some of the State solons, and homes should be found for the orphans. But that is not easy to do. Who wants to adopt the little waifs, dull and under-normal, that the Sisters find on their door-steps? There will be dozens of homes offered for a pretty child, while it is almost impossible to place a plain one, of dull mentality.

Out of the 175 children at the Boyle Heights home, the State gives aid to only thirty-three, and that help amounts to about $6 a month. In order to obtain even this meager pittance, the Mother Superior is obliged to furnish the death certificate of the father, which she is almost always unable to do. Since the war in Mexico, dozens of little Mexican babies have been left with her, and not one death certificate for their fathers. "What shall I do with them?" she says, "they are all Catholics, and I cannot turn them out," and so the Sisters dine more meagerly, and borrow money at the ordinary rate of interest, to pay the monthly bills.

From last December to July, the State gave the orphanage $1500, scarcely enough to cover the living expenses for one month. And for that, the Superior is obliged to submit to the most minute and extraordinary system of observation upon the part of the investigators. They give her this pitiful sum, and then they go, at any and all hours, and make their tour of the convent, peeping into pots and kettles and beds and wash stands, for all the world like the mound-diggers in "Our Mutual Friend." They then go through her books, which they are paid to examine, but which the noble Superior gets not a penny for keeping.

The State will not provide anything at all for the dependent child, the abandoned one, whose parents are living, but nowhere to be found; it is only those fortunate enough to have their parents respectably dead, who get an allowance. While the State will pay a sum of about $7 a month to a woman who will adopt a child from the home, it will not give her anything if she is working, and none but the poor adopt such children.

Of course, the City Charity Commission sends its investigators through the convent ever so often, but it does not contribute anything to the support of the house, unless it is advice. But the grand jury made a thorough investigation, and stated that the Los Angeles Orphan Asylum, operated by the Sisters of Charity, was the best orphanage in the city.

An appeal to the friends of the orphanage is made by Sister Cecelia, the Superior, and is presented by the following women: Mrs. Dan Murphy, Miss Sue Sinnott, Mrs. L. N. Brunswig, Mrs. F. S. Hicks, Mrs. Mary Longstreet, Mrs. J. C. Drake, Mrs. Thomas Duque, Mrs. Henry O'Melveny, Mrs. William Rowland, Miss Nina Rowland, Miss Suzanne Lynch, Mrs. T. G. Cotter, Miss Marie Mullen, Dr. and Miss Metcalf, Mrs. Michael Connell. With her assistants, Sister Cecilia will preside over a shower which is to be given at the orphanage at Boyle Heights on February 28. There will be open house all day and those who desire to aid the Sisters will bring whatever household things they can, including clothing and food, and everything which will help in the upkeep of the institution. All are asked to visit the house on that day, and to judge of the desirability of keeping it open for the children. There is nothing too small to offer, and it is expected that the friends of this school and orphanage will do what they can to make the occasion a proud and a profitable one.

Typewriter Speed Secrets told by the Mistress of the Keys

Margaret B. Owen
World's Champion Typist

TO the world at large many words of admonition have been written in regard to the care of the eyes, but to no class is such advice more important than to the typist fraternity. If in your work you are called upon to constantly operate a typewriter, you must lay down certain rules for the eyes and follow them. This is because in typing [illegible] are under constant strain and unless you look after them you will find your vision growing dimmer.

KEEPING YOUR EYES YOUNG.

With reasonable care your eyes will always remain "young." Let me give you a few suggestions that will help to preserve the great gift of eyesight.

You must, of course, be careful to have the correct light on your copy and machine the same as when you read a book. This is over the shoulder nearest the copy so that you will have no trouble in reading the copy or inserting the paper.

Perhaps you are one of the fortunate ones who have eyes which can stand continually under strain without the help of glasses, but even if so blessed, you will probably need glasses for THIS work and should eventually have your eyes examined by a good oculist.

USING GLASSES FOR WORK.

My claim is this: You cannot operate the typewriter in correct position unless you sit straight. In doing so your eyes are much farther from the printed page than they would ordinarily be if you were reading a book. Therefore, glasses are necessary to reduce this distance. Everyone has their own opinion as to the constant use of glasses when not working. I find them necessary at all times as a result of my seven years' work, but there is no question that they should be worn when you are using the machine. So important are your eyes to you that I suggest great care be taken in getting glasses properly adjusted. I am not in favor of trusting this to the eyeglass seller who charges nothing for examination and gives you glasses after a simple "try out" of the lenses. I believe that one should go to the best of eye specialists and be assured that the vision of the printed page at least two feet from the eyes will be just right.

And, girls, get sensible glasses if you are to use them in the office. Get some of the new fashioned kind—large lenses with rims and with bows that go around the ears. These will be certain not to fall at an inopportune moment.

THE DAILY EYE BATH.

Every night I use a solution of boracic acid well diluted with warm water. If the eyes are carefully protected by the wearing of glasses, if necessary, and given this daily bath, they should cause you no trouble. Such remedies are much better for you than incessant use of all sorts of medicines. Some of my typist friends who have excellent eyesight use daily another and more simple bath for the eyes. This is a salt solution. You should, by the way, always use an eye cup. Do not make the solution too strong. Fill the eye cup, lower the head until one eye covers the top, then lift the head and throw it backward, holding in this position for a few moments until the solution can flow into the eye. It may smart a little, but only for an instant. Refined salt can be obtained now at any drug store, and this is said to be better than the ordinary kind. Do not rub the eyes with sponges or hot [illegible].

PLACING THE COPY HOLDER.

The copyholder, (I will tell you later how to make one,) should be placed on the left side of your typewriter if your machine has a right carriage return, and on the right side if you use the return with the left hand. You will instantly see the reasonableness of this suggestion. Nothing could disconcert the eyes more than the arm and hand passing the copy every time a new line is begun.

SCANNING THE PAGE.

And one of the most important things in connection with operating the typewriter is scanning the page, a suggestion which all ambitious typists should adopt is to become expert sight readers. In speed work it is impossible to be successful unless the word, phrase or line is taken in at a glance. You ought not to be compelled to give any study to the words themselves and should know the fingering combination of each instantly, as you must know the combinations of shorthand without analyzing their outlines, if you are to become a "speed typist." The [illegible] these days, is a prize in any office. Therefore, as I have before recommended, read [illegible] newspapers and good [illegible] your shorthand as [illegible]

HAPPY THOUGHT CLUB SYMPOSIUM.

BY EUGENE BROWN.

The information bureau of the Happy Thought Club has had a number of queries concerning the production and cast of the Bard of Avon medley, "Midsummer Night's Scream," which will be the next offering of the club studio. The success of "Henrietta of the Hungry Heart" was so great that bidders for first rights are lined up awaiting anything the club puts out. The British Foreign Office secured the rights to "Henrietta," and tried the plan of putting the film out nights in front of the trenches at Verdun. The German army became so interested in watching the picture that they forgot to fight, and the British troops sneaked up on them in the darkness and took their guns away from them. That was the real reason why the Kaiser was so anxious for peace.

The disappearance of Myra Marr left Director David Oliver Tobasco temporarily embarrassed in filming "Midsummer Night's Scream," and a number of changes were made necessary, although it had never been possible to find an actor to support Myra in the style to which she had been accustomed. All the scenes in which she was filmed will probably have to be retaken, and strong efforts have been made to secure Julia Marlowe, Maude Adams and Elsie Ferguson to take the parts of Juliet, Ophelia and Desdemona as vacated by the buxom Myra. Failing to gather this trinity of twinklers, the director will make the best selections possible from established screen talent.

One of the scenes of the Shakespearian review will show the business and editorial rooms of the Styx Messenger, with numerous distinguished callers and arrivals. For instance Frank Mayo as Richard III will drop in to put an advertisement in the paper for his new morgue. His trade-mark will be "See that Hump." His ad. will describe his commodious, but homelike, morgue, built to accommodate increasing business. Persons who patronize it once will use no other. Key on premises. No trouble to show goods.

Copy of the advertisement will be thrown on the screen to show people what is going on.

Possibly we will then show Bughouse Fairbanks, who has been playing Petruchio, and who will come in on a double mission. In the first place he will kick the stuffing out of the sporting editor, and in the second place he will leave an advertisement offering his services as a lion tamer, with references from his first wife. Then we will have Charlie Chaplin, who has been playing Hamlet, and who comes to put a card in the paper as a happy medium and specializing in training ghosts to walk on Saturday nights. When they ask him from whence he invokes his spirits he will produce a large brown bottle, which he will carelessly break over the noodle of King Claudius. He will also put in a little ad. of grave diggers wanted for the grand clean-up.

Mlle. Tuxedo Barbara, the lady vampire, who plays Cleopatra, will advertise for an engagement as snake charmer, with some first-class tent show, and when she comes in she will roll her expressive glims about until she has the whole staff eating out of her hand.

De Wolf Hopper, who has been playing Falstaff, the brewery representative, will amble in with a big advertisement containing a picture of a goat and announcing that the blithesome season of bock beer is at hand.

Possibly Conscience Collier, who is playing Lady Macbeth, will next wander in and put in a little ad. for a job as night watchman in a corset foundry, her qualifications being that she has no trouble to sleep standing up.

About this time Three-eyed Dick will come back with a liner for the exchange column, which he had overlooked on his first call. It will be shown on the screen like this:

"For Exchange—One slightly-damaged kingdom for a Ford roadster. Must have self-starter and sound tires. Address P.D. 2, Box 13."

It will be seen that the director has planned for a busy and interesting day in the office of the Messenger, and business will proceed as usual even if Myra is missing.

The contest for the best rhyme for the word "lingerie" is on, and Prof. Watts Eaton Hughes says he has had inquiries from a number of poets as to the pronounciation of the word. The way the professor puts it over it will be mighty hard to get anything to fit it.

Uncle William Snaggs, the Wild Sage of the San Gabriel Wash, was unable to be present on account of having thrown a shoe, but he sent a telegram declaring himself in the competition. Said message is about as follows:

"I beg to enter the lists in the lingerie competition for, in the role of quiet observer, I've seen a whole lot of it. My own case can be summed up in very few words but they convey a wealth of information. Let the bachelor contingent take heed:

Divinity,
Velocity,
Catastrophe,
Lingerie,
Me,
Sympathy,
Courtesy,
Ecstacy,
Matrimony—and pretty soon it will be Anniversary.

"I leave the rest to the imagination."

And, 'tis just about this time o' year that one can generalize thusly:

The Early Bird.

When you've changed your—well,
you know what,
For your lighter summer wear,
And you're fixed so it can get hot
And you know you needn't care;
When the baseball season's started,
And the robins chirp their lay;
When old winter has departed,
And the sun gets higher each day;
And the hookworm gets his hook in
And you feel that life is fun,
And Miss Summer takes a look in,
And you're basking in the sun,
Don't it jar your equipoise, dear,
Don't you cuss in blank amaze,
When the weather makes a noise,
dear,
Like a freeze for days and days?
Don't you double dash the cold, and
With extreme facility,
Hustle back into that old and
Cooler weather lingerie?

Willie Read Moore, the Gramercy fence-buster, has taken an application card for membership in the club. He used to write light stuff for the Los Angeles Gas Company but had to quit on account of a wart on his thumb and now he is raising onions to give him new strength. As an indication of his right to the franchise he submits this fragment which should be whistled on the snare drum to the air of "Oh Gee! How My Block Hurts:"

A Tale of Weau.

A miss sat alone with her beau,
For hours, the light turned down
leau,
When he said he must geau,
If affected her seau
She wept and exclaimed, "Oh, neau,
neau."

The secretary was instructed to wire Willie to bite again in the same place and if the teeth marks fit he will be admitted to probation and allowed to wear the button and regalia of the first degree.

During the symposium yesterday Gladys Conby made a noise like Mary's lamb and pointed at the Old Resident who sat in a corner oblivious to the proceedings and only appeared to be concerned in a bunch of valentines which he pawed over with affectionate interest. One to which he devoted much attention represented a demure little maid with corkscrew curls, engaged in silent prayer. In reality it came from Uneeda Barbour, one of our most fascinating vampires, and the party who tauhgt the harpies how to play on their well-known instruments. "Them innocent eyes is guff," said the old man tensely, as he winked at Gladys, "But they got me all right," he added.

"It wasn't much of a get, you venerable old rabbit," remarked Gladys, scornfully.

It was announced that the club election would be held at the next symposium. Epictetus Tootles, one of the organizers and its first president, declines to be a condidate for re-election. He strained his voice shouting for help the night his garage burned and talks with great difficulty. This embarrasses him in presiding over the meetings of the club and so it is his wish that another be chosen. Uncle William Snaggs, the wild sage of the San Gabriel wash, seems to be quite a favorite for the honor and will be asked to outline his idea of club policy at the coming symposium.

Oscar Opydyke Onions, who has been acting as secretary, now has a job as nut sundae clerk at a downtown soda fountain and does not need the place any more, so there will also be a change in this department.

Members who cannot afford to be present will be suffered to vote by mail.

In the meantime all ballots; all applications for membership, all entries in the club competitions for poems to favorite flowers, or in the rhyming contests, and all suggestions for the cast of the club dramas may be addressed to Eugene Brown, editorial rooms, The Times.

HERBERT ON OUR MUSIC.

Development is Retarded Because Farmers Don't Sing.

Victor Herbert, composer of the operetta, "The Princess Pat," which comes to the Mason Operahouse tomorrow night, is a believer in municipal support of the worth-while music. He favors community lyceums, the lessees of which shall be under contract to produce only classical programmes as in many European cities.

In a recent interview Mr. Herbert said:

"The reason we do not get a higher grade of music and music typically American, is because our farmers don't sing. How can we get good folk songs like Europe, when the folk don't sing? Of course our southern negroes of the old times did, but the good negro melodies now are in the big tobacco factories down South. In Richmond, at a certain big factory, I heard some of the best negro minstrelsy I have ever met with.

"Then, too, it's hard to talk about typically American music when we are not typically American—we are a hyphenated country. No matter what they say about it, we are more or less hyphenated, if we go back far enough in our ancestry. I'm an Irishman, educated in Germany, but while I'm a good American, you can't blame me for loving my mother even if I have taken a wife, can you?"

About musical comedy, Mr. Herbert is delightfully frank:

"I give my time to it because it appeals to me, because it is easy for me to do, and besides if I wrote nothing but symphonies and grand opera my family would starve."

Film Offerings.

Dayton, Frank Currier, Mary Taylor, Maud Hill, Kate Blancke and Walter Hiers. The added attraction will be the fifth installment of "The Great Secret."

Woodley's.

"Stars and Bars," the second of the new Mack Sennett-Keystone comedies, with Ford Stirling in the principal role, will be the featured attraction at Woodley's Theater for the week commencing tomorrow. The companion feature will be the Lasky-Paramount special, "The American Consul," starring Theodore Roberts. Archibald Sessions will present an all-new organ repertoire of the sort that has already made Woodley music popular. "Stars and Bars" is said to teem with much of the old-fashioned "pep" and "slapstick" which put the key in Keystone. Supporting the star are Harry Gribbon, Hugh Fay, Gene Rogers and May Emory.

Garrick.

During the coming week Mary MacLaren and Harris Ford will provide the attraction at the Garrick Theater in a Lois Weber production entitled "The Mysterious Mrs. M." In this story the hero is informed by a fortune teller that he will die on a specified date, the sorceress telling him at the same time that she, also, will die on the date named. When the news reaches him that the woman has "kicked the bucket" the poor fellow "sees his finish," and just as he is preparing to "cash in his checks" a beautiful maiden from the Land of Romance comes blushing her way into the young man's life. Of course, no young fellow is going to "die off" just to suit the whim of an old witch if a pretty girl asks him to keep on living—but there, if the whole story is told here it might spoil it for those who want to go see it on the screen.

Belasco.

The story of Chambers's popular novel, "The Common Law," in which Clara Kimball Young appears at the Belasco Theater during the coming week, is an interesting one from a sociological standpoint. Valerie West, a poor, uneducated artist's model, falls in love with Neville, the painter for whom she poses. Her love is returned, but, owing to Neville's social connections, Valerie thinks that a marriage would ruin his career. She offers herself in love to the man of her heart, and a day is set on which she is to come to him under "the common law." Through a chain of incidents, Valerie conquers the objections of Neville's family, and the lovers find themselves free to be united in the more conservative bonds of the man-made law.

Housewarming.

NEW MOROSCO HOUSE.

Brilliant Opening of Local Manager's New York Theater—"Canary Cottage" Gets Over Excellently on Big Broadway.

Manager Oliver Morosco has opened his New York theater. He now enjoys the proud distinction of having a playhouse that bears his name at each end of the continent. The housewarming at the new Morosco Theater on Broadway was held Monday night with "Canary Cottage" as the attraction, and if the criticisms of the New York papers, which arrived here yesterday, may be taken as a criterion, "Canary Cottage" should remain at the Morosco Theater, New York, for many months to come.

According to eastern papers, the Morosco Theater is one of the handsomest in New York, although small in seating capacity. It has accommodations for about 900 persons. There is only one balcony.

This arrangements is absolutely the last word in modern theater construction, and places the Morosco Theater in New York at the very head of the beautiful theaters there. The auditorium is built in straight lines and finished in delicate French gray. Trimmings areof the more intimate blues and violets and heliotropes, making the general scheme of pale gray and gently varied purples.

Mr. Morosco will remain in New York for five or six weeks, during which time he will present two other plays in the metropolis. The first will be "The Brat," by Maud Fulton, which had such a successful run in Los Angeles, and which has made a big hit in cities outside of New York. It is scheduled for March 6. The other will be a new play by Galsworthy, entitled "The Fugitive," in which Emily Stevens will be featured.

When these two plays have been launched Mr. Morosco will return to Los Angeles and will immediately begin his campaign of summer production here, trying out many new plays, for which several of the best known actors and actresses of the country will be brought to this city.

Barker Bros. Department of Carpets and Rugs
Invites Your Attention This Week
To a Special Display in Our Large Center Windows, of a Wonderful New American Made Wilton Rug
Duplicating a Most Beautiful and Remarkable Rare Old Chinese Design

The original of this rug is a rare Chinese rug which has recently found its way to this country. It was submitted in the course of a prize competition in which the foremost artists of China participated.

It was the aim of the designer to glorify the Chinese Renaissance, and in this he has been supremely successful.

As is usual in Oriental rugs, a symbolic meaning has been woven into the beauty and richness of the design. In the border may be seen the emblems of the various dynasties which have ruled China in her historic past. The border itself typifies the Great Wall of China, separating the old and new generations. Within the border, in the main body of the rug, the design depicts the radiant dawn of an enlightened era—the beauties and resources of nature, together with a breath of freshness and joy of life—birds awing, gently drooping branches and foliage. The design contains no repetition.

Not only a notable achievement in design, it is a remarkable accomplishment in weaving—a marvelous blending of Oriental artistry with modern American genius.

In our display this rug is shown woven in three distinct colorings—with backgrounds of orange, rose and blue, each with harmonizing colors. The size is nine by twelve feet.

All who are interested in beautiful floor coverings should see this new and beautiful production.

Some famous animal actors in the movi work with; next comes the tiger and next the leopard. They are treacherous, undependable and unruly.

Animal Actors.

Elephants work well in pictures. The Universal has a very famous old fellow named Charley. When not acting the part of a movie hero, Charley mends roads, lugs scenery and pushes houses around the lot. Charley is one picture actor who isn't too haughty to work.

Some of the most successful animal movie actors are monkeys. They are easy to work because everything they do is funny. Napoleon and Sallie, who belonged to the E. R. Jungle Film Company, became known all over the country. They have now gone into vaudeville. It is not difficult to teach a monkey stunts, but it is hard to keep their attention.

Cats are regarded by animal trainers as among the most difficult animals to teach, but they work fairly well in movies. Perhaps the most remarkable cat that has appeared in pictures is one used by Mabel Normand in her new feature play.

This cat catches fish out of a mountain stream. Unlike the other movie animals, this one did not really "belong." Miss Normand discovered it in the mountains where some of her scenes were taken. It was the property of an old prospector, who was frequently absent for days at a time while he went to town for supplies. Left alone, the cat had either to starve or fend for itself. So it learned to catch fish and frogs from the mountain streams. By patiently waiting the camera man managed to catch the cat in the act.

Horses are, of course, the most used of any animals in the movies. A horse is naturally a creature of habit, and some of these broncs get to know how to work in pictures as well as they learn polo or herding cows. Some of the "regular" cow horses will race like mad until they pass the camera, when they drop down at once to a sleepy jog trot.

Bill Hart has perhaps the most famous horse in the movies. Mr. Hart can make him do the most impossible stunts. Mack Sennett has a horse named Jasper which has been trained to the gentle art of falling over cliffs. In a recent Keystone Comedy Jasper leaped off the roof of a house into a swimming tank thirty feet below. Nearly all the moving-picture horses are mustangs. No other horse has the necessary courage to do these wild, break-neck feats, or the toughness to do them without falling into pieces. Horsemen say that this courage is in the broncho by reason of his descent from the desert Arab.

In a recent Keystone comedy they had a horse that was supposed to steal and eat a pie.

They tried nearly twenty horses before they could find one with a proper penchant for pie. Finally they found a lean, piebald animal who seemed to have but one ambition in life—to gobble up pies. He would take down a whole pie in a couple of gulps, then look around reproachfully at the director as though to say, "Say, don't an actor get any pie to eat around here?" He was worse than the other non-pie-eating horses because he wandered all over the set, breaking up the scenery, looking for his favorite fruit.

The use of animals in pictures is said to have been originated by D. W. Griffith, and he has introduced some wonderful beasts in his picture plays. In "Intolerance" he had a wonderful animal who had never been seen by the public. As the play was originally filmed, Cyrus rode forth to battle upon a superb white charger. In the studio run of the film the white horse made such a hit that they finally decided to cut him out. The king kicked. There was too much horse and not enough king.

This is one of the great dangers in filming animals: they are likely to run away with the piece. Griffith was keen and shrewd enough to cut what would have made a great impression in order not to distort the play.

Of late, many very small animals have been brought into films. Even rats and mice. They make a great hit when the pictures finally are shown, but they endanger the souls of the directors who have to work with them. A rat can do more pestiferous, contrary things in a shorter space of time than any animal that lives and breathes. In producing a recent comedy the director worked for days at a time to induce a rat to run up a girl's skirt. This is great news for all the girls. The rat wanted to run everywhere else in the world.

Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, who has now added to his many other distinctions that of the Honorary Freedom of the Fishmongers' Society, has been First Sea Lord of the Admiralty since November 30, when he succeeded Sir John Jackson. Few naval officers have ever had such a wide experience of naval warfare and of administration.

AMERICA'S SHARE IN WAR'S ADJUSTMENT OF THING

Great Britain Will Welcome Us Perhaps With Active Participation in Hostilities.

BY THE MARQUIS OF ABERDEEN AND TEMAIR,
Viceroy of Ireland, 1905-1915.

A QUESTION that appears to be now uppermost is Britain and her allies are desirous of seeing the Unit actively into the war. In answering the question I any opinion I can offer on the subject must be based largely has thus far been the prevalent feeling of Great Britain toward States. There has not yet been time for formulated expression

On the other hand, there can be no question that there

The indorsement in Britain of the recent declaration the United States does not imply the expectation and still less the part of Great Britain that America shall necessarily be drawn

Madge Morris is well known to Californians as a poet. A sweet singer, she is, with much verse that shows descriptive ability of a high order and, in her more impassioned moments, she has a degree of power that carries her far.

Of the hundred poems in this book, "The Lure of the Desert," none seems to us to excel that which has given the book its title. We of the Southwest, who have stared into the desert's vastness, may understand better than those more remote that Mrs. Wagner was not romancing with poetic license when she cries out:

Have you slept in a tent alone—a tent
Out under the desert sky—
Where a thousand thousand desert miles
All silent around you lie?
The dust of aeons of ages dead,
And the peoples that trampled by?

Have you looked in the desert's painted cup,
Have you smelled at dawn the wild sage musk,
Have you seen the lightning flashing up
From the ground of the desert dusk?

Have you lain with your face in your hands, afraid,
Face down—flat on your face—and prayed,
While the terrible sandstorm whirled and swirled
In its soundless fury, and hid the world
And quenched the sun in its yellow glare—
Just you, and your soul, and nothing there?

The desert is a favorite theme with her, and well it may be—"Brown, bare-breasted, voiceless mystery" that lures and blasts and lets none escape that have glimpsed its awful glories.

Among the most musical and imaginative of her many poems is "Under the Sea"—filled with an eerie beauty of sound and imagery, it tells of a maiden who was drowned in the tide while listening to a fisherman's song and—

The mermaids braided the maiden's hair
Under the depths of the sea—
Braided her long, bright, golden hair
Into a shimmering, wonderful snare
Under the fathomless sea.

The fisherman smiled as he sang his song
For a maid too fond and fair—
A mermaid floated the waves along,
She caught the soul of the fisherman's song
In a net of golden hair—

so that ever when twilight falls, and deaf to the warning that death is there, the fisherman follows the song of the sea.

"Genesis," a poem of irregular lines, but sustained iambic measure, shows Mrs. Wagner at her most intense, and it is a far cry from the cosmic theme to the simpler, and often commonplace in theme and treatment, verses with which the book is largely filled. For the most part, Mrs. Wagner's verse belongs to the manner and moods of yesteryear. She is utterly without the dramatic conceptions, the intimate humanity feeling, which the best current poetry is developing to a fineness that will likely make this decade distinctive in poetic archives. With all of its qualities, many of them excellent—and shown particularly to advantage in "Wonderful, Mysterious Mexico"—a great deal of Mrs. Wagner's poetry has a stiffness, an artificiality, a triteness that makes one wish she had been content rigorously to delete the index.

In "A Woman Free," Ruth, or Ruth Le Prade, very deftly answers criticism which she expected, and at the same time uses some of the best lines in the book to do it, by saying:

Poets have carefully carved their songs,
Toiling with words, phrases, stanzas,
Till all was finished;
But I do not carefully carve my songs,
Toiling with words, phrases, stanzas,
And all that I leave is unfinished—
That you shall be a poet
Finishing each according to yourself.

The last two lines are reminiscent of Miss Le Prade's acknowledged master, Whitman, who remarked that great poets must have great audiences, too.

But the poems are more than merely "unfinished." Many of them have too much of the "cataloguing" that Whitman used, too, but not in his greater moments; they have many lines which the poet has mistaken for strength because they are shrill. It is no trick to scream louder than an Alma Gluck, but to carry the flawless tone of the singer or poet—indeed, that is something more than screaming. There are many poems which we refuse to finish according to ourselves, for it is the poet's duty to do the drudgery that the refining, carving and supreme ornamentation requires. All of us have passion enough to jot down lines and splotches of ideas—but the real poet finishes the work with a completeness that leaves the admirer satisfied. So, after all, Miss Le Padre's apology is not felicitous.

But to some extent the poetic quality is in "A Woman Free." The author has the passion, the spirit, or call it what you will, that summons the emotions from the vasty depths of subconsciousness. The emotions, like the spirits of Falstaff, may know they are summoned, but will they come? Not very far. We give one pronounced illustration of what we mean in saying that Miss Le Prade hasn't a trustworthy poetic sense. These are the opening lines from "The Runner," and notice that from the first true, strong, poetic line the expression and ideas sink to the level of a dull Sunday-school tract:

Lithe and strong stands the runner poised for the race.
Lean is his body, freed from superfluous flesh;
Clean is the blood which flows within it.
He is suggestive of great strength—
Strength to achieve and to overcome.

As you gaze upon him you know that he has not weakened himself with alcohol or tobacco—
He could not afford to weaken himself with alcohol or tobacco;
Neither has he weakened himself by sexual indulgence or overeating—
He has conserved himself for the race;
And you feel as you gaze upon him
That he will be a winner.

But the faults would not be worth noting if they were wholly lacking that which is worthy of commendation. Miss Le Prade may not have learned to use her wings in a way that pleases some of us, but she has at least the feathers of fancy. She is capable of vividity, and throws up ideas from time to time that cause one, figuratively at least, to catch the breath; as in the opening lines of "Because Your Beauty Is:"

Darkness, earthquake and storm,
And I in the ruins alone,
With my crumbled heart at my feet.

Her most characteristic form is, perhaps, in the poem "I Have Loved"—from which these lines are taken:

I have loved the song of birds and of the stars;
I have loved the sound of waters as they flow—
But more than the sound of birds and stars,
More than the sound of water flowing,
I have loved the sound of my comrades' voices
And the music of their souls.

Miss Le Prade's book is, however, too little her own. It is full of Whitmanic echoes; it sings with a sort of self-conscious fervency, and the poetry that the woman indubitably possesses is marred by immaturity of thought and phrasing that is not always what it should be.

LATEST NOVELS.

"Michael."

When scrutinized, E. F. Benson's "Michael" (George H. Doran Company) appears to be the conventional war novel. Perhaps the inevitable war novel; at least the apotheosis of all war novels that second-rate fictioneers have written. Mr. Benson at best is a second-rate novelist, too, and among the best of them, in character work he is better than that, but in the sum and total he fails to climb out of the conventional group. He has skill, grace, poise; he can make men and women seem real—as Michael, and his father, Earl of Ashbridge, and mother and Aunt Barbara and Sylvia and Herman are real—but he has none of the dynamic energy that stirs the mind.

We can explain further what is meant and at the same time disclose further the plot structure by mentioning the characteristic features of the conventional war novel. It shows with a degree of poignancy the anguish that the war imposed upon sincere Anglo-Teutonic friendships. It is one in which the hero—just before he is wounded, and the hero of a war novel is always wounded; in the conventional type wounded just enough to be disabled for further service—on the firing line shoots his Teutonic friend. The conventional war novel also has some character or other comment with Cassandrian accuracy upon the events that will follow the Austrian Prince's assassination, and dwells with historical fidelity upon the transitions of those events. The conventional war novel undertakes to differentiate honestly, without bitterness, the racial characteristics of the English and the Germans. The harum-scarum, mostly scare'em a la Oppenheim, makes all Germans spies and villains; but your sober and earnest novelist, as exemplified by Mr. Benson, shows that there is the possibility of Germans—providing that they are Bavarians and not Prussians—being decent, honest, laudably patriotic, though wholly misguided in Kaiser worship.

Mr. Benson has written the best conventional war novel that we have seen. He is the master of everything but originality. It was his characteristic lack of originality that caused him to follow the lines that most readily suggest themselves in a war novel; hence the conventional plot.

But the characters are worth while. The plot is wretched. To use a weaker word might convey the impression that it isn't as bad as we think. It is. It may be worse. But Michael has personality. His character is one that takes hold of the sympathies. As the son of the Earl of Ashbridge—who has entertained the Kaiser—he is Lord Comber. His title means nothing to him. Family traditions mean nothing, except an annoyance. He resigns from the army to take up the study of music. He is a quiet, almost deformed and miserably sensitive boy of fine qualities. In fact, Michael, as a literary figure, should—if one is not captious as ourselves—redeem and glorify the story. He is human and lovable; firm, yet gracious; unselfish, kind and dignified; the antithesis of his father, who is exasperated that the boy will not perpetuate the family traditions—remain in the army, marry the proper girl, pose and strut and be an overlord among the tenants.

Michael goes to Germany to study music. He meets Herman and his sister Sylvia, who are loyal to Germany, though half English. The love of Michael for Sylvia is artistically developed.

To make a long review short, Michael, after studying in Germany, meeting the Kaiser, seeing what Englishmen—since the war—usually have seen in Germany, returns to England with Herman and Sylvia and are there when war is declared. Herman at once rejoins his German regiment. In time, Michael rejoins his regiment, and the story is supposed to develop its tensest qualities from that time on. But it reaches its heights some time before, when Michael inconveniences himself to take care of a stupid mother whose mind is failing. However, Michael goes to war. He kills a German and the German tumbles into the trench at his feet. That German, of all the millions on the front, could not possibly be anyone except Herman. Then Michael is wounded and returns to England—to Sylvia—and he tells her of what has happened.

And she—after all there is too much charm in this story for us to destroy all interest for those who read merely for the plot.

"Regiment of Women."

Clemence Dane has laudably been careful and detailed in her first novel, "Regiment of Women" (The Macmillan Company,) which is concerned with the infinitesimal intrigues of the teachers in a school for girls. It has the appearance of being an intimate study of women's minds; the characters are clearly drawn, sustained, but it is tedious rather than brilliant character work, and the minds, or soul, or personality—or whatever is the concrete term to distinguish women's charm or lack of it—fails to evoke much interest from us, though considerable admiration goes out to the author who can be so unhurriedly precise, so content in trying to infuse dramatic energy into commonplace incidents, and such a studious chronicler of trivialities.

"Regiment of Women," warp, woof and pattern and seam—or material, theme and manner of handling—is one of those novels that are always said to be good if they come out of England, as this one does. No doubt they are good. And, like good people, they are often distressingly boresome.

So it is that Clemence Dane has written on behalf of psychological realism to show how—but scarcely why—one teacher, Clare Hartill, exercises a dominating fascination for a younger teacher, Alwynne Durand.

Clare is selfish. The word condenses chapters. She is mentally insolent to those with whom she is associated; capable, it is true, and self-contained, but far from being self-sufficient; cold-blooded, but not what is usually called wicked. Alwynne is sweet, unselfish, gentle, and mentally blind as far as Clare is concerned. Her aunt and the boy who loves her know this, but she is mentally deaf as well.

For action, the novel furnishes up the small talk over teacups, polite spats between the aunt and Clare, tragedy that lacks the weight of an incubus and allows the characters to talk about each other, and the spineless urgency of the young man who loves Alwynne and who wishes to cure her of Clare. It isn't the young man who does it. It is Clare's lack of appreciation for an undergarment which Alwynne has patiently embroidered. Clare has a habit—it is scarcely more—of growing tired of people about whom she was, or pretended to be, enthusiastic, and she is a vampirish sort, but without the picturesque seductiveness of such creatures.

The book is written to show the sweet Alwynne bondage and "awakening," and it has the earmarks of one of those things called a "transcript from life." Moreover, we do not believe that the imagination of Miss Dane would have been content with the tedious development of such a protracted tale; but these "true stories"—they count the grains in the coffee cup and seem to think all the world should be interested in the enumeration. This seems, indeed, to be a faithful chronicle, and the numerous readers who are discriminating and like stippled accuracy will find "Regiment of Women" something better than the usual, even English, realism; but suffocatingly feminine and inclined to a miasmic morbidity.

"The Street of the Blank Wall."

Jerome Klapka Jerome's latest book is a collection of short stories, some of which are not short, called "The Street of the Blank Wall" (Dodd, Mead Co.)

The longest story, "Malvina of Brittany" is a peculiar tale mingling folk-lore of great age with current events, and describes how a young British aviator carries away a fairy, of the complications that result when the young lady, fluently speaking an antiquated tongue, meets staid Britishers and continues more or less the impishness that had her cast from the fairy court 2000 B. C.

The titular story is a mystery tale, which gives a twist to a tragedy and shows how a woman was no less guilty, but less cold-blooded, than the court found her. "His Evening Out" is a complicated comedy; "The Lesson" dabbles with reincarnation; "Sylvia of the Letters" is something of a trick story, in which people who are well acquainted write each other under other names and develop an understanding that perhaps otherwise could not have been gained. None of the stories have remarkable quality; in fact, they are rather disappointing, both in plot and style, from an author so experienced as Jerome K. Jerome.

"Wildfire."

Zane Grey is quite amusing. For one so splashingly romantic, so incredible in theme and incidents, it is enjoyable to see the assiduous realism with which he reports the speech of his grammarless diamonds-in-the-rough. "Wal," "thet," "reckon;" but these wonderful cowpunchers pronounced with literal correctness and painstaking enunciation such slippery words as "every," "you," "year" and "get." One looking for more amusement than contented us might indefinitely prolong the list in his latest red-blooded, manly, up-standing, thrilling western book, "Wildfire." (Harper & Bros.)

Mr. Grey wrote one western book that was a book: "The Lone Star Rangers." The others are literary hasheesh, mental dope.

"Wildfire" tells how a girl rides a wild stallion caught by a horse hunter whom she rescues, and defeats the favorite of her horse-loving father, who has been unscrupulous enough to more than cheat a rival in the effort to keep his horse out of the race. But the great cinema feature is later when, after an encounter with bandits, the heroine is bound, Mazeppa-like, half-naked to a fierce stallion and turned loose. Then Sir Hero, he who captured Wildfire, reciprocates the rescue extended to him, and wildly riding stops the stallion and saves the maid.

"Upsidonia."

Archibald Marshall has created a topsy-turvy world in "Upsidonia" (Dodd, Mead & Co.) the better to wheedle the reader into a sociological study of conditions in England. Sir Thomas More did something similar; and Dr. Swift so well succeeded that his satire became a favorite of the nursery. But though Mr. Marshall has been ingenious and interesting, we fancy Utopia and Gulliver will be much longer remembered than "Upsidonia;" for while Mr. Marshall lampoons certain aspects of civilization, he flounders hopelessly in the conventional man-loves-the-girl theme, so that after all this is merely a novel.

A tourist passes through a cave and enters Upsidonia, where the poor are the honored class, where business is conducted on the theory of getting rid of money, where beggars beseech passers-by to take gold sovereigns, where burglars leave loot instead of packing it off, where lords and ladies are the servants, and the noblest dress like beggars in civilized cities. The jails are equipped with every luxury, as this is considered the greatest corporal punishment; and light sentences impose hard labor.

John Howard, the tourist, gets into trouble by offering a tattered lord money under the impression that he is a beggar; and the offended noble makes Howard's sojourn as miserable as possible, interfering with his love affairs, and whispering to the police that Howard is undoubtedly a man of wealth and possibly a burglar of the Upsidonia type. A heinous charge, that last.

The Upsidonia features are cleverly emphasized, and as a mild satire the story is effective.

THE LITTLE BOOK PUBLISHER.

NOT very long ago, two men, actively engaged in the book trade—one a salesman and the other an editor—were discussing the book situation in this country.

"What we most need," the salesman remarked, "is a line of little books to sell for under a dollar—novels, poetry, religion, everything in fact. There isn't a day that we don't have calls for volumes of this sort. And aside from reprints and various editions of the classics, what have we? Almost nothing."

Out of this conversation a new book publishing concern has grown. The investigations which those interested in the venture have conducted have proved to their satisfaction that there is indeed a demand for little books and that this demand is at present going, for the most part, unfilled. Many of the inquiries at book stores disclose simply a personal preference on the part of the would-be buyer for "thin, graceful, intimate little books." These people seem to think it wholly impossible to "love" or even to get on friendly terms, with great, big unwieldy tomes. Others want to send a birthday remembrance to aunt or uncle. A card is hardly enough, the ordinary book, too much—"isn't there anything in between?"

And so it goes on—a hundred and one indications of a market for the little book.

The Little Book Publisher was organized in January, 1917, to cater to this demand. Those who are behind the enterprise are said to be experienced in the book publishing and selling world and their experiment in a new field is sure to be watched with much interest.

The first problem which they have had to face is one of expense. Publishers almost without exception are raising their prices owing to the scarcity of book paper and the increased costs all along the line. Yet here is a company which, in the face of this advance, and in spite of it, proposes to issue books at prices which the cheaper reprints have commanded before. How is it to be done?

"Not by inferior workmanship or materials," The Little Book Publisher states. "The volumes which we shall put out will be well manufactured. All will be bound in cloth, many in decorated covers, and will be printed on fine paper. The saving is to be in other directions."

"The majority of publishing houses"—so continues the announcement of The Little Book Publisher, "are run at enormous expense. Many of them are located in big cities with heavy rents and charges for upkeep. This is where we are to save. The public cares not where the base of a publishing house is, and dealers care not, provided the books may be procured easily. We are located in the suburbs, half an hour from New York, at Arlington, New Jersey. This is easy of access to New York, provides good shipping facilities, and is, so far as we can see, as convenient in every way for everybody as a New York City plant would be. It is our location which makes possible the low price of the 'little' books."

The first two volumes to be published by the new company are Charles H. Stewart's "Winning Out," and Grace Irwin's "Brown-Eyed Susan." Both will be ready February 23.

Dr. Stewart believes that the world is growing better. In "Winning Out" he voices this belief as it applies to business, to society, to the church, to the different relationships of mankind. And then, having made his position clear, he gives the very solid reasons which have led him to his optimistic conclusions.

Dr. Stewart is the pastor of a large and prosperous church in Newark—a church which is active along various lines of social welfare. A message of faith and of hope such as this little book embodies, coming from one whose ministry brings him into close contact with all sorts and conditions of humanity, is possessed of more than ordinary significance and value. It is a book of facts written for practical men and women who want facts, by one who has them.

Grace Irwin's "Brown-Eyed Susan" may be described as the love story of a frump. Susan Yorke, with her queer ways, her queer manners, her queer ideas, is not the usual type of book heroine, but the glimpses which the reader has of her, first as a schoolgirl, then as Normal student and finally as teacher, reveal her as a very real, a very human person for all that. There is much humor in the book, particularly in the chapters dealing with Susan's experiences as a teacher in an Italian settlement, while throughout a happy emphasis is placed on simple, everyday, homely interests.

In March a volume of poems is to be issued—"Streets and Faces," by Scudder Middleton. Announcement of other titles will follow.

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

What the Publishers Read.

"Five book manuscripts a day, thirty a week, close to fifteen hundred a year—that is the showing of the head reader for a large publishing house," says a publisher's reader in the New York Evening Post. "One can hardly blame him if he sometimes grows skeptical about the profession of letters. Of each hundred manuscripts turned in there will rarely be more than four or five that merit any serious consideration; only about one in a hundred will be accepted for publication. And the others—alas that human beings should have invented ink to steal away their brains! I read almost a score every week. And once a year or so, when one is thinking that the hooves of Pegasus have turned into pig's trotters, comes some Joseph Conrad, some Walter de la Mare, or Rupert Brooke to restore one's sanity. I hear that the authors are going to unionize themselves and join the A. F. of L. The word 'author' carries no sanctity with me; I have read too many of them. If their forming a trade union will better the output of American literature, I am keen for it. I know that the professional reader has a jaundiced eye; insensibly he acquires a parallax which distorts his vision. Reading incessantly, now fiction, now history, poetry, essays, philosophy, science, exegetics, and what not, he becomes a kind of pantechnicon of slovenly knowledge; a knower of thousands of things that aren't so. Every crank's whim, every cretin's philosophy, is fired at him, first of all. Every six months comes in the inevitable treatise on the fourth dimension or on making gold from sea-water, or on using moonlight to run dynamos, or on Pope Joan or Prester John. And with it all he must retain his simple-hearted faith in the great art of writing and in the beneficence of Gutenberg."

Hindenburg's "Partner."

"Hindenburg and Ludendorff. Never the one name without the other, never the one man without the other," says Herbert Bayard Swope in "Inside the German Empire." "Ludendorff is Hindenburg's indispensable right-hand man. When Hindenburg took command on the front in mid-August, 1914, Ludendorff was rushed from Liege, where he had led the first brigade to enter the conquered city, in a special train all the way across Luxemburg and the Rhineland, across Hanover and the Mark of Brandenburg, to Hindenburg's headquarters on the eastern frontier. He became Hindenburg's Generalstabschef—chief of his General Staff. Since then the two have been inseparable. When Hindenburg became chief of the great General Staff, commanding all the armies of Germany—and as things stand today that comes near to meaning commanding all the combined German, Austro-Hungarian, Bulgarian and Turkish armies—in September Ludendorff went with him. There are those who say that Ludendorff is Hindenburg's brain, and that Hindenburg's greatest successes have been planned by his silent, retiring assistant. Hindenburg, when in the mood, becomes very talkative and chatty, and at such times he often attributes his success to his assistant. There is a perfect harmony between the two; Ludendorff plans and Hindenburg decides."

"The Pan-German Plot."

The late Earl of Cromer, O. M., wrote the introduction to "The Pan-German Plot Unmasked" by Andre Cheradame which has aroused interest as a prophecy of the German peace proposal which was published at the moment of its fulfillment. In the introduction he says of the author: "M. Cheradame stands conspicuous amongst that very small body of politicians who warned Europe betimes of the German danger. The fact that in the past he proved a true prophet gives him a special claim to be heard when he states his views as regards the present and the future."

M. Cheradame's book appeared in America just before the Earl of Cromer's death. It is published by the Scribners.

Francois Villon.

Few men have had so interesting a life as Francois Villon. He was poet and vagabond, roisterer and dreamer of dreams, the associate of thieves and cut-throats, on occasion himself a fugitive from the law and under less fortunate circumstances its victim, a member of that strange company of desperate and pleasure-mad characters known as the Coquillards or companions of the cockle-shell. Having lived a brief span of only thirty-two years, Villon is, nevertheless, one of the enduring figures of literature, romance, and life. He belonged to an age of great happenings. A few months before his birth Jeanne d'Arc had been burned at Rouen. During his lifetime wolves boldly invaded the streets of Paris and were feared only less than the Burgundians that were clamoring at its gates. The country was overrun with robbers, tricksters, gypsies, mountebanks, and a turbulent soldiery. In a volume entitled "Francois Villon; His Life and Times," H. De Vere Stacpoole has given a picture, infused in its every detail with life, of the poet vagabond and the Paris and France in which he lived. Mr. Stacpoole's volume is about to be published by the Putnams.

Learning the French Language.

Here's a suggestion for the man or woman who contemplates a trip to Paris! "It is worth recommending," says Mlle. Alice Blum, for twenty years a teacher of French in Paris, and author of "An Oral French Method" (just announced by the George H. Doran Company,) "that there are at least 1000 words that are written exactly the same in French and English. All the American has to do is to learn to pronounce these words, and he finds himself immediately with a very fair vocabulary. And it is not difficult to learn the pronunciation, provided the pupil is taught to hear the French sounds. It is all a matter of hearing."

Mlle. Blum's book has been called a "revelation" in the way it accomplishes what no book has accomplished hitherto—the teaching of just these French sounds.

New Books Announced.

Little, Brown & Company's early 1917 fiction includes "The Hillman," by E. Phillips Oppenheim, already in its second printing; "The Unwelcome Man," by Waldo Frank; "The Twenty-four," by the late George Fitch, author of the "Siwash" stories; "Limpy; the Boy Who Felt Neglected," by William Johnston; "Our Next Door Neighbors," by Belle K. Maniates, author of "Amarilly of Clothes-line Alley;" "The Hornet's Nest," by Mrs. Wilson Woodrow; "Joan and the Babies and I," by Cosmo Hamilton, author of "The Sins of the Children;" and "Starr of the Desert," by B. M. Bower.

"Out There the West Begins."

Buffalo Bill, the last figure of the old romantic West, has gone to the Happy Hunting Ground. Over his grave was read "Out Where the West Begins," the poem by Arthur Chapman, which more than any other verse, perhaps, has struck a responsive note in the hearts of those who love the plains and the snowy Sierras. Mr. Chapman's poem has been quoted in the newspapers of almost every State in the Union; he, himself, has found it "on the walls of cabins in mining camps, and Indian reservations, and all sorts of out-of-the-way places," and he says, "the thing that made me feel the best over it was when I found it tacked up in a slum mission on Larimer street—the street of the down-and-outers—in Denver." The now famous poem, together with more of Mr. Chapman's verse, will be published in book form on February 17 by Houghton Mifflin Company, under the title of "Out Where the West Begins."

HISTORIC FURNITURE.

JACOBEAN FURNITURE. By Helen Churchill Candee. Frederick A. Stokes Company, New York.

Helen Churchill Candee has written an essay rather than a treatise, and the text of the slender book is a pleasant surprise after its formidable title. She says "that no sooner had the artistic eye of the true collector begun to search for seventeenth century furniture than the commercial eye of the modern manufacturer began to make hideous variations on its salient features. He caught the name of Jacobean and to every piece of ill-drawn furniture he affixed a spiral leg and the Stuart name; or, he set a serpentine flat stretcher and called his mahogany dining set, William and Mary. These tasteless things fill our department stores, and it is they that are rapidly filling our American homes. And the worst of it is, that both buyers and sellers are pathetically glib with attaching historic names to the mongrel stuff, and thus they are misled. New furniture must be made, however, or resort to soap boxes and hammocks. The old models are the best to follow for the reason that the present is not an age of creation in this direction." And she sketches the historic backgrounds of the period furniture, writes directly and has much to say.

PRAYER, THE CIVILIZER?

THE SIXTH SENSE, PRAYER. By Charles Gerard Conn. Charles Rice & Sons, Los Angeles.

Mr. Conn advances a radical theory on behalf of the efficiency of prayer. "Mankind owes its present state of enlightenment," says Mr. Conn, "almost entirely to prayer, and with that intellectual advancement has come to the conquering of the wilderness, the multitude of mechanical devices and architectural and other improvements for the convenience of this and other generations. If mankind, by the use of prayer, has risen from an animal condition to a state of civilization, why should not the same means of uplift finally cause mankind to throw off the shackles of wrong-doing?

And as means of gaining that Utopian height, Mr. Conn deduces that as "the object of prayer is to awaken mental forces that will protect the devotee from evil, that will safeguard him against his own baneful inclinations, that will give him strength of mind and body, and that will arouse new and better brain cell activities," so may a man by prayer almost regenerate an evil or morally weak brain.

But his theory is not limited to what aspects of psychology and science it may have. He believes in a God who responds to the call of prayer, who answers—though the cell regeneration may be one of the mysterious ways in which He moves His wonders to perform.

The materialists hold a view of prayer so different to that proposed by Mr. Conn that it may not be out of place to mention it. They maintain that prayer is a confession of weakness on the part of mankind, an admission on the part of man that he is afraid of the forces about him; and that prayer results from ignorance, that men do not pray to the clouds after studying meteorology nor to the lightning after studying physics.

But there is no arguing over religious tastes; and materialism is as much a religion as Christian Science—a matter of faith and nothing more so far as the unbeliever is concerned.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

MIDST THE MOVIES.

BY EUGENE BROWN.

Having in mind the idea that I would star myself in the play I had written and thus keep all the money in the family, I went to see Col. Frank Woods about it. Frank came pretty near making actors out of Beerbohm Tree and De Wolf Hopper, and so I fancied that if I needed any pruning—or was too full of prunes—he would be able to take me in hand and smooth any imperfections.

When I broke the news to him he was not particularly impressed with the proposition.

"What type do you think you are, anyhow?" inquired he abruptly.

"Well," began I, pleasantly, "I thought I was nonpareil when I was a pup, but now I figure that I'm about a 36-point extended."

"Oh, do you?" sneered the colonel. "You look very bourgeois to me, and I'm dead sure you're not out of the primer class."

"Let's call it small pica and have it over with," said I in a spirit of compromise. "I am the prince of a small pica kingdom that is full of intrigue and trouble. One day the revolutionists under Kleophas, the king killer, invade the palace and carve the old man into shreds. With great presence of mind I get down on my knees on the palace lawn and begin to nibble grass after the manner of Nebuchadnezzar. Then the anarchists know that I am crazy and content themselves by locking me up in the asylum. There I succeed in amusing the inmates by imitating Charlie Chaplin, and am made one of the trusties and given the run of the place. When the inspector comes around one day to look us over I take him behind the barn and hold a sponge full of chloroform to his nose and put him to sleep. Then I quickly change clothes with him and march calmly out of the gate disguised in his uniform. But I realize that the substitution will be quickly discovered, and so when the bakery wagon comes down the road I hold up the outfit at the point of the inspector's pistol and take possession. Once more I change apparel, and, after throwing the baker and the inspector's uniform into a friendly cistern I drive brazenly up to the palace, where I tell the guard that I have a wonderful sponge cake for the new king made by the fair hands of Pansy Higgins, who is dancing at the Arcade this week. Kleophas is a fiend for sponge cake and dancing girls, and welcomes the messenger warmly. I had thoughtfully doped the cake with knockout drops after nibbling a gash from the side. I explained to the tyrant that that was the spot where Pansy had tasted the cake and was the impress of her caressing lips. If he would begin to gnaw at the same place she would be tickled to death. The usurper went to it with eagerness, but presently his eyes grew glassy and he sank in a stupor to the floor. In another instant I had taken the ropes from the palace portieres and strung the tyrant up by the neck to the chandelier. Then, with great calmness, I telephoned the Police Station to come and cut down Kleophas. I said that in a fit of remorse he had hanged himself, leaving the kingdom undisputed to the rightful heir. Then the crowd comes in, including Pansy, who falls into my arms, and we live happily ever after. Isn't that fine stuff?"

"It's stuff, all right," said the impresario, "and you ought to be fined for trying to put it across."

"Aw, you're jealous," challenged I. "You haven't got all the actors in the world."

"Thank heaven for that," exclaimed the scenario magnate feelingly. "If we had 'em all I would spend the summer in a padded cell."

"Are you strong for actors or types?" inquired I curiously.

"Both," replied the magnate. "Personally I prefer the intelligent actor. He can make up creditably for almost any part, and people who go to the theater are used to make-up anyhow. But, of course, if we can find just the type we want and the party can behave well in front of the camera, so much the better. Some of our best and highest-paid performers began merely as types. That's what makes life seem incongruous. We have bright, intelligent girls in our office working for $12 or $15 a week and making out pay checks for other girls of from $100 to $300 a week and knowing that these other girls are not really as pretty or clever as themselves. Do you blame them for wondering how they do it? The only point, of course, is that 'the other girl' has some unusual or appealing trick of personality that takes a good picture and can be taught to use it when the camera clicks. A great deal of the talk about the salaries of movie stars is romance, but there are four or five who are really worth more than any salary that can possibly be paid them. Take Douglas Fairbanks, for instance. He is good for seven or eight pictures a year. He can take off an average of seventy-five films for first-run cities, and there will always be advance orders to take all these at $1500 a week. That gives over $100,000 the first week alone. Then they go to what we call second-run cities, and here they earn an average of perhaps $1000 a week. Continue down the line and you find that you can actually make out the bills in advance for over $300,000 of cash revenue from every Fairbanks picture—no matter what it may be. At eight pictures a year that would make an income of $2,400,000. Outside of Fairbanks's salary the pictures may not cost an average of more than $25,000 each. I suppose a producing concern could pay him a salary of $100,000 a month and still get away with a million dollars a year. No wonder he wants to break his contracts. It is only in the movies that such things are possible. On the speaking stage he could not possibly be worth over $3000 a week, and that would be because of the advertising the pictures have given him."

"I suppose in the business world he could pluck down about two thousand bucks a year as a shaving soap salesman, and on a ranch he would be worth about $60 a month," suggested I. "But what do you do when you want types? Do you advertise for them?"

"Oh, we don't have much trouble in digging them out," answered the scenario boss. "Some time ago we wanted to use a crazy chauffeur and we found him in real life all right."

"That is an animal that grows on every bush," said I.

"If animals grew on bushes I'd say you were right," returned the movie man.

In accordance with Chinese custom, Dr. Wu Chao-chu, who has been Counsellor in the Foreign Office for two years, resigned that post when his father, Dr. Wu Ting Fang, was made Minister of Foreign Affairs, but Premier Tuan Chi Jui has insisted upon his remaining in office to assist his father. Dr. Wu Chao-chu attended the Western High School in Washington while his father was Chinese Minister to the United States and studied law in England.

SPECIAL NOTICES—

BEAUTY HINTS. IT IS NEITHER CLIMATE nor age that plays havoc with the skin, it is not knowing how to care for it. The fine, dry, withered skin should not have the same care the coarse-pored oily skin should have. In this climate, whether the skin is dry or oily, a cleansing cream and an astringent tonic is needed. The ingredients in all my preparations are guaranteed chemically pure, and will not encourage the growth of hair. Your money is cheerfully refunded if you do not find them all I claim, at my office or H. Jevne Co., distributors. Mail orders filled. Cream, 50 cents and $1.00 sizes.

BEAUTY'S GREATEST BLEMISH is the disfiguring hair growths, ill-shaped brows or hair lines, warts, moles and birthmarks, all of which can be remedied skillfully and painlessly, leaving no marks or scars. Located in business in Los Angeles 12 years. ANNA M. BERGERON, Skin Specialist, 820-21 Haas Bldg. Corner Seventh and Broadway.

PROF. CAIRO,
The World's Renowned Egyptian Palmist.
For Three Centuries My Family
Were Palmists.

Answers sealed messages in trance; gives names of friends, enemies, rivals; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false; gives invaluable hints as how to gain success in love, courtship, marriage, divorce, sound health and in numerous other transactions. No matter what your fear or ambition, come to this gifted palmist and FIND HELP. He will drive doubt from your mind and will detect skepticism at first glance. He was wonderfully successful in London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, New York and was a much-featured personage at the San Francisco Exposition. He speaks fluently in English, French, German, Spanish and several other languages. His power is a strange one, which none can explain, a gift which is bestowed upon few. He tells the hopes, fears and ambitions of your life. Gives full names, dates of importance, capabilities, fortunate and unfortunate periods, and vouchsafes helpfulness in winning the one you love. If making any important step, do not fail to consult HIM. HIS ADVICE MAY BE THE MEANS OF SAVING YOU SERIOUS MISTAKES. He will tell you your full name and what you called for, at the very outset of your visit; WHEN YOU WILL MARRY. Call on this gifted man and he may send you home wiser and more astute in mind than ever before. Hours 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday included. SPECIAL LOW FEE this week $1.00.

PERSONAL—
MRS. MASSON,
the noted palmist, of London, England, may be consulted at 322 SOUTH SPRING STREET, by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS, FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.
The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigations along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.
PALMISTRY HONESTLY PRACTICED WILL NOT tell your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in everyday life.
Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry, WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.
MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.
HIGH CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

MR. PURCHASER,

READ THIS:

You are reading these columns today, and looking for a big bargain in a used car. Don't forget that the price of a car does not place it in the bargain class. Its mechanical condition means more to you than anything else. I have some 30 odd cars for sale at prices that are consistent with their excellent condition. I know that these prices are really lower than you can find in like cars, if you will take the matter of condition into consideration. We have no hesitancy in guaranteeing these automobiles in every respect by a written guarantee which you will appreciate is worth money to you. If you can find in this guarantee anything that does not tend to show our faith in the car we are selling you, we will allow you to write your own guarantee and will sign it. Our business is the sale of new CHANDLER SIXES—We are not speculators in used cars in any sense of the word. Every car offered for sale has been taken in trade from an owner who wanted a later model car. All of these used cars have been thoroughly overhauled, and anything found wrong with them has been absolutely put in the best condition possible. We want to sell you a new car later on, and therefore you may be assured that you will be given the best of service after, as well as before, you purchase a used car from us. IT IS BETTER TO BUY A HIGH-GRADE USED CAR THAN A CHEAP NEW ONE. You cannot afford to miss looking our stock over. Prices range from $150 to $1250; terms. 1136 SOUTH OLIVE. Phones [illegible] or Main 3459. Open Sundays 11 to 4 p.m.

FOR SALE — $100 DOWN AND BALANCE ON reasonable terms, will purchase any one of six automobiles consisting of roadsters and touring cars from this company. A little larger payment will give you a choice of the very latest models, all of which will be found in excellent condition, and real values at the prices asked. There is a large stock to choose from, and as these cars belong to an automobile company that received them as part payment on new cars you will find not only that they are underpriced but that you will receive real service after as well as before you purchase. Every car is guaranteed to be as represented.

There are over thirty other styles and models to select from at prices ranging from $150 to $1600 and among these cars you are going to find one to suit you and if you purchase you will have behind you a company that will make a friend out of you, for if these cars were not in condition to sell, they could well afford to sell them to the junk man and would do so before they would ruin their reputation by loosing them on the public. Phone Main 3459.

IT IS BETTER TO BUY A HIGH-GRADE USED CAR
THAN A CHEAP NEW ONE.

For Sale—1916 model touring cars below their actual market value. I have four of them of different popular models and were I a speculator in used cars I would be asking from a hundred to a hundred and fifty dollars more for each one of them. But as they were taken in trade on the new Chandler and as we have made our profit in the new car sale and as I want to move these cars at once so as to make room for future trades on new cars, I am selling them at prices that are right and adding a guarantee and service to convince you that I know them to be in good condition and can, therefore, afford to guarantee them.

FOR SALE—THE BEST CAR THE OVERLAND company ever built was a model [illegible] for year 1915. The price was high but the purchaser got his money's worth. I have one of these to offer in a touring car and the price is exceptionally reasonable, $475. Terms. It is fully equipped and has everything that you will find on the latest model cars. The owner of this auto purchased a new Chandler from us, and as we have thoroughly overhauled this car, we will guarantee it fully. Open Sundays, 11 to 4 p.m. Phones Main [illegible] or Main 3459. FOR SALE—A FORD WITH ELECTRIC STARTER, generator, demountable rims and casings and a 2-speed latest type transmission would cost you considerably more than I am asking for a late 1915 Studebaker light 5-passenger, 25-horsepower touring car, that has considerably more class than a Ford and can be operated at not over 5 per cent. difference in up-keep. This car has only been run [illegible] miles, and was traded in by Mr. [illegible] of [illegible] W. Pico st., who needed a seven-passenger car and purchased a new 1917 Chandler. As we are not speculators in used cars, and as I positively know this automobile to be in excellent condition in every respect, I will let you write your own guarantee on it, and stand by it. Price $500, on reasonable terms. Open Sundays, 11 to 4 p.m. Phones: [illegible] or Main 3459. Address 1136 S. OLIVE.

FOR SALE—HUDSON 6-40 TOURING CAR, 1915 model, at $775 on terms. If you will look this car over or phone for a demonstration you will appreciate the excellent care it has been given. We will fully guarantee it and as our business is the sale of new cars you are certain to be satisfied for we want nothing but satisfied customers, so that we may sell you a new car later on. Open Sundays 11 to 4 p.m. Phone [illegible] or Main 3459. Address 1136 SOUTH OLIVE ST.

BIRD LOVERS SEEK MIGRATORY TREATY

ASK CONGRESS TO PROTECT ALL WILD FOWL.

National Association of Audubon Societies Want Enabling Act to Enforce Protection of All Species—New Plan Expected to Give Better Care.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—With the introduction of the enabling act for the enforcement of the terms of the migratory-bird treaty with Canada simultaneously in the Senate and House, the fight is now on between the bird protectionists of the country on one side and, on the other, plume dealers and sportsmen and others opposed to Federal interference with wild fowl extermination.

T. Gilbert Pearson, who, as secretary of the National Association of Audubon Societies, with headquarters in New York, has been urging the thousands of members of that organization, and others, to exhort Congressmen to support the bill, has redoubled his efforts and the Senate Committee on Agriculture and the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, to whom the enabling bills have been referred, will probably be deluged with letters from bird lovers all over the country, insisting on the passage of the bill.

The enabling act gives to the Secretary of Agriculture authority to enforce the terms of the treaty and carries an appropriation of $170,000 for that work. Dr. E. W. Nelson, chief of the Biological Survey, who will be in direct charge of its enforcement, said the treaty will take the place of the Federal migratory bird law, now under consideration by the Supreme Court, and will be more effective than that law.

The latter was inadequate, Dr. Nelson says, largely for lack of sufficient appropriation and means for its enforcement. Only $50,000 has been appropriated, annually, for bird protection under this law. New York alone spends $300,000 for game protection and Pennsylvania an equal amount, said Dr. Nelson, with a number of States spending more for game protection within their respective boundaries than the amount Congress allotted for national enforcement of game measures.

Dr. Nelson said, with the appropriation allowed him, he was able to employ only sixteen inspectors to cover all the States and Alaska, and that the work of these men was handicapped in that they had not the power of arrest, and conviction was impossible without evidence showing that the inspector had actually seen the game shot. The catching of a hunter with his gun and game shot out of season was not sufficient, under the Federal migratory bird law, to bring about conviction.

In spite of the many weaknesses of this legislation, however, Dr. Nelson said the three years of its imperfect enforcement resulted in wonderful increase in the game of the country, as shown by reports from all sections, and that with the passage of the enabling act for the new treaty, not only is there positive assurance that extermination of certain species will be prevented but there will be more than ample game birds of all kinds for sportsmen throughout the country during the open seasons.

RATS MENACE SOLDIERS.

Trench Pests Said to Carry Germs of Jaundice.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

PARIS, Jan. 15.—The Allies have made little progress against their four-footed enemies, the rats, on the French front. They seem to be quite as numerous as during the second winter campaign though great numbers have been killed. They multiply faster than the numbers of dogs sent to the front to fight them and are now, it is said, menacing the army with an epidemic of jaundice.

The rats in the trenches have been discovered to carry in their organism, without apparent harm to themselves, a microbe called the spirochaete in the form of a little serpent, which, communicated to a human being, develops jaundice. A counteracting serum is being sought.

WANTS HIS FEES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Feb. 17.—Attorney C. B. Hubbard of Los Angeles has petitioned Judge Thomas to find A. H. Davis of La Habra, guilty of contempt, and have him placed in jail until he obeys the order of the court to pay Hubbard $75 attorney's fees. Hubbard represents Davis's wife in a divorce suit. The petition will be heard next week.

KIDNAPING IN SALT LAKE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 17.—Five girls have been reported missing here within the last twenty-four hours, and the police department declared their belief today that an organized band of kidnapers is responsible. The missing girls are Marion Grant, age 6; Louise Bossard, 8; Rebecca Burch, 15, Marjorie Harshorn, 13, and Agnes Henderson, 10 years old.

Luke McLuke Says.

[Minneapolis Tribune:] A girl's complexion and her character are usually what she makes them.

Maybe you imagine that you are overworked. But how would you like to be a good old joke?

Every married woman imagines that lodges were invented so that married men could have an excuse to go downtown at night.

A woman's idea of a brute is a husband who gets mad because she opens his mail and reads it.

No husband is perfect. And no husband has as many bad habits as his wife imagines.

It is none of our business. But a female who is built like a piano mover shouldn't select a youth who is built like a schoolboy as a partner when she does the tango in public.

New Workers.

BRITISH WOMEN IN MANY JOBS.

Replace a Million Men in Work of Country.

Thousands Enter Trades and Professional Work.

After the War will See Big Economic Readjustment.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Almost a million women—exactly 986,500—have entered all kinds of positions held by men before the war began, and of this number nearly all—exactly 933,000—were actually substituted for men called to the front or diverted to other war activities.

This is shown in a survey of the whole movement toward woman labor since the outbreak of the war, made officially by the Labor Department, with data down to the last two months. It shows 2,231,000 women now employed in all branches of industry and commerce, or about a million more than when the war began. It is this new million of women workers one sees at every turn, on the tramways and motor busses taking fares, in the government offices taking the place of the men clerks, in the hotels and restaurants as waiters and cashiers, in banks and business houses, and running cinemas, theaters, public houses, and the whole range of business activities.

ENTER NEW FIELDS.

Just how far this has gone the government has now figured out to a nicety. In banking and finance, for instance, there were only 9500 women employed before the war; now the number has increased fourfold to 46,500. In government departments, also, the women workers have increased from 66,000 to 133,000, displacing men in all but 3000 cases. In industrial trades the increase of women has been greatest, reaching 393,000, of which 314,000 replaced men. Another very large increase of women is in the government ammunition works, where there were 2000 before the war and 117,000 now. The government figures give the entire 117,000 as directly replacing men.

In commercial occupations, clerks in stores, offices, etc., the increase of women is 268,000, of which 264,000 replaced men. In professional occupations, connected with the law, medicine, magazine and newspaper work, etc., the increase of women is 15,000, of which all have replaced men. A curious fact is that each woman has replaced about two men in hotels, public houses, cinemas, theaters, etc., the increase of women being 16,000 and the displacement of men 30,000.

On buses, trams and various kinds of transport service the women have increased 41,000, the entire number replacing that number of men. Men teachers are also largely replaced; also men on municipal transport work, the total increase of women in this line being 34,000, of which 31,000 replaced men. In farm work many men have been drawn off for the war, but few women have replaced them. The men on farms replaced by women is given at 20,000, while the number of women farm workers is 80,000, and the increase since the war only 500. Women nurses have increased 34,000 since the war.

REPLACEMENT SLACKENS.

Summing up the substitution of women for men, the government statement says there has been an increase of 150,000 since last July in the number of women directly replacing men. This shows a slight check in the rate of replacement. In some trades, like clothing and textiles, women workers have decreased, probably because they were able to get better wages in the many new fields now opening to them. In October 40 per cent. of the textile firms reported they were unable to get all the women they required so that while the supply of women workers has increased, the demand is also increasing in many branches.

This replacement of men by women is introducing new elements in economic and social conditions, which will have to be worked out when peace comes. The women are doing the men's work quite as well as the men, so that a new element of competition is introduced between the sexes. The women have the advantage of possession of the million places, and it remains to be seen whether they will hold them, or whether there will be another displacement, of women for men, when the million men come back. Many commercial houses have promised to take back the men, but whether this means displacing the women, or keeping both, is still open. The labor unions are also apprehensive over the great swelling of woman labor, as women workers are now about half the total strength of the unions, which are chiefly men's organizations strong in politics and with representatives in Parliament and the ministry. So that the competition between the sexes is being extended all along the economical, political and social lines.

DECORATE JAPANESE.

Bearer of Seventy Battle Scars Gets British Medal.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Jan. 15.—The British medal has just been awarded to a Japanese, Private Harry Ohara, who has worn the British uniform on the western front since the outbreak of the war, and who has seen so much hard fighting that he has seventy scars. He has been in hospital six times, the last time with twenty shrapnel wounds.

Ohara entered the army with the Sikhs, being really taken for an Indian by the recruiting officer. Later he fought as a member of a Middlesex regiment, and now, having earned his discharge, he expects to enlist in the flying corps.

EIGHTH OF SERIES OF JACK LONDON STORIES.

TO THE MAN ON TRAIL.

BY JACK LONDON.

"DUMP it in."

"But I say, Kid, isn't that going it a little too strong—Whisky and alcohol's bad enough; but when it comes to brandy and pepper-sauce and —."

"Dump it in. Who's making this punch, anyway?" And Malemute Kid smiled benignantly through the clouds of steam. "By the time you've been in this country as long as I have, my son, and lived on rabbit-tracks and salmon-belly, you'll learn that Christmas comes only once per annum. And a Christmas without punch is sinking a hole to bedrock with nary a pay streak."

"Stack up on that for a high cyard," approved Big Jim Beldon, who had come down from his claim on Mazy May to spend Christmas, and who, as everyone knew, had been living the two months past on straight moose-meat. "Hain't forgot the hooch we-uns made on the Tanana, hev yeh?"

"Well, I guess yes. Boys, it would have done your hearts good to see that whole tribe fighting drunk—and all because of a glorious ferment of sugar and sour dough. That was before your time," Malemute Kid said as he turned to Stanley Prince, a young mining expert who had been in two years. "No white women in the country then, and Mason wanted to get married. Ruth's father was chief of the Tananas, and objected, like the rest of the tribe. Stiff? Why, I used my last pound of sugar; finest work in that line I ever did in my life. You should have seen the chase, down the river and across the portage."

"But the squaw?" asked Louis Savoy, the tall French-Canadian, becoming interested; for he had heard of this wild deed, when at Forty Mile the preceding winter.

The Malemute Kid, who was born raconteur, told the unvarnished tale of the Northland Lochinvar. More than one rough adventurer of the North felt his heartstrings draw closer, and experienced vague yearnings for the sunnier pastures of the Southland, where life promised something more than a barren struggle with cold and death.

"We struck the Yukon just behind the first ice-run," he concluded, "and the tribe only a quarter of an hour behind. But that saved us; for the second run broke the jam above and shut them out. And as to the foregatherings, ask Father Roubeau here; he performed the ceremony."

The Jesuit took the pipe from his lips, but could only express his gratification with patriarchial smiles, while Protestant and Catholic vigorously applauded.

"By gar!" ejaculated Louis Savoy, who seemed overcome by the romance of it. "La petite squaw; mon Mason brav. By gar!"

Then, as the first tin cups of punch went round, Bettles the Unquenchable sprang to his feet and struck up his favorite drinking song:

"There's Henry Ward Beecher
And Sunday-school teacher,
All drink of the sassafras root;
But you bet all the same,
If it had its right name,
It's the juice of the forbidden fruit."

"Oh the juice of the forbidden fruit," roared out the Bacchanalian chorus.

"Oh the juice of the forbidden fruit;
But you bet all the same,
If it had its right name,
It's the juice of the forbidden fruit."

Malemute Kid's frightful concoction did its work; the men of the camps and trails unbent in its genial glow, and jest and song and tales of past adventure went round the board. Aliens from a dozen lands, they toasted each and all. It was the Englishman, Prince, who pledged "Uncle Sam, the precocious infant of the New World;" the Yankee Bettles, who drank to "The Queen, God bless her;" and together, Savoy and Meyers, the German trader, clanged their cups to Alsace and Lorraine.

Then Malemute Kid arose, cup in hand, and glanced at the greased-paper window, where the frost stood full three inches thick. "A health to the man on trail this night; may his grub hold out; may his dogs keep their legs; may his matches never miss fire."

Crack! Crack!—they heard the familiar music of the dogwhip, the whining howl of the Malemutes, and the crunch of a sled as it drew up to the cabin. Conversation languished while they waited the issue.

"An old-timer; cares for his dogs and then himself," whispered Malemute Kid to Prince, as they listened to the snapping jaws and the wolfish snarls and yelps of pain which proclaimed to their practised ears that the stranger was beating back their dogs while he fed his own.

Then came the expected knock, sharp and confident, and the stranger entered. Dazzled by the light, he hesitated a moment at the door, giving to all a chance for scrutiny. He was a striking personage, and a most picturesque one, in his Arctic dress of wool and fur. Standing six foot two or three, with proportionate breadth of shoulders and depth of chest, his smooth-shaven face nipped by the cold to a gleaming pink, his long lashes and eyebrows white with ice, and the ear and neck flaps of his great wolfskin cap loosely raised, he seemed, of a verity, the Frost King, just stepped in out of the night. Clasped outside of his mackinaw jacket, a beaded belt held two large Colt's revolvers and a hunting knife, while he carried, in addition to the inevitable dogwhip, a smokeless rifle of the largest bore and latest pattern. As he came forward, for all his step was firm and elastic, they could see that fatigue bore heavily upon him.

An awkward silence had fallen, but his hearty, "What cheer, my lads?" put them quickly at ease, and the next instant Malemute Kid and he had gripped hands. Though they had never met, each had heard of the other, and the recognition was mutual. A sweeping introduction and a mug of punch were forced upon him before he could explain his errand.

"How long since that basket-sled, with three men and eight dogs, passed?" he asked.

"An even two days ahead. Are you after them?"

"Yes; my team. Run them off under my very nose, the cusses. I've gained two days on them already—pick them up on the next run."

"Reckon they'll show spunk?" asked Belden, in order to keep up the conversation, for Malemute Kid already had the coffee-pot on and was busily frying bacon and moose meat.

The stranger significantly tapped his revolvers.

"When 'd yeh leave Dawson?"

"Twelve o'clock."

"Last night?" as a matter of course.

"Today."

A murmur of surprise passed round the circle. And well it might; for it was just midnight, and seventy-five miles of rough river trail was not to be sneered at for a twelve hours' run.

The talk soon became impersonal, however, harking back to the trail's childhood. As the young stranger ate of the rude fare, Malemute Kid attentively studied his face. Nor was he long in deciding that it was fair, honest and open, and that he liked it. Still youthful, the lines had been firmly traced by toil and hardship. Though genial in conversation and mild when at rest, the blue eyes gave promise of the hard steel-glitter which comes when called into action, especially against odds. The heavy jaw and square-cut chin demonstrated rugged pertinacity and indomitability. Nor, though the attributes of the lion were there, was there wanting the certain softness, the hint of womanliness, which bespoke the emotional nature.

"So that's how me an' the ol' woman got spliced," said Belden, concluding the exciting tale of his courtship. "'Here we be, dad,' sez she. 'An' may yeh be damned,' sez he to her, and then to me, 'Jim yeh—yeh git outen good duds o' yourn; I want a right peart slice o' that forty acre ploughed 'fore dinner.' An' then he turns on her an' sez: 'An' yeh Sal; yeh sail inter them dishes.' An' then he sort o' sniffled an' kissed her. An' I was thet happy, but he seen me and roars out, 'Yeh, Jim!' An' yeh bet I dusted fer the barn."

"Any kids waiting for you back in the States?" asked the stranger.

"Nope; Sal died 'fore any come. That's why I'm here." Belden abstractedly began to light his pipe, which had failed to go out, and then brightened up with, "How 'bout yerself, stranger—married man?"

For reply he opened his watch, slipped it from the thong which served for a chain, and passed it over. Belden pricked up the slush-lamp, surveyed the inside of the case critically, and, swearing admiringly to himself, handed it over to Louis Savoy. With numerous "By gars!" he finally surrendered it to the Prince and they noticed that his hands trembled and his eyes took on a peculiar softness. And so it passed from horny hand to horny hand—the pasted photograph of a woman, the clinging kind that such men fancy, with a babe at her breast. Those who had not yet seen the wonder were keen with curiosity; those who had became silent and retrospective. They could face the punch of famine, the grip of scurvy, or the quick death by field or flood, but the pictured semblance of a strange woman and child made women and children of them all.

"Never have seen the youngster yet—he's a boy, she says, and 2 years old," said the stranger as he received the treasure back. A lingering moment he gazed upon it, then snapped the case and turned away, but not quick enough to hide the restrained rush of tears.

Malemute Kid led him to a bunk and bade him turn in.

"Call me at 4, sharp. Don't fail me," were his last words, and a moment later he was breathing in the heaviness of exhausted sleep.

"By Jove! he's a plucky chap," commented Prince. "Three hours' sleep after seventy-five miles with the dogs, and then the trail again. Who is he, Kid?"

"Jack Westondale. Been in going on three years, with nothing but the name of working like a horse, and any amount of bad luck to his credit. I never knew him, but Sitka Charley told me about him."

"It seems hard that a man with a sweet young wife like this should be putting in his years in this God-forsaken hole, where every year counts two on the outside."

"The trouble with him is clean grit and stubbornness. He's cleaned up twice with a stake, but lost it both times."

Here the conversation was broken off by an uproar from Bettles, for the effect had begun to wear away. And soon the bleak years of monotonous grub and deadening toil were being forgotten in rough merriment. Malemute Kid alone seemed unable to lose himself and cast many an anxious look at his watch. Once he put on his mittens and beaver-skin cap and, leaving the cabin, fell to rummaging about in the cache.

Nor could he wait the hour designated, for he was fifteen minutes ahead of time in rousing his guest. The young giant had stiffened badly, and brisk rubbing was necessary to bring him to his feet. He tottered painfully out of the cabin, to find his dogs harnessed and everything ready for the start. The company wished him good luck and a short chase, while Father Roubeau, hurriedly blessing him, led the stampede for the cabin, and, small wonder, for it is not good to face 74 deg. below zero with naked ears and hands.

Malemute Kid saw him to the main trail, and there, gripping his hand heartily, gave him advice.

"You'll find a hundred pounds of salmon eggs on the sled," he said. "The dogs will go as far on that as with one hundred and fifty of fish, and you can't get dog food at Pelly, as you probably expected."

The stranger started, and his eyes flashed, but he did not interrupt. "You can't get an ounce of food for dog or man till you reach Five Fingers, and that's a stiff two hundred miles. Watch out for open water on the Thirty-mile River, and be sure you take the big cut-off above Le Barge."

"How did you know it? Surely the news can't be ahead of me already?"

"I don't know it; and what's more, I don't want to know it. But you never owned that team you're chasing. Sitka Charley sold it to them last spring. But he sized you up to me as square once, and I believe him. I've seen your face; I like it. And I've seen—why, damn you, hit the high places for salt water and that wife of yours, and—" Here the kid unmittened and jerked off his sack.

"No; I don't need it," and the tears froze on his cheeks, as he convulsively gripped Malemute Kid's hand.

"Then don't spare the dogs; cut them out of the traces as fast as they drop; buy them, and think they're cheap at $10 a pound. You got them at Five Fingers, Little Salmon, and the Hootalinqua. And watch out for wet feet," was his parting advice. "Keep a-traveling up to twenty-five, but if it gets below that, build a fire and change your socks."

Fifteen minutes had barely elapsed when the jingle of bells announced new arrivals. The door opened and a mounted policeman of the Northwest Territory entered, followed by two half-breed dog drivers. Like Westondale, they were heavily armed and showed signs of fatigue. The half-breeds had been born to the trail, and bore it easily; but the young policeman was badly exhausted. Still, the dogged obstinacy of his race held him to the pace he had set, and would hold him till he dropped in his tracks.

"When did Westondale pull out?" he asked. "He stopped here, didn't he?" This was supererogatory, for the tracks told their own tale too well.

"Malemute Kid has caught Belden's eye, and he, scenting the wind, replied evasively, "A right peart while back."

"Come, my man; speak up," the policeman admonished.

"Yeh seem to want him right smart. Hez he ben gittin' contankerous down Dawson way?"

"Held up Harry McFarland's for forty thousand; exchanged it at the postoffice store for a check on Seattle; and who's to stop the cashing of it if we don't overtake him? When did he pull out?"

Every eye suppressed its excitement, for Malemute Kid had given a cue, and the young officer encountered wooden faces on every hand.

Striding over to Prince, he put the question to him. Though it hurt him, gazing into the frank, earnest face of his fellow-countryman, he replied inconsequentially on the state of the trail.

Then he espied Father Roubeau, who could not lie. "A quarter of an hour ago," the priest answered, "but he has four hours rest for himself and the dogs."

"Fifteen minutes' start, and he's fresh! My God!" The poor fellow staggered back, half-fainting from exhaustion and disappointment, murmuring something about the run from Dawson in ten hours and the dogs being played out.

Malemute Kid forced a mug of punch upon him; then he turned for the door, ordering the dog drivers to follow. But the warmth and promise of rest were too tempting, and they objected strenuously. The Kid was conversant with their French patois, and followed it anxiously.

They swore that the dogs were gone up; that Siwash and Babette would have to be shot before the first mile was covered; that the rest were almost as bad, and that it would be better for all hands to rest up.

"Lend me five dogs?" he asked, turning to Malemute Kid.

But the Kid shook his head.

"I'll sign a check on Capt. Constantine for five thousand—here's my papers—I'm authorized to draw at my own discretion."

Again the silent refusal.

"Then I'll requisition them in the name of the Queen."

Smiling incredulously, the Kid glanced at his well-stocked arsenal, and the Englishman, realizing his impotency, turned for the door. But the dog drivers still objecting, he whirled upon them fiercely, calling them women and curs. The swart face of the older half-breed flushed angrily, as he drew himself up and promised in good round terms that he would travel his leader off his legs, and would then be delighted to plant him in the snow.

The young officer—and it required his whole will—walked steadily to the door, exhibiting a freshness he did not possess. But they all knew and appreciated his proud effort; nor could he veil the twinges of agony that shot across his face. Covered with frost, the dogs were curled up in the snow, and it was almost impossible to get them to their feet. The poor brutes whined under the stinging lash, for the dog drivers were angry and cruel; nor till Babette, the leader, was cut from the traces, could they break out the sled and get under way.

"A dirty scoundrel and a liar!" "by gar! Him no good!" "A thief!" "Worse than an Indian!" It was evident that they were angry, first at the way they had been deceived; and second, at the outraged ethics of the Northland, where honesty, above all, was man's prime jewel. "An' we gave the cuss a hand, after knowin' what he'd did." All eyes were turned accusingly upon Malemute Kid, who rose from the corner where he had been making Babette comfortable, and silently emptied the bowl for a final round of punch.

"It's a cold night, boys—a bitter cold night," was the irrelevant commencement of his defense. "You've all traveled trail and know what it stands for. Don't jump a dog when he's down. You've only heard one side. A whiter man than Jack Westondale never ate from the same pot nor stretched blanket with you or me. Last fall he gave his whole clean-up, forty thousand, to Joe Castrell, to buy in on Dominion. Today he'd be a millionaire. But while he stayed behind at Circle City taking care of his partner with the scurvy, what does Castrell do? Goes into McFarland's, jumps the limit, and drops the whole sack. Found him dead in the snow the next day. And poor Jack laying his plans to go out this winter to his wife and the boy he's never seen. You'll notice he took exactly what his partner lost, forty thousand. Well, he's gone out; and what are you going to do about it?"

The Kid glanced around the circle of his judges, noted the softening of their faces, then raised his mug aloft. "So a health to the man on trail this night; may his grub hold out; may his dogs keep their legs; may his matches never miss fire. God prosper him; good luck go with him and—"

"Confusion to the mounted police," cried Bettles, to the crash of the empty cups.

NO HERO.

Driver for Grocery Tells Police of Desperate Battle With Bandits and Loss of Money—They Find it Hidden and Put Him in Jail.

Instead of being a hero, S. P. Bullock of No. 4154½ Wall street, a driver for a downtown grocery, is now in the City Jail on a charge of petty larceny and not at liberty relating to his friends how he fought two highwaymen.

Bullock telephoned to Central Police Station early last night and informed the police that following a battle with two highwaymen at Kipp and Orange streets he had been robbed of $50 which he had collected for the store which employed him.

Two detectives investigated his story and Bullock informed him of the hold up. He stated that the bandits, following a battle, had wrenched his money from his pockets and escaped. The officers took Bullock's report and after a search of the neighborhood returned to the Police Station.

Patrolman Simpson a short time later was in the grocery store which employed Bullock and was told of the hold-up. The action of the driver, who had returned to the store, aroused his suspicions and he searched the wagon. Hidden away in a rubber boot the officer found all of the money alleged by the driver to have been taken from him by the bandits.

At Central Police Station the prisoner, according to the police, made a full confession and stated that he faked the hold-up on account of sickness in his family through which he had incurred heavy expenses.

CHIEF DISGUISED AS A FARM HAND.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Feb. 17.—Disguised as farm hands, Police Chief Lyter and Police Commissioner Higgs caught an alleged bootlegger last night in the lobby of the La Pictoria Theater. They each bought a bottle of sealed goods from a man named Arthur Schuter, who claims to have come here three months ago from Washington.

ANGELS LOOK STRONG TO NORTHERN BASEBALL FANS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 17.—As the cards are now stacked—just a week in advance of reporting season for the Coast League—Frank Chance and the Angels appear to stand out as the class of the Coast League.

Springtime predictions are apt to be knocked into a cocked hat almost any day, with fresh announcements from the managers, but speaking by and large we have by this time a fair line on the make-up of the various clubs. There is hardly a club up and down the line but is looking ahead to a man here or there for this weak spot or that one. Changes of the sort, if they come to hand, will materially change the state of affairs.

A form chart is naturally defective, but, so far as it counts, it will be interesting to size up the talent at hand. And here's the way the clubs look:

Los Angeles—Chance has shifted about his personnel, chiefly so far as the infield is concerned, but apparently has made improvements that will offset his losses. With Gleichmann, Davis, Groehling and Vaughn, his infield should be stronger. He still has to figure on a man to replace Wolter, the brainiest outfielder in the league. The pitching staff looks O.K., and if he can possibly land Rowdy Elliott for the catching brigade, the Peerless Leader will not have to worry much.

Vernon—Stovall has a hard task ahead of him. His infield, reckoned the best of the bunch in 1916 has been shot to pieces and he is banking largely on men turned over in the Gleichmann deal—men it must be remembered, who were not considered sufficiently strong by Chance. Also, it is a case of a strange manager and it may take him some time to get a good line on his aggregation.

Portland—The Beaver team is more or less a dark horse. McCredie, always bent on the theory that the public likes new faces has made his customary changes. Much depends upon the pitching staff and the Portland hurlers, while men with good records, are coming, chiefly, from the smaller leagues where records are less impressive. If these pitchers strike a fast gait, the club may figure, although the Honolulu jaunt is not going to help.

Salt Lake—Salt Lake would have figured higher up in the running last season with a more dependable pitching staff. This season the club has lost Fittery and Piercy and whether they have been sufficiently replaced is something for the future to determine. The infield is about the same and there are no important outfield changes. The club would be better off for a strong catcher. Bernhard is an undetermined quantity as well.

San Francisco—It is hard to figure the Seals as a pennant contender. The club is no stronger in pitchers, weaker by reason of the going of Ping Bodie to the Athletics and has not overcome these points in other directions. The infield is a source of argument. Corhan didn't show the pep last fall that was his the year before, but if he holds to previous form he will help the club. Pick at third Koerner first are questionable quantities. The outfield will need bolstering and so will the pitching staff.

Oakland — One cannot enthuse over the Oakland club, although Howard has made some changes that ought to sift the team out of the Slough of Despond. He has a world of youngsters—something like fifteen—but he can't expect any large percentage to make good. A catcher is badly needed—a first string man to take the place of Rowdy Elliott. Even Howard has no well defined ideas as to how his infield will be arranged and that's a mighty important factor in the defense of any team. The pitchers are a fairish lot but hardly stand out as world beaters.

On the whole the league does not seem to have strengthened and it will hardly be faster than last year if as fast. There are comparatively few new men of high-class being brought into the league and innumerable trades have been made within the organization itself. As in the East this is evidently a season of retrenchment, with none of the owners spending any considerable money to secure new talent.

To Curb Speeders.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Recently, you have brought up twice the subject of the auto speeder. There are no doubt many suggestions for a cure. Herewith I offer some:

First, put a stop once and for all to auto racing. The fellows you refer to, get their inspiration from yelling at Barney Oldfield and other speed demons tearing around a track at a rate of seventy or eighty miles an hour. Their idea is to emulate these daredevil exploits, and they rush through our streets, knocking over anyone who has the audacity to get in their way. A stop must be put to this sort of thing quickly, or people will shun this town.

Notwithstanding what interested persons (auto salesmen and others) may say, almost everybody knows there is a large number of motorists in this section who have the idea that the streets, roads and highways were built and are maintained for their special benefit, and that any others making use of public thoroughfares are trespassers. These gentry must be brought up "with a round turn" and made to understand the general public has some rights.

Second, take no more fines for speeding, but impose a jail sentence in every case. For a second offense, add confiscation of the car and, if the offender is incorrigible, the chain gang. This may seem harsh, but the public safety is paramount and things have come to such a pass that it is next door to suicide to cross some of our busy streets.

Third, make it a penal offense to equip an automobile, truck or motorcycle with an engine capable of developing a speed of more than fifteen miles an hour. This would give a person a chance to cross the streets with a degree of safety and would prevent many accidents to motor cars themselves.

Fourth, impose a very stiff license fee for all pleasure cars, and thereby help reduce the number of that class of machines, which cause such congestion in the thoroughfares.

ONLOOKER.

Visitor's Criticism.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have lived in Chicago for the past thirty-five years and before that resided in Minneapolis twenty-five years, from childhood. Having by hard work and fair judgment accumulated several hundred thousand dollars, my good wife and I came to Southern California on account of its glorious climate, intending to make our home here. We find the climate is unexcelled in America, but there are two things we have been up against every day for the past month that have decided the point against California, and Los Angeles in particular.

We have two automobiles in the East and could use them on the busiest streets in Chicago every day with perfect safety. But I would not drive a machine here—not for fear I would hit someone, but because there are so many idiots who, although there are laws to protect pedestrians and careful drivers, think they own the city and the streets. It makes life unsafe if one is in a machine or even walking across a street.

If Los Angeles has any beauties or attractions in the business center, they can't be enjoyed; a visitor's full time is taken up dodging automobiles. And life is too short for the waste of so much time and energy when, with proper laws properly enforced, this city would be at least as safe as Chicago.

There is another point: In almost any city of the East we can buy good oranges said to come from California. We have about concluded none but culls are sold here.

These things may seem small to the home people here, but may cost this country millions in the end. Europe now feels the loss of money formerly left by the tourists and again will bid for the lost dollars. And all the people do not own autos.

CHICAGO.

Neutrality and Munitions.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16.—[To the Editor of The Times:] J. A. S. in a recent issue of The Times indorses Senator Works and his "embargo on munitions" stand. No accounting for opinions is as much of a truism as no accounting for tastes. However, the facts are Germany has killed at least a million men with munitions sold by, or made from supplies sold by our people before war commenced. Her victims are just as dead as though killed by use of supplies furnished after hostilities began. France has made no whine, and surely if we are neutral in selling for attack, to sell for defense is also neutral. If it was right to sell to Italy before she declared war, it is still right to sell to her. If it is proper to sell during peace, to sell during war is also proper.

The length of a war does not determine its righteousness.

To sell in peace and refuse to sell in war, with no timely warning to the world that such would be our course, would be, in view of all custom and precedent, most pronounced lack of neutrality—a change of rules during the game, as it were.

Instead, we have been neutral, have sold to all comers. Germany still buys. Her agents now have millions of dollars' worth of munitions at eastern wharves, awaiting their Deutschlands and Bremens. All get like treatment in America; delivery is f. o. b. loading station and safe passage is not guaranteed. We did not instigate the war.

Such would seem the national view of neutrality, as indorsed by a vast majority of Americans.

Artists' Morals.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The intensity, the concentration that an artist exerts while working, holds a great tendency to reaction on other planes.

In comparison, it is similar to the many instances in which brilliant and learned men marry women with comparatively no brain; but these wives force a certain relaxation on the studious man, a sort of sure medicine.

Seldom do you find two talented people marrying—each with the same degree of merit.

And as to the musician's progress in his world, it depends largely on how true to reality he can express emotions. And perfection comes with practice and the greater and deeper the experiences, the greater and deeper the understanding and wisdom, and from the latter comes the ability to impress.

The artist's nature craves love and sympathy. His emotional side must be fed, or else he turns mechanic.

When we desire to get away from the everyday, material, fighting and grabbing world, we unconsciously turn to the artist or musician, whether on the stage or in the studio.

And as some need a steak to summon enough strength to pull through a deal, the artist finds he needs loving and congenial companionship. In giving way to his emotional nature, he often obtains inspirations, whereas the layman, not being acquainted with inspirations, never having felt a divine aspiration, sees nothing but the flesh. He becomes debased and degenerated.

To know why artists are different we must first and always remember that artists are born different—not made. And before we condemn artists' morals in general, we should read the daily papers and note the wonderful number of husbands that are going with other women and wives that are living with other men; and reading, mark that one out of a hundred has the title of artist. Of course this does not excuse the latter, but it isn't any more right to turn up one's virtuous nose at an artists' studio life than at the modern society people's abode—for with one as with the other you never know what you are going to find.

E. STORM.

Film Folks Defended.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I am a resident of the Hollywood district and am deeply interested in restricting the motion-picture studio area so that the attractiveness of Hollywood homes may be protected, but I am unwilling to be identified with those whose attitude toward motion-picture people is both unintelligent and un-Christian.

Is a monopoly on all the vices held by the fraternity of the screen? Is true holiness of life to be found only among the "anti-movies?" That is apparently the belief of many whose voices are heard in the present dispute, and their unfounded attacks upon motion-picture people are injuring their own cause.

Inability to distinguish between an unpleasant industry in a residence district and a class of people with every claim upon our good will, is at the bottom of the trouble. I can find no conspicuous virtues in my household which are not shared by my motion-picture neighbors over the way. If, however, these people are really sunk in sin, is it Christian-like to send missionaries to the South Sea cannibals while we talk only of "driving out these evildoers" in our midst? A little better acquaintance with these "sinners," a little more desire to find out what they are really like, instead of accepting slanderous gossip, would reveal as good hearts, as honest purposes and as lofty ideals as one is likely to meet with in a lifetime.

OCEAN RATES AGAIN ADVANCED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Substantial advances in freight rates to Latin-American ports were announced today by two steamship lines. The Ward Line will increase rates $1 a ton, commencing March 15, on freight shipped to the south coast of Cuba. This was due to the labor situation there, it was stated, and not to war conditions.

The Red D Line has put into effect, it was announced, a 20 per cent. increase in rates between New York and South America. Increased cost of operation through the high cost of supplies and higher wages being given as the cause.

TANK STEAMER SAILS WITH OIL FOR ALLIES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORT ARTHUR (Tex.) Feb. 17.—The American tank steamer Illinois, with a cargo of fuel oil for the Entente Allies, left this port late today for London.

The Texas company, owners of the Illinois, recently ordered the discharge of the cargo here and the placing of the Illinois in coastwise trade, but this plan was abandoned today and the steamer sailed directly for the war zone.

CONSTANTINO IS SUED.

Spanish Tenor Paid in Advance Said to Have Failed in Part.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 17.—Florencio Constantino, Spanish tenor, was sued for $1200 today by Homer Moore, author and producer of the opera "Louis XIV," which had its premiere Friday night here. Constantino was dismissed from the cast after the first performance.

The petition recites that the tenor was engaged to sing four performances for $2500, and that Moore paid him $1250 in advance. The first performance was scheduled for last Monday, but Constantino declined to sing, alleging a cold. When the opera finally was sung Moore claimed the tenor was unacquainted with it and did not know either the words or music of his part and was unable to sing his role.

CRIPPLE LOSES PURSE.

Richard H. Maltern of No. 1046 Maple avenue, telephone Broadway 2586, recently lost his purse and appeals to whoever found it to return it. It contained between $8 and $9, he says, and was a small tan one. Maltern earns his living peddling notions and supplies from a big basket and can ill afford the loss.

TO ADDRESS PENNSYLVANIANS.

Dr. J. Duncan Spaeth of Princeton University will speak Monday evening at the University Club on "Nationalism and Loyalty." While the meeting is primarily for alumni of Pennsylvania University, of which Dr. Spaeth is a graduate, all university men are welcome.

OFFICERS HURT.

Motorcycle Officer William E. Hill of University Police Station was painfully injured last night when he was thrown from his motorcycle while answering a fast call. The accident occurred near the intersection of Jefferson and Griffith streets. Officer Hill was treated at the Receiving Hospital for lacerations of the head. He stated that his machine skidded on the wet pavement.

SEEKS DEATH.

Mrs. Jose Pate, 21 years of age, of No. 2226 Duane street, last night attempted to end her life by swallowing poison. She stated at the Receiving Hospital, where she was taken for treatment after being discovered by other inmates of the house, that a love affair was the cause of her actions. She will recover.

MAKING MUCH SUGAR.

Porto Rican Mills Producing Thousands of Tons Monthly.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN JUAN (Porto Rico) Jan. 15.—More than thirty out of the forty-eight sugar centrals of the island are now making sugar and by the middle of February the sugar season will be at its height. Sugar men estimate that beginning with next month the weekly production of sugar will be approximately 25,000 tons and that this rate of production will be continued until June. It is expected that the total production for the season will be between 500,000 and 525,000 short tons.

Of the new crop there has so far been shipped to the refineries since December 1 approximately 25,000 tons.

Weather conditions since the beginning of cane cutting have been very favorable for both sugar making and field work although at present in several sections of the island there is very great need of rain.

Although there have been no serious labor troubles so far a general strike of agricultural laborers is predicted for next month by Santiago Iglesias, president of the Free Federation of Labor, unless the laborers are given a minimum wage of $1 a day and eight hours work. These are the same demands made last year and the workers then returned to work only after increases had been granted.

Reward Patriotism.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE TO FOLLOW WAR.

ENGLISH STATESMAN SAYS IT IS INEVITABLE AND RIGHT.

Protective Tariff Reforms are also Bound to Require Early Attention After Hostilities Cease. Demobilization will be Immense Task for Government.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Woman suffrage and the protective tariff are two of the more important reforms that John Hodge, Minister of Labor in the Lloyd George Cabinet, believes will come into effect immediately after the war. He made this statement in discussing the demobilization scheme with which his department is largely occupied at present—a scheme for taking care of and providing with employment the hundreds of thousands of soldiers who must be discharged from the army and thrust back into civilian life as rapidly as possible after the conclusion of peace.

"Our women have done well in the war and when peace comes they will surely get their reward in having the franchise extended to them," said Mr. Hodge.

"That is only part of our demobilization scheme. The policy I have mapped out will more than double the number of labor exchanges. Each discharged soldier will get at least a month's furlough and the separation allowance continued to his wife. With whole-hearted cooperation of employers and workers the task of demobilization will be a comparatively easy one. As I have to handle the problem whenever peace may come I mean to have the machinery ready.

"The country has the nucleus of this machinery in the labor exchanges. One of the first things I did was to call the heads of the staff of the exchanges together in order to impress upon them the necessity of dealing in a sympathetic manner with the men who return from war. There must be no wooden images behind the counters of the exchanges and assistance must be given to applicants not as though conferring a favor, but in a way which will demonstrate that it is a pleasure and not a burden to help.

"I shall impress upon the Prime Minister that in this transition period between war and peace something equally good must be done for the industrial warrior as is proposed for the demobilized soldier. The demobilization itself, will, I am convinced, go with a swing."

Turning to the question of tariff, Mr. Hodge declared his acceptance of a policy of "closed door" in trade as against the transitional "open door." He explained:

"Previous to the war we thought free trade meant the prevention of war, that so long as we had the open door Germany would never risk the loss of her trade by indulging in war. We wanted cheap commodities, but the war has dropped the scales from our eyes.

"Three million tons of steel were coming yearly into this country from Germany. I want to see no more German steel in this country while there is an idle furnace in this country. When every furnace here is occupied, then I might let a little bit in.

"How silly we were in the past to have an open door as against a closed door. I think we want to give them tit for tat in the future. It used to be said that no trade union leader believed in a policy of that kind. We cannot say that today. Australia is a protected country, and the standard of living there is the highest in the world. So-called tariff reform or protection does not mean the lowering of the standard of life."

AUTO WRECK FOILS TARDY TAR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EUREKA, Feb. 17.—Thor Torgensen, naval apprentice who had overstayed his liberty here and who hired an automobile last night with the understanding that he would pay the driver $150 if he landed him at the Mare Island navy yard by noon today went south on the train after all. A collision with another automobile eleven miles south of Eureka upset Torgensen's plans.

MEDICAL FRAUDS FINED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

AUBURN (N. Y.) Feb. 17.—Wylie B. Jones and Herbert E. Woodward, found guilty in United States Court for fraudulent use of the mails in selling sargol, an alleged "flesh producer," were sentenced today to pay fines aggregating $30,000. As no jail sentences were imposed the defendants announced that they would waive appeals, and paid their fines, Jones paid $20,000 and Woodward $10,000.

DIDN'T SEE MODEL SLAIN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MONTREAL, Feb. 17.—It took a Philadelphia detective just seven minutes today to decide that Fred J. Farrell was not telling the truth when he surrendered to the police here and declared he saw Bernard W. Lewis slay Mazie Colbert, the artist model, in Philadelphia, December 29. Farrell, who is a soldier, will be turned over to the military authorities.

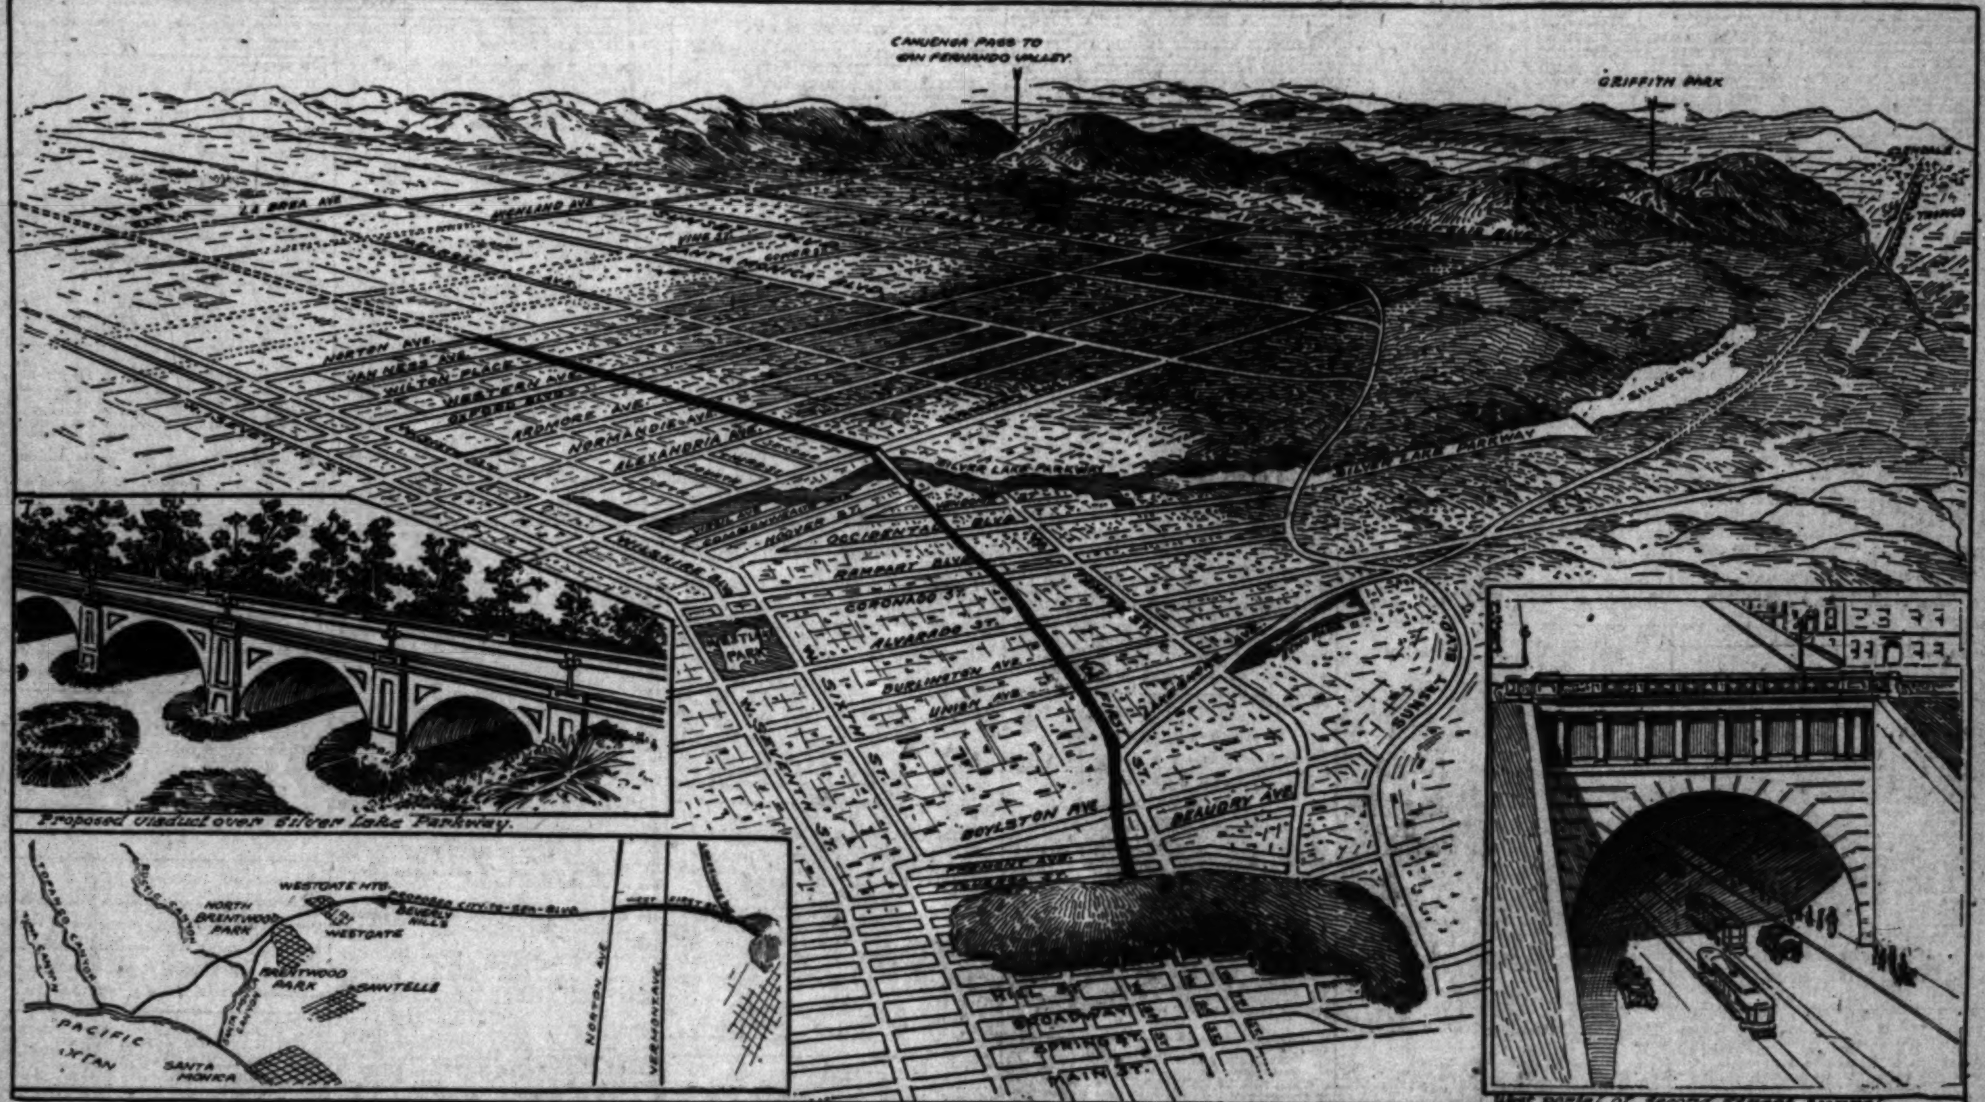
The Surpassing Boulevard that Is to Link Northwest Los Angeles with Downtown Section.



Route of the great traffic thoroughfare which will have its outlet through the new Second-street tunnel.

The large map shows in perspective and in proper relation all of the various districts of the northwest and its adjacent territory that will be served by the splendid artery to be created by the widening, regrading and paving of First street between Lake Shore and Commonwealth avenues, the paving of Temple from Vermont avenue to the city limits and the linking of the two improved streets by a viaduct over Silver Lake Parkway. Some of the principal streets that will serve as "feeders" for the boulevard are drawn in, proposed extensions of Lake Shore avenue northward to connect with Brand boulevard, of Highland avenue, Vine and Gower streets and of the main trunkline route itself being shown by dotted lines. The course of the proposed highway to the sea westward from the end of Temple street is illustrated in the smaller diagram. The insert of the tunnel entrance was taken from the official plans in the City Engineer's office.

CT AND COMMENT.

[illegible] ordering of work on the Second tunnel, the certainty that [illegible] for the widening, regrading and paving of West First [illegible] from the point where Second [illegible] into it at Lake Shore [illegible] to Commonwealth avenue [illegible] rushed through at once and [illegible] probability that the serviceable [illegible] thus created will without [illegible] be extended to the city [illegible] by the paving of Temple [illegible] from Vermont avenue westward and the linking of First and [illegible] all bring forcibly to the [illegible] of far-seeing observers [illegible] of three co-related [illegible] projects now shaping. [illegible] the plan for extending [illegible] Northwest Los Angeles [illegible] westward through the La [illegible] Beverly Hills, the Country district, Westgate Heights [illegible] Brentwood to the To[illegible] road north of Santa [illegible] the northward extension of [illegible] avenue from Santa Mon[illegible] to Wilshire boulevard, [illegible] building of the long-de[illegible] across the Los Angeles [illegible] Ivanhoe Station, linking [illegible] avenue in this city with [illegible] boulevard in Tropico and [illegible]

[illegible] Bridge.

[illegible] tional side-stepping by the [illegible] and the Board of Su[illegible] of the bridge project des[illegible] shorten the traveling distance between Los Angeles and the [illegible] the Glendale-Tropico-Bur[illegible] La Canada districts, it [illegible] the Fact and Comment [illegible] little short of folly upon [illegible] both official bodies. This [illegible] trestle bridge, estimated [illegible] the outside $20,000, will [illegible] the traveling distance by [illegible] between this city and [illegible] named by from three [illegible] miles, being the one thing [illegible] insure the extension of [illegible] avenue as a paved thoroughfare northward from its present [illegible] at Allesandro street [illegible] bank of the river. [illegible] other things, this street [illegible] would give Los Angeles a [illegible] absolutely direct route to [illegible] something that is now [illegible] all who aspire to visit [illegible] great 3000-acre play[illegible] street.

[illegible] and Tropico have almost about all that could reasonably [illegible] expected of them by [illegible] boulevard down as [illegible] thoroughfare almost [illegible] bank of the river. Lake [illegible] is now a wide asphalt [illegible] the point where it [illegible] Second street to Al[illegible] From its northern end [illegible] streets run in a continuous almost straight line to [illegible] on the south bank [illegible] The people of the district [illegible] put these streets into [illegible] general service if [illegible] bridge across the river [illegible] boulevard in their [illegible] isolated region [illegible] everything to them. [illegible] have the city and [illegible] opportunity to kill [illegible] with one stone, so [illegible] put through at such [illegible] cost a project [illegible] many and having such [illegible] as has been with[illegible] ever since this $20,[illegible] project was launched.

[illegible] has been for the city [illegible] on the bridge and [illegible] to contribute $5000. [illegible] a virtue to be encour[illegible] officials, but there is [illegible] discrimination in its [illegible] it has come to be that [illegible] the Council or Supervisors [illegible], the Glendale bridge has to be lopped off the annual budget. This inexpensive bridge has come to be the "goat" among public projects.

It is time that the bridge be started, and about the best thing that could be done, under the circumstances, would be for the leading commercial and business organizations of Los Angeles and the Glendale district to arrange to advance the money and get the thing under way, pending the time when the Councilmen and Supervisors wake up. The Second-street tunnel, which will be the outlet into downtown Los Angeles for the great volume of traffic that will come down Lake Shore avenue when the new short cut to Glendale Valley has been made a reality, will soon be under construction, and it would be a big mistake all around were this opportunity for creating a really important inter-city boulevard at so small an expense to be postponed a moment longer than is necessary.

The Other Plans.

The plan for extending Temple street westward to the sea was launched some time before the Second-street tunnel was assured, having originally been an outgrowth of a plan for paving Temple from Vermont to Norton avenue independently of the tunnel and northwest boulevard project. It has been given a new impetus as a consequence of the ordering of the tunnel and the perfection of plans for linking West First and Temple streets into one splendid traffic boulevard. Acreage owners all along the line of the proposed new city-to-sea highway have taken a new interest in the project now that a direct route for all traffic into the heart of the city has been assured. Nearly enough active and practical support has already been pledged the enterprise to insure its going ahead within a short time, the new scenic route to the ocean being likely to be started, therefore, within a few months after the completion of the newest seaward highway of all, Pico boulevard.

The principal value of the projected Highland avenue extension lies

NEW ERA DAWNING FOR NORTHWEST DISTRICT.

Great Traffic Boulevard with Outlet Through Second-street Tunnel to Boom Development of Enormous Area Now Shut off from Direct Access to Business Center by Bunker Hill.

NORTHWEST LOS ANGELES, comprising the whole of the enormous area between West Sixth street and the foothills, extending westward from Bunker Hill and shut off by that formidable natural barrier from direct communication with the downtown business district, is at last, after many years of waiting for imperatively needed traffic outlets, about to come into its own.

Bids for the construction of the Second-street tunnel, which is to afford immediate outlet for the northwest through Bunker Hill into Hill, Broadway, Spring and Main, are now being taken, plans and specifications for the bore having been placed in the hands of contractors during the past week. The actual award of the contract will be made next month and work will be started almost immediately thereafter.

The West First-street boulevard, to be formed by widening, regrading and paving West First street from Lakeshore avenue to Commonwealth avenue, and which will be the most important link in the magnificent thoroughfare to be created through the heart of the northwest with the tunnel for its eastern outlet, is now an assured fact and will be started this summer. The necessary majority frontage petition for the improvement is now on file at the City Hall and will be acted upon at once.

A petition now being circulated for the paving of Temple street from Vermont avenue westward to the city limits will come before the City Council within a short time. This, the western segment of the great northwest traffic artery, will be joined with the West First-street boulevard by means of an ornamental viaduct bridging Silver Lake parkway.

Other boulevards, designed to bring the traffic of the rapidly-advancing outlying territories adjacent to Northwest Los Angeles into the trunk-line thoroughfare, are now being actively projected, with every prospect of becoming early realities.

The men and women who have labored year in and year out to secure the traffic boulevard needed to put Northwest Los Angeles on an equal basis of accessibility with other parts of the city are enthusiastic in the extreme over the prospect of the several new highway projects sure to grow out of their own improvement, but they are rejoicing most just now over the actualities so near at hand. The thing that gives them the most satisfaction of all is the knowledge that both the Second-street tunnel and the boulevard which is so closely co-related with it are to be completed before the opening of another year.

The movement for a new east-and-west boulevard between West Sixth street and Sunset boulevard has all along been intimately associated with the long-drawn-out agitation for a serviceable outlet of some kind through Bunker Hill. Bunker Hill, in fact, has been the big obstacle that has loomed in the

VALUABLE SITES CHANGE HANDS.

CLOSE-IN CORNERS ON WEST SEVENTH TRADED.

One Exchanged for Hollywood Apartment Property, Another for Wilshire Boulevard Home. New Owners by Deals will Make Extensive Improvements.

The Wright-Callender-Andrews Company reports two important transactions involving valuable close-in holdings on West Seventh street and high-class properties in the residence districts of West and Northwest Los Angeles. In one of the deals Gus H. Bauer, a local capitalist and real estate operator, acquired the Formosa apartments at No. 7139 Hollywood boulevard, giving the grantors, Mrs. Margaret F. Maurer and Mrs. May G. Stone of Berkeley, property at the southeast corner of West Seventh street and Burlington avenue as part consideration.

The apartment property consists of a large apartment-house and eight attractive bungalows, occupying a site with a frontage of 200 feet on Hollywood boulevard by a depth of 367 feet, and with an additional frontage of 100 feet on La Brea avenue. The brokers in the deal give the value of the improvements at $65,000 and that of the land at $36,000. The furnishings, which are included in the transfer, are stated to be worth about $18,000. Wright-Callender-Andrews Company has been managing the property for some time and will continue to act in that capacity. The new owner contemplates the immediate addition of six new bungalows to the group.

The property transferred by Mr. Bauer to the Berkeley women has a frontage of 150 feet on West Seventh and is at present improved with an old-time residence. It is stated to have been exchanged at a valuation of $65,000, the grantor adjusting the difference in values in the trade by mortgage. The house on the site is to be at once removed to make way for a modern one-story brick garage.

The brokers were represented in the handling of the deal by Glenn N. Deuel and E. H. Brooks. In the other transaction, which was made through Mr. Deuel, C. E. Mooney transferred the northeast corner of West Seventh and Bonnie Brae, 50x140 feet, improved with a one-story brick building, to an eastern syndicate, receiving in part payment a large residence, occupying a lot 75x130 feet in size, at No. 4302 Wilshire boulevard. The syndicate was represented in the trade by the Title Insurance and Trust Company and the John P. Holland Company.

FOR SALE OR EXCHANGE—
Income Property.

FOR SALE—BEAUTIFUL APARTMENT-HOUSE of 67 rooms, located fairly close-in and free from incumbrance; very nice, semi-residence, business district; business for the last few years has been rapidly coming this way; fronting beautiful avenue, with best car line in city. The house has single rooms as well as apartments; this gives two lines of guests instead of one, being a decided advantage. Plenty of private baths, steam heat, light and ventilation perfect; well furnished, front porch to each floor; front and side lawn, large number of flowers, plants and palms, on porches and lawn, making it a beautiful place. Lot 50x180, facing east; is leased for $3600 per annum, but prior to the recent business depression it always leased at $4800 per annum and believe it can readily be leased again at that figure, as it is a much better money-earner today than it ever has been in the past, and it has some extraordinary good points in regard to running full the entire year. Price $30,000, including furnishings; one-half cash, and balance mortgage back on premises. This property originally cost $50,000 and is worth that today; the building alone could not be built today for less than $30,000, and lot is worth $15,000; furniture cost $7000. It is also in best of condition. Its location insures a steady advance in value. This great sacrifice in price is made because owner needs and must have money; and remember, at above price it is earning 12 per cent. per annum, and as a rental of $4800 means 16 per cent., could be leased furnished quickly at that figure. Call on premises, No. 2825 South Grand ave., or write ALLEN, above address. Phones: 24818—South 781.

For Tourists.

NEW MECCA IS THEIR MAGNET.

Easterners Discover American Cairo in El Centro.

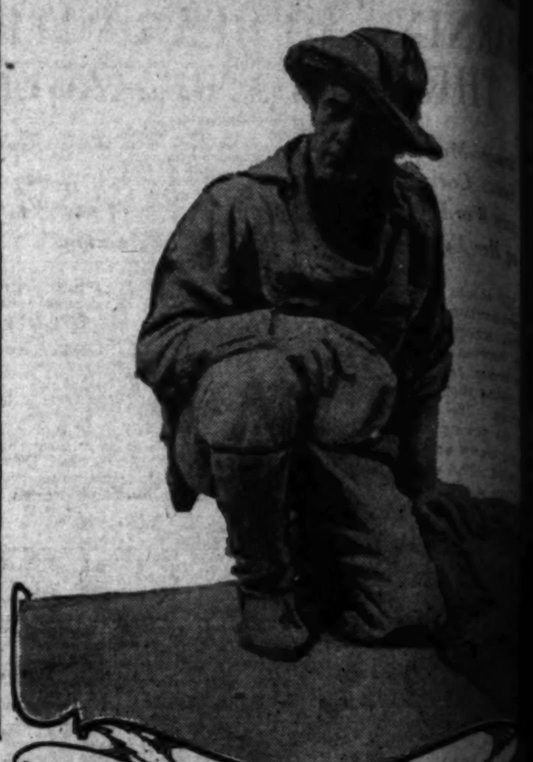
Hotel Improvements will Make Desert Luxurious.

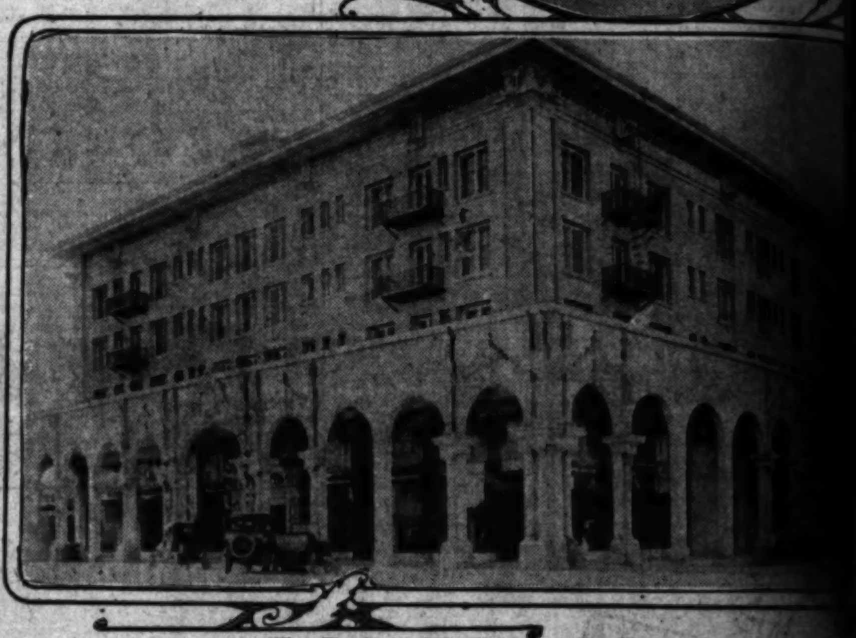
Country Club and Golf Links to be Established.

Heeding the call of the ever-increasing tourist throng, attracted by the compelling charm of the "Hollow of God's Hand," Imperial Valley capitalists are to make the desert luxurious. Their plan is that El Centro shall become the Cairo of America. Hotel and club improvements to cost $250,000 are to be made at once.

Attracted by the wondrous winter climate, the tourists have "discovered" Imperial Valley. Completion of bridges and highways and action by transcontinental railways in including this fertile section in their tourists' trails, have had the effect of bringing an unlooked-for number of delighted eastern travelers to the valley. Embarrassed by the lack of room to accommodate them, owners of the Barbara Worth Hotel, including W. F. Holt of Redlands, "Father of Imperial Valley," H. B. Richmond and Harold Bell Wright, plan to provide ease, charm and recreation for thousands.

In the New "Cairo of Am





The Barbara Worth Hotel at El Centro,

To which it is proposed to make a $125,000 addition. The original hotel cost $300,000 and is to accommodate the ever-increasing tourist crop of Imperial Valley. At the top is a photo statue, "The Problem," by Miss Ella Buchanan. It was posed for by the late Mobley Sheriff of Imperial county, and is the type of sculpture to be used in the deco addition.

PICTURE RECLAMATION.

Plans have been approved for the building of an addition to the Barbara Worth Hotel to cost $125,000. This will consist of forty-two luxurious suites built around a patio in the Spanish style, in the center of which a fountain, featured by sculpture by Felix Peano and Miss Ella Buchanan, will tell the entrancing story of the desert's reclamation.

When the $300,000 Barbara Worth was built a few years ago, even the most sanguine hardly expected that its capacity would be taxed so soon. Yet the proprietor has been compelled this winter to turn away from his doors hundreds of tourists.

"Keep those lots; you will soon need them," said Mr. Holt to Proprietor Richmond two years ago, referring to the vacant ground adjoining the hotel on the west. At first inclined to doubt that they would be needed, at any rate within ten years, Mr. Richmond is glad he, for the hotel company, followed the advice of the far-seeing Mr. Holt.

Plans are being made for the establishment of a country club, with golf links, tennis grounds and stables, for the recreation of the tourist. Here, under the azure desert sky, with maximum winter sunlight, the visitors will find a new "Garden of Allah."

ATTRACTED BY DESERT.

It is reported that the Santa Fe Railroad has sold 8000 tickets to Imperial Valley by way of San Diego this winter. From that city the journey is made partly by rail, then by auto stage, over mountain trails unsurpassed in scenic grandeur. The Royal Gorge trip does not exceed in thrills and scenic interest that of Devil's Canyon, Myers Canyon and Potrero Pass. The view of the desert, with its stretch of green, and Salton Sea stretching away to the north, as the stages hesitate before the descent on the brink of the steep Myers Canyon, is one that almost rivals that at the Grand Canyon.

Increasing interest in the trip over rugged mountains to Imperial Valley has compelled the railroads to better facilitate the passage of tourists over this route.

The San Diego and Arizona Railroad has arranged for a line of large auto stages from which the tourists will view some of the finest scenery in the West. The stages will carry the passengers from Campo, to which point the railroad has been finished, to El Centro.

TOURISTS SWAMP HOTELS.

More than 5000 tourists have swamped the hotels of Imperial Valley thus far this season and many have compared its charms with those of Egypt. El Centro is in a latitude but three degrees north of Cairo. The mean temperature at that point is 59 deg.; that of the Imperial Valley city is 58 deg. Rain fell in Imperial Valley on only eleven days during all of last season, and there were but a few more days which were cloudy. The winter climate, nearly perfect, will attract many who formerly went to Egypt.

The mud volcanoes and Cocopah Indian hamlets of the Salton Sea region, and Mexicali, with its cosmopolitan population, its gold braid, China town, fort and commerce will entertain the tourists when other recreations pall.

Gold Automobile Reflectors.

Automobile headlight reflectors made of gold, rolled on copper bases, are said to be unaffected by heat, dampness or salt air, and to provide light of great penetration in fog.

Santa Ana.

TO SECURE FACTORIES.

Citizens Raise Fund to Provide Sites and Buildings as Inducement to Reliable Manufacturing Concerns to Locate There.

Santa Ana is holding out the hand of fellowship to the manufacturing concern that is looking for a location for a factory.

Santa Ana has raised $85,000 that will be used in furnishing sites and buildings. The investor who satisfies the Santa Anans who are handling the encouragement fund can get some of that money.

With conditions ideal for the home life of workmen, excellent transportation facilities, including the Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and the Pacific Electric already established and the Salt Lake to come, Santa Ana believes its advantages as a place for manufacturing are well worth investigation.

The city is surrounded by a productive section, the county seat of a county that last year produced $40,000,000 in oil, walnuts, citrus fruits, sugar, lima beans and other products. However, it was the desire of the leaders in the commercial life of Santa Ana that the city also take rank as a city of factories. They believe there is no reason why a large number of factories should not do as well or better than in larger cities, where rents are often high and factory sites cost a lot of money.

A plan was devised whereby money could safely be used in encouraging the location of factories here. Under it, the city is protected against unstable concerns. The proposition appeared to be businesslike in every detail, and when it was put up to the people of the city, within ten days $85,000 was raised. When the campaign was started $50,000 was the goal, but the fund quickly went far beyond that mark. The fund is handled by a board of directors of a corporation called the Santa Ana Industrial Fund.

The directors are allowed to contract with a factory to give a site or buildings up to 5 per cent. of the pay roll of the factory for the first five years. That is, if a factory's pay roll in five years amounts to $50,000, the directors can donate property or money up to 5 per cent. of that amount.

In order to protect the fund against concerns that are not doing business on a business basis the Santa Ana Industrial Fund holds a contract or deed of trust for five years. If the pay roll reaches the guarantee, at the end of five years the factory gets its bonus free of all ties.

After thoroughly investigating the Santa Ana proposition, which has been established less than six weeks, one factory has already been located. The Mission Woolen Manufacturing Company has signed a contract with the Santa Ana Industrial Fund and has secured a site on Santiago street. The foundations are now being laid, and the building will be carried rapidly to completion. The manager of the company is J. F. McAfee of Long Beach.

The bonus plan is being investigated by other companies.

Two girls, students at the University of California, have concluded an experiment which consisted in living entirely on peanuts. For three months they ate nothing else but these nuts. The peanuts cost 15 cents a day.

LEARNING TO HE THE EYES AN

Strange Monotone of Deaf C Haunts Corridors of Public Sc quire Words by Feeling Teacher ing Her Lips—Queerly Sensitive

IF YOU should pass along the brown corridors of the Sixteenth-street school, West Sixteenth street, between Hill street and Grand avenue, you would hear children reciting their lessons in queer monotones. The words are indistinct, the vowels are accentuated and long drawn and the consonants are slurred. The sounds come from the throats of children who are deaf, for in that school all the deaf children of the city are taught their "r's." And because they are deaf they do not enunciate clearly. There are more than eighty of these deaf children in the Sixteenth-street school. For eighteen years there have been classes for the deaf in the public school system of the city and the teacher who started the work, Miss M. E. Bennett, has had charge of the department. Today she has ten teachers to assist her.

The deaf children are happy; they are glad, just as normal children are, and as normal children in the public schools do, the little deaf ones whisper, not indistinct whispers, but clear, with many purses of the lips and twistings of the mouth.

Although they have never heard a word pronounced, but have to learn the sound of each by the vibrations in the throat of the teacher, they pronounce everything in an odd, stilted manner.

The first class of deaf children numbered eleven and was conducted in the old Spring-street school, Mercantile place and Spring street, in 1899. Since then the classes have moved from school to school and have grown in size, until today they take up several rooms in the Sixteenth-street school.

READ VIBRATIONS.

As one passes along the corridors of the school one can hear the slow, distinct enunciations and through the open doors of the classrooms the children, their eyes seemingly inseparable from the lips of the teacher, can be seen. When the teacher wishes to call one of the children she stamps the floor with her foot. The vibrations stir the children as a voice would arouse normal children. She looks at the pupil she is addressing and that child goes to her or reads from her lips the command she wishes to give it.

The children are more able to concentrate than those who hear, and they study harder. Their powers of observation are much greater and their sense of vibrations is highly developed. They know by the vibrations in the schoolhouse when a street car is passing, though they cannot hear the sound of the wheels. The rumbling sweep of the heavy wagons cause vibrations of such a character that the children are instantly aware of the nature of the vehicle passing the school.

The deaf children are all from 1 to 3 years behind the normal ones in school work, until they reach the [illegible] grade, which they attain at an average age of 14 years. After that age they advance rapidly and, owing to their intense power of concentration, are able to master the subjects taught them more rapidly than the normal children.

They are taught the usual subjects, with the exception that all [illegible] do woodworking with their [illegible] and cooking, and all boys are taught sewing and cooking with their woodworking. The boys make [illegible], weave rugs and sew mats and holders, and the girls make handkerchief boxes, tie racks, brush [illegible] and similar articles. One deaf girl at the Sixteenth-street school last year constructed a miniature garden swing, working out the measurements and the design entirely by herself.

In imparting voice culture they are taught the variations of the vowel sounds by feeling the different vibrations in the teacher's throat. They are started with the sound [illegible] and from that they build up words and sentences. They use no [illegible] until they enter the fourth grade, when they take up simple [illegible]. From this grade on they follow the regular course of school [illegible].

Through a State law the deaf children are allowed to enter school when they are but 3 years of age. Every bit of work with the kindergarten children, and until the fourth grade, has to be done individually. Each child must place its hand against the teacher's throat and feel the vibrations of the vowels and consonants.

taught facial and tongue how the placing of the positions in the mouth produces certain sounds or vibrations, how the pursed lips aid in pronouncing a word, and like matters. For this purpose they are given mirrors in which to see how to place their tongues and how to move their lips.

A peculiarity of the deaf kindergarten children is that each child has individual gestures for certain objects, gestures which it has acquired through the habit of telling its parents at home what it wants, or gestures that were suggested to it by the parents. There is no sign work in the school; all work is done purely by lipreading. Lipreading has long been a common subject in eastern schools, but voice culture is something new. It is for the reason that voice culture has been neglected that the normal person finds that voice of the deaf disquieting.

THEY SPECIALIZE.

The programme of allowing the children to specialize according to individual abilities is followed in teaching them here, and every possible manner of aiding them is employed. Many children who have learned lip-reading, and "hear by their eyes," have gone through the grammar schools and have completed high school courses.

Classes for adults in lip-reading and voice culture are conducted Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights at the Grand-avenue school, Eighth street and Grand avenue. There is one man in the class who travels forty-five miles to attend the classes, and there is a woman who comes from Azusa every class night that she may "hear."

Los Angeles is the only city west of the Mississippi River where lipreading is taught in the public schools, and the children of these classes are recommended for their proficiency by national educators. Miss Bennett has kept actively in touch with every advanced method brought forward, and has consistently taught the oral method. It is slower for the children at first, but once they master the rudiments they advance much faster than the children taught by other methods.

Young Woman's Visit to Venice with Los Angeles Man Comes to Painful End in Early Morning When Companion Drives Into Electric Coach.

A cheerful night at the Venice cafes ended painfully for Miss Euretta Henderson when her companion, George Sanborn, drove their automobile into a Pacific Electric car at Culver City, at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. Miss Henderson, who lives at the San Gabriel apartments, No. 947 Francisco street, was seriously injured and was taken to St. Catherine's Hospital, Venice.

Miss Henderson, who is about 25 years old, said she had visited beach cafes with Mr. Sanborn, of the Morrison Hotel, No. 1246 South Hope street. They were on their way home when Mr. Sanborn ran the automobile into the electric coach at the Culver City crossing.

Miss Henderson was thrown through the windshield of the machine and was seriously cut on the face and neck by glass. She is in a precarious condition.

The Power Contract.

MOOTED POINTS SETTLED; AGREEMENT NEAR, MAYBE

THE power contract is still nebulous, but some progress was made yesterday toward an agreement when President Betkouski of the City Council and City Attorney Stephens held a conference with John B. Miller, president of the Southern California Edison Company.

The power companies wanted the city to agree to purchase not less than 30,000 horse power per day, but the city said the minimum should be fixed at 23,500. A compromise of 27,000 horse power was reached and President Betkouski said he is confident both sides will agree to that.

Another disputed point dealt with yesterday was when the city shall take possession of the distributing systems. The Public Service Board wants the companies to turn them over as soon as the bonds are voted. The companies decline. They say they will turn over the systems when the money is paid, and not before. They say it might take months, perhaps a year or more, to sell the bonds. Nobody can tell in what state the bond market will be next month.

President Betkouski said after yesterday's conference that both sides feel sure an early agreement will be reached. Another meeting will be held tomorrow afternoon.

THEFT IS COSTLY.

Automobile Salesman, Sentenced to Three Years in Prison, Figures Stolen Ride's Price is Six Thousand Dollars and a Problem for Family.

Even taxicab bills are moderate compared with the cost of riding in a stolen machine. L. Bert Wayne, a former automobile salesman, estimates theft of a car here will cost him $6000, as well as disgrace and anguish and actual distress to his family.

He was sentenced yesterday by Superior Judge Craig to serve three years in San Quentin penitentiary. He pleaded guilty to having stolen the automobile.

With Fred and Harry Hoffman he was arrested at Lamar, Colo., broke jail and was recaptured.

He informed the court he earned about $2000 a year and that the imprisonment would cost him any chance of getting another job in Southern California. Also, he said, he has a wife and child with no means of support during his term of imprisonment.

STERILIZED FOOD FOR HOG IS NEXT.

AND NO MORE WALLOWING IN EVERYDAY MUD.

Deputy County Counsel Draws an Ordinance that Would License Piggeries, Make Growers Cook Swine's Dinner and Abolish Luxury of Feet in Trough.

The hog is coming into his own. Heretofore the hog, sometimes a king when food prices soar, has found enjoyment in putting his feet in the feed trough and when he has eaten his fill, in wallowing in mud. But an ordinance Deputy County Counsel Murphy is drawing up for the Board of Supervisors puts the hog in the sanitary class.

First, the ordinance directs that all garbage served at the big hog ranches shall be sterilized by cooking it at not less than 240 deg. Fahrenheit and for not less than twenty minutes. The animals shall be fed from a platform or trough, to be impervious to water or filth, the platform or trough to be flushed with water once a day.

The ordinance then provides that a license shall be obtained for keeping hogs, graded in price according to the number kept on hand. For less than 100, the license price is $1 a month; from 100 to 1000, the price is $2.50 a month; more than 1000, the price is $5 a month for each $1000.

Mr. Murphy says there have been numerous complaints charged up to hog ranches. Under this ordinance it would be possible to punish owners of unsanitary hoggeries by revoking their license. Now the hog is a primitive animal. From time immemorial he has wallowed in filth and eaten with his feet in the trough. It is going to be a shock to him to lie in clean sand, eat sterilized food and take his meals standing at a clean platform.

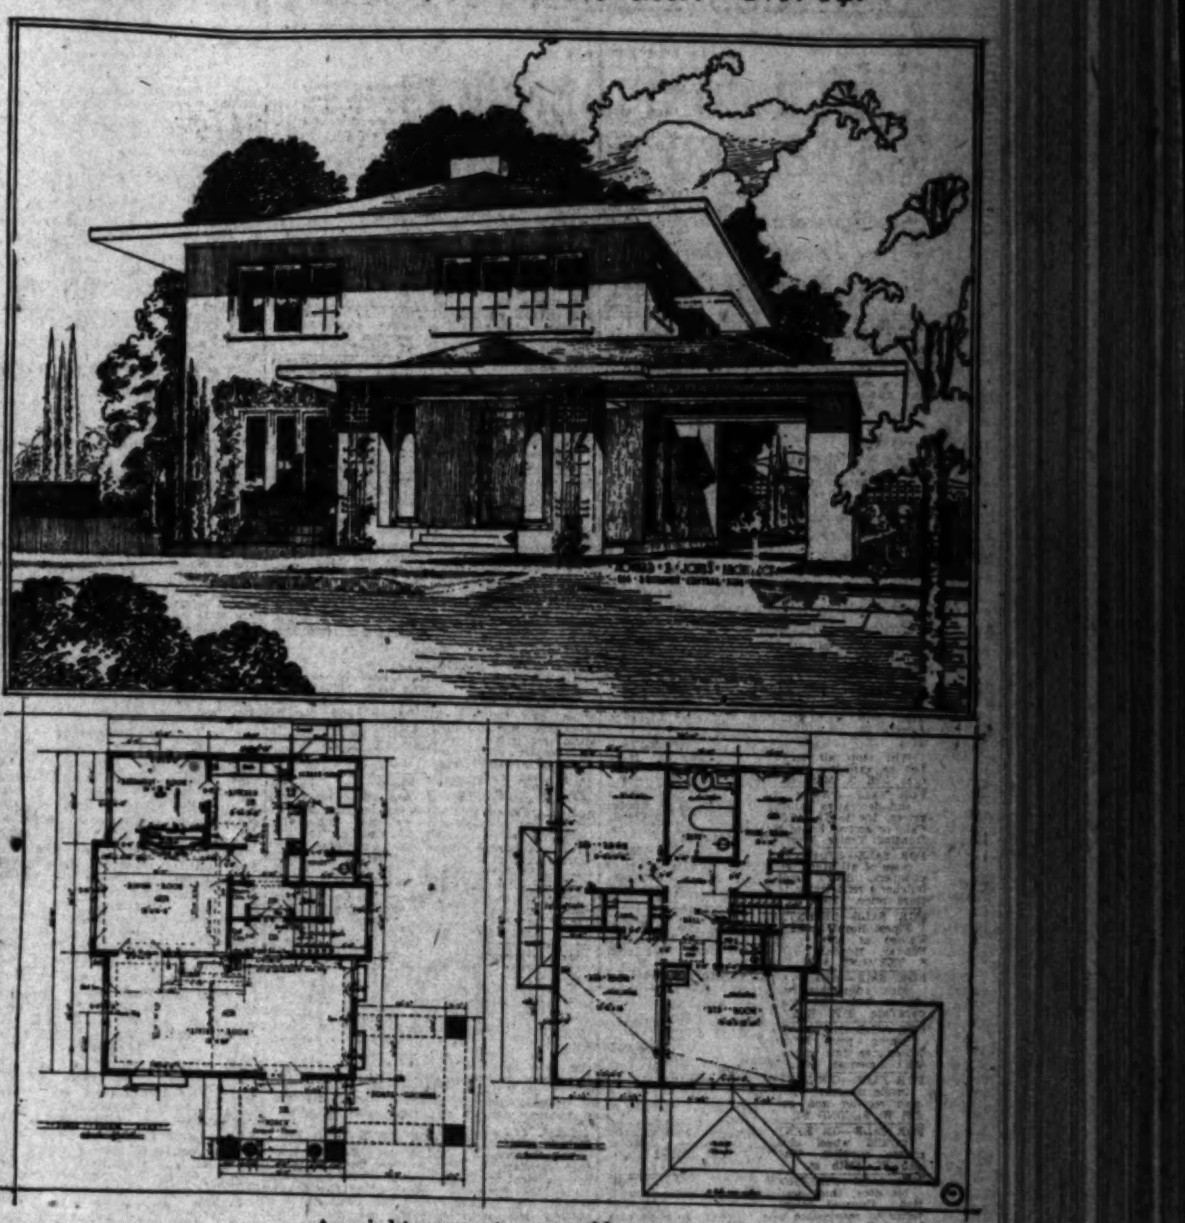
Attractive Homes of Moderate Cost. No. 14.



An eight-room stucco residence.

This commodious dwelling was designed by Howard E. Jones for a Santa Ana builder. Its cost was $4000.

COMMODIOUS PLAN.

Stucco House of Eight Rooms is Both Roomy and Attractive.

Plan No. 14 of the "moderate cost home" series illustrates a commodious eight-room dwelling of stucco exterior. The design is by Howard E. Jones, a local architect, and was prepared recently for a Santa Ana builder. The house as it stands is stated to have cost about $4000.

The residence is nearly square in shape and contains two full stories and basement. The wide overhanging roof, with its channel board soffit, relieves the plainness of the wall surfaces, as do also the deep set casement windows, the attractive porch and the ample porte cochere.

The living-room extends across the entire front of the house, being 27x13 feet in size, and having both porch and porte cochere entrances. The dining-room, breakfast-room and kitchen occupy the rest of the floor. Living-room and dining-room are in Philippine mahogany, the breakfast-room in ivory enamel. The living-room has a heavy wood cornice. The three bedrooms and maid's room on the second story are finished in white enamel.

SENTENCE DELAYED.

Topham Case, During the Absence of the Trial Judge, is Postponed and Defense Attorneys Will Prepare to Ask for New Trial for Official.

Action on the sentence of Councilman John Topham, who was convicted February 10 of having received financial benefits from transactions with plumbers in violation of the city charter, was delayed yesterday by the absence from the city of Superior Judge Wilbur, who tried the case. Substituting for him was Superior Judge Houser, who granted a continuance to next Saturday for the attorneys for the defense to prepare affidavits for a new hearing.

The grounds mentioned in the application for a new hearing are that the jury received evidence out of court and separated while the case was on trial, that the verdict was reached by other than fair means, the court erred and misdirected the jury, the verdict was contrary to law, and there has been new evidence discovered.

Pending the disposition of the application for a new hearing, Mr. Topham will not exercise the rights of a councilman, his attorneys informed the court.

Stocks and Bonds.

FURTHER CONFIDENCE IS REFLECTED IN DEALINGS.

Transactions are on Larger and Broader Scale than Any Day Previously During Week—Reported Big Sale of Copper Materially Strengthens Metals — Shipping Shares Active, While Trading in Bonds is Light.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—All branches of the stock list reflected further confidence during today's brief period of trading, dealings being on a larger and broader scale than any previous day of the week. Under the lead of United States Steel, industrials rose 1 to 4 points, marked strength being manifested by Lackawanna Steel and Republic Iron.

Coppers and equipments advanced as much, the entire metal group being materially strengthened by unconfirmed reports of the sale of a moderate amount of "spot" copper at the unprecedented price of 37 cents per pound.

Shippings were the most active features next to steel and iron shares at an average gain of 2 points. Motors and accessories registered moderate advances. Transcontinentals featured the seasoned rails. Among the few exceptions to the general advance were American Beet Sugar and American Snuff, the latter falling 12 points after gaining 7 the day before.

Trading in bonds was light. Total sales, par value, $1,720,000. United States coupon 3s advanced ⅛ point and registered 4s lost a point on call during the week.

FINANCIAL REVIEW.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Further uncertainties in the international situation which resulted in a general freight blockade were among the more adverse features of a dull week in the stock market.

It was evident, however, in the moderate daily operations that market or technical conditions were sound, even though indications of further liquidation were not altogether lacking. Much private and corporation capital is awaiting the outcome of events at Washington where preparations for a large government issue are assumed to be well toward completion.

Also it is understood that our bankers have arranged preliminaries for several additional foreign flotations, these to partake of renewals of loans to South America and additional credits to France.

In the stock market representative industrials were again stronger than rails. Shares of the various war supply concerns scored irregular advances, partly as a result of the publication of favorable statements of earnings and because of the likelihood of contracts from the home government.

All the metal markets were stimulated by advances in raw and refined products, high-grade copper, for instance, being quoted at the record price of 37 cents a pound, although it is not known that actual sales were made at that figure.

Shipping shares made considerable improvement later in the week, their rise being coincident with a fall in marine insurance rates. Issues of related companies strengthened in sympathy.

DULL TRADING ON LOCAL EXCHANGE.

NOTHING BUT SMALL LOTS TRANSFERRED.

Little Call for Union Oil—Advance Recorded in Associated. Heavier Demand for Consolidated Realty—Big Jim Firm. Optimistic Report on Nellie.

Trading on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange Saturday continued dull and uninteresting and what little activity there was consisted of the transfer of small lots. Only 15 shares of Union Oil sold during the session and prices paid for the petroleum leader were the same as on Friday. Associated showed improvement by selling up to 72.00 and General Petroleum was firm at 71.75. Bidding for Consolidated Realty was heavier and 15 shares changed hands off board at the higher figure of 80.00. Mines were devoid of feature and quotations remained practically steady. Big Jim closed at 1.24 and 12,000 shares of Ivanhoe sold at 3⅛. A better demand for Oatman United resulted in the sale of 8000 shares at 5 to 5⅛ and Carter attracted a little more attention. Arizona Ray advanced a half point and many brokers are expecting an upward movement in this copper stock shortly. Development work on the company's claims at Ray is being pushed and a sincere endeavor is being made to turn the property into a real mine.

According to Oatman advices, the shaft of the Nellie Mining Company has reached a depth of 400 feet and now being sunk through a vein of tremendous size. The last assays taken from the bottom of the shaft are reported to have returned gold values of $9.70. An aggressive development campaign is now under way, with a depth of 525 feet as the objective point. A station will be cut at 500 feet and a crosscut driven to the Nellie vein on that level.

Supt. Meiklejohn states that every indication, geologic and otherwise, points to the making of a great mine at a depth of 500 feet. In January drifting on the 430-foot level exposed an ore body of more than 200 feet in length, with ore still showing in both the east and west heads. Samples taken from the east face of this drift showed values of $36 per ton. When the vein is cut on the 500-foot level it will add, owing to its pitch, says Meiklejohn, 250 feet of backs to its reserves, and open up a vast tonnage, which if averaged at $10 to $20 per ton, should assure the future of the Nellie as a big gold mine.

WHEAT DAMAE DUE TO DRY WEATHER REPORTED.

Bulls Soon Obtain Evident Advantage from Messages that Flood Pit Telling of Weather Conditions in West and Southwest—Corn Hardens; Also Oats.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—Complaint that abnormally dry weather in the Southwest and the West was causing serious crop damage gave an upward slant to wheat today. The market closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1⅛ higher, with May 1.73½ to 1.73⅝ and July 1.48⅝ to 1.49. Corn wound up unchanged to ⅛@¼ higher, oats gained ⅛@¼ and provisions showed a rise of 10 to 20.

Notwithstanding a good deal of indecision at the outset, bulls in wheat soon obtained an evident advantage from messages that flooded in telling of poor crop prospects throughout a large portion of the winter-wheat belt.

Disappointment over the absence of any new export buying led to some reaction in wheat prices as the day approached an end. New-crop months, however, maintained a relatively firm tone.

Some inquiry from the seaboard made the corn market harden a trifle. Oats reflected the changes in corn values. Higher quotations on hogs brought about firmness in provisions.

MODERATE ADVANCES MARK QUIET TRADE

GENERAD LIST CLOSES STEADY AT A NET ADVANCE.

Further Decline in Marine War Risk Insurance Rates Encourages a More Favorable View of Shipping Conditions — Premier Lloyd George's Speech Awaited.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Feb. 17.—Trading in cotton today was very quiet, with moderate advances in prices, which were attributed chiefly to covering for over the week-end. May contracts sold up from 15.97 to 16.05, and closed steady at 16.00, with the general list closing steady at a net advance of 4 to 7 points.

The trade seemed disappointed by the announcement that David Lloyd George would not make his speech Monday, it having been generally expected that on that address the British Premier would give precise information regarding the much-talked-of restrictions of cotton imports.

A further decline in marine war-risk insurance rates encouraged more favorable view of shipping conditions.

FIFTY DEMOCRATS TO GO ON TRAIN.

SEATS RESERVED FOR THEM TO SEE INAUGURAL.

Pullman Charts are at Committee Headquarters and Those Intending to Make the Trip are Being Urged to Arrange for Berths—Will go to New York.

Fifty prominent Los Angeles Democrats will attend the inauguration of President Wilson at Washington, March 5. The announcement was made at a meeting at the Democratic County Central Committee rooms, No. 319 Douglas Building. The Inaugural Special will leave Los Angeles at 8:20 a.m., February 26. The itinerary will include stops at El Paso, Houston, New Orleans, Atlanta, and Richmond, arriving in Washington at 4:30 a.m. March 4. After the inaugural ceremonies the party will go to New York. The fare will be $148.20 for the return trip, good for nine months with stopovers at all points on the return.

Reservations are being made at the committee rooms. Pullman charts will be available. All intending to make the trip should register on or before February 22.

The committee in charge of the inaugural special is composed of W. M. Humphreys, Ben. F. Groves, Mrs. W. C. Tyler, Mrs. A. Davis, and Miss Musa Rawlings. Souvenirs of the trip will be distributed at the committee rooms to all joining the party. Senator Phelan has arranged to make reservations for all the California delegations at the inaugural parade.

The San Francisco contingent of Bourbons will go in grand style taking a band of thirty-five pieces and a number of gaily-costumed Chinese dancers. Word from the northern city indicates there will be at least fifty in the party.

FARCE CONTINUED.

"We Are Seven" at Morosco for One More Week.

By arrangement made yesterday in New York by Oliver Morosco, the farce comedy "We Are Seven," which for the past week has been the attraction at the Morosco Theater, will be continued one more week.

"We Are Seven" was written by Eleanor Gates, author of "The Poor Little Rich Girl," and other successes. It played an entire season in New York. When it was secured for the Morosco the contract was made for one week only. The second week begins this afternoon.

Though a farce comedy, the play is said to furnish an answer for the birth-control problem.

BIG INDUSTRY FOR TORRANCE.

EASTERN MANUFCTURERS BUY SITE FOR FACTORY.

The Porcelain Products Company Will Make Sanitary Wares from Southern California Clay and Silica—Local Conditions Held to be Ideal.

A brand new industry of magnitude and promise, was assured for the metropolitan district of Los Angeles yesterday when the Porcelain Products Company, a Delaware corporation having extensive manufacturing interests in the East, completed final arrangements, through Thomas D. Campbell & Co., for the purchase of a ten-acre factory site in Torrance. By the terms of the contract entered into between the Campbell company, as industrial agents for the manufacturing suburb, and the big eastern concern, the latter is to have a factory employing a minimum of 200 men erected and in operation on the ground within six months.

The site of the projected plant comprises the whole of Block No. 107, fronting on Carson avenue, and is directly opposite the factory of the Pacific Metal Products Company. Ten acres immediately adjoining, has been reserved by the purchasers under option and may be acquired later.

The porcelain company, which is a closed corporation and of which Charles J. Kirk is president, expects to build a number of substantial buildings, plans for which will be started at once. These will include several structures, housing large furnaces of a type known as "continuous muffle kilns" and on which the projectors hold special patent rights. There will also be what is known in the porcelain industry as "slip houses," together with manufacturing, firing, drying, assembling and testing departments. The group will largely follow the lines of a plant of the same company at Newcastle, Pa. The large area of the site will allow ample room for future expansion.

The company will specialize in the manufacture of sanitary ware, including lavatories, bath tubs, closets, tanks and bath and kitchen fixtures generally. All the necessary raw materials, such as clays, earths and the silicas, feldspar and flints used as binders, are to be found in extensive deposits in Los Angeles county. Both natural gas and oil, the ideal fuels for the manufacture of clay products, are available in quantity in this vicinity.

IDEAL CONDITIONS.

"We consider the Los Angeles district the ideal field for our line of manufacturing," said Mr. Kirk yesterday afternoon before leaving for the East to complete further arrangements for the new plant. "All the raw materials we need will be right at hand, whereas the great eastern pottery and porcelain centers are compelled to ship in 50 per cent. of their clays and binders, often from a considerable distance. Nearly all of them were started in the vicinity of deposits that are now largely depleted. Southern California has an apparently inexhaustible supply of such deposits, we find.

"Fuel conditions around Los Angeles are also more favorable in some respects than in the older oil and gas belts of the East One of the biggest advantages of this section for the pottery industry, is its climate, and I am speaking from a purely industrial point of view, there being no question at all that the year around living conditions of Southern California are conducive to greater efficiency that can be realized in the East. The even climate of this section, with its long and dependable season of dry weather between May and October, makes for perfect conditions for the drying of raw materials, something most important in our business."

The company, in addition to its furnace patents, has a method known as the "Kirk Patent" for the casting of its wares. This, it is declared, will largely eliminate the necessity for the exclusive employment of highly skilled labor. Skilled artisans, however, will be brought from the East to head the different departments of the new plant. Mr. Kirk states that there is every assurance that the entire output of the Torrance factory can be marketed on the Pacific Coast from the beginning and expresses the belief that this output will reach the $2,000,000 mark by the time the plant has been in operation two years.

FLAT PROJECTS.

Work is to be started this week on a flat building for four five-room suites for H. W. Foster on Sunset place, near Wilshire place. The building was planned by E. B. Rust and will cost about $10,000. John W. Aykroyd has drawn plans for a sixteen-room flat, which he will build for himself at No. 850 North Virgil avenue. Ira J. Kuert will start work soon on a twenty-room flat at Oxford boulevard and Marathon street.

WILL HANDLE LANDS.

George W. Wilson, a local realty man who has specialized for many years in acreage subdivisions, has assumed the management of the land department of the Fay Security Company, which owns large tracts in the San Joaquin Valley and in the territory between Los Angeles and the west beaches, besides controlling various acreage holdings as resident agents for eastern owners. Mr. Wilson will at once undertake the active marketing of several of the company's tracts now ready for development.

ASYLUM FOR SLAYER.

Worker Who Killed Gang Foreman is Found Insane.

A deranged brain saved John T. Lawrason from a felon's cell in murderers' row in the State prison. He was convicted a week ago of having killed George Moore August 10. Yesterday a jury in Superior Judge Craig's court declared him insane, and he is to be committed to Patton asylum for treatment.

Mr. Moore was foreman of a gang in which Lawrason was employed, and gave a general order to the gang. Lawrason struck him on the head with a pick, apparently without the least provocation.

During his trial on a charge of murder, Lawrason used expressions which raised a doubt as to his sanity. Examination resulted in his being declared incompetent.

Fact and Comment.

in the fact that it will intersect the extension of Temple street, giving those using it the advantages of the new Northwest Los Angeles boulevard into the business district. Highland avenue, running directly into Cahuenga Pass, is the traffic outlet for practically all of the San Fernando Valley and its usefulness in this respect will be greatly increased when it is possible for those traveling over it to go straight south through Hollywood to the new boulevard. This boon to the people of the valley may be put down as a practically assured fact, as both the Highland avenue extension and the extension of the northwest boulevard as far as Beverly Hills have been agreed upon by the majority of the private owners affected.

The two projects will make possible the development of high-class residence subdivisions in the sightly region west of the city proper between Wilshire and Sunset, besides serving as thoroughfares into the city for districts north and west. They will pay dividends to those making the necessary outlay for them from the beginning and in all the years to come.

STREETS COMPLETED.

The McCarthy Company announces that street improvements on two of the streets of its new terrace tract in Boyle Heights, Guirado and Orme, have just been finished. Other streets are near completion. Five houses have been completed to date in the new subdivision.

BIG JIM

Main shaft reached a depth of 613 feet yesterday. Crosscutting for ore body on 600 level should start by Tuesday, February 20th—day after tomorrow! Vein estimated within 85 feet of the shaft at this new depth. Crosscut should be driven 12 feet per day. This means that drills will break into ore body in about 10 days.
Estimated that development on 600 level will double present large ore reserves.
We believe that Big Jim at current market prices affords the greatest certainty of large and early profits of any investment stock we have ever known. Place your order with your broker.

$34,000,000
ADULARIA QUARTZ

The NELLIE property of Oatman covers a mammoth vein of Adularia quartz—a greenish gold bearing ore—identical in character with the world-famous Waihi Gold Mine of New Zealand, which had a production record of $34,000,000 up to 1912. The average values in this famous mine were $12.00 to $14.00 per ton—just as they are in the Nellie.

A. G. Keating, an authority on Oatman, in a report on the Nellie, says: "With the work properly directed and executed, there is signal assurance of success."

A brilliant future seems certain for this mine.

NELLIE

An ore body of large proportions and good values has already been opened on the 350-foot level of the Nellie mine.

The Company is now sinking to the 500-foot level. This depth will add a vast tonnage to the Nellie ore reserves. We believe, positively, the developments at this depth will place Nellie in the class of the very richest gold mines in the West.

A profit of from 300% to 400% should be made quickly if bought at present prices—now 20c to 22c per share. Stock listed on important exchanges.

We have the evidence that we believe will prove to you the correctness of the above statements and that will show you that we are fully justified in our strong predictions. Give us your orders on Nellie at once.

ATTRACTIONS FOR INVESTORS IN CALIFORNIA'S LIVE ENTERPRISES.

CALIFORNIA'S live enterprises are diversified and attractive, never more so than now. Many of them are well established and fully capitalized. Others, equally meritorious, are open to investors. This great State's wonderful resources are not yet nearly developed. This year is seeing a notable increase in the efforts of men of keen perception and energy to take advantage of hitherto neglected or partially developed opportunities. It is an awakening of tremendous importance to residents of the State and those who come here to share for a short or long time its myriad advantages.

Opportunely, California, this season, has an unprecedented number of visitors from other States, including thousands of business men and capitalists. The combination will undoubtedly result in substantial benefits to both. For the benefit of our visitors as well as those who live in the State, The Times, beginning today, proposes to print weekly, or perhaps oftener, a concise presentation of legitimate projects, industrial, agricultural, colonization, subdivision, etc., covering the entire State. The Times has already been assured of the co-operation of many chambers of commerce, boards of trade and other civic organizations and welcomes the active interest of all such organizations in the State. The Times has been authorized by secretaries of chambers of commerce to invite every reader, whether residents or visitors, to write to them concerning any of the projects mentioned in this department.

Santa Monica.

HOTEL OPPORTUNITY.

Beach Business Men Seeking Capital to Erect Mammoth Hostelry on What They are Confident is Ideal Location.

According to Santa Monica business men, the beach city offers probably the best location for the erection of a mammoth hotel, built along the lines of the Huntington, the Virginia of Long Beach, or the Raymond or Green of Pasadena.

During the last few months a proposition has arisen to erect a million-dollar hotel on about twenty acres of land, either in the Palisades of Santa Monica or across the Santa Monica Canyon to the north from Santa Monica. The latter is known as Huntington Heights and affords an excellent view of both the ocean and the mountains. While the hills are sheltered from the north winds, the Santa Monica Mountains, to the north, are sufficiently far away to make the hills more like a mesa.

A proposition has been made and is now being talked of to interest prospective hotel builders in the idea of erecting a big hotel in the Palisades, probably between Seventh street and the ocean front and Montana avenue and Santa Monica Canyon.

For the building of fine homes in a restricted building district Santa Monica is offering excellent advantages.

For the man who wishes to build a house of the $12,000 type in an exclusive district, the Palisades is declared to meet the desires of the most exacting.

For a seaside home, and at the same time one near a wooded district, Santa Monica Canyon is an excellent location. These homes run from $5000 and $6000 to a higher sum.

Bungalows may be built on the Wilshire boulevard tract. This is in a purely residential district.

Opportunities for the building of a high-class apartment-house or hotel can be had in the Looff Pier tract, Santa Monica. This site overlooks the ocean in the center of the business and amusement section of Santa Monica. It is adjacent to Looff's Santa Monica pier, which joins the Santa Monica municipal pier. A portion of the tract will offer an opportunity for concessions of a high order.

The Seaside Terrace apartments, Santa Monica, have reopened after being closed for about a month. This is an apartment in a desirable location in Santa Monica on the ocean front.

The Ocean Park bath-house, at Navy street, has been reopened to the public. The bath-house was closed two months for repairs.

Long Beach.

TOURISTS FILL HOTELS.

Busiest and Most Prosperous Winter Season — Deep-sea Fishing Excursions — January Bank Clearings Reach Three Million Mark.

Plans are being perfected for the holding of Long Beach's annual winter festival, the Carnival of the States, March 21. The Chamber of Commerce is promoting the event. The main feature is a great pageant of floats representative of sister States whose former residents are now citizens of Long Beach and other cities and towns of Southern California.

President Wilson, all the members of Congress, the Governors of every State in the Union and all the chambers of commerce in the country have been mailed invitations to attend the carnival. The pageant will be held in the morning. In the afternoon the annual Southern California interscholastic track and field meet will be held on the Long Beach High School oval.

Long Beach boatmen report good deep-sea fishing and trolling in the channel. More winter tourists than ever before in the history of the city are taking advantage of the daily fishing excursions. The all-day charter party excursions are the most popular. The good weather of the past few days is expected to bring the yellowtail to the surface again. Bass and rock cod are now being caught in large numbers.

January was the biggest bank-clearings month in the history of Long Beach. Last month's record was more than $1,000,000 ahead of January, 1916. January, 1917, is the only month since the clearinghouse was established in this city that the amount reached the $3,000,000 mark.

With its hotels and apartment-houses filled to overflowing with visitors, and the streets crowded with automobiles of eastern tourists, Long Beach is enjoying the most prosperous winter season in the history of the city. For the first time in history have the employees of the biggest hostelries been obliged to take rooms elsewhere to provide accommodations for the rush of incoming tourists.

Venice.

NEW SUBDIVISIONS.

Land Between Northern and Southern Beaches to be Cut up for Industrial Sites, Small Acreage Tracts and Residences.

New subdivisions of land lying between Venice and Manhattan Beach, to the south, probably will be shortly thrown on the market. This section offers a diversity of advantages. The building by the county of the Manhattan-Venice boulevard, connecting the southern beaches of Santa Monica Bay with the northern cities, will open up a new territory, heretofore not sufficiently developed. On the hill above Playa del Rey is a plateau and to the north a little is a lowland.

This lowland offers opportunity for industrial sites. Being near to transportation, with the future possibility of an opening to the sea, this is said to give the investor a chance for constructive work.

The Short Line Beach tract includes a portion of this section. The gun club grounds also is an excellent location for a factory site. Acreage in this section is for sale.

The purchase by George Walters of Venice of "The Rapids," an amusement place of Venice, opens up a new field for the opening of another high-class cafe in that section. Mr. Walters, who is a capitalist, has been purchasing much property in Venice lately and is undecided just what to do. He is thinking of running the amusement place, and may, on the other hand, build to suit for a tenant who desires to open a high-class cafe. "The Rapids" is located at the entrance to the Venice pier.

Whittier.

CARBON FACTORY.

Company Formed, Two-acre Site Secured and Plans Completed for Erection of Buildings. Big Citrus Groves are in New Hands.

The Sunset Carbon Company has been organized at Whittier for the manufacture of carbon for electrical use. The company has secured a site of two acres at the corner of Hadley and Magnolia avenues, the site of the former Whittier Brick Company's plant, and will proceed at once with the erection of the necessary buildings for its plant. The capital stock of the concern is $75,000. Edward Gray was elected president; C. H. Kenworthy, secretary-treasurer; and Philo P. Moses, general manager. The company will make a specialty of carbons for motion-picture machines. It is expected that the new plant will employ about thirty people.

Extensive plantings of oranges and lemons will be made by the Hudson interests this spring on their lands in Happy Valley, North Whittier. The Hudsons will plant about 250 acres, an activities toward this end have already begun. Five years ago not a citrus tree could be seen in the North Whittier-Happy Valley district, but the plantings contemplated for this spring will bring the total acreage close up to the 2000-acre mark.

Jacob Bickel of East Whittier and William Goodfellow of Fort Wayne, Ind., have bought a young Valencia grove in the North Whittier district for the reported price of $20,000. Another sale reported is that of the thirty-acre Valencia grove and home of Duke & Smith, situated on the Telegraph road near Rivera. The purchaser is D. Weibers of Los Angeles, president of the Standard Woodenware Company. The grove property was figured in the deal at $60,000, and the sellers took in part payment Los Angeles city property valued at $33,500.

Owensmouth.

DOUBLE BEAN CROP.

Enormous Increase Makes Larger Warehouse Facilities Necessary—Irrigation Augments San Fernando Valley Production.

Among the improvements planned for Owensmouth is an addition to the warehouse of the Vanomar Producers' Association, which will treble the present capacity of the plant. This move is necessary in order to accommodate the large crop of beans to be produced in the San Fernando Valley this season. The building in which the bean cleaner is located is 110x120 feet in size, while the extension will be 110x200, which, it is thought, will provide ample storage room for this season. Last year more than 2,500,000 pounds of beans passed through the warehouse, and the prospects are that the next crop will be more than double this size. Buyers are offering 6½ cents per pound for lima beans and every available acre of land is being prepared for planting. The copious rains have saturated the ground thoroughly and prospects were never better for a successful season.

The irrigation system which is to distribute the Owens River water over the San Fernando Valley is being installed rapidly and within a short time that section will be one of the best-watered spots in the world. The water will be carried across the valley in underground iron pipes, so laid that each forty-acre tract will be reached with the mains. The laterals for smaller tracts will be installed by the individual land owners.

Lower California.

LOWER EXPORT DUTY.

Gov. Cantu's Decision to Reduce Rate will Increase Acreage Planted to Cotton Thirty Per cent. Over that of Last Season.

In an effort to encourage further planting of cotton in the fertile delta lands in his domain, Col. Esteban Cantu, head of the Lower California government, has announced that he will lower the export tax on cotton grown in Mexico and ginned and compressed in Calexico.

According to the records of ginning companies here, 75,141 acres in Mexico were planted to cotton in 1916. This acreage will be increased by 30 per cent. if Col. Cantu's reduction is adequate enough to meet the demands of the Calexico bankers and American growers who yesterday placed their demands before Col. Cantu.

D. A. Leonard, cashier of the First National Bank of Calexico, and William Guntermann, cashier of the Calexico National Bank, issued a statement setting forth their position in the matter of loans for the 1917 planting of cotton below the border. They stated that the export duty on cotton levied by Col. Cantu recently depreciated the security demanded of American growers, who borrowed $300,000 from the Calexico banks last year to finance the crop, and they would make no further loans until the tax of $14 per bale was adequately reduced.

Conditions in Mexico were ideal for the growing of cotton during the past season, the American growers state, and more than 40,000 bales of the finest short staple were grown in Col. Cantu's country.

Calipatria.

IMPERIAL COLONY.

Settlers Being Induced to Locate on Five-acre Tracts in Rich North End, Where There is Plenty of Work in Cotton Fields.

An interesting experiment in colonization of the fertile Imperial Valley north-end farm lands is being tried by H. H. Clark, head of the Farm Lands Syndicate, and his efforts are already crowned with a degree of success.

The Balfour-Guthrie Company, owners of 10,000 acres northeast of Calipatria, are preparing to plant their tract to cotton. Last year they planted and brought to maturity an excellent crop of this same commodity.

Mr. Clark set aside a section of land near the Balfour-Guthrie acres. He subdivided it into five-acre tracts and on each tract built a comfortable four-room house. Here were the small farms and the houses for the laborers.

The next step was to get the workers. Mr. Clark conceived a plan to get a class which was easily colonized—the Portuguese. Up in Sonora county there were many workers who wanted to come to sunny Southern California. They readily accepted an agreement to purchase the five-acre tracts at a down sum ridiculously low, and a carload of the workers are now on their way to the valley, due to arrive Monday.

The first effort having been crowned with apparent success, Mr. Clark plans to subdivide two more sections in the north-end domain and subdivide it into five-acre tracts, each with a small house ready to move into. It is a plan rarely tried before anywhere and bids fair to solve a problem which has confronted many owners of large tracts.

Germans and Swedes will be the next nationalities brought to the valley and placed upon the land. Here are fine little farms, a house and a job for the man who is ambitious to succeed. There is plenty of work on the adjoining cotton, barley and alfalfa farms with which the north end is dotted.

H. H. Timken, roller-bearing manufacturer, who is preparing to plant 1400 acres to cotton and 1200 acres to alfalfa on the ranches operated by his company, is one of the cotton raisers in Imperial Valley who have found that quarters must be prepared for cotton pickers if a satisfactory number of good pickers is to be secured throughout the season.

He has, therefore, made plans for the erection of a score or more small but adequate houses for cotton pickers on the Bullis place, where 600 acres last season produced almost a bale to the acre of fine short staple cotton.

Mr. Timken also is making large expenditures in releveling his cotton land. He believes that nowhere in the country does proper preparation of the seed bed pay as well as does the Imperial Valley soil.

From the Sea.

MORE TUNA BOATS.

Canning Companies Increase Their Fleets with Larger and More Powerful Vessels to have a Greater Cruising Radius.

The Long Beach Tuna Canning Company has ordered five more fishing boats to add to the fleet of fishing craft that will be used during the next albicore season. The new boats will be forty feet long, contain forty-horse-power engines, and will be equipped for extensive cruising trips. They will cost about $5000 apiece.

Other harbor canning companies are ordering new craft, and it is expected that the local fleet will be increased by at least fifty boats by the time the season opens, indicating that the biggest fleet of fishing boats ever organized in the southern waters will be at work this summer.

Expansion.

PROJECTS UNDER WAY.

Canning Plant at Hueneme — New Factory at Chino—Increase in Pre-cooling Capacity at Claremont — Grove Improvements.

V. C. Potts and F. J. Cooper, representing McCroskey & Tweedale of the Del Rey Canning Company of San Pedro, which will soon begin the erection of a plant at Hueneme, have been in Oxnard arranging with growers for the planting of extensive acreages of tomatoes for the cannery. It is planned to keep the plant busy with vegetables during the season when it is not canning tuna.

The foundation has been laid for a deciduous fruit canning factory at Chino. It will be erected on a piece of land abutting on the Southern Pacific spur. Work on the superstructure will be started this month and the plant is to be ready for operation by the first of June. This enterprise is an extension of the activities of the San Antonio Growers' Association, a co-operative growing and marketing association, which successfully instituted a similar cannery in Ontario last year. The plant in Chino will cost close to $50,000 and will be capable of giving employment to 300 to 400 people during the deciduous fruit harvest each year.

The Union Ice Company at Claremont is building a big addition to its pre-cooling plant for the purpose of providing more capacity for the storage of citrus fruits. It has been pre-cooling oranges and lemons for two co-operative growers' associations in this district and the development of new acreage has made expansion of the ice-plant capacity necessary.

The Kingsley Tract Water Company directors at Pomona have decided to increase the size of all water pipes serving the sixty-seven ranchers in the district. All of the pipes not already eight-inch will be immediately increased to that size by replacement. In the past water has been served in varying quantities at one, two, three and four weeks' intervals, the small pipes in some places carrying the water so slowly that irrigation was laborious. When the new pipe is in, a forty-inch head of water will be served every third week to every ranch that wants it. The improvement will cost $1000. Survey was made by the Pomona High School trigonometry class.

C. N. Burton, Pomona Chamber of Commerce man, has deposited in the First National Bank $50 which is to be the nucleus of a fund which boosters will spend to encourage experiments looking toward the invention of an orchard heater for citrus groves which will produce less smoke and more heat. A portion of the fund also will be paid to responsible parties for experimentation with grades of oil in an effort to secure something which will heat groves without filling the atmosphere with free carbon.

Ontario.

READY FOR VISITORS.

Big Hotel Adds New Attractions and has Many Bookings—Opportunity for Close Observation of the Citrus Industry at This Place.

Ontario, annually made the headquarters of many eastern tourists during their winter stay in Southern California, is better prepared than ever this year to care for the large number of visitors who are flocking to the Southland.

Many tourists are already at Hotel Casa Blanca, and reservations are made for many more. New tennis courts have been added to the attractions of the hostelry and Manager H. M. Nickerson, with the assistance of Herbert E. Stewart, dancing instructor, has inaugurated a series of dancing parties for the entertainment of guests. The next social affair under the auspices of the hotel is to be a Hawaiian night.

Those who desire to view the inside workings of the citrus fruit industry find an excellent opportunity in Ontario, where some of the largest packing-houses in the State are located. Here also are three of the largest deciduous fruit canneries in California, and the monster plant of the Hotpoint Electric Heating Company, which daily attracts large numbers of visitors.

Ontario is at the junction of several branches of the State highways and makes an ideal headquarters for motorists wishing to tour the Southland.

Redlands.

ATTRACTS TOURISTS.

Citrus City Trustees and Chamber of Commerce Provide New Golf Course and Plan Swimming Pool and Other Features.

Golf for the rich man, for the poor man and for the middle man has been provided through the activities of the Redlands Chamber of Commerce and the generosity of the Board of Trustees of the city. The new nine-hole golf course in San Timoteo Canyon, on the Smiley estate, is almost completed, and will be formally dedicated to the use of the public next Thursday.

The City Trustees have leased from the Smiley estate the ground necessary for the course, which, it is said, will be one of the best in Southern California.

The Chamber of Commerce has done the work of putting the course in shape under the direction of George Lawson, crack professional of the Redlands Country Club. Mr. Lawson says that it is a natural course, for practically no work in the making of bunkers and hazards has been necessary.

The Chamber of Commerce has also opened a clubhouse, and the membership in this will be $12 a year to pay the cost of maintaining it. Shower baths have been installed, locker and dressing-rooms made and a lounging-room where the trophies will be kept on display. A cup will be offered for the best score made when the new course is dedicated next Thursday. The Redlands Country Club has made it possible to give instruction to those who want to learn the game.

It is believed that the golf course, which can be enjoyed by the tourist as well as the citizen of Redlands, will prove to be one of the most popular places in the city. It will be open the year round. Redlands has a men's playgrounds, with quoit grounds, croquet grounds, rest houses equipped with chess and checker boards, and other conveniences, in Smiley Park, just back of the City Hall building.

The Redlands Trustees are now planning a big swimming pool, twice the size of the regulation indoor pools, to be built at Sylvan Park. As soon as this is built the Trustees will start work on a concrete-lined lake that will take up a large portion of Sylvan Park, south of Sylvan boulevard, and bordering the University of Redlands campus.

Holtville.

NEW PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

Imperial Valley's East Side Center Also Construction Headquarters for Power Line. Paving Campaign Launched.

A farm loan association has been formed at Holtville. A 55,000-volt transmission line from the Holton power plant at Holtville to Hanlon, Heading and Yuma, a distance of 43.5 miles, is under construction. A telephone and telegraph line will be constructed in connection.

This line will supply power to the river dredges and to Yuma. Holtville will be the construction headquarters.

The Holtville Commercial Club gave a smoker last Tuesday night, at which a paving campaign was launched. The city is to have a new City Hall, a new fire-house, a modern children's playgrounds and the city park is to be beautified and a city-beautiful plan carried out by the Commercial Club.

Activity.

WITH THE BUILDERS.

Residence Construction Picking Up All Over Los Angeles as Rainy Season Draws to Close. Northwest is Scene of Extensive Operations.

The activity of the home builders in all parts of Los Angeles is becoming more and more marked as the end of the rainy season draws near and summer approaches. The greatest amount of residence building at this time is being done in northwest Los Angeles, notably in the north Wilshire and Hollywood districts.

A building permit was issued during the past week for a thirteen-room house to be built by Sarah F. Hersh at No. 408 South Occidental boulevard. Work is being started on an eleven-room house for O. E. Dutton in Pellissier Square. A permit was taken out several days ago for a ten-room house to be built by C. C. Chapman at No. 426 South Normandie. Two duplex houses of ten rooms each are to be started at once by Ffred Munsey at Third avenue and West Sixteenth street. Mrs. Elizabeth T. Shelton has had plans drawn for a nine-room house at Benton way and Reservoir street. The California Bungalow Company has let the contract for a nine-room house at No. 916 North Edgemont street. George Taylor has taken out a permit for a nine-room house at No. 238 South Oxford avenue. A permit has been issued for an eight-room house to be built by Grace A. Troy at No. 2031 Argyle avenue.

Following are a number of bungalows for which permits have been issued or contracts let in the past few days: Eight-room double bungalow for Tyler & Co., No. 514 North Wilton place; seven-room bungalow for O. W. Lake, No. 1842 West Forty-third place; seven-room bungalow for C. S. Albright, Morgan place and Franklin street, Hollywood; seven-room bungalow for A. B. Morey, Leland way, Hollywood; seven-room bungalow for Ira A. Marshall, No. 502 North Ardmore; six-room bungalow for Lillian K. Ransom, No. 1122 Edgemont street; six-room bungalow for Amelia Schaper, No. 4033 South Hobart; six-room bungalow for W. H. Combellick, No. 1136 Gordon street; six-room bungalow for R. G. Glenn, Mariposa, near Santa Monica avenue; six room bungalow for Lina Moore, No. 1415 Cherokee avenue; two five-room bungalows for R. W. Huntley, F street, San Fernando; court of one six-room double bungalow, two four-room bungalows and two three-room bungalows for B. T. Anderson, No. 5437 Carlton way.

EXHIBIT PLANS.

Five Thousand to be Invited to Opening of Architectural Display.

Five thousand invitations are to be sent out for the reception on the evening of Thursday, March 1, marking the opening of the architectural exhibition in the quarters of the Metropolitan exhibit of building materials in the Metropolitan Building. Beginning Friday, March 2, the exhibition will be open to the public daily from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., until its close on March 15.

The installation of the partitions, which are to form the exhibit corridors, will be begun this week, as will also the assembling of the perspectives, drawings and sketches to be shown by the different architects of this and near-by cities. The exhibit will also include household fixtures and appliances and various materials used in the construction of buildings, having both a practical and educational value.

LEASE TRANSFERRED.

H. Jerome Toy & Co. report having sold the lease and furniture of the Navarro apartments at No. 925 South Alvarado street for Herman O. Vogel to Mrs. Josephine Merriman. The consideration is given at $18,000, a residence on Kenwood avenue having been given in trade. The lease calls for three years at a given total rental of about $24,000. The Navarro contains 110 rooms. The property itself is owned by Mr. Vogel, who has been operating the place through a manager.

New Era Dawning.

way every time a boulevard project for Northwest Los Angeles has come up.

There has been talk in times past of building the boulevard anyhow and letting its traffic turn abruptly down Figueroa to Sixth and Seventh streets, but this plan has always been discarded to await developments in the never-ending proceedings for tunnels and open cuts through the hill. The majority of the boulevard advocates have always opposed going ahead with any plan until a way was found through the hill barrier. As well continde to go down to Sixth and Seventh streets farther out as at present, they have held, as to bring a boulevard to Figueroa and still be forced to go blocks out of a direct route to get around Bunker Hill.

Thus it was that when the West First-street boulevard plan in its present shape was presented to the City Council several months ago the Public Works Committee was requested to hold all proceedings in abeyance pending the outcome of the Second-street tunnel movement, then being revived for the third or fourth time. When the tunnel, backed by the overwhelming sentiment of the property owners in the assessment district outlined for the project, was at last ordered by the Council, the boulevard, in so far, at least, as the West First-street portion of it was concerned, may be said to have automatically been assured. The putting through of the tunnel proceedings has also caused the proponents of the Temple-street improvement and other projects linked in the great general plan to start working energetically to get their respective enterprises under way.

BORE PLANS READY.

The plans for the tunnel are complete to the last detail. The new Second-street bore will be a well-lighted and well-ventilated underground highway of sufficient width to carry not only automobile traffic, but a double-track street railway, besides allowing an ample sidewalk on the south side for pedestrians. It was planned under the direction of R. W. Stewart, engineer in charge of bridge and structural work in the city engineering department.

The tunnel will have a clear interior width of fifty feet and will be 1502 feet long, being exactly twice the length of the North Broadway tunnel and ten feet wider than that bore. The face of its east portal will be seventeen feet east of the eastern line of Clay street, while that of its west portal will be flush with the west side of Flower street. The tunnel will have a height of twenty and one-half feet at Clay street and of twenty-eight feet at Flower. There will be open cuts from Clay to Hill and from Flower to Figueroa.

The portals will be of dignified design, that at the west being surmounted by a row of classic columns, which, in addition to being ornamental, will serve to carry the outer edge of a sidewalk, extending along Flower street over the bore. The columns will be flush with the face of the tunnel arch, the heavy superstructure being recessed well back of the colonnade, giving an arcade effect. The Clay-street arch will be set off by a classic balustrade.

The portals will be of concrete and the tunnel walls of the same material, the crown of the interior arch-work being of brick. The interior facing will be entirely of white enamel tile, giving a maximum effectiveness to the illuminating system, which will consist of a series of brilliant arcs concealed from direct view in inverted reflecting bowls.

The project also calls for the correction of the present steep grade on Second street between Hill and Broadway, giving the latter thoroughfare, along with Spring, Main and Los Angeles streets, an easy approach to the tunnel. Hill street at Second will be lowered four feet, the grade change of Hill street terminating at the south line of First street on the north and 180 feet north of Third street on the south. By the plan adopted, the grade on Second between Broadway and Hill will be reduced from 9 to 6 per cent.

To take the place of the present roadway going up the hill, a new street will be constructed from Hill to Olive on the north side of Second, alongside the open-cut entrance to the tunnel. This street will be forty-five feet wide, forty feet being acquired by condemnation of abutting property and the rest being in the form of a sidewalk to be made by utilizing a strip off the north side of Second street between Hill street and the face of the bore and having the width of the tunnel wall. The new street will be put through under separate proceedings.

THE BOULEVARD.

The Second-street tunnel, costing, with all incidentals, about $800,000, is the key to the immediate solution of the traffic problems that have so long hampered the development of Northwest Los Angeles, from the western edge of Bunker Hill to the far-flung city limits. Other outlets through the hill are bound to be needed as the traffic of the great northwest boulevard now about to be started grows in volume, but the Second-street bore will meet all requirements until proceedings for a tunnel or open cut at First street and for other proposed traffic openings can be carried through.

From Figueroa street westward, Second street runs as a level, paved thoroughfare into Lake Shore avenue. At the point where this juncture takes place, First and Second streets also converge from the east, the former going on westward. Thanks to the angles at which the streets named come together, West First from Lake Shore onward becomes to all practical intents and purposes a continuation of Second street.

Under the West First-street boulevard plan, First street will be widened, regraded and paved from Lake Shore to Commonwealth, a distance of over two miles. It will be given a uniform width from curb to curb of seventy feet, six and a half feet being allowed on either side of this broad roadway for sidewalks. Its grade will be altered at several places, notably at the Belmont hill, where a twenty-six-foot cut will be made. When completed, its maximum grade at any point will be 4½ per cent, a slope that is taken on the "high" by any stock car without difficulty. The whole stretch of boulevard thus formed will be paved with a bitulithic surface over a solid concrete base.

From Commonwealth avenue, where First street now jogs to the left, dipping down into the Bimini slough the boulevard is to be carried straight ahead on a viaduct over the slough to Vermont avenue. Here, on account of the change in course, it will run directly into Temple street.

The designing of the viaduct which is to bridge the unsightly ravine that now cuts Northwest Los Angeles in two will rest with the Park Commission, which is soon to take over the present waste lands of Bimini slough for the purpose of transforming them into the beautiful woodland drive to be known as Silver Lake parkway. It is assured, however, that the great span will be of an ornamental character, in keeping with the artistic requirements of its park environment.

Temple street, from Vermont avenue to the city limits just beyond Norton avenue, will be paved similarly to the First-street portion of the new traffic artery. Little grading will be required on Temple, however, as the street is practically level for the entire mile and a half affected by the boulevard plans.

The boulevard, which many are now seeking to have renamed Beverly boulevard from the city limits to the west portal of the Second-street tunnel, will be created entirely at the expense of the frontage owners of the streets to be improved. Its construction, owing to the absence of serious engineering difficulties, will consume only a few months. There will be little protest, it is understood, from either the West First or Temple-street owners when the ordinances come up for final action.

WHAT IT MEANS.

The real meaning of the project in relation to the destinies of Northwest Los Angeles and its outlying suburbs has only begun to dawn upon many of the people of the section. The property owners and merchants of Broadway, Hill, Spring and Main streets north of Sixth, shut off by Bunker Hill from direct communication with the northwest, have comprehended the possibilities of the tunnel and boulevard project more fully and from a different angle. They have seen the northwest section grow by leaps and bounds in spite of its lack of adequate transportation and traffic facilities and they have seen the ever-growing population of the section, forced to go around Bunker Hill and double back north to get into the business section, gradually draw away to newer shopping zones farther south and west. Students of city planning have recognized in the tunnel and boulevard programme the one feasible remedy for the downtown congestion at the intersections of Sixth and Seventh streets with the north and south thoroughfares.

The new northwest artery promises to be one of the most traveled, if not the most traveled, thoroughfare in Los Angeles within the next few years. It will be a new short-cut into the business section for the whole of Northwest Los Angeles, not alone in point of actual traveling distance, but because it will bring both street car and automobile traffic directly through Bunker Hill to the principal north and south business streets without subjecting it to the endless "start and stop" delays now encountered by the same traffic as soon as it crosses Figueroa street on Sixth and Seventh.

The double track car line, which it is proposed to extend through the Second-street tunnel and on through to the end of the boulevard, will cross several existing north and south lines and will undoubtedly lead to the building of still others. As an automobile thoroughfare the boulevard, in connection with the tunnel, will occupy a position that in military parlance would be called highly "strategic," being the only through route between Sixth street and Sunset boulevard.

It will cross four important streets, namely, Figueroa street, Fremont, Beaudry and Boylston avenues, before it reaches Lake Shore avenue. Lake Shore, already an important thoroughfare, will, upon the building of the bridge which the city and county have agreed to put across the river at Ivanhoe, connecting it with Brand boulevard in Tropico, be the outlet for practically all of the south-bound traffic from the Glendale-Tropico-Burbank district. Between Lake Shore and Vermont, the boulevard will cross many streets, including Union and Burlington avenue, Alvarado street (recently re-graded and paved from Sunset boulevard to First,) Occidental and Rampart boulevards, Benton way and Hoover, Coronado, Carondalet, Reno, Vendome and Dillon streets. All the streets named tap east and west streets of varying length; Temple street being the most notable of these latter.

Most of the residents of the northwest from Vermont avenue westward, it is certain, will use the new boulevard as a way into and out of the business district. Many automobile owners from as far south as Wilshire will find the new artery a time-saving route into the heart of the city, as will also most of those of the Hollywood section. Vermont and Western avenues will be the principal feeders for the boulevard in this vast residence area, both being intersected by every important east and west street between Wilshire and the foothills.

The more important streets crossing the boulevard itself will include, in addition to Vermont and Western, Alexandria, Mariposa, Normandie and Ardmore avenues, Kingsley drive, Oxford boulevard, Ridgewood and Wilton places and Van Ness and Norton avenues. Nearly all of the people of the great section west of Vermont now have to go to either Sixth and Seventh streets on the south or Sunset boulevard on the north to get into the city.

The creation of the great boulevard through the northwest, by changing the section's present "so near and yet so far" position in relation to the center of things into one of entire accessibility, is bound to give an immediate impetus to the development and upbuilding of the whole area. New streets and new improvements of all kinds are even now being planned on the strength of the boulevard and tunnel projects. Values throughout the northwest, in the opinion of conservative real estate men, are bound to rise within a short time to figures in keeping with the investment op-

ECKLESS AND INCOMPETENT AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS SHOULD BE HELD TO STRICT ACCOUNTABILITY FOR INFRACTIONS OF THE LAW.

T IS TIME that somebody put a stop to the wild, murderous driving of automobiles on the highways of Southern California. If the police cannot stop it we must find somebody who can. Week before last 160 persons were arrested for speeding, their offenses ranging from a few miles over the limit to exhibitions at fifty or sixty miles an hour. Of this number all but fourteen were convicted. It is safe to say that the police do not apprehend one speeder out of every ten. And this is only one of the laws which are broken every minute of the day. The first eleven days in February found 339 accidents reported to the police within the city limits. Of these, 161 occurred within the twelve-mile zone. Thirty accidents a day is too many. We need drastic action and it is up to each and every motorist to do his best to safeguard the highways of this State.

The reduction of the minimum fine for speeding from $25 to $5 has made it easy for the motorist; any kind of an excuse to get off with a fine, which is only an incident rather than a punishment. There is only way to punish the reckless driver and that is to revoke his license. Deprive each and every habitual law-breaker of the use of his car and there will be less maiming of innocent people and few accidents to report.

of this merriment was open relay. Eight entered in each team and Pomona, Occidental and were represented. The their positions all over Bob Weaver popped his man was on. very first lap trouble tearing down the back Pomona, became unduly passed his stick along colleague after he had yards instead of 220. This young man, himself was very excited and didn't notice that he wasn't scheduled to run for about ten minutes. He sprinted along until he thought he was about through, looked around for a man to pass the buck to, but couldn't find any.

"That's funny," he remarked to himself. "I've run 220 yards or I'll eat my hat."

ATTA BOY.

But he stuck to it, pausing to hand his stick to somebody every ten or fifteen feet and then going on when no one offered to help him. After he had traveled about two laps, a kind-hearted Pomona man took charge of the stick and lit out like a wild man. Before he had gone thirty yards, another Hun stepped out on the course and demanded the handle.

"Get out," said this guy. "I've only gone about thirty yards."

"Gim'me that stick," unceremoniously commanded his friend and to be sure that his order was obeyed he knocked the runner down on the ground and took it away from him.

By this time the crowd had gone insane and so had all the other teams.

Some of the men would be dragging along with their tongues hanging out, having gone several laps at a 220 rate. Others would be protesting because they were relieved just as they were getting started.

ABOUT TIME.

Finally the judges decided that the race ought to be over. They stretched up a tape and Ken Johnson, tearing down the stretch for U.S.C., passed up Strehle, who had been running ever since he could remember, and crossed the line first. Strehle panted up to the line almost weeping.

"I couldn't run a half-mile at that rate," he gasped, dropped down on the course and almost passed out.

So the judges came together and found that Occidental had three men who hadn't been in the race at all; that several Pomona men had run twice and three times the scheduled distance, and that U.S.C. was as bad off in both respects.

After considerable argument and discussion it was decided to run the race over again. The men were Michigan may Get Back Into Conference.

Very Secretive Meeting is Held in Chicago.

Stagg Says Old Rivals are Welcome.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Feb. 17.—The door was partly opened yesterday for the University of Michigan's return to the western conference at a joint meeting of the faculty representatives and graduate committee at the University Club. They decided to allow Michigan's track men and relay teams to compete in the first annual relay carnival of the University of Illinois, to be held at Urbana on March 3.

As a result of this action, the conference let down the bars and rescinded its rule made some years ago, which prohibited a member of the conference competing against another school which had withdrawn from the organization.

Every institution which is a representative of the "big nine" will be represented by either individuals or relay teams. Michigan will send its best athletes and relay teams to the games, thereby making the event a stepping stone for Michigan's ultimate return to the fold.

The meeting was called to consider the invitation which Illinois extended to Michigan to take part in its games. The Wolverines accepted and Illinois was glad to renew athletic relations. Some members of the conference thought such a movement would be a violation of the boycott rule, but at the joint meeting it was decided to allow the invitation and acceptance to stand.

Prof. J. F. A. Pyre of the University of Wisconsin, secretary of the Faculty Committee, afterwards made the following statement.

"Today's meeting was called because Illinois invited Michigan to participate in its relay games on March 3 at Urbana. Michigan accepted. Under the circumstances the invitation will be allowed to stand."

Asked whether this would be a stepping stone for Michigan's return to the conference, Prof. Pyre said:

"I have nothing to say."

Further than these few remarks nothing could be gleaned from any members of the committee. It was a secretive affair and apparently every member was bound to secrecy.

After the meeting had adjourned A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago walked into the club to attend a golf meeting. He had little comment to make on the action taken, but asserted he would be glad to have Michigan back in the conference. Outside of athletics, Mr. Stagg asserted the friendliest kind of feeling always has existed between the two institutions.

CHICAGO UNIVERSITY SWIMMERS WIN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

URBANA (Ill.) Feb. 17. — University of Chicago swimmers decisively defeated the Illinois Aquatic athletes today by a score of 43 to 26. Two new tank records were established. The Chicago relay team negotiated the 200-yard relay swim in 1m. 47 1-5s., which excelled the record of 1m. 50s., established by Yale in the local tank some years back. Faircloth of Illinois finished the 150-yard backstroke in 2m. 5 2-5s., lowering the tank record of 2m. 7s.

Shameful.

ACCIDENTS ARE REGULAR THING.

THIRTY A DAY IS AVERAGE FOR LOS ANGELES.

First Eleven Days of February Finds More than Three Hundred Such Accidents Reported to the Police, All Within the City Limits.

BY HARVEY E. WESTGATE.

One doesn't need a search warrant to locate either careless or daredevil drivers of motor cars. They're everywhere. In the busy downtown district they cut corners, speed their machines, fail to signal when they are going to turn to the right or left, cut in ahead of other machines which have the right of way, pass automobiles on the right and street cars on the left, drive too close to the car ahead, ignore the policeman's signal and go on their way rolling up a total of fatal and near-fatal accidents, which result in keeping the Emergency Hospital, the doctors, the undertakers and the grave diggers busy.

In exactly eleven days in February 339 accidents were reported at the Police Station, all inside of the city limits. As a result of these accidents 125 persons were injured. Inside of the twelve-mile zone 161 of these accidents occurred. In the twenty-mile zone 178 were reported. However, this isn't unusual, merely the daily grind, with totals showing for eleven days. The average for that period was thirty accidents a day.

CARELESSNESS.

Nine times out of ten it's a result of carelessness, too. The daredevil driver gets his occasionally, but usually it's a careful driver—one who observes the ordinances and is run into by a driver who apparently cares nothing about the laws—who suffers.

Safety first! Who coined that phrase? What is being done to see

Strict Accountability.

STOP RECKLESSNESS BY TAKING LICENSES AWAY FROM DRIVERS.

Scheme Proposed by "The Times" Meets with Instant Favor and Prospects are That Amendments Giving This Right to the Highway Commission Will Soon be Passed by the Legislature.

STOP the reckless speeder by taking away his license. The campaign initiated by The Times to eliminate the incompetent and death-dealing drivers by taking away the right to drive has found favor in the eyes of the best-thinking people of Southern California.

In New York State and in several others the State Highway Commission has the right to take away a driver's license for driving while intoxicated, for three speeding offenses in the same year or for habitual recklessness and breaking of the various traffic laws.

The automobile men of this State have recommended such an amendment to the motor vehicle law of this State and it will be acted upon very shortly with its acceptance almost a certainty. Southern California motorists should get behind this movement and see to it that it is put through.

The letter published in the Automobile Section of The Times one week ago recommending the appointment of one hundred reputable citizens of Los Angeles as a committee to see to it that the laws are obeyed was strongly indorsed during the past week. J. Walter Scott of Pasadena, the author of the suggestion, received many letters and telephone calls during the week from persons favoring his plan.

Certain it is that unless we get better protection both for drivers and pedestrians, the wonderful reputation enjoyed by this section of the country as a paradise for motorists will become blemished. We have everything needed to keep this the greatest motoring country in the world and it will be shameful to have our success interfered with because a few irresponsible idiots insist on breaking every law on the statutes and piling up a long list of dead and injured throughout the year.

Drastic Motor Vehicle Act Amendments Proposed.

Fine.

MANY CHANGES SEEM ASSURED.

Registering Machines by a Better Method.

Driver's Licenses Liable to be Forfeited.

Many Obscure Points will be Cleared Up.

HERE ARE SOME PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO OLD LAW.

Registration Certificate.

Every machine must carry a certificate of registration giving full description of the car and upon the sale of the automobile vendor and vendee must indorse a statement of transfer on the back of the certificate, forward it to Sacramento and receive a new one in the name of the new owner. This shall be the sole means by which legal title to a motor vehicle can be transferred.

Operator's License Fee.

An operator's license fee of 50 cents per annum will be assessed on all persons driving automobiles. After meeting the expense of registering the operators this fund will be used to maintain a force of uniformed inspectors whose duty it will be to investigate irregular registrations, pursue auto thieves and in a general way enforce the provisions of the Motor Vehicle Act.

• • •

Trucks and Trailers.

Trucks, trailers, tractors and other heavy type vehicles are placed under special restrictions with respect to the maximum gross weights, weight per inch of width of tire and speed.

No Speed Permits.

Local authorities will have no right to grant permits for road racing or speed tests of any kind on the highways, leaving the whole matter of speed on the public highways subject to the general provisions of the law.

Stealing Automobiles.

No longer any distinction between taking an automobile in the absence of the owner with intent to steal it or taking it without such intent. Punishment for taking the car without permission runs from one month in the County Jail to ten years in State's prison, allowing room for the punishment to fit the crime.

"Intoxication" Defined.

No person who is to such an extent under the influence of intoxicating liquors that he cannot properly operate or manage a motor vehicle shall operate a motor vehicle on the public highways. This defines the word "intoxication" and does away with varying judicial constructions upon the word.

Revoking Licenses.

Operators' driving licenses may be revoked or suspended by the Highway Commission after due hearing, such hearing to be held whenever any person is convicted of violating the intoxication section of the law or upon the third conviction during any one year for violating the speed regulations of the statute, or upon any other occasion deemed advisable by the commission.

That numerous important amendments to the California Vehicle Act have been submitted to the Legislature, is the word issued yesterday by the legal department of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

According to Edward G. Kuster, counsel for the club and who acted as chairman of the Executive Committee of the conference, called for the purpose of framing the amendments, the importance of the changes cannot be over-estimated. Here is the report made through the Automobile Club's legal department:

As is usual in such matters, the bill is in many respects the resultant of conflicting forces. However, it is pleasant to record not only that the northern club, the California State Automobile Association, acted throughout the conference in entire harmony with the Automobile Club of Southern California, but that such differences of opinion as manifested themselves among the delegates to the conference at its final deliberations were honest differences, not based on selfish special interest. For example, the legislation proposed by the truck and tractor manufacturers, and embodied in the bill, regulating the weight and speed of heavy-type vehicles is even more drastic than the regulations, which the State Highway Commission had formulated and brought to the conference.

CLUBS TAKE INITIATIVE.

Again, the automobile clubs and dealers' associations did not leave it to the police authorities among the delegates to suggest means for the better enforcement of the "safety first" provisions of the law, but took the initiative in advocating a number of measures, which, it is hoped, will render the operation of motor vehicles on the highways less hazardous. On the other hand, the State Motor Vehicle Department took most kindly to the recommendations of the clubs, automobile dealers and automobile insurance interests with respect to various measures designed to prevent theft and other unauthorized use of motor vehicles, even though these measures will entail much additional trouble and considerable expense upon the State officials.

It must not be concluded from the foregoing that the delegates to the conference were a unit on all matters. Many recommendations were rejected and not a few provisions of the bill as finally introduced were included over the objections of various individual members of the conference.

One of the most important of the proposed changes consists of an improved method of registration, under which the motor vehicle owner will be furnished, in addition to number plates and seals, with a certificate of registration, which shall contain a complete description of the motor vehicle, together with its registration number and the signature of the owner, which certificate must be carried at all times in the driver's compartment of the car in a small container furnished by the Motor Vehicle Department. Upon the sale of the machine, vendor and vendee, in order to pass title, must join in a statement or notice of transfer endorsed on the back of the registration certificate, and the certificate must thereupon be returned to the Motor Vehicle Department, which will issue a new certificate in the name of the new owner. Until the new certificate has been issued and placed in the car, with the signature of the new owner written in the space provided for that purpose, title shall be deemed not to have passed to the vendee. Briefly, the purpose is to make the State Motor Vehicle Department not only a bureau of registration, but also the sole means by which legal title to a motor vehicle may be transferred. The advantages of the proposed plan will at once present themselves to members.

RECONSTRUCTED CARS.

Special provisions are made in the bill for the registration of specially-constructed or reconstructed cars, the intent being to throw greater safeguards about the registering of non-standard vehicles, and to put a check upon the disguising and reconstructing of stolen machines. Similar safeguards are provided for in the case of the attempted registration of stolen cars claimed to have been brought bona fide into this State from other States, and the motor vehicle department is to be charged with the duty of investigating the previous registration of such cars. It is made a distinct offense to misstate or conceal a material fact in applying for registration, and the motor vehicle department is to be provided, as will be hereinafter mentioned, with adequate machinery for making all necessary investigations in connection with registrations.

No changes have been suggested in the amount of registration fees or in the manner of their determination, it having been deemed best to "let well enough alone."

The only amendment advocated which has any substantial financial aspect is a provision authorizing the employment and maintenance of a uniformed corps of motor vehicle department inspectors, with police powers, charged with the duty of enforcing the provisions of the vehicle act throughout the length and breadth of the State, and protecting the vast body of motorists against the small percentage of habitual violators of the law. These inspectors will also investigate irregular registrations, put a stop to the hauling of excessive loads at high speed, and in a general way enforce the provisions of the vehicle act against motor-driven and horse-drawn vehicles alike. In order to provide a fund for the upkeep of this corps of inspectors the bill provides that the operator's license feature of the present law, which has become almost a dead letter, be made mandatory, and that a fee of 50 cents per annum be required to be paid for each operator's license. After meeting the expense of registering the operators, the balance of this fund, which it is expected will be approximately $200,000, will be exclusively devoted toward maintaining the inspector force. This feature of the bill was very thoroughly discussed, and it was the almost unanimous consensus of opinion that, in view of the purpose to which the money is to be put, the nominal charge of 50 cents a year will meet with practically no opposition from the motorists of the State. It is not as though the money were to be used for general State purposes. It is true that in some families five or six different people operate the family machine, but even in such cases the inestimable advantage gained in the way of safeguarding our highways will instantly overcome the impulsive protest of any motorcar owner who will be compelled to pay out $2 or $3 a year in order to entitle his wife and children to operate the car.

OTHER PROVISIONS.

Space will not permit of the enumeration of more than a very few of the other features of the bill. Some of the more important provisions are as follows:

Trucks, trailers, tractors and other heavy-type vehicles are placed under special restrictions with respect to the maximum gross weights, weight per inch of width of tire, and speed. The Highway Commission is given power to issue permits in special cases allowing greater weights on certain roads than the maximum established by the law, and the commission is also given the power to reduce the maximum weight to be carried over such bridges as they may determine to be unfit to bear the maximum specified in the statute. The maximum width of any vehicle, together with its load, is fixed at eight and one-half feet, with a special provision, however, permitting the use of a wide type of truck which in practice is used only in cities for the moving of safes and the like, and which has wheels extending out beyond the bed of the vehicle. Trailers are required to be registered at a nominal fee, and must be furnished with number plates corresponding to the registration of the motor vehicles to which they are to be attached.

With respect to the equipment of vehicles, no substantial changes are made in the statute excepting in relation to headlights on motor vehicles and tail-lights on trailers. It is provided, however, that lights carried upon horse-drawn vehicles must be arranged so that the vehicles can be seen from all directions and not merely, as now, from the front, left and rear. The glare evil is met by the adoption of the recommendation made by the American Society of Automobile Engineers after more than a year and a half of experimentation. The substance of the measure is that all lights projected forward from the machine, excepting sidelights of not to exceed six candle power, shall be so constructed or arranged that no beam of reflected light measured seventy-five or more ahead of the lamps, shall rise to more than forty-two inches above the level of the roadway. Sufficient side illumination is also provided for, and the expression "beam of reflected light" is so defined as to include the approximately parallel rays of focalized light gathered and projected by means of a reflector, lens or other device. Practically speaking, the provisions of the bill can be readily met by any one of half a dozen different methods. The new cars now being put out are almost universally equipped with lamps answering these requirements, as these provisions are being adopted generally throughout the Eastern States. In cases of older cars the installation of special reflectors, lenses, deflectors, and, in many instances, the mere tipping forward of the lamps, will bring them within the specifications provided by the bill.

Trailers are required to display tail lights, and, further, whenever a load is carried behind a motor vehicle which extends more than four feet beyond its bed, a red light must be exhibited at night at the extreme end of the load, and in the daytime a red flag or cloth shall be displayed.

NO ROAD RACES.

A radical alteration proposed to be made in the present law, being one which responds to an almost universal demand, is the abolition of the right of local authorities to give permits for road racing or speed tests over the highways, thus leaving the whole matter of speed upon the public highways subject to the general provisions of the law.

Provisions applicable uniformly in all cities and towns relating to the overtaking of street cars and interurban cars while they are discharging or taking on passengers, together with uniform safety zone provisions and provisions relative to stopping vehicles or animals within fifteen feet of public fire hydrant, are all included in the bill.

The nuisance of camping over night on public highways and repairing automobiles on the roadway is proposed to be abolished. It is also made unlawful to permit cattle to stray upon the highway or to tether live stock in such a manner that the tether may lie across the road. Herds of live stock in numbers exceeding twenty-five are prohibited from being driven upon the highway, excepting upon permit of the State Highway Commission, and the commission in issuing such permits may insert special conditions as to the time of the passage of such live stock, as well as such other restrictions as may be proper in individual cases. This provision will meet with approval from all motorists who have ever encountered droves of frightened cattle upon mountain roads.

Various ambiguities in the present law, arising from hurried last-minute amendments during the previous session of the Legislature, are removed by the bill. Many matters of construction and interpretation which have been the subject of controversy among judges, district attorneys and public authorities generally, by reason of vague language in the present law, are cleared up.

The bill contains several meritorious amendments to the penal provisions of the present vehicle act. The distinction between taking an automobile without the consent of the owner with intent to steal it, and a taking without such intent, is abolished by declaring that the use of a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner and in his absence shall be unlawful, and shall be punishable by imprisonment from one month in the County Jail up to ten years in State's prison, in the discretion of the court. In this way the punishment can be made to fit the crime in each instance, and the difficulty of proving to a jury that the thief had no intention of returning the stolen car will be obviated. It will be remembered that under the present law the taking of another's car without intent to permanently steal it is merely a low-grade misdemeanor, with a maximum penalty of thirty days.

Again, the present law prohibiting the operation of a vehicle by an intoxicated person has shown itself to be radically defective. Judicial decisions place a construction upon the word "intoxication" which makes it virtually synonymous with a total loss of the faculties. It is common knowledge that even the slightest haze of intoxication may render a person unfit to operate a motor vehicle with safety, and, accordingly, the bill recommends that the definition of the offense be made to suit this condition. It is provided that "no person who is to such extent under the influence of intoxicating liquor that he cannot properly operate or manage a motor or other vehicle, shall operate a motor or other vehicle upon the public highways."

A measure which will doubtless have most excellent results is the provision in the bill empowering the Highway Commission to revoke or suspend an operator's or chauffeur's license, after due hearing. It is provided that the commission shall hold such hearing whenever any person is convicted of violating the intoxication section of the law, or upon the third conviction during any one year for violating the speed regulations of the statute. The commission may also hold such hearings on its own initiative where it appears that an operator is an habitually reckless driver or is for any reason physically or mentally unfit to drive a motor vehicle.

Dozens of additional provisions of varying degrees of importance are included in the bill, but the foregoing are fair illustrations of the constructive and remedial legislation which has been recommended. We cannot guarantee that the bill will pass, even substantially, as a whole, but it is believed that the Legislature recognizes that the bill represents fair-minded and expert opinion upon the subjects to which it relates and that there will be comparatively few changes made in it before adoption.

SPEEDSTERS DUE HERE THIS MONTH.

Telegraphic information from President Harry Stutz of the Stutz Motor Car Company, naming a positive date for the shipment of the new sixteen-valve speedster model, was received by Walter M. Brown, the local Stutz dealer, a few days ago. Mr. Brown immediately got in touch with the railroad representatives and ascertained that if the speedster leaves the factory at the time specified, it should be delivered to him before the end of the month.

The Stutz company has planned to build only 250 speedsters this season, and Brown's allotment is twenty-four. However, a reserve of parts and supplies has been created that will permit of the construction of an additional fifty cars in case of necessity. If these fifty are built Brown will be apportioned eight. Every speedster being built has been ordered by a dealer so that the factory considers its entire output for the year sold in advance. Despite the delayed delivery, Brown says there is no abatement in interest locally in this model.

COUPLE ENJOYS WINTER MOTORING.

Two young and daring motorists have just passed through Los Angeles, after a very strenuous winter trip across the high plateaus of Utah and Nevada.

These young people were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ross of Logan, Utah, who actually said they enjoyed their adventurous trip. Mr. and Mrs. Ross came in their Hudson Super-Six roadster, having left Logan right after New Year's, coming by way of Salt Lake City and over the Midland Trail through Ely, Tonopah, Goldfield and across the White Mountains.

After touring for a month or so over the boulevards of California, they expect to drive back to their Utah home.

TO TEST EYES OF CHAUFFEURS.

The New York Medical Journal suggests that persons who apply for licenses as chauffeurs should be given tests such as railroads demand of candidates for positions as engineers, and that the color blind and those suffering from other specified defective vision should be rejected.

"We are all familiar with the intrepid way in which taxi drivers speed in and out of thoroughfares, grazing pedestrians and vehicles by an eyelash, playing tag with destruction and scarcely heeding even the traffic policeman himself," the Medical Journal says. "When we stop to reflect on the number of street accidents happening every year, does it ever occur to us that perhaps a certain percentage of them is due to defective vision on the part of the drivers?"

Many Accidents.

that it means something? What "can" be done to see that it means something?

No one seems to know. Suggestions have been made, ordinances by the score have been passed, and the police have attempted in vain to prevent the total number of accidents from piling up, but with considerably less than satisfactory results.

Believing that the traffic department head should be able to throw some light on the subject, J. W. R. Grogan was interviewed, and here is what he has to say on the subject of "Safety First:"

"I realize that every man's life is in danger who drives a car. I drive myself and try in every way possible to keep from injuring others and from being injured myself, but I want to tell you that it's no easy task to dodge careless drivers.

GIVE A SIGNAL.

"For instance, many drivers turn out from the curb, where they have parked their car, without giving a signal. They merely grasp the steering wheel, step on the throttle, and away they go at a sharp angle. Now, if cars are coming along that side of the street and their drivers have not been warned that a car is about to shoot into line, they are going to pile into the car whose driver failed to stick out his hand.

"Another careless habit which frequently results in accidents, broken bones and death, is that of driving too close to the car ahead of you, while your machine and the one ahead are going twenty or thirty miles an hour. If you do that, and the fellow ahead of you has to put on the emergency brakes, you are going to pile into his machine. And if some other fellow is too close to your machine he is going to pile into you, too. Just watch a line of cars on any of the boulevards and you will see some of them running five or ten feet apart, whereas they should be at least fifty feet apart, if going at any speed.

FAST DRIVERS.

"Then, there's the fellow who shoots over the crossings at thirty miles an hour. He's one of the most dangerous drivers we have to deal with. At that speed, if anyone is coming from the right or left, even slowly, there is going to be a smash-up, and when two of these fast-crossing drivers come together it's likely the undertaker will have a job.

"At street intersections where two street car lines cross it is always advisable to go slow. If a street car is standing on the south side of a crossing, headed north, and you are coming from the west, how do you know but what an auto, on the east side of the street car, which you cannot see, is going to try to dodge across before the street car starts. If it does, and you are going faster than ten or fifteen miles an hour, there's an excellent chance that you will pile into the other car.

DRIVE SLOWLY.

"When driving along in the downtown district, or anywhere else where a line of cars is parked at the curb, it's always best to drive slow, and to keep your eyes open, even then, for a child or a grown person is liable to dodge out from between the cars, directly in front of your machine.

"Cutting corners is another dangerous habit, and one which sends scores to the hospital every week. Every driver knows where the turn should be made, and knows why ordinances have been passed to compel motorists to observe the rule, but in spite of this many cut the corners, and thereby add to the number of accidents.

"Stealing the right of way is another bad habit. It may be aggravating to have to drive slowly for a block or two and stay in line, but it's a whole lot better than to take the chances of killing some one by turning out and speeding past half a dozen other autos.

TRUCK RULES.

"Slow-moving vehicles, such as trucks, should always stay close to the curb, so that automobiles can pass to the left and go by if the drivers are in a hurry. Frequently drivers of trucks get in the middle of the street and stay there, and this compels drivers of machines to pass them on the right, which is unlawful.

"Some jitney drivers and some who drive their own pleasure cars think nothing of speeding up and passing a street car on the left. This practice is dangerous, and everyone who does this should be arrested.

"Looking at the situation as a whole, it's much easier to point out the dangers than it is to get laws passed and enforced.

"Personally, I would like to see laws passed which would result in a stiff fine for the first, and possibly the second offense, and for the third the cancelling of the driver's license. Take a man's car away from him, or make it impossible for him to drive a car unless he abides by the ordinances and State laws, and you've got him where you want him. He'll be good if he knows that to ignore the laws means losing his privilege of driving a car, whereas a fine or even a jail sentence might not stop him.

"I am strong for any drastic measure that is founded on justice and enforced without fear or favor, which will safeguard the public and put an end to careless driving and speeding."

Women drivers are becoming as common on taxicabs and light delivery wagons in London as in Paris.

CHIEF OF POLICE WOULD REVOKE AUTO LICENSES.

BY JOHN L. BUTLER,
Chief of Police of Los Angeles.

IF A LAW that is now ready for the consideration of the State Legislature goes through, the reckless driver and the speed demon will soon be a thing of the past. This law, briefly stated, provides that a judge before whom an offender is brought may, at his discretion, revoke his license, either temporarily or permanently.

An attempt has been made to get a law through providing that only the State commission be empowered to revoke licenses, but I believe the local judges should have this power, and if the driver who loses his license believes he has been wrongly accused he can then appeal to the State commission.

A careful examination of the records will show that about 40 per cent. of the drivers arrested in Los Angeles get suspended sentences. This encourages them in taking chances. Another thing which has had a bad effect has been the reduction of the minimum fine from $25 to $5. Originally the minimum was $25, but the Police Court judges went before the City Council and, on the plea that it would be better to reduce the amount and leave it to the discretion of the court how much should be imposed, the reduction was made.

If a driver, who cannot afford to pay a $5 fine, or any fine, runs down and injures or kills a person, there is no redress. Small fines, suspended sentences, and leniency by the court in general, have a tendency to encourage reckless driving.

In Chicago, out of 278 arrests, 214 were fined a total of $9985, an average of $47 each. If such fines were imposed here, with the next offense meaning the revocation of their license, Los Angeles speed-fiend motorists would soon wake up and realize they had to obey the laws.

Easy Money.

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS FOR A CATCHY SLOGAN.

HERE is a way to earn an extra $100 and cut down the high cost of living. At least, that is the idea of Roy R. Meads, of the Pacific Rubber company, who is willing to pay that amount of money for a slogan.

Here is the idea. The Pacific Rubber company wants a slogan which will characterize the high quality of Racine horseshoe tires. According to Mr. Meads the Horseshoe tires are so constructed that they have a "super-wearing" quality and are entitled to the best slogan which can be developed in Southern California. They are willing to pay $100 for this slogan, the first prize being $50 in gold, or its equivalent in tires of plain tread, non-skid or cord quality. The second prize, $30 in gold, or tires of that value, and the third prize $20 in gold or its equivalent in tires. Contest to end March 1.

The terms connected with this contest are so simple, there being no consideration of any kind required of contestants to enter, that they will interest everyone in the family from the youngest to the oldest. It is largely a question of sharp wits, and as the high school students of Los Angeles are noted for their shrewdness, Mr. Meads expects to get thousands of slogan suggestions from the student body of this city. So here is a way, you boys and girls, to help pay for your education this year.

Then, too, for the wife at home, the invalid, or the business man, it offers a diversion after the day's cares are over.

If you enter this contest, simply write the slogan on a slip of paper two inches wide by four inches long, nothing else to go on that particular slip. Then take another strip of plain paper of the same size and write your name, address and telephone number, putting this strip in a plain envelope marked, "Slogan Contest," and seal it tight.

The third operation is to put the slogan slip and the envelope containing your address both in a plain envelope and mail it to the Pacific Rubber Company, No. 432 West Pico street, Los Angeles.

According to Mr. Meads, as soon as the envelope is received, a number will be assigned to your slogan slip, and the same number will be marked on your sealed "address envelope" which will be kept without opening until the winning slogan is decided upon by the judges. These judges will be five prominent business men of Los Angeles, and, in order that the awarding of the prize shall be absolutely fair and impartial and without knowledge as to the author of the slogan, the envelopes will all remain sealed until the slogans have been passed upon by these five judges.

A slogan, to be effective, should be short—preferably three words or less—must have "punch" and be expressive of character, as well as forceful.

There need be no limit to the number of slogans you send in, and each will be given full consideration. In case of a tie, duplicate prizes will be awarded tying contestants.

The contest opens tomorrow, so get busy and send in your slogans quickly.

FORTY THOUSAND MILES IN A FORD.

A few months ago W. D. Dunham, the Ford agent on West Seventh street, sold a Ford to a party who was keeping his car in his service station, and after a week or two missed the car and lost all trace of it.

Because Mr. Dunham had seen so much of this party he thought it was strange that the man never drove in or showed up, but finally forgot all about him. Recently, coming in to his garage one day this week he saw a car standing there which he thought he recognized because of the number of appliances which had been installed by one of his men.

It turned out that the Ford owner had left suddenly on a long trip and during his absence had not only crossed the continent to New York, but had traveled to nearly every part of the country, piling up a mileage of close to 40,000 miles without having any repair work of any kind done on the car.

DO NOT DRIVE TOO CLOSE TO CAR AHEAD, SAYS DEALER.

BY P. H. GREER,
President Greer-Robbins Company.

THERE is always an element of danger when driving any automobile in any city where congestion of traffic is as common as it is in Los Angeles. It is a fact that automobile dealers are deeply concerned in the idea of safety. It is to this end that automobile manufacturers have gone to extreme lengths in an effort to devise all manner of control mechanisms that will reduce the possibility of danger to the lowest minimum.

Three things are paramount—brakes that will hold, motor flexibility that will throttle down to the slowest pace and acceleration that will carry a car past impending collision. In these directions, automobile construction has almost reached perfection.

There is a tendency on the part of many drivers to keep as close to the preceding car as possible. Right here is an element of grave danger. With but three or four feet intervening between two moving cars, the quick application of the brakes on the front car will in most instances resolve itself into a rear-end impact that will create more or less damage. Drivers are constantly called upon to stop almost instantly. Hence, the necessity of dependable brakes. Likewise, a quick getaway is a daily occurrence and acceleration is important. Also, the ability to slow down to a snail's gait.

Brakes are the keynote to automobile driving safety. Those who exercise the greatest caution know this and prefer to linger a little further behind a preceding car rather than be required to depend upon brakes.

DEALER ADVISES ALL BUYERS TO OBSERVE TRAFFIC RULES.

"IGNORANCE of the 'rules of the road' and often impatience, are responsible for many of the automobile accidents that occur in Los Angeles as well as elsewhere," said Froman Speers of Bekins-Speers Motor Company, distributors in Southern California for the Haynes and the Grant automobiles.

"There are undoubtedly many accidents brought about by drivers who have but little knowledge of the car they are driving and who, in a tight pinch, lose their heads. Again, expert drivers in an attempt to gain time and get out of a jam of vehicles, will take a chance and openly violate existing traffic rules. All of this, of course, is open to censure.

"Everyone who drives a car in the streets of Los Angeles should have a knowledge of the city's traffic rules and everyone who willfully violates these rules should be made to pay a fine in accordance with the city's ordinances. Knowledge of these rules and the fact that the fines will be imposed in all cases of violation, will, in my opinion, reduce materially the number of accidents.

"Those who purchase cars of us are advised by our instructors of the 'rules of the road' and of the requirements of the traffic rules."

SOME CARS ARE REAL AID IN SAFETY FIRST MOVEMENT.

ATTENTION to little details, which make for "safety first," is one of the points watched out for by Dodge Bros. of Detroit, in building the car which bears their name.

"A Dodge Bros. motor car," said Harold L. Arnold, distributor of that make of machine in Southern California, "is easily distinguished by the six narrow-peaked windows in the back of the top on those cars.

"We have been asked why Dodge Bros. put such narrow windows in the drop curtain of the top. One of the reasons is to break up the glare of lights from a car following a Dodge Bros. car at night.

"The glare from the headlights of the following machine at night, reflected from a vertical windshield, almost blinds the driver of the car from seeing the road or any obstruction that might be on the road in front of him.

"That was the case when J. H. Wilkinson, a contractor of Pomona, recently ran into Miss Florence M. Woodhead, who had stepped out of her Hudson Super-Six near Ontario recently. Miss Woodhead was so seriously injured that last week Superior Judge Works granted her a judgment of $1500 against Wilkinson for damages caused by the accident.

"Had Wilkinson been driving a Dodge Bros. motor car, with the six narrow windows and the drop curtain at the top, the light from the following machine would have been so broken up that it would not have blinded him. On the other hand, had Wilkinson been driving a Super-Six, with the standard windshield, even though the top was not up at all, the light would not have been reflected in his eyes and the accident could not have been caused. In either case, Wilkinson would have been saved a judgment of $1500 which, in the one case, would nearly have paid for the Hudson Super-Six, and in the other case, would have completely purchased a Dodge Bros motor car and given him a nice sum of money besides."

Motor car owners of the District of Huntington, Quebec, have formed the Huntington Automobile and Good Roads Association. They expect to enroll 300 before the coming season.

Don't Buy A One-Year Car

AVOID a car built by a company whose reputation and standing has not stood the test of time. Avoid a car whose design embodies new, untried ideas. Avoid a car that has freakish lines. Avoid a car that cannot show you above all; a clean record for durability, ample speed, surplus power and comfortable riding.

The Auburn Model 6-39, 1917 car is not a one-year car. It is built by a company with a record of 18 years of successful manufacturing—a company financially and morally responsible.

Auburn
The Most for the Money

Light Six—$1285 Here

Auburn cars have never been freakish, either in design or appearance. The chassis construction is a marvel much sought for, but attained by few organizations.

"Draft-horse power—with race-horse get-away and speed" is the way one Auburn owner describes the new Auburn. You can sit at the wheel and move from a walk to express speed without changing gears. Its hill climbing ability will be a surprise and joy.

Read the Auburn specifications. Then compare them with those of cars costing several hundred dollars more. Keep this fact in mind—when you buy an Auburn car you buy a many year car—a car that will give you the same lasting and reliable service that thousands of Auburn users are enjoying today. A telephone call will bring a demonstrator to your door.

How Timken Axles Were Tested for the

Velie

TIMKEN AXLES have come to be considered the best axles made today.

THE best cars are using them!

BUT before it was decided to use Timken axles on the Velie they must be proved superior—reputation and hearsay evidence were not enough.

SO a test was made.

SOME axles will break when they are bent, cold, to a right angle.

EVEN some of the best cannot be bent double, cold, without cracks or fracture.

BUT to prove that Timken axles are worthy of being used on the Velie a number of stock Timken axles were twisted, then bent double, cold, and straightened out again, without the sign of a break at any point!

THE quality was there — also safety for the motorist.

SO you will find Timken Axles, both front and rear, on the Velie "Biltwel" Six.

EVERY other part of the Velie measures up, in quality, to its Timken Axles.

CONTINENTAL Motor, Remy ignition, real leather upholstery, body finish twenty operations deep — and a hundred other high-class features.

IT is no wonder many people expect the price to be $2000.

BUT enormous buying power and quantity production have held it down to $1135 at factory

A busy Los Angeles factory.
This is a scene at the Los Angeles Trailer Company's factory, where thirteen different types of two-wheel trailers, with capacities varying from 600 pounds to 3000 pounds, are turned out, and four-wheel trailers with capacities of from 3000 to 12,000 pounds. These Los Angeles-made trailers are now being used all over the United States and in several foreign countries. They are in quite general use in almost every State west of the Mississippi.

IT WAS one thing to conceive an idea of trailers, but quite a different problem to put this idea into successful practice.

An exhaustive investigation of so-called trailers that were little more than stout wagons soon proved their inability to stand up under the strain of automobile usage, and demonstrated many engineering weaknesses. Past theories and practices were discarded, and two and four-wheel trailers of all-steel construction were manufactured for the sole purpose of carrying loads at a high rate of speed behind motor cars and trucks. This accomplished in "utility" trailers is responsible for the rapid growth of the Los Angeles Trailer Company.

Two years ago J. N. Patterson, now president and sales manager of the Los Angeles Trailer Company, and G. A. Norton, the company's engineer, rented a small storeroom on East Washington street and started to manufacture trailers. They had little machinery and brought little of the wealth of Detroit with them, but they had the determination to construct a properly-balanced trailer which would stand the rough usage given equipment handled at motor speed.

They accomplished this by building a trailer along motor truck lines, which has stood the acid test without a single important mishap, and which does not injure in any way the light automobile or heavy truck which furnishes the motive power.

There are 100 different lines of business which have adopted trailers, which materially assist in their hauling problem, and special models were built to meet their requirements. The Los Angeles Trailer Company grew rapidly. It was soon proven that a properly-constructed trailer would materially reduce hauling costs.

After changing their location several times, necessitated by the ever-growing business, each time into larger quarters, the Los Angeles Trailer Company, now incorporated, located in a real factory building. With additional space, additional capital was needed. E. W. Bennett, a member of the Bennett Lumber Company of Phoenix, Ariz., was induced to become part of the organization and take the general management of the company.

REDUCE COST.

"In what ways do trailers reduce hauling cost?" was a question recently asked Mr. Bennett.

"It is all a question of carrying power and pulling power," he replied. "Carrying power utilized alone means waste. Utilizing pulling power as well means economy and full efficiency. This is a practice which is being realized more and more and has materially reduced hauling costs.

"What would you think of a railroad that simply carried as much freight as could be loaded on the locomotive itself, instead of using gondolas and box cars? The motor trucks are our road locomotives of today.

DRAW BAR PULL.

"The motor truck dealers throughout the country are realizing this fact and are advocating properly-constructed trailers, operated in connection with their trucks. Draw bar pull moves the world's goods. The efficiency of any hauling outfit is in proportion to its ability to deliver material cheaply."

The Los Angeles Trailer Company at the present time manufactures thirteen different types of two-wheel trailers, with capacities ranging from 600 pounds to one and one-half tons, and four-wheel trailers with capacities from one and one-half tons to six tons. Los Angeles-made trailers are now operating in several foreign countries and are in quite general use in almost every State west of the Mississippi.

ASK INTERSTATE LAW.

Representative W. C. Adamson of Georgia—author of the eight-hour railroad law—has drafted a bill which he will introduce at this session of Congress on the problem of interstate touring. The object is to get an interstate motor car law.

BAY CITY NEWSPAPERS TAKE A WHACK AT [illegible]

Because Metropolis of Coast Made Bid for [illegible] Auto Show San Francisco Makes Light of [illegible] Northern City Pictured as a Battery, Full of [illegible] and Los Angeles as "Exhaust Hole."

A CAMPAIGN of vilification against Los Angeles as an automobile center and against the suggestion that the proposed Pacific Coast National Automobile Show be held here, has recently been waged by the San Francisco newspapers. It was Ralph Hamlin, the Franklin and Scripps-Booth distributor in Southern California, who first suggested the possibility of Los Angeles being chosen as the place for holding the Coast show. He did this without any thought of this city appearing as a rival of San Francisco. In view of subsequent developments, Mr. Hamlin has given out the following statement:

"The attitude assumed by the San Francisco press is hard to understand. The papers there seems to be trying to capitalize on the fact that, when in the East attending the New York show, I learned about the prospect for a national show on the Coast and immediately started plugging to have Los Angeles selected as the city. I did not know then that San Francisco wanted the show. In order to stimulate attendance, the San Francisco papers filled their columns with show dope and claimed that the city was being put to the test; that if there was not an enormous attendance the impression would go East that San Francisco could not support a national show and Los Angeles might be the favored city.

DIFFERENT HERE.

"I am glad that the Los Angeles papers never have found it necessary when promoting the interests of the motor car in this city to do so by knocking another city or by making odious comparisons. We might cite a few statistics to show the proportionate number of automobiles per capita in use here as in other cities; the liberality this city and county have shown in supporting expositions and other enterprises that were not held here and other facts, but that would be adopting the tactics of others.

MORE MAXWELLS IN MICHIGA[illegible] THAN IN ANY OTHER STA[illegible]

PROPHETS may sometimes be without honor in their own country, but from a report received by the Lord Motor Car Company yesterday it would seem that the Maxwell automobile enjoys a greater sale in its home State of Michigan, where so many thousands of other low-priced automobiles are made, than in any other section of the United States.

Southern California, where people believe in getting out into the great outdoors, and where nearly everybody has an automobile, comes second in the number of Maxwell owners, the Lord Motor Car Company having sold more Maxwell cars during the past year in Southern California than any Maxwell dealer in the United States, with the single exception of the dealer in Detroit, whose territory is the State of Michigan.

"While the Maxwell has always enjoyed an immense popularity in its home State the sales almost doubled this season after the record run of a stock Maxwell had been made across Michigan and back to Detroit in nine hours," said L. P. Clark, sales manager of the Lord Motor Car Company, yesterday.

90% of the Total output of the Moreland Motor Truck Company Factory is sold for service WEST of the Rocky Mountains.

Contrast this with the fact that 90% of the output of Eastern Motor Truck Factories is sold for service EAST of the Rockies.

Doesn't it stand to reason that any sane manufacturer is going to build his trucks to meet the conditions which dominate in the territory where he sells 90% of his output?

Pacific Coast road extremes, climatic extremes and altitude extremes demand specialized construction in a motor truck.

Which truck are you going to buy, the one that is built for Western Conditions or one that is built for Eastern Conditions?

It's easy to get at.

Just try, some time, when you haven't anything else to do, and see how long it takes to remove a piston from your motor. Unless it's a Stearns-Knight, the chances are it will take an hour, at least, and possibly several hours. But if it's a Stearns, and you know how, it can be removed in twenty minutes. That's exactly the length of time it took the mechanic to remove the piston shown. Accessibility is one of the talking points of the Stearns.

This, of course makes it necessary to use a great deal of strength in turning the wheels to right or left, but in the Premier the use of the aluminum motor has meant the reduction in weight of over 255 pounds on the front wheels. Just think how much extra strength is saved since this burden has been lifted. Also, by a cunningly-arranged narrowness of the Premier the eight-inch frame in front of the turning radius of the car has been greatly reduced and it is little short of marvelous to realize that a car with a 135-inch wheel base can be completely turned around in a circle twenty-nine feet in diameter. You can readily appreciate what this means in a year's use of a car.

"As one of our salesmen aptly expressed himself: 'The Premier is the lightest-footed six-inch I have ever driven,' and his experience has extended over all the well-known makes of cars. It has a startling get-away—not the kind that fairly jerks your head off—but the kind that makes you feel the force of a steady pull or the sudden change from an up-hill grade to that of a drop down a steep incline. If you have ever ridden on a roller coaster and felt the sensation of the first sudden drop, you know what to reasonably expect from the Premier in a sudden get-away, when necessary."

TRUCK HAULS LOAD OF THREE TONS.

Remarkable performances are attributed to Smith trucks that are in use in the orange belt, in reports received by W. O. Gates, manager of the local branch of the Smith Form-a-Truck Company. Mr. Gates took a trip around the Kite last week. At Redlands and saw a Smith truck deliver to Lyon & Sons' packing-house ninety-two boxes of oranges in one load. The total weight on the chassis, including the eight-in-one farm body and three passengers, was 5995 pounds. On another trip this same truck transported to the packing-house fifty boxes of oranges and pulled a trailer with seventy more boxes.

"The eight-in-one farm body is gaining in favor in Southern California," said Mr. Gates. "It was designed especially for farm use and the Smith truck people are the only ones putting it out. It takes is name from the fact that it is easily convertible into eight different shapes, and the only tool necessary is a wrench to tighten the bolts."

BIG ORDER STORIES ARE NOT FICTION.

A wire just received from Louis Lichtenberger, president of the Lichtenberger-Ferguson Company, who is making a two weeks' visit at the Norwalk tire factory in Connecticut, states that the factory at present has standing orders which call for twice the present output. He says this is not mere fiction, but is an absolute fact, backed up by actual orders now entered on the books.

Several months ago the Norwalk factory was enlarged and new buildings added, but the demand, it is stated, has grown with such leaps and bounds that it will be necessary to immediately enlarge the facilities.

"THE CALL OF THE WILD" IS KEYNOTE OF UNIQUE SHOW

"THE Call of the Wild" and how to respond to it in modern physical comfort, safety, speed and certainty. This is the keynote of a unique exhibition of new-model automobiles, accessories and camping-out equipment in a setting of outdoor life in California, amid babbling brooks and the forest primeval, at the Studebaker place on Grand avenue, for the ten remaining days of February.

"Civilization itself," says the retail manager, Paul G. Hoffman, "is a process of evolution away from the face of nature and back again. We make a start in life with the croaking of frogs and the song of the birds in our ears for a few brief years, make progress along a thousand ways to skyscrapers and cabarets, and then, about the time we have accumulated the price of a few chattels, with a home and fireside in that wilderness of civilization which is the modern great city, we begin to dream of the healing balm of the great silent places, where birds and bees, babbling brooks and towering trees, fill the hours with a joyous life that knows absolutely nothing of 'that festering up of the clod'' which is the rush and roar of modern civilization.

"And so it is that in California, where 'the cares that infest the day' sit more lightly than in other lands, and where life in the great out of doors it at its best, some 230,000 automobiles are this day carrying more than 1,000,000 people from fifteen to forty miles per hour over the matchless highways of the most traveled State in the world.

"We have striven to bring into our annual automobile show this year a touch of the wild a little more vivid than anything heretofore undertaken in Los Angeles, and the enthusiasm with which it is being greeted by the general public is indeed gratifying. The show will be open evenings throughout the week.

Lots of Skidding.

ITALY BARS CHAINS TO PROTECT ROADS.

RECENTLY, J. A. Trowbridge, who has extensive interests in Stockholm, Sweden, called upon the manager of the Keaton Tire and Rubber Company, and during the course of his conversation imparted some very interesting information regarding touring conditions in some parts of Europe. He stated that in Italy the use of non-skid chains on tires was barred by the government, on account of the damage they caused to the roads. Mr. Trowbridge stated that the Italian government apparently did not own any road rollers, for when they build new roads they simply dump a bunch of rock about the size of an ordinary egg on the road, and depend upon the traffic to roll it down.

You can well imagine what expense it must be to operate an automobile over such roads, and the motorists of that country do not expect much better than 1500 miles out of tires. This, together with gasoline at about a dollar a gallon, makes it practically impossible for any except the very rich to own machines.

To prevent skidding, inasmuch as chains are barred, they are in the habit of using steel studded tires which help some, but are not very resilient, and have never proven to be very popular in this country.

"Mr. Trowbridge was very much interested when we informed him that we could furnish him a non-skid tire, and he would not have to use either chains, or steel studded tires, a few of which he had imported; and when his cars arrived we had the pleasure of equipping one of them with Keaton non-skids—the other being equipped with a leather covered steel studded tire," said the manager of the Keaton Company.

DEALERS WHO HAVE CARS ON HAND ARE FORTUNATE.

THE motor car dealer who can make immediate delivery is to be regarded as fortunate, and H. C. McVey says he is pleased to be classed among those who have cause for rejoicing, inasmuch as recent shipments have brought him a complete line of National cars. It makes no difference to McVey whether the buyer prefers a six or twelve-cylinder type, touring car, cloverleaf roadster or touring sedan, he can fill the bill. It is the first time since securing the agency that he has been in this position. The sedan was the latest arrival. It is the exact counterpart of the car owned by Miss Grace Cunard, who was the first person in California to obtain this model.

"The automobile industry can be traced through a period of annual development," said Mr. McVey. "Each season has marked some change or important improvement. Sometimes these have been mechanical and other times they have represented new body styles.

"It was in 1911 that the foredoor touring car came into vogue. This was a distinct advancement. The year following, electric lights and starter were the big sensation. The next year was noted for the left drive center control and cowl dash. In 1914 six-cylinder cars came into general popularity, although National started building a six in 1905. In 1915 the eight-cylinder car appeared, and the year following the twelve-cylinder took the leadership. For 1917 the touring sedan body will have the call, and I expect to see this type of body dominate the entire field."

Clear Skies.

EVEN WAR WOULD FAIL TO STOP TRUCK SALES.

THAT business in general, and that the motor truck business in particular, would not be materially affected should the United States become engaged in actual hostilities with Germany, is the opinion of Walter Calvert Fertig, general sales manager for the United Motors Company, California distributors of the Ford truck, Olson equipped.

"The motor truck has now become an absolute essential in many lines of business," said Fertig. "It has been shown in countless instances that a motor truck of proven worth is a more economical means of transportation than the old horse-drawn delivery wagon. The late Marshall Field once said, 'Profit or loss is frequently determined by the cost of delivery.' We feel that the continued sales of the Ford truck, Olson equipped, are practically assured for an indefinite period, even in the face of the disturbed conditions which a prolonged war might possibly produce.

"The Economic Gas Company of this city recently purchased a fleet of these trucks, having put them into operation during the past week."

Stearns
STARTED HERE, FRONT WHEELS IN GUTTER
BEAUDRY
HALF WAY UP SECOND GRADE ON HIGH!

What Other Car Can Match Stearns?

There is a steep hill with two grades in back of the Sisters' Hospital called N. Beaudry Ave. Coming out of the hospital's rear court-yard (which faces this hill,) there is a deep storm drain gutter.

A new eight-cylinder Stearns touring car, which has been driven less than One Hundred Eighty-six Miles, of 32.6 H. P. with a 4¼ to 1 stock rear axle, started up the hill on high with the front wheels in this storm-drain gutter. Four passengers were carried.

The Stearns went up and over the first grade and half way up the second grade—on high gear.

To the best of our belief and knowledge, no other car with stock gear ratios and four passengers, but a Stearns can duplicate this performance.

Those familiar with the Stearns-Knight know its ability to eclipse, in Performance for instance, any other make of car.

Dear Sir:—

In looking over our record for the past eight months of the cost of upkeep on the Vim truck which we purchased from you, we are very much pleased to note the general low maintenance cost of this car.

The truck has been in continuous service since the first day we bought it and apparently should continue for a long time to come.

On account of the general growth of our business this truck, along with our other equipment, has been taxed to it's capacity many times and any piece of machinery which will stand up to a practically continuous service under such heavy duty is worthy of mention, and it is needless to say that we are well pleased with our purchase.

Yours very truly,

Under the following CONDITIONS

WE want a Slogan and are willing to pay $100 for it.

IT is easy money for easy work.

IF your wits are sharp enough to think of a short, snappy Slogan which will characterize the High Quality of Racine Horseshoe Tires (the Super-Tire of Motordom) you will get first prize, $50 in gold, or its equivalent in plain-tread, non-skid, or Horseshoe Cord Tires.

EVEN if your Slogan should not be the best, it may easily be second choice. The 2nd Prize is $30 gold, or tires to that value. The 3rd Prize, for third best Slogan, is $20.

THE Judges in this Slogan Contest will be five prominent business men of this city. These representative men will decide the winning Slogan. In order that the Judges shall be absolutely fair and impartial, and without knowledge as to the author of the Slogan, the sender shall do as follows:

FIRST: Write the Slogan on a strip of paper two inches wide by four inches long—nothing else on the paper.

SECOND: Take another strip of plain paper, same size, and write your name, address and telephone number. Put this address strip in a plain envelope marked "Slogan Contest" and seal it tight.

THIRD: Put the Slogan slip and the envelope containing your address both in a plain envelope and mail it to the Pacific Rubber Co., 433 West Pico St., Los Angeles.

AS soon as it is received, a number will be assigned to your Slogan slip, and the same number will be marked on your sealed address envelope, which will be kept without opening until the winning Slogan is decided upon by the Judges.—At that time the envelope having a number corresponding to the Slogan will be opened, and the winner notified.

SLOGANS should be short—preferably three words or less—must have "punch"—be expressive of character, and forceful.

Send as many as you please—each will be given equal consideration.

Contest ends March 1.

No consideration of any kind is required to enter this Slogan Contest. In case of ties duplicate prizes will be awarded tying contestants.

Carbon Easily Removed

Many motor faults are caused by deposits of carbon in the cylinders. Usually the carbon is allowed to collect until it is necessary to take the engine down, scrape the cylinder heads and grind the valves. This is expensive and often inconvenient. All that is needed to remove the carbon is an efficient solvent, and in presenting the J. M. Pease Lubricant Carbon Remover we are offering a thoroughly guaranteed product that will positively do the work. You don't have to lay up your car. It works while you sleep. Price $1.00 with money-back guarantee. General Supply Co., 510 Hollingsworth Bldg.

So much Thought has been Expended in the Making of this Car that little Thought is Required in its Operation

The easier a car does its work the easier its driver does his. The moment he begins tusseling with gears, worrying over adjustments and fighting the road, all the fun goes out of driving.

And it's ridiculous for you to accept these hardships without protest.

There is a car on which the gears are shifted by push buttons.

There is a car whose motor is made of aluminum and whose weight is so scientifically distributed that it is almost impossible to throw it off road balance.

There is a car, the construction of which is so simple that it stays tight and free from rattles and squeaks.

There is a car which accepts the roughest going as child's play.

A tractor for orchardists.

The many calls which C. S. Anthony has had from outlying districts for demonstrations of the light "Avery Tractor," for which he is agent, has necessitated his moving it rapidly from place to place and he has been able to do this by loading it on one of his Signal trucks. Avery, which is the lightest tractor made, was designed especially for orchard work and is finding a ready market among the walnut growers who have been waiting for something like this which could be used in and out among the trees. One feature of the which attracts so many, says Mr. Avery, is the fact that it is practically "fool proof," as anyone can drive it, and because it or any low grade of fuel oil.

RECALLS TIME WHEN FEW WOMEN DROVE AUTOMOBILES.

A FEW years ago it was rather an exceptional thing for a woman to drive an automobile, even after they began to be used extensively, and the sight of one driving a car usually caused comment on the woman's courage, ability, etc., but so common has the practice become that one sees just about as many women as men behind the wheel nowadays.

The reason for this, according to a woman who has driven cars for years, Miss Gertrude Strickland, is the greater east with which cars can be handled today, due to their lighter weight and simplicity of construction, and to a very large extent the better condition of roads, which has been a direct result of the growth of the auto industry.

Miss Strickland, who is an all-around athlete, being an expert swimmer, skater, fencer and fancy diver, as well as an expert motorist, delights in the great outdoors. She motored over 10,000 miles last summer, and is planning a much longer and more extensive tour for the coming season.

Having driven many different makes of cars, Miss Strickland says that out of all the makes she prefers the Jeffery Six, after having driven one for a few months, because of the extreme comfort it gives one on long tours, the great amount of power that is constantly at hand ready for any emergency and the extreme ease with which the car can be handled under any and all conditions.

According to F. A. Hartwell, general manager of the Hartwell Motor Company, business has been extremely good for the past few weeks; in fact, ever since they have been in their new and beautiful home on South Flower street, and they consider they have been extremely fortunate in being able to get enough cars to make immediate delivery on all orders.

WOMAN HAS NEW WAY OF IDENTIFYING

THE newest way of identifying automobiles has been discovered by C. F. Smith, of Smith Brothers, Paige distributors. It was not Mr. Smith's discovery originally, but he heard about it and tells how it is done. It is importnt, too, now that automobiles appear is as many changes of dress as are possessed and worn by fashionable people. As this method applies particularly to the Paige, it may supersede even the familiar method of recognition by the characteristic Paige radiator, and the distinctive lines of the streamline body which has caused the car to become familiarly designated by many as "The most beautiful car in America."

"I can always tell a Paige which is coming toward me long before I see the radiator or the name on the car," said the woman who originated this method of identification.

"I recognize the Paige by its movement. No matter who is driving, apparently, whether a man, woman or boy, an old driver or a new one, it always comes toward you in an absolutely

When the Traffic Officer Signals

Some day you may happen to see a Hupmobile held up by a traffic policeman, along with two or three higher priced cars.

Watch what happens when the officer signals.

See which car gets away first.

It will be the Hupmobile, nine times out of ten, if its driver is fully alive to the abilities of his motor.

Why is this?

Because the Hupmobile has been developed to give the results which you may have thought belong only to more costly cars.

For example, the Hupmobile goes from a stand to 25 miles an hour in 10 seconds, if you wish.

Remarkably quick pick-up, you will admit.

In a jam of cars, it slows down—on high gear—to a crawl, and it accelerates—on high gear—without jerking or bucking.

We'll put the Hupmobile over the hurdles for you in demonstration—any stunt you want.

But remember that these are not mere demonstrating tricks.

They make up Hupmobile performance, the same the car gives in ordinary, every-day use.

The demand for these cars has so far exceeded the factory's building schedule that they are at a premium. The few that have been received by the Irving Motor Car Company were sold in advance in almost every instance.

Among those who chose early were Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Sproat of the Bryson apartments. The Sproats came here from Boston with the intention of making only a short stay, but like so many before them, have become so enamored with Southern California that they will make this their permanent home, and to complete the pleasure selected the tourcoupe as best suited to all weather conditions.

Interior equipment of the tourcoupe is as complete as designers can make it. Such refinements as the vanity case, smoking outfit, interior lighting and heating are furnished. The Cole is said to be the only car equipped regularly with the celebrated Perfection floor heater. By the use of this device the waste heat from the exhaust is radiated into the interior of the car, but there is no possibility of any gas or fumes escaping. The customary motor tire pump and electric trouble lamp that are a part of all Cole equipment are included with the tourcoupe.

A distinctive feature is the roomy baggage compartment under the rear deck, which has its access from inside the car. It is both dust and water proof and is entered by removing a section of the back of the rear seat. The operation can be carried on with equal ease whether the car is in motion or at a standstill.

PROMINENT PEOPLE BUY WOODS CARS.

F. I. DU PONT, POWDER KING, NOW OWNS ONE.

Men and Women Who are Known from Coast to Coast Delighted with Two-power Machines—Local Dealer Explains Why Machine is Making Hit.

The first sales of Woods Dual Power cars in some of the leading cities of the country have been made to people of prominence, according to Harry C. Turner, of the Turner-Whitford Company, distributors in California for the Woods product.

In Chicago, R. J. McLaughlin, president of the Illinois Athletic Club, purchased two, one for his wife and one for his own use. Mrs. C. A. Verner of Pittsburgh, Pa., prominent in that city's society and charitable work, was the first buyer there of a Woods two-power car. F. I. Du Pont of the Du Pont Powder Company was the first to appear in Wilmington, Del., driving a Woods. Simon Kruse of Minneapolis, well-known hotel proprietor, was the first Woods owner in the Twin Cities.

Franklin Ritchie of Santa Barbara, well-known actor and film director, took the first delivery of a Woods on the Pacific Coast, with Mrs. S. A. Keeney, wife of a prominent banker of that city, a close second. Mrs. S. A. Crocker of New York and Philadelphia, a winter resident of Santa Barbara, member of a family which for many years furnished the United States government with paper required in the printing of its currency, is also a Woods owner.

"The fact that the Woods Dual Power car has neither gear shift lever nor clutch pedals, and is said to be more evenly driven than the most simple standard electric, evidently makes it a favorite, particularly with the woman who prefers to drive her own car," said Mr. Turner.

Blockade Ended.

CARS, SNOWBOUND IN WYOMING, NOW HERE.

FOUR carloads of Jacksons, that had been held up by the snow blockade in Wyoming, were delivered last week to Charles H. Thompson, distributor in Los Angeles territory for the Jackson. Almost every car had been sold before it was received and another order—this time for two carloads of Jacksons—has been forwarded to the factory.

"I have never seen better prospects in the automobile business in Los Angeles from the dealers' standpoint, than those for 1917," said Thompson. "There is but one thing that seems to be holding the dealer back—and that one thing is the dearth of cars. It may be that the manufacturers in the East have their fingers on the pulse of the business situation, but somehow I feel that they are not enlarging their plants to meet the growing demand for automobiles.

"It may be that the war situation or conditions that will follow the end of the war, colors their view—but so far as I am concerned, I can see nothing but prosperity ahead for this country. It is a certainty that business conditions in Southern California are greatly improved, and every condition would seem to point to continued improvement."

OWEN MAGNETIC

"That's the Car to Buy—the Simplified Car"

- ℭ The Owen Magnetic is the car that the high-grade motor car owner has been wanting.
- ℭ It is the simplified car, embodying in one magnetic unit all the mechanism which heretofore required extra parts and operation by cumbersome self-starting and lighting apparatus, clutch, clutch pedal, fly-wheel, gear shifting and braking.
- ℭ All this makes for efficiency—more mileage for gasoline and tires, longer life for the engine and the entire car.
- ℭ Furthermore, this means far easier and safer driving under all conditions.
- ℭ The Owen Magnetic floats along silently, smoothly, like coasting—as if pulled forward by a huge elastic band.

FRANKLIN TALKS
(NUMBER ONE)
BY RALPH HAMLIN

MR. AUTOMOBILE BUYER:—

Did you ever wonder why your neighbor and hundreds of other FRANKLIN owners continue to drive FRANKLIN cars.

It would pay you to investigate the reasons, and I would like to tell you a few of them.

In the first place the Franklin Automobile Co. at Syracuse, N. Y., is one of the oldest and most reliable automobile factories in the United States. They marketed the first four cylinder car in 1902 and the first six cylinder car in 1905. They have manufactured six cylinder air-cooled cars ever since, perfecting what they originally started.

I have had the pleasure of offering FRANKLIN cars to the Southern California public for twelve consecutive years, and have built up a clientele and a reputation for service that is envied by all my competitors.

In the Franklin we offer you extreme economy of operation on account of light weight and high grade construction, wonderful riding qualities, due to the use of four full elliptic springs and wood chassis frame, low cost of up-keep, doing away with radiator, pump, water jackets, and all the necessary plumbing used on water-cooled cars.

If you will give us an opportunity to show you and prove the above statements, I am satisfied your next car will be a FRANKLIN.

Firestone
GIANT TRUCK TIRES

The First Real Answer to Heavy Hauling Problems

LEADERS for seventeen years, Firestone builders have been first with every important development of the truck tire. And in every step forward in the motor truck industry, Firestone specialists have kept pace, building a tire for every design of commercial vehicle and for every type of service.

With the demand of heavy hauling came a demand for heavier service tires. Dual equipment does not provide an adequate solution. Big loads require big tires.

Firestone has again supplied the answer. The result is the Firestone Giant Truck Tire, the single tire that stands the crush of the heaviest loads, that gives extra wear, greater traction, smoother riding, protection for the truck and comfort for the driver.

This is the tire adopted for the heavy duty truck fleets for these concerns of your city:

The present prices of Chalmers cars are based upon the cost of raw material purchased by the Chalmers Motor Company in June 1915—two years ago. On March 1, the price will be advanced for the reason that Chalmers cars are now being made of material purchased at current prices, greatly in excess of those that prevailed two years ago. The high quality of Chalmers cars, however, is maintained upon the same basis as always in the past. Your purchase before March 1 will represent a saving of no inconsiderable amount.

Try this on your flivver.

If you will take a drive on Vermont avenue, between Wilshire boulevard and Sunset, you will notice a steep embankment at one point—so steep, in fact, that no one can climb it without grasping the grass roots and getting a good toe hold. In fact, part of the "ridge" is so steep it's "straight up." But an Owen Magnetic walked up the other day, as shown in the picture, and did it easily. Then, to prove it wasn't a fluke, the car was driven up six or seven times, with several witnesses looking on. The driver simply drove up to the curb and stopped. Then, turning on a little power, the machine was raised up the embankment until it was almost standing on end. This represents a grade which has been variously estimated to be from 60 to 80 per cent.

IS "ZEBRA" ENTITLED TO TH B. H. DYAS GOLD TROPHY

THE sporting blood of every true motorist in Southern California will be raised at the controversy this week, inaugurated by Forrest Arnold, sales manager for the Briscoe motor car. Is the zealous "Zebra" of the battling Briscoe camp entitled to the B. H. Dyas gold cup trophy?

According to Bob Paulsen of the Dyas company, the cup was not to be contested for before March 1. That is one side of the question. According to Forrest Arnold, he won the cup, when he drove the battling Briscoe into Bear Valley against terrific odds, on January 13, 1917, fighting every inch of the way through hub-deep mud, and with snow up to the radiator cap at times. Taking what is acknowledged by all as the most dangerous drive in Southern California, the "Zebra," with Arnold at the wheel, drove out on the frozen surface of Baldwin Lake and by its very speed successfully crossed the thin ice.

Arnold claims that this great accomplishment entitles him, without question, to the Bear Valley gold cup because of the statement in the Los Angeles papers of February 4, 1917, wherein the Dyas company stated that they would give the gold cup to the first car that would reach Bear Valley in the 1917 season. As the Briscoe was that first car, it seems to be entitled to the trophy. On the other hand, the conditions later given by Dyas, state that the cup was to be awarded to the car reaching the valley after March 1.

Contending that he is right in the position taken, Arnold is claiming the cup, and it remains to be seen who will be the victor.

In the meantime, thousands of interested motorists, who have followed the "Zebra's" career and have known of its successful trips

LOS ANGELES, Cal., February 17, 1917.

TO THE PUBLIC:

In a Los Angeles daily newspaper of the date of February 4, 1917, B. H. Dyas Company announce that a gold trophy in the form of a loving cup will be presented to the first automobile that enters Bear Valley in 1917.

Inasmuch as the Briscoe 4-24 on January 13, 1917, after an all-day battle with snow and ice, made its way into Bear Valley proper, it should in our opinion be named as the winner of the trophy.

When this wonderful car with its "half-million-dollar motor" went into the valley, the snow in many places was as high as the tops of the car's wheels. Not only was the snow deep, but its frozen crust that held the weight of men, made the battle one that tested the sterling qualities of the car and its crew. In the opinion of the oldest residents of the resort, the feat accomplished as it was in the dead of winter, was one never before heard of.

THE coming spring should make motor history in Southern California. Bob Paulsen of the B. H. Dyas Company announces that his company has presented two gold trophies to the motorists of Southern California. One for the first car to reach Big Bear Valley in the 1917 season, and the other for the first car owned in Southern California to reach the floor of the Yosemite Valley.

AMONG THE FANS.

Joseph Collins of Akron, Ohio, won the championship of that State in a tournament held in Akron, January 2. Goldsmith of Columbus, the "runner up," was defeated by Collins by the score of 2 to 0 and 8 draws. H. O. Newcomb, who held the championship for five years, was defeated in the semi-finals by both Collins and Goldsmith.

Last Sunday we had the pleasure of calling on Julius D'Orio at his home in Highgrove, and found him and his wife in deep study, trying to figure out the most profitable way to invest their surplus money, which is piling up on them so fast that some disposition will have to be made of it or their house enlarged. Julius has just finished fitting up a poolroom in connection with his barber shop, cigar stand, and candy store. Julius's many friends in the East will no doubt be pleased to learn that he is gaining in both health and wealth in his California home.

On our way home from D'Orio's we could not resist the temptation to stop at Upland and see our "Old College Chum," Joe Reyburn. Joe was attempting to milk a cow that did not appreciate his efforts, and the language Joe used would not look well in print, although we have heard our pastor use the same words from the pulpit, only they were "arranged differently." After this task was finished, Joe insisted that he had something new on the "Defiance" and that I would have to play him a few games or proceed on my journey without exercising my muscles which aid in mastication. Needless to say we played and, after four games, Joe was in such a good humor that he was willing to "kill the fatted calf," if necessary, to appease our appetite.

I. P. Teel won the State championship of Maine in a tournament recently held at Portland, Me. Mr. Teel was also the winner of the last tournament.

One afternoon, after the conclusion of his checker match with Jordan, I had the pleasure of contesting four games of chess with Banks, who is also a formidable exponent of the more complicated game. The first of these is given below, it showing fairly accurate play, especially in view of the fact that it was not played with any great deliberation, the four games consuming less than three hours' time.

a—This and 2. P-Q3 are the usual moves. I recently sent the B. C. M. an analysis of 2—P-B4 and if 2—P-Q3, 2—P-K3, 2—P-B3 and 2—QB3 are also playable.
b—P-K3, so as to recapture Pawn with Bishop, is better.
c—With the object of taking Knight and isolating White's Rook Pawn.
d—Very good and secures the draw. P-R3 or R-R2 instead would have left him with the inferior game.

SALT LAKE CITY TO HAVE SPEEDWAY.

An automobile speedway is being planned for Salt Lake City. It will be built on the Bamberger tract, immediately north of Beck's Hot Springs, costing $200,000. The Salt Lake Speedway Association has filed articles of association.

It proposes building a two-mile board track fifty feet wide on the straightaway and seventy-five feet wide on banked turns. Seating capacity will be for 30,000. The speedway is expected to be finished by September 1.

HERE'S A WAY TO KEEP HANDS CLEAN.

If your hands receive some stain from tinkering you will find these suggestions helpful. When available fruits are good. They not only cleanse, but beautify. Tomatoes, strawberries, watemelon, cucumbers and lemons—doubtless the list could be even longer. Olive oil can beautify your hands also through application every night. Care must be taken in its selection, too, as the impure olive oil will darken the skin and produce hairs. Hot milk also is used.

Never Stop.

PLANTS WORKING DAY AND NIGHT IN EAST.

"PEOPLE back East are too busy making money to more than give passing thought to the German break," declares J. E. Brown, Los Angeles manager for the Don Lee organization, who has returned from a trip to the Chicago show and the Cadillac factory at Detroit.

"That there was a possibility that the government, in event of hostilities, might take over some of the automobile plants for the manufacturing of torpedo boats, airplanes and other war material, is sometimes broached in the East," said Brown. "Outside of that, however, business continues with an increasing rush," he stated.

DAY AND NIGHT.

Automobile plants in Detroit are being operated day and night and outside of the Cadillac factory there seems to be none that is anywhere near keeping up with current orders.

The Chicago show was the equal of the one held in New York, according to those who attended both, while in Brown's opinion the San Francisco show was easily the leader of the three exhibits. Phil Merrell, who attracted so many at the Los Angeles show with his lectures on the Cadillac chassis, lectured at New York and Chicago and he was constantly surrounded by crowds.

"The 1917 automobile business will break all records, in the opinion of the leading car manufacturers," said Brown. "There seems to be no fear that hostilities or even conditions following the end of the war, will cause a lull in business. Instead, a continued increase is looked for.

"Plants operating at capacity are either making extensions or are planning them. There is plenty of money for sound investment and it seems easy to secure. As a result of this condition I believe things are looking much better in Southern California and on the Coast.

"The tourist business is great and I look for much heavier travel until early spring. I personally heard several say they were coming to Southern California to spend March and part of April."

After the Chicago show, Brown attended a meeting and banquet of the Cadillac "old guard," composed of dealers who have been long associated with the Cadillac organization. Dealers were present from all parts of the United States and Canada.

"I am sorry to say that Don Lee was unable to secure more cars for California. He begged, almost with tears in his eyes, and all that sort of thing, but he might just as well have saved all that emotion," declared Brown.

FUSED SILICA USED IN MAKING ENGINES.

It has been reported that fused silica has been employed in Europe for certain parts of motor engines. The rumor is that cylinder heads have been made of this material, which, of course, has some rather remarkable properties.

Fused silica is somewhat unique in the way of materials, as, although it is glasslike in appearance it is, in reality, very highly refractory, possessing at the same time the lowest known coefficient of expansion.

CARS TAKE PLACE OF HORSES IN PARK.

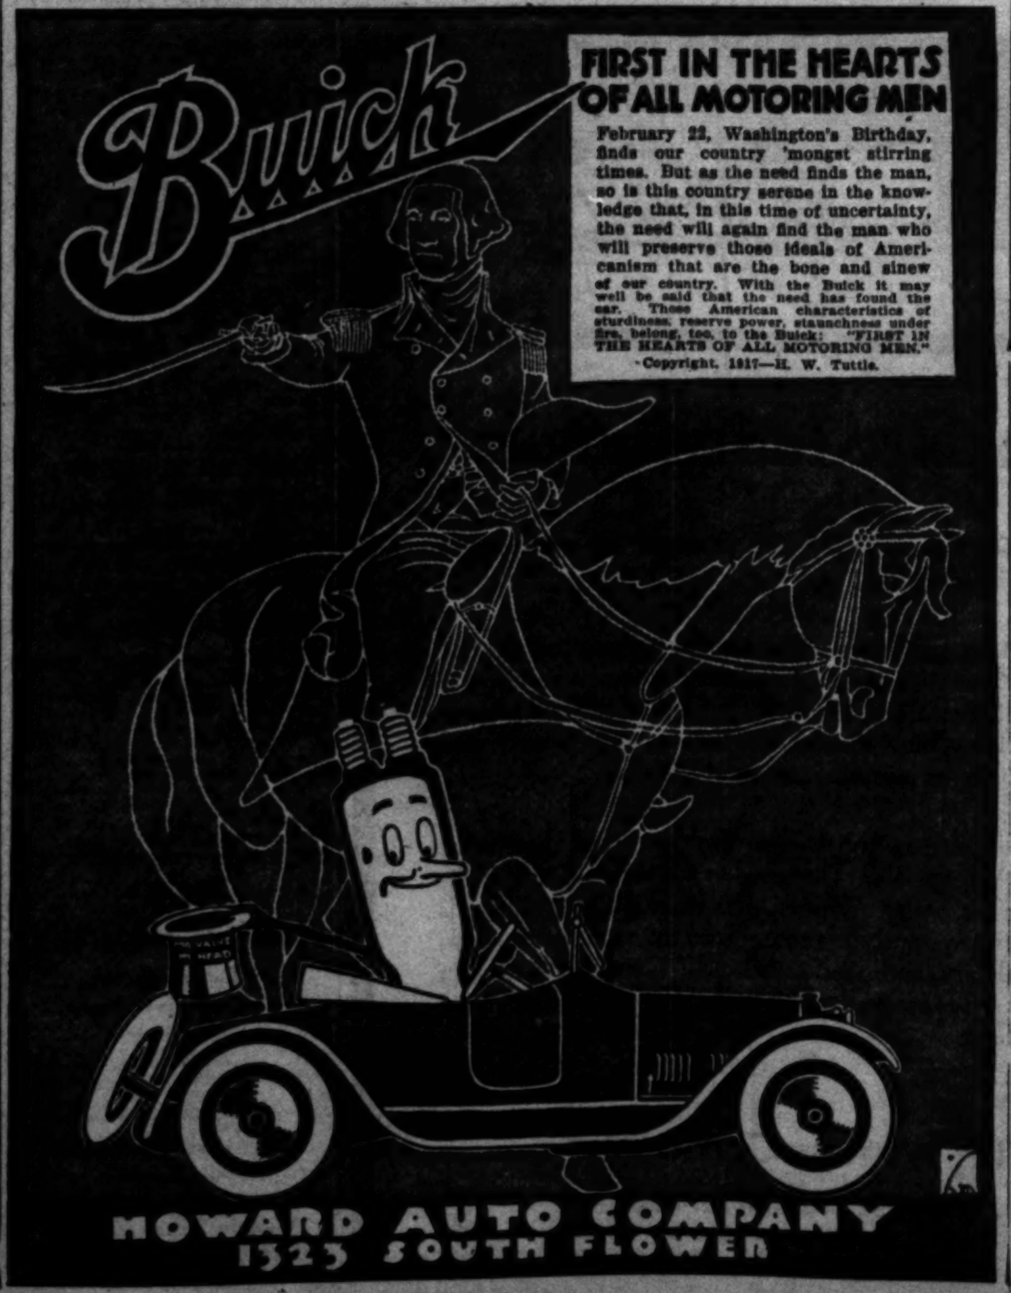
Arrangements are being made to sell 2000 horses which heretofore have drawn touring stage coaches through Yellowstone National Park, for use in European armies. Their places will be taken during the coming summer by automobiles. Under the plans now being worked out there will hereafter be three companies instead of seven controlling the hotels, camps and tours of the famous park.

Under this scheme the hotels will be under one management, the camping outfits under another, and the staging, in the past operated by four systems, will have one head. The change will remove one of the picturesque features of the Yellowstone tour, but at the same time will facilitate the trip through Geyserland. The change is made at an opportune time from a pecuniary point of view, as the horses that will go to the European fighting governments will bring high prices.

WOMAN ON LONG TRIP.

Mrs. Ralph Earle of San Francisco is making an interesting motor trip. She is with her husband on a 10,000-mile motion-picture tour of the national parks. The trip will last until the middle of spring. Their route is from San Francisco to Portland, Yellowstone, Glacier, Mount Ranier, Yosemite, General Grant and Sequoia. They will visit the Grand Canyon also.

A farmers' club of only six members in four years has done more for the good roads movement of West Virginia than any other similar organization, it is said. This is the Ravenswood Farmers' Club of Ravenswood, Jackson county. The club was instrumental in building the county's only hard roads and induced the Governor to set good roads day.



Buick

FIRST IN THE HEARTS OF ALL MOTORING MEN

February 22, Washington's Birthday, finds our country 'mongst stirring times. But as the need finds the man, so is this country serene in the knowledge that, in this time of uncertainty, the need will again find the man who will preserve those ideals of Americanism that are the bone and sinew of our country. With the Buick it may well be said that the need has found the car. Those American characteristics of sturdiness, reserve power, staunchness under fire, belong, too, to the Buick: "FIRST IN THE HEARTS OF ALL MOTORING MEN."

Car Value
—What Makes It?

A most important factor in determining the value of the motor car you buy this spring is the stability of its manufacturer.

Assets and good will create stability.

So it is interesting to you, as an Overland owner or admirer to know that the assets of The Willys-Overland Company are more than $68,000,000.00.

Its good will can best be judged by the steadily increasing number of Willys-Overland purchasers.

From 3304 cars in 1910 our annual business grew steadily to 142,441 cars in 1916. Our contracts call for more than 200,000 cars this year.

It's well to consider such fixed facts before you purchase your car.

FULTZ ENDS PLAYER STRIKE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—President David L. Fultz, of the Baseball Players' Fraternity, announced today that members of the organization had been formally released from their pledges not to sign 1917 club contracts until they received the consent of the fraternity officials. This release is the final step in calling off the recent baseball strike, which for a time threatened to interfere with the game during the coming season.

Fultz, in announcing the withdrawal of the strike order, said the fraternity would continue as the players' official organization and the future of the association would depend upon the interest and action of the players themselves in this connection.

"GREEN FROG" MAKES HIT AT AUTO SHOW.

Los Angeles' "Green Frog" device for utilizing radiator moisture in motor engines in automobiles and trucks, giving them the desired pep, has taken the Kansas City, Mo., automobile show by storm, writes W. V. Lewis, president of the Vapor Inspirator Company, Inc., manufacturers of this device. Mr. Lewis went east several weeks ago, and stopped in the Missouri capital to exhibit the efficiency accessory. He created an imaginary minature pool of water by use of a large transparent electric globe and mirror. On the globe was painted a large green frog, and surrounding the pool were scores of green frogs peeking out from between California ferns at the huge amphibian reflected from the electric globe. "It was the hit of the show," said Lewis in his letter to his associates, H. V. Andrews and Clare E. Snively.

Locally, the warm days in the past two weeks, have caused the "Green Frog" to prove its worth to the several hundred owners and others who are testing it with the view of purchasing distributor's territories.

POLISH RECIPE LEFT AS LEGACY.

A French-American, foreign-born, but who had taken out his first papers, heeding the call to arms, left with a Los Angeles friend a legacy in the form of a recipe for a cleaner and polish that is a great boon to automobilists, housewives and janitors who seriously and rightfully opject to sticky, waxy liquids so often sold as cleaners and polishes.

W. V. Lewis, president of the Vapor Inspirator Company, Inc., manufacturers of the "Green Frog" vaporizer for automobiles, was the Frenchman's friend when a friend is most needed, and when he determined to go to the aid of the fatherland, he gave to Mr. Lewis his recipe for the cleaner and polish which he had made and sold in France with success, before immigrating to this country.

FLAT CAR SPECIAL DUE HERE TUESDAY.

The Salt Lake officials have made arrangements to have the fifty-car trainload of Buicks, 150 machines in all, brought into Los Angeles next Tuesday on a "daylight" schedule. Fifty flat cars, each holding three Buicks, will roll into San Bernardino after daylight, and at Riverside, Pomona and other stations, the train will no doubt attract considerable attention. The flat cars were obain here, sent back to the factory and loaded with Buicks, and hurried westward at all possible speed, because of the numerous orders booked here weeks ago for machines.

MICHIGAN STAR TO BE A CUB.

[DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Feb. 17.—Al Benton, one of the star athletes of the University of Michigan, will be on the Cubs' special train leaving for the California training camp Tuesday night. Because of the uncertain condition of the catching staff for the North Side team, Manager Mitchell engaged the collegian who was catcher on the Michigan team when George Sisler was pitcher. The youngster was recommended to Mitchell by Carl Lundgren, the old-time Cub pitcher who is baseball coach at the Wolverine school.

Besides being a great baseball player Benton was the regular end for a couple of seasons on Yost's football eleven and is said to be an all-round athlete of great promise.

GREER SEES SHOW.

P. H. Greer of the Greer-Robbins Company left Friday night for San Francisco, to attend the automobile show on the closing day. Always deeply interested in the success of the Los Angeles automobile show, Mr. Greer made the trip for the purpose of getting pointers, if possible, to the end that the next local show may be far ahead of any yet held on the Coast.

The Obligation Of Success

ON January 31, 1917, the Firestone Company formally dedicated the best equipped tire distributing depot on the West Coast. The new Firestone building at Figueroa and Twelfth Streets is unequalled in its facilities for serving the dealers, and through them the buying public of the Los Angeles territory.

This new building, in a sense, is the discharge of an obligation. More, it is a continuation and expansion of a service we owe this territory. For the motorists of this region have shown an increasing confidence in the Firestone Company and tremendously larger purchases of Firestone Tires year by year.

The dedication of this great building signifies even more than the opening of a finer, larger branch home; it means that the entire Firestone organization dedicates itself anew to the service of the broad territory which looks to Los Angeles for its supply.

The presence of the executives, of hundreds of dealers from all parts of the territory, the meeting of Firestone officials with the men prominent in the affairs of Los Angeles, is no less a celebration of past accomplishments than a serious recognition of the demand of the present and future for Firestone Tires. That demand is an obligation which the new building and the enlarged organization will cope with successfully.

Behind your Firestone dealer is this great Los Angeles branch, aiding him to supply you with the tire and service you need, when you need it.

BEES TO JOIN SOLDIER RANKS.

FRANK MURPHY FOLLOWS IN MAJORS' STEPS.

Claims Ray Bates may be a Bee. Is Now Negotiating for the Former Tiger Third Baseman. Several Other Deals Holding Fire—Players Signing Quickly.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SALT LAKE, Feb. 17. — Capt. Huston and Ban Johnson have nothing on Prexy Frank Murphy of the Bees, when it comes to patriotism. Murphy yesterday informed those present in baseball headquartersthat military training will become a part of his players' daily routine if the Kaiser insists on getting gay.

"If the boys will stand for it, we'll devote at least an hour a day to military training," said the lumber king. "If there is no immediate sign of war when the season starts, we may not spend that much time on it, but I have been seriously thinking of giving at east half an hour if it looks like trouble at any time during the season."

The Bee boss was serious, too, when he unburdened himself of the above.

"Then," asked Murphy, "how would you like to see Ray Bates playing third base for Bernhard next season?" Everybody fell over backward, but Prexy insisted that he also wanted to be taken seriously in the remark that such an occurrence would come about unless all present plans are knocked into a cocked hat. The former Vernon star, so the dope goes, has been given permission to make a dicker for himself by Connie Mack. All this with the result that Bates has written Capt. Buddy Ryan, saying that nothing would he like better than a chance to play before a Salt Lake crowd as a home guard. Murphy has taken the matter up with the Athletics and will buy the former Tiger if at all possible as he realizes that the acquisition of Bates would be as big a drawing card for the Bees as when Bunny Brief started to lam them out of the park for Salt Lake in the middle of the 1915 season.

The Bees also have an offer from the Milwaukee club. Danny Shay wants to swap Southpaw Harry Moran, late of Federal fame, to the Salt Lake club for Dutch Klawitter. This deal may also be put over.

Seven Bees have thus far signed their contracts, Ryan, Iannah, Sheeley, Dougan, Bliss, Bayless and Gislason. Second Baseman Carl Crandall has written from Indianapolis, saying that his contract is satisfactory and that he will forward it in a few days. Bill Orr has declared himself pleased also, so that nine men are practically assured thus far. President Murphy feels that, with the possible exception of Jean Dubuc, none of the others have any reason for complaint. Manager Bernhard started East yesterday with the remains of Mrs. Bernhard, who died Thursday. He will return in about ten days, but will hike right on to the training quarters at Porterville when he starts west.

GOLF MATCHES PLAYED AT NEWPORT BEACH.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

NEWPORT BEACH (Cal.) February 16.—Ideal golf weather during the past week made play active on the links of the Orange County Country Club. A number of close matches were played in the various cup events, which aroused more than usual interest.

The finals for the president's cup were played on Thursday between S. L. Collins of Newport Beach and C. G. Twist of Santa Ana. After an exciting thirty-six-hole match S. L. Collins won 1 up. This match gives Mr. Collins permanent possession of the president's trophy as he won the open club tournament twice, successively, before the present tournament.

In the semifinals for the president's cup S. L. Collins beat Elmer Prince 3-2, and C. G. Twist beat E. B. Stanley 1 up in thirty-seven holes.

In the stock cup two matches were played in which I. M. Sproull beat Norman Hoyle 4-3, and H. M. McCullough beat W. H. Spurgeon 6-5.

Two matches were also played for the J. W. Tubbs cup, in which Norman Hoyle beat W. H. Spurgeon and H. M. McCullough beat C. D. Holmes.

R. S. Simpson, the club professional, has entertained as his guests during the past week, J. W. ("Skokie") Watson of the Mission Hills Country Club of Kansas City, Mo., and O. J. Koch of the Blue Mound Country Club of Milwaukee.

Mr. Watson is on a tour of inspection of the western courses and is an expert in the laying out of golf courses. After playing several times around the local links, Mr. Watson expressed himself as well pleased with the course. He was particularly impressed by the scenic beauty of the links of the Orange County Club and the view of bay and ocean as seen from the clubhouse. Mr. Watson left last evening for Del Monte.

STANFORD NOSES OUT STAFFORD ALL-STARS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Feb. 17.—After eight innings of scoreless baseball a sensational finish gave the Stanford varsity a 1 to 0 victory over Stafford All-Stars, this afternoon.

In the last frame, Mitchell singled, stole second and went to third, on a passed ball. Lilly walked and on Dickey's high foul over third base, tried to make second, dazzling the All-Star infield so that Mitchell was able to steal home from third, for the winning tally.

"Doc" Hayes pitched his first game for the Cards today, holding Stafford's batters to a pair of hits. Buchn allowed four singles.

Wisdom Leads to Individuality

"Individuality," says Professor Ross, one of the foremost of sociologists, "develops through practice in choosing."

That is why men and women who are accustomed to things of excellence, whose judgment is soundest, invariably surround themselves with possessions distinctly individualistic and personally fitting. They know that houses, pictures, rugs, jewels, and motor cars which are most rare, are most valuable.

These exceptional men and women find just what they value highly in the Winton Six. Designed to the personal taste of its individual owner, every Winton Six is exclusive; yours is distinctly your own, and it is recognized at sight as superior, out-of-the-ordinary, and good to behold. Hurrah!

[illegible]STLING POT SIZZLES OVER.

[illegible] Departs to Line [illegible] High-class Stuff.

[illegible] Feels Like a [illegible] Fighting Cock.

[illegible] Doesn't Seem to [illegible] Worrying Much.

[illegible] HOWARD ANGUS.

[illegible] pot boiled over [illegible] with great sizzling and [illegible]

[illegible] McGrath, who proposes to [illegible] matches in the Vernon [illegible] park, left last night for [illegible] to sign Joe Stecher [illegible] or both.

[illegible], who has already [illegible] as a promoter, kept the [illegible] wires between here and [illegible] hot all day and [illegible] announced that he would [illegible] the northern city Wednesday [illegible] an interested spectator [illegible]-Santell match.

[illegible] made two announcements [illegible] night which may greatly [illegible] shape the future of [illegible] this city. C. W. Hicks, [illegible] wealthy mining man, [illegible] associated with Hal-[illegible] wrestling promoter, while [illegible] announced last night that [illegible] entered into a working [illegible] with Schuller, the San [illegible] promoter.

[illegible] statements would naturally [illegible] to believe that Tim [illegible] have to fight to secure [illegible] of either Stecher or [illegible]

[illegible] nothing to say at this [illegible] that Halbriter would [illegible] question last night. [illegible] the wrestling match [illegible] await with interest the [illegible] McGrath's dickerings in [illegible]."

[illegible] Demetral feels bigger, [illegible] faster every day. He [illegible] to throw Gus Kervaras [illegible] fifteen minutes and said that he might possibly be able to turn the trick in five minutes. He evidentally thinks that he is Joe Stecher.

Ever since Demetral has come to town, he has been decreasing the length of time that it would take him to throw Kervaras.

From the first he admitted that he could throw Kervaras and laughed at everybody who hinted otherwise.

"But," said he on that first day, "it will take some time. This Kervaras can't throw me, but he's a tough bird to throw."

On the second day Demetral was sure that he would throw Kervaras in less than forty-five minutes.

He startled everybody Friday, by announcing that he would throw Kervaras in twenty-five minutes.

But yesterday, he outdid himself. Fifteen minutes he sets as the outside limit.

At the rate he is going, by Wednesday he will have an announcement to the effect that he has already thrown his chunky Greek rival and will not have to bother with going on the mat.

You have to hand it to Demetral. He hasn't much respect for his rival.

Kervaras, of course, was informed of the boasting of his rival. At the time he was taking a rub-down. He didn't even bother to look up from the table.

"Let the big stiff talk," he grunted. "Hot air's cheap. Wrestling matches aren't won by telling how you're going to win on a street corner. They are held on the mat. What he says is of no importance."

Kervaras did not work on the mat yesterday, but instead took a long walk in the country. Romanoff, who is training and coaching Kervaras, announced yesterday that Gus would conclude his training on Tuesday.

"You bet," said he, "Kervaras is not going to be stale Thursday night."

Romanoff is wondering when he is going to get a match.

"I'm ready to meet everybody. Of course, I'd rather not wrestle Kervaras. But bring on your Bill Demetrals, Wilhelm Bernes and Itos. I'm itching to get at them. Bring Stecher here. I wrestled him an hour and a half to a draw once and I can better that now."

Some day some of our numerous promoters will wake up and sign Romanoff. They don't have to go to San Francisco or Chicago to find a real wrestler. He's here.

[illegible]ANADIAN PREDICTS BIG FUTURE FOR ICE HOCKEY.

[illegible] eyes of the hockey [illegible] world right now are on California."

[illegible] statement, emanating from no less a sporting authority [illegible] Con Jones, the noted [illegible] of Vancouver, B. C., [illegible] that it is a matter of [illegible] while before Los Angeles [illegible] other leading cities of the [illegible] will be given important [illegible] in the fast winter sport. Mr. Jones, who is the [illegible] head of the National [illegible] in Vancouver, one of [illegible] organizations of its [illegible] world, is spending several [illegible] in Los Angeles and is [illegible] at the Gates Hotel.

[illegible] upon the close of [illegible] Coast Hockey League [illegible] the North, Frank and [illegible] will come to Los Angeles. "I understand they will [illegible] news for you," said [illegible] yesterday. "In Vancouver, Seattle, Portland and [illegible] hockey enthusiasts [illegible] discussing the possibility [illegible] Pacific Coast Hockey [illegible] the near future. This [illegible] four cities in California—Los Angeles, Pasadena, San [illegible] and Oakland—and the [illegible] now comprising the [illegible] the North. Among the [illegible] plans is one which calls [illegible] schedules to be carried [illegible]-club games at both the [illegible] and southern ends of the [illegible]. Towards the close, there [illegible] trip back and forth [illegible] clubs and then would [illegible] championship clashes."

[illegible] believes there is no [illegible] it would be found impossible [illegible] sufficient players [illegible] eight clubs on the Pacific [illegible]. Mr. Jones witnessed [illegible] games at the Ice Palace, [illegible] night and says that in [illegible] clubs are a number of [illegible] appear most promising [illegible] hockey is taken up in [illegible] its fine points are [illegible] learned, and what is then [illegible] the gameness to get out [illegible] and fight every inch of [illegible] Mr. Jones says. As [illegible] phases of the sport, Mr. [illegible]-old son, who is with [illegible] trip, was in uniform [illegible] night and was just itching [illegible] and take part in the [illegible] But leaders of the two [illegible] he was too light for [illegible] and kept him off, rather [illegible] risk of his being injured.

[illegible] who is one of the biggest [illegible] in hockey circles in Canada, [illegible] approached by promoters [illegible] in California to [illegible] hockey teams to the [illegible] exhibition tour this [illegible] will not decide on the project until his return to Vancouver. He says the war has taken so many stars of the game to the front, that it might be impossible for him to get together organizations as fast as he would want, and rather than bring inferior clubs on a tour, he would prefer to let the project rest for a season or two.

Mr. Jones acquired his big reputation in sporting circles several years ago, when he defied the powers that be in eastern lacosse and signed up Newsy Lalonde, the world's greatest stick handler, to come to the Coast for a season of sixteen games, at a salary of $8000. Lalonde was taken ill upon his arrival in Vancouver and figured in but ten games, but Mr. Jones paid him his full salary. That the signing of the star was a wise investment, was shown by the fact that more than $50,000 was taken in at the gate that season.

DONALDSON TO PITCH TODAY.

Manager Goodwin of the Los Angeles White Sox accepts the challenge issued by Manager Hendrie of the champion San Pedro Merchants' nine, and will arrange a series of games to be played at Maier Park, Vernon, in the near future.

Goodwin denies that the Sox have ever "run out" on any ball club, as charged by Hendrie.

"It is my policy to match my club with the best in the league, in fact, I would rather see my boys go down to defeat at the hands of a worthy opponent than to win from a team that could not give the fans a run for their money. I have a fighting team that will give the best clubs in the business a worthy battle," said Manager Goodwin of the White Sox.

The Los Angeles White Sox will cross bats with the Westerns Sunday afternoon at Maier Park, Vernon. The Westerns are an aggregation of ball players from the Coast and major leagues. "Skeeter" Fanning will do the twirling for the Westerns, and John Donaldson, the new left-hander of the Sox, will make his debut on the Coast as the pitcher of the White Sox. Donaldson is said to be one of the greatest negro pitchers in the world.

NATIONAL COLORS.

When Duluth, Minn., holds its third annual motor-car show during the week of Washington's birthday, the Armory will be decorated in the national colors in honor of the first President. Present indications are that 125 cars will be shown, thirty-five more than last year.

Relay Battle.

called back from the warm training quarters, were lined up at the various stations and were sent off once more. U.S.C. came in an inch ahead of Pomona. Then came a protest that an Occidental man had been fouled and the thing still hangs in the air.

"I hope to die if I ever see another race as funny as that one," gasped Bob Weaver, and he expressed the sentiments of every one on the field.

FEATURE.

The first feature event on the programme was the 100-yard dash for high schools. Woods, Woodhams and Paddock were the stars in the preliminary heats and they negotiated a poor course against a high wind in 11s.

In the finals there was simply one man. Paddock had everything his own way and could have walked across the tape and won the race. He was running in fine style and the other finalists, Woods and Woodhams, weren't in it for a minute. Paddock's time was 10 3-5s., remarkably fast, considering the conditions.

In the open 100-yard dash, Pomona College ran off with the honors. Chenney and Strehle crossed the line in first and second places, closely pressed by Ken Johnson and Fred Kelly. The latter two were almost together, but the judges decided that Kelly had the best of it. The time was 11s. flat.

OPENING RELAY.

The first relay event, the two-mile open affair, was one of the best of the day, with Pasadena, Pomona and Hollywood dividing the honors. Kitts of Hollywood was the real sensation of this event. He started out in seventh place, several hundred feet behind the leaders. Gradually he passed up the tail-enders until he was in third place. He made up forty or more yards on his lap.

The two-mile college relay was simply a race between Pomona and U.S.C. The Blue and White men were ahead all the way, but their lead was narrowed down in several instances. Sturges, Gardner, Humiston and Adkinson, turned the trick and were entirely too speedy for their S.C. competitors.

The one-mile college relay went the same way. "Doc" Cook ran a great lap for U.S.C. and cut down an early lead to practically nothing. Adkinson and Beebe were off almost together. The Pomona man was a few feet ahead, however, and he maintained the lead all the way. Beebe couldn't make up a foot. Winning this race, put the Huns in a safe place so far as the cup was concerned.

All of the relays were run in good time and the winners usually hit the tape only a few inches to the good.

Bo Wilson, manual training instructor at Fillmore High School, came down and gave a perfect pole-vaulting exhibition. Bo monkeyed along with his so-called competitors and went over the bar on his first attempt every time. Finally it was hoisted to 12ft. 3in. All the rest of the talent gave up the ghost. Bo Wilson calmly grasped his bamboo, took a short run and cleared the bar by several inches. He defeated his brother L.A.A.C. entry, C. Bean, by several inches.

W. Beggs of Manual Arts, had little trouble with the high jump.

RAH FOR FRED.

Fred Teschke burst into everlasting fame as director-general of Bovard Field. Fred certainly has a life job at that institution. There are something like twenty different starting positions on the course and Teschke is the only man who knows where they are.

"Where does this race start?" Bob Weaver would demand.

"Let's see," Fred would answer, "it seems to me that it ought to start up there near the fence."

Then the runners would troop to the designated spot and the race would be on.

If Fred Teschke should get another job and leave U.S.C., Bovard Field would have to be rebuilt.

ASCOT TO HAVE WEALTHY FIELD

Millionaires Now Quivering with Excitement.

To Meet Each Other in the Sweepstakes.

Only Large Spring Auto Classic.

There will be wealthy doings out at Ascot Thursday. Two multi-millionaires have not only been lined up, but are quivering with excitement to get into the big race. The George Washington sweepstakes promise to be featured by fireworks, comedy, and perhaps a little drama scattered along to keep up the interest.

This race is the one big winter event in the automobile speed line. Only in Southern California do weather conditions permit racing at all times of the year. Hence all the famous drivers tumble out to Ascot and jot down their names, anxious to get a bit of out-of-season racing.

Sensations in this big event are numerous and of all kinds.

William Weightman III, who splashed into fame at the Santa Monica races last year, will be on deck with his Duesenberg. This car has been completely gone over and is faster than ever. Even at that it will need all its speed for it will have some millionaire competition this season.

John Bolling, wealthy kid of Oklahoma, has suddenly become imbued with a desire to speed. Stand back, folks, and give him room. When these guys get going they may land anywhere.

Bolling is so rich that it hurts. The sight of money merely annoys this young man and he has to sit up nights trying to figure out how to spend the interest on his own. Frequently he has been known to get up early in the morning and throw some of this interest out over his back porch.

Why he should want to risk all these kopecks in the racing game is a little too much.

Besides these two millionaire demons there will be several other entries with less money but with better chances of winning the race. Very few of the real dopesters figure that the wealthy boys will add to their roll by winning the Ascot event. Earl Cooper and Eddie Pullen are the consistent experts who look good to the fans. Cooper's machine is in great shape and Pullen claims that he will come in first or not at all.

Add to this list, the giant Frontenac cars, entered by Louis Chevrolet, the assembled creation that Billy Taylor will pilot, and a long string of lesser affairs, and you have quite an entry list for the George Washington sweepstakes.

ORDERS TOTAL HALF MILLION DOLLARS.

One of the largest orders for motor trucks ever placed was signed recently by the Republic Motor Truck Company of New York City, when an order was sent to the factory calling for $525,000 worth of trucks for immediate delivery. The order covered one-ton, and and a half ton, two-ton and three-ton sizes.

"Immediate delivery has been the demand of motor-truck buyers," said D. F. Poyer, local distributor of the Republic trucks, in speaking of this big order, "and the action of spending over half a million dollars was no doubt due to the fact that the New York company wanted many trucks in their salesrooms. The demand for Republic trucks this year is exceeding that of previous seasons, and the New York company doubtless wanted to be supplied with plenty of trucks."

TRUCK DELIVERED TO GOV. CANTU.

Equipped with gigantic pneumatic tires on the rear wheels, to better enable it to negotiate the sandy going, a ton and a half Packard truck was delivered to Gov. Estaban Cantu of Lower California last week by Earle C. Anthony, Inc.

The huge Goodyear casings used were of the 38x7 variety. The truck will be used to transport men and materials in Gov. Cantu's highway work, and the body, which was built in the Anthony shops, was equipped with removable seats.

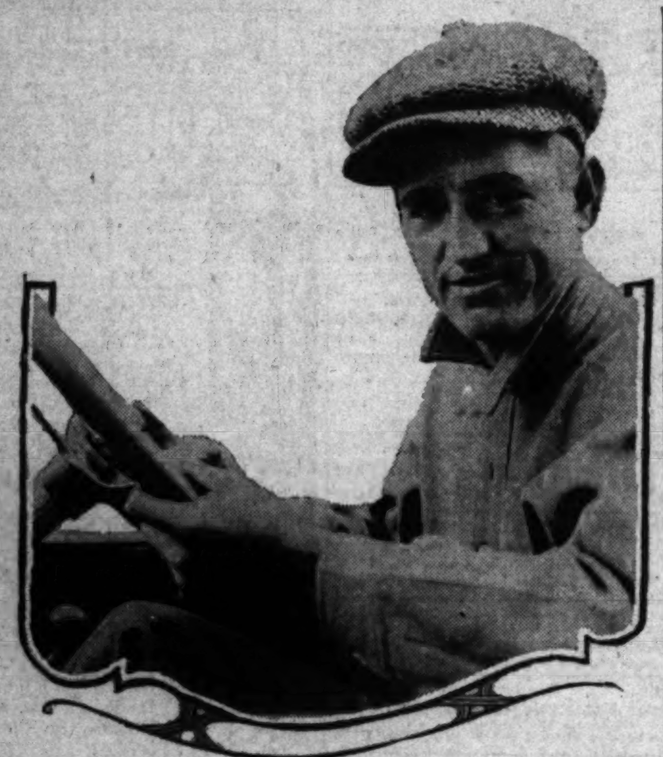
WILLYS OFFERS HIS FACTORY.

[DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TOLEDO, Feb. 17.—John N. Willys, automobile manufacturer of this city, has telegraphed to President Wilson, pledging his support in the present crisis and offering to the government the use of his immense plant at Toledo and its subsidary plants, as well as the plants of his allied companies if their facilities are needed in connection with the pending difficulty or later eventualities.

The Toledo factory controlled by Mr. Willys is one of the very large individual plants of this country, occupying 103 acres of floor space and employing approximately 18,000 men. Twenty thousand men are said to be employed in the subsidary and allied Willys properties. The telegram to the President read as follows:

"You have my sincere and loyal support and co-operation in the present crisis on behalf of the Willys-Overland Company and its subsidiary and allied companies including the companies controlled by me. I desire to extend to you their various plants and organizations for the use of the government, if needed."



Another millionaire speeder.

This is John Bolling, young Oklahoma oil magnate, who will drive a fast Mercer racer in the big race at Ascot Park one week from today.

Steps Right Along.

HIGH-GEAR TEST EASY FOR THIS AUTOMOBILE.

"WHAT constitutes a good test of a motor car?" B. F. Brown of the Detroiter Los Angeles company asked a caller at Detroiter headquarters a few days ago.

"Showing what it will do on high gear by driving to San Francisco or some other place, seems to be customary," the visitor replied.

But the suggestion did not interest Brown in the least. The reason was that the very first trip he made in the car was from San Francisco to Los Angeles, and he drove it in high gear all the way.

"When Mr. Marhoefer and I concluded negotiations with the Coast representative of the Detroiter to act as Southern California distributors, the deal was made in San Francisco," said Mr. Brown.

"The factory man suggested that we take a touring car that he had on hand and use it as a demonstrating car here until a shipment could come through from the factory. He picked out a car and three of us started in it for home.

"'Let's see how far we can get in high gear; we might as well find out right now what she will do,' Marhoefer said. So we started out and did not make a shift in the gears until we stopped for the night at Fresno. The next day we resumed the trip. We were surprised and delighted at the power the car was showing and then we began to wonder if we could come all the way through on high. We did it without any trouble at all. The Ridge was no obstacle. Because of the Detroiter's showing the first time I drove it I smile whenever anybody suggests a high-gear run to San Francisco as a startling demonstration of a car's power."

STURDY LITTLE CAR TO HAVE FORTY PER CENT. MORE POWER

WITH 40 per cent. more power, the new Briscoe will at once make its appearance in Los Angeles and on the Pacific Coast, is the announcement made by Forrest Arnold, sales manager for the Los Angeles branch of the Pacific KisselKar Company, distributor for the Briscoe, following information received from the factory.

"It was only last week that the old Briscoe in the workshop of the Pacific KisselKar branch lifted itself from the floor by its own power and when the motor of the shop burned out, furnished the temporary operating power from its rear wheels," said Arnold.

"The car that was the first into Bear Valley in 1917—the car with the 'half-million-dollar motor' is to be demonstrated on the Pacific Coast with almost 50 per cent. more power than it has today. Experiments that have been carried on for months in the factory have brought about this result.

"To meet the demand for Briscoes pouring in from all sections of the country the factory at Jackson, Mich., is working night and day. Advices that have been received from the factory state plainly that there will be no delay in the delivery of Briscoes. The immense plant, that has cost millions of dollars to erect, will, it is confidently believed, care for the 1917 output, no matter how great it may be."

GEORGE KISSEL RESPONSIBLE FOR THE ALL-YEAR CAR IDEA.

THAT retail automobile dealers five years ago were chiefly concerned with the problems of how to make money during the winter months, and how to profitably dispose of used cars, is the statement of Colonel L. Hewes, head of the Los Angeles branch of the Pacific Kissel Kar Company.

"George Kissel, the orginator of the convertible car idea, solved the first one, and the second one—that of used cars—still needs a Kissel to solve it," he continued.

During the last year in several cities, dealers have combined in holding used car shows. Others have found auction sales profitable and still others have rebuilt their second-hand cars into light trucks.

"What the Kissel All-Year car has done for the automobile industry is history," stated Colonel Hewes. "It has increased the automobile calender from six to twelve months and revived each branch of car making and selling—instilling in each, new life, energy and profit. So much for the effect of Kissel's innovation on the marketing of cars."

To meet the continued increase in the demand for Kissels, the factory has once more been enlarged and according to factory advices, it will be possible for the Pacific Kissel Kar Company to promise earlier delivery of Kissels than has recently obtained.

BUCK SNOW TO GET NEWS OF CRUISER.

Taken to the scene of the disaster in a Grant Six touring car, the first authentic pictures of the wrecked United States cruiser Milwaukee were secured by camera men of the San Francisco press, the car having been placed at their disposal by the Grant distributor in that city.

Leaving San Francisco at 2 p.m. and riding, half frozen, through the night, the party of camera men and newspaper correspondents, after bucking heavy snow drifts at Ball Springs, reached the scene shortly before 9 the same morning. Crossing the mountains the party encountered a blinding sleet and snow storm and there were times when the Grant Six narrowly escaped skidding over embankments.

With all the hardships the journey to the wreck was made without accident and when the car returned to San Francisco, it had withstood a thorough test and according to the star of the newspaper crowd that made the trip, not a thing had been done to it in the way of repairs. "Which," according to Renstrom, the San Francisco distributor, "would imply that the Grant is 'some car.'"

Increasing interest in tractors is indicated in the reservations for space at the Kansas City tractor show during the coming week, on the Union Station plaza. Practically all space is taken and motors are being installed to operate the tractors and other farm power machinery.

SOME NEW DISTINCTION
For The
HUDSON SUPER-SIX
Special Showing This Week

HERE are some bodies designed by artists of world-wide repute, and built by master craftsmen. They will add new luster to the Hudson Super-Six.

Each is exclusive to Hudson. Each shows at a glance its distinction. And each is intended to mark the limit of luxury in a body of that type.

The closed models are designed to be the handsomest cars that women ever rode in. You will vote them so, we think. They are built by men who have built the bodies for $10,000 cars.

Each is a study in art and elegance, down to the smallest detail. And each will seem the finest car in any fine-car crowd.

The Super-Six motor has given to Hudson a new place in the field. It has added 80 per cent to motor efficiency. It has given us a motor which out-performs any other motor built.

Men who want the best, and who know the facts, are choosing the Super-Six. They cannot do otherwise. And these new bodies have been designed to supply the luxuries they want.

But our allotment is small. It cannot supply, in our estimation, half the demand for these models. So we urge you to see them, and make reservations now.

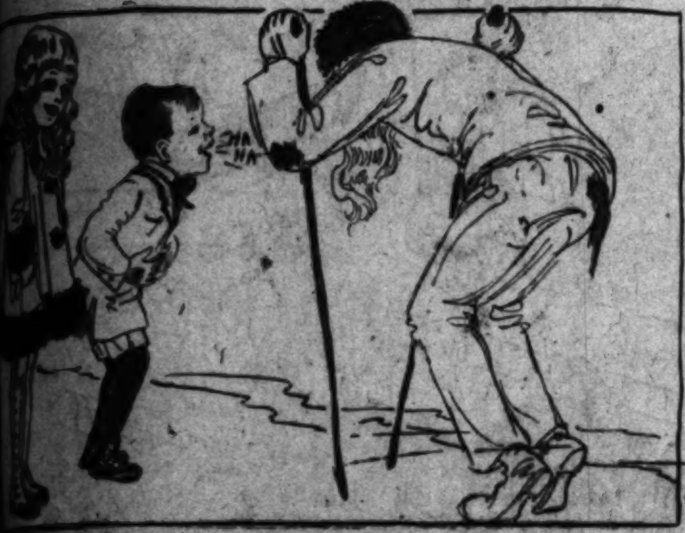
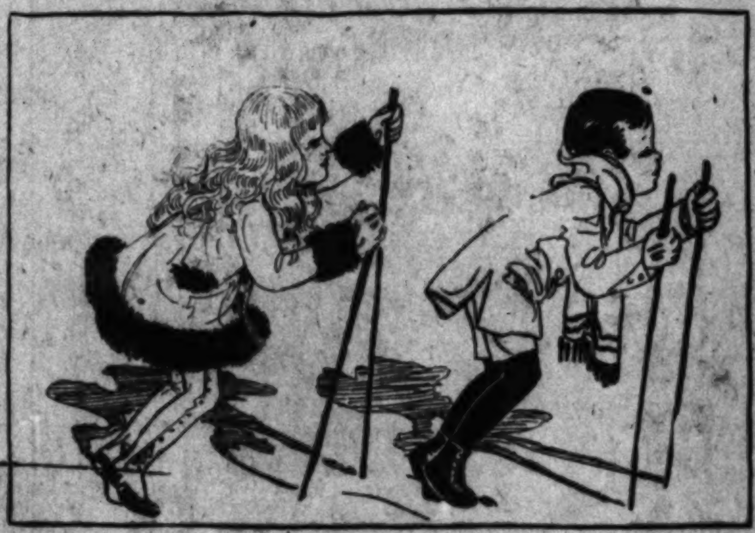
ONCE UPON A TIME

BY CLYDE LUDWICK

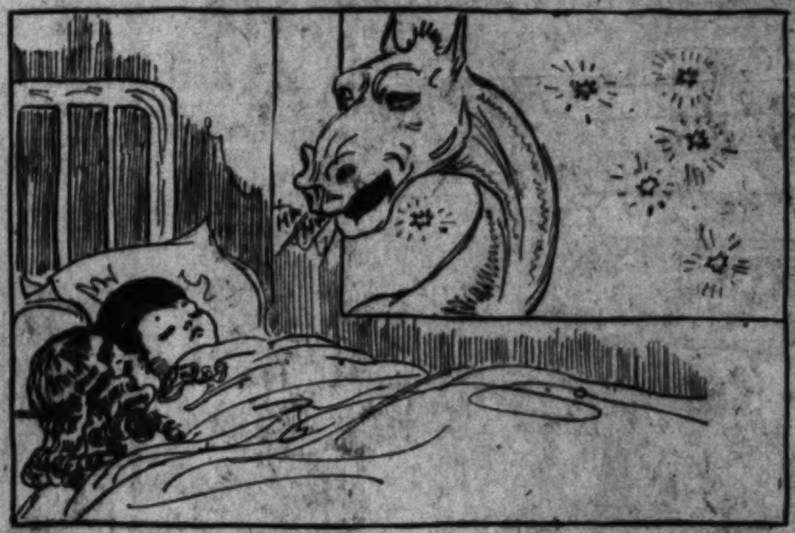
SOMETHING HAPPENED IN DREAMLAND WHEN THE CHILDREN WERE NOT KIND.



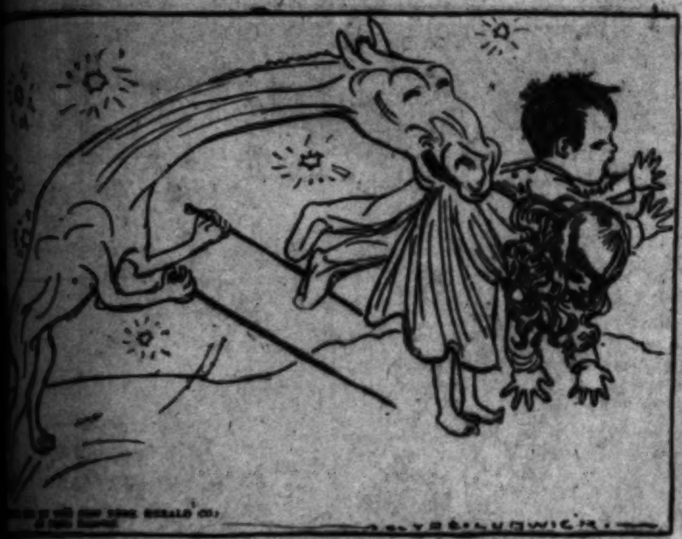
Bud and Sis saw a poor crippled old man going down the walking with two sticks. He looked so funny that the laughed and did not pity him at all.



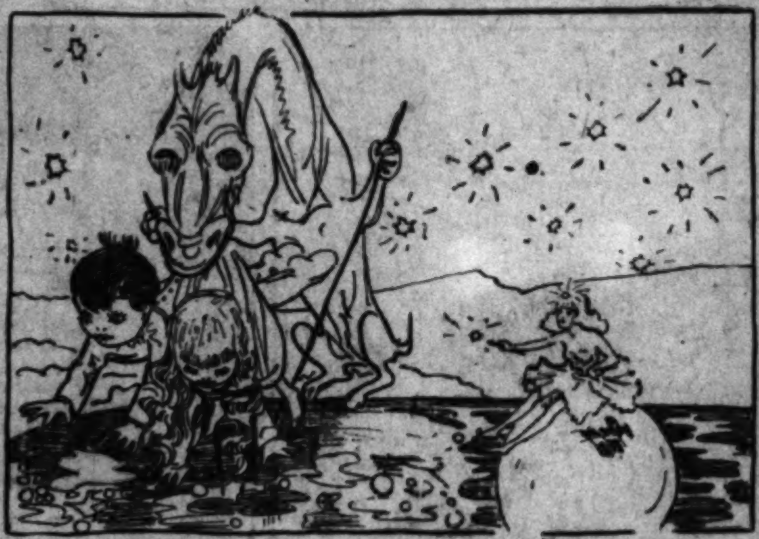
2—When the old man had gone the children made a game of walking with sticks as if they were crippled. They had good fun until bedtime.



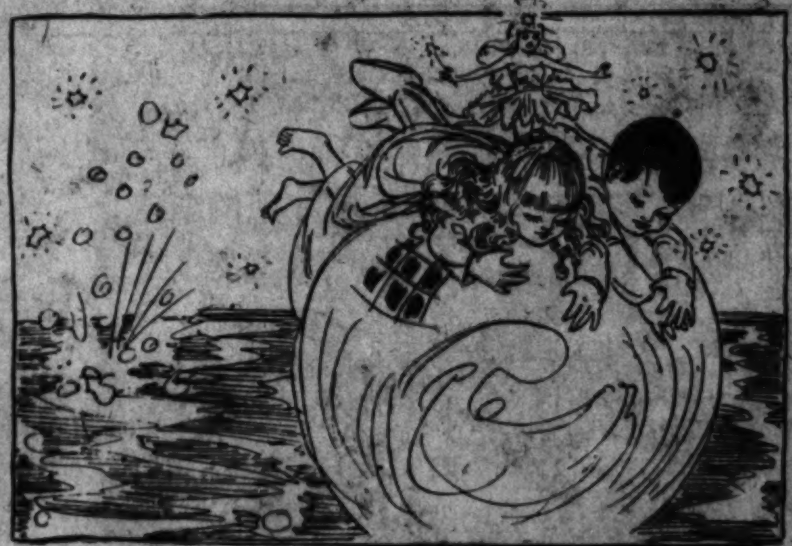
3—As Son Bud and Sis lay asleep a Laughin' Loony stuck his head in at the window and laughed in their faces, for they looked very funny to him.



he took the children by the night clothes and carried them He could gallop very fast on his stick forelegs.

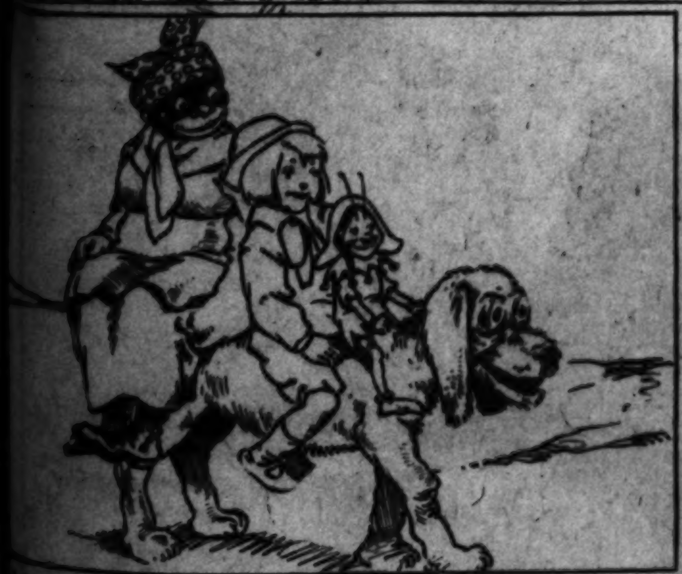


5—The Laughin' Loony was just about to drop the children into the Lake of Giggles when they remembered the poor old man. He did not seem funny at all then. Suddenly the Fairy Pity appeared riding on a bubble.

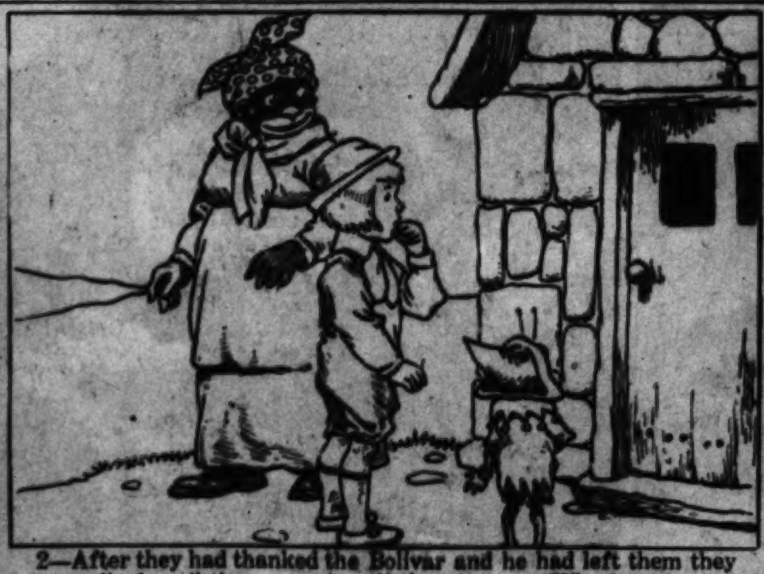


6—When the Laughin' Loony dropped the children Pity took them on her bubble and floated them home. The Laughin' Loony was so surprised that he fell into the lake. Son Bud and Sis will never laugh at a poor cripple again. What do you think would have happened to them if Pity had not found them?

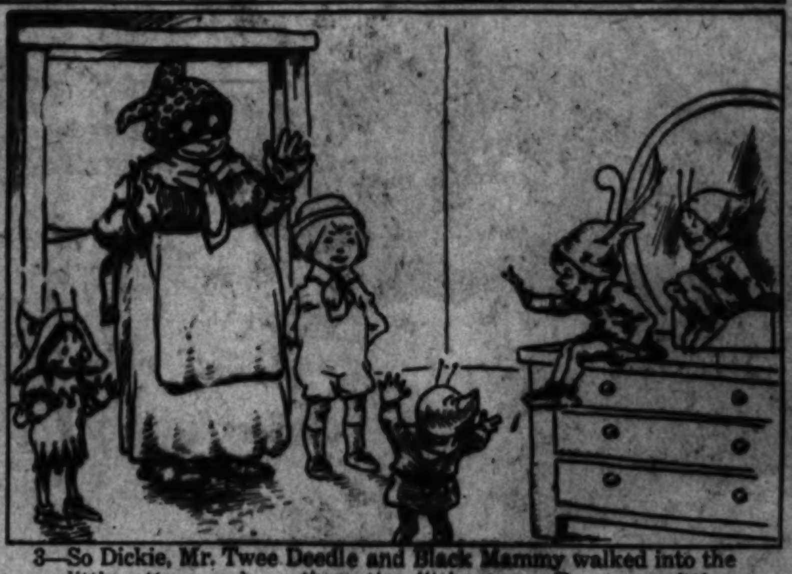
MR. TWEE DEEDLE.



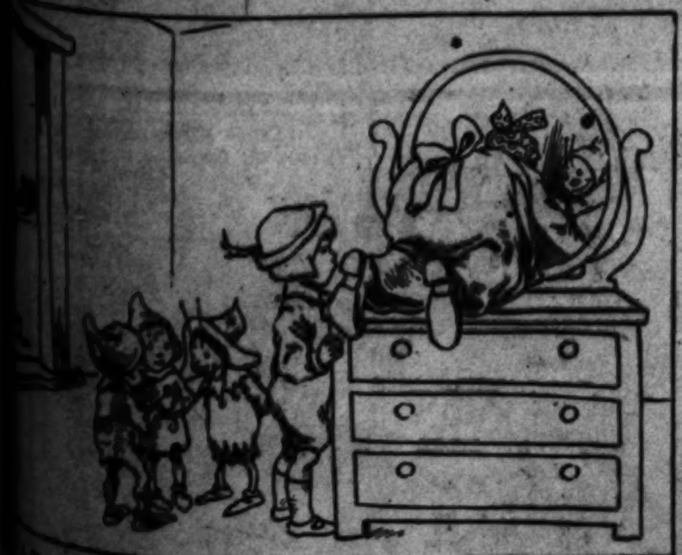
Laughing Bolivar said that he would give our three friends the prairie, and as they were quite tired they upon his back and the Bolivar carried them across.



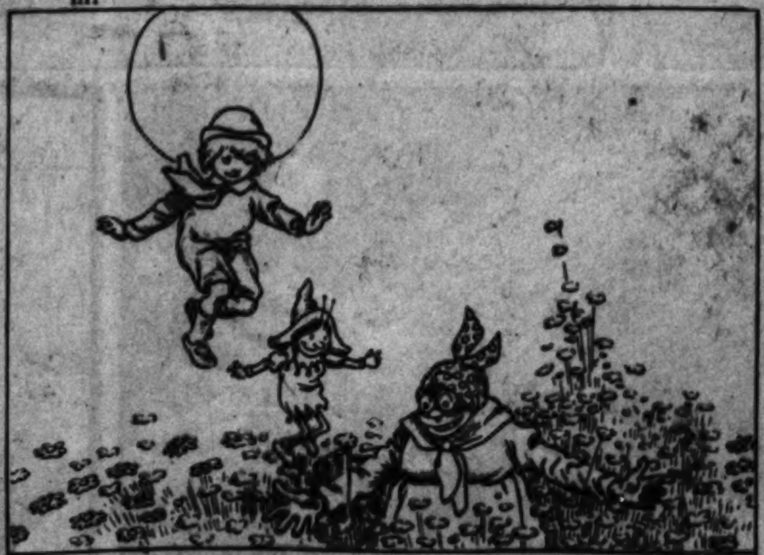
2—After they had thanked the Bolivar and he had left them they walked until they came to a little cottage. "Who lives here, I wonder?" Dickie said. "Let us knock on the door!" said Mr Twee Deedle. But just as they were about to knock on the door three tiny voices from within cried, "Lift up the latch and walk in!"



3—So Dickie, Mr. Twee Deedle and Black Mammy walked into the little cottage and saw three tiny little men. Two were sitting upon a dresser and one cried, "You are just in time for an adventure! We have a magic looking glass which you can go through if you wish. There's just five minutes in each week that the magic of the glass works!"



go through!" said Mr. Twee Deedle, looking at the "Yes! Let's go through!" replied Dickie and Black So Black Mammy climbed upon the dresser and one little men helped her through.



5—Then Mr. Twee Deedle and Dickie followed her through the glass. They found themselves in a beautiful garden of flowers. "I have never seen a more beautiful flower garden!" cried Black Mammy. As far as they could see there was nothing but flowers. They walked around and finally heard a noise like snoring.

6—"Listen!" cried Black Mammy. "What is it?" Dickie asked. Just then there was a loud snort and a donkey's head came up over the flowers. "Well! Well!" exclaimed Black Mammy. "It's a donkey without any body!" "Don't you believe I haven't any body!" cried the donkey, "for I will prove to you with my invisible heels that I have!" "Let us be friends!" said Mr. Twee Deedle. "Yes!" replied the donkey, "let us be friends, and I will show you some wonderful sights!"

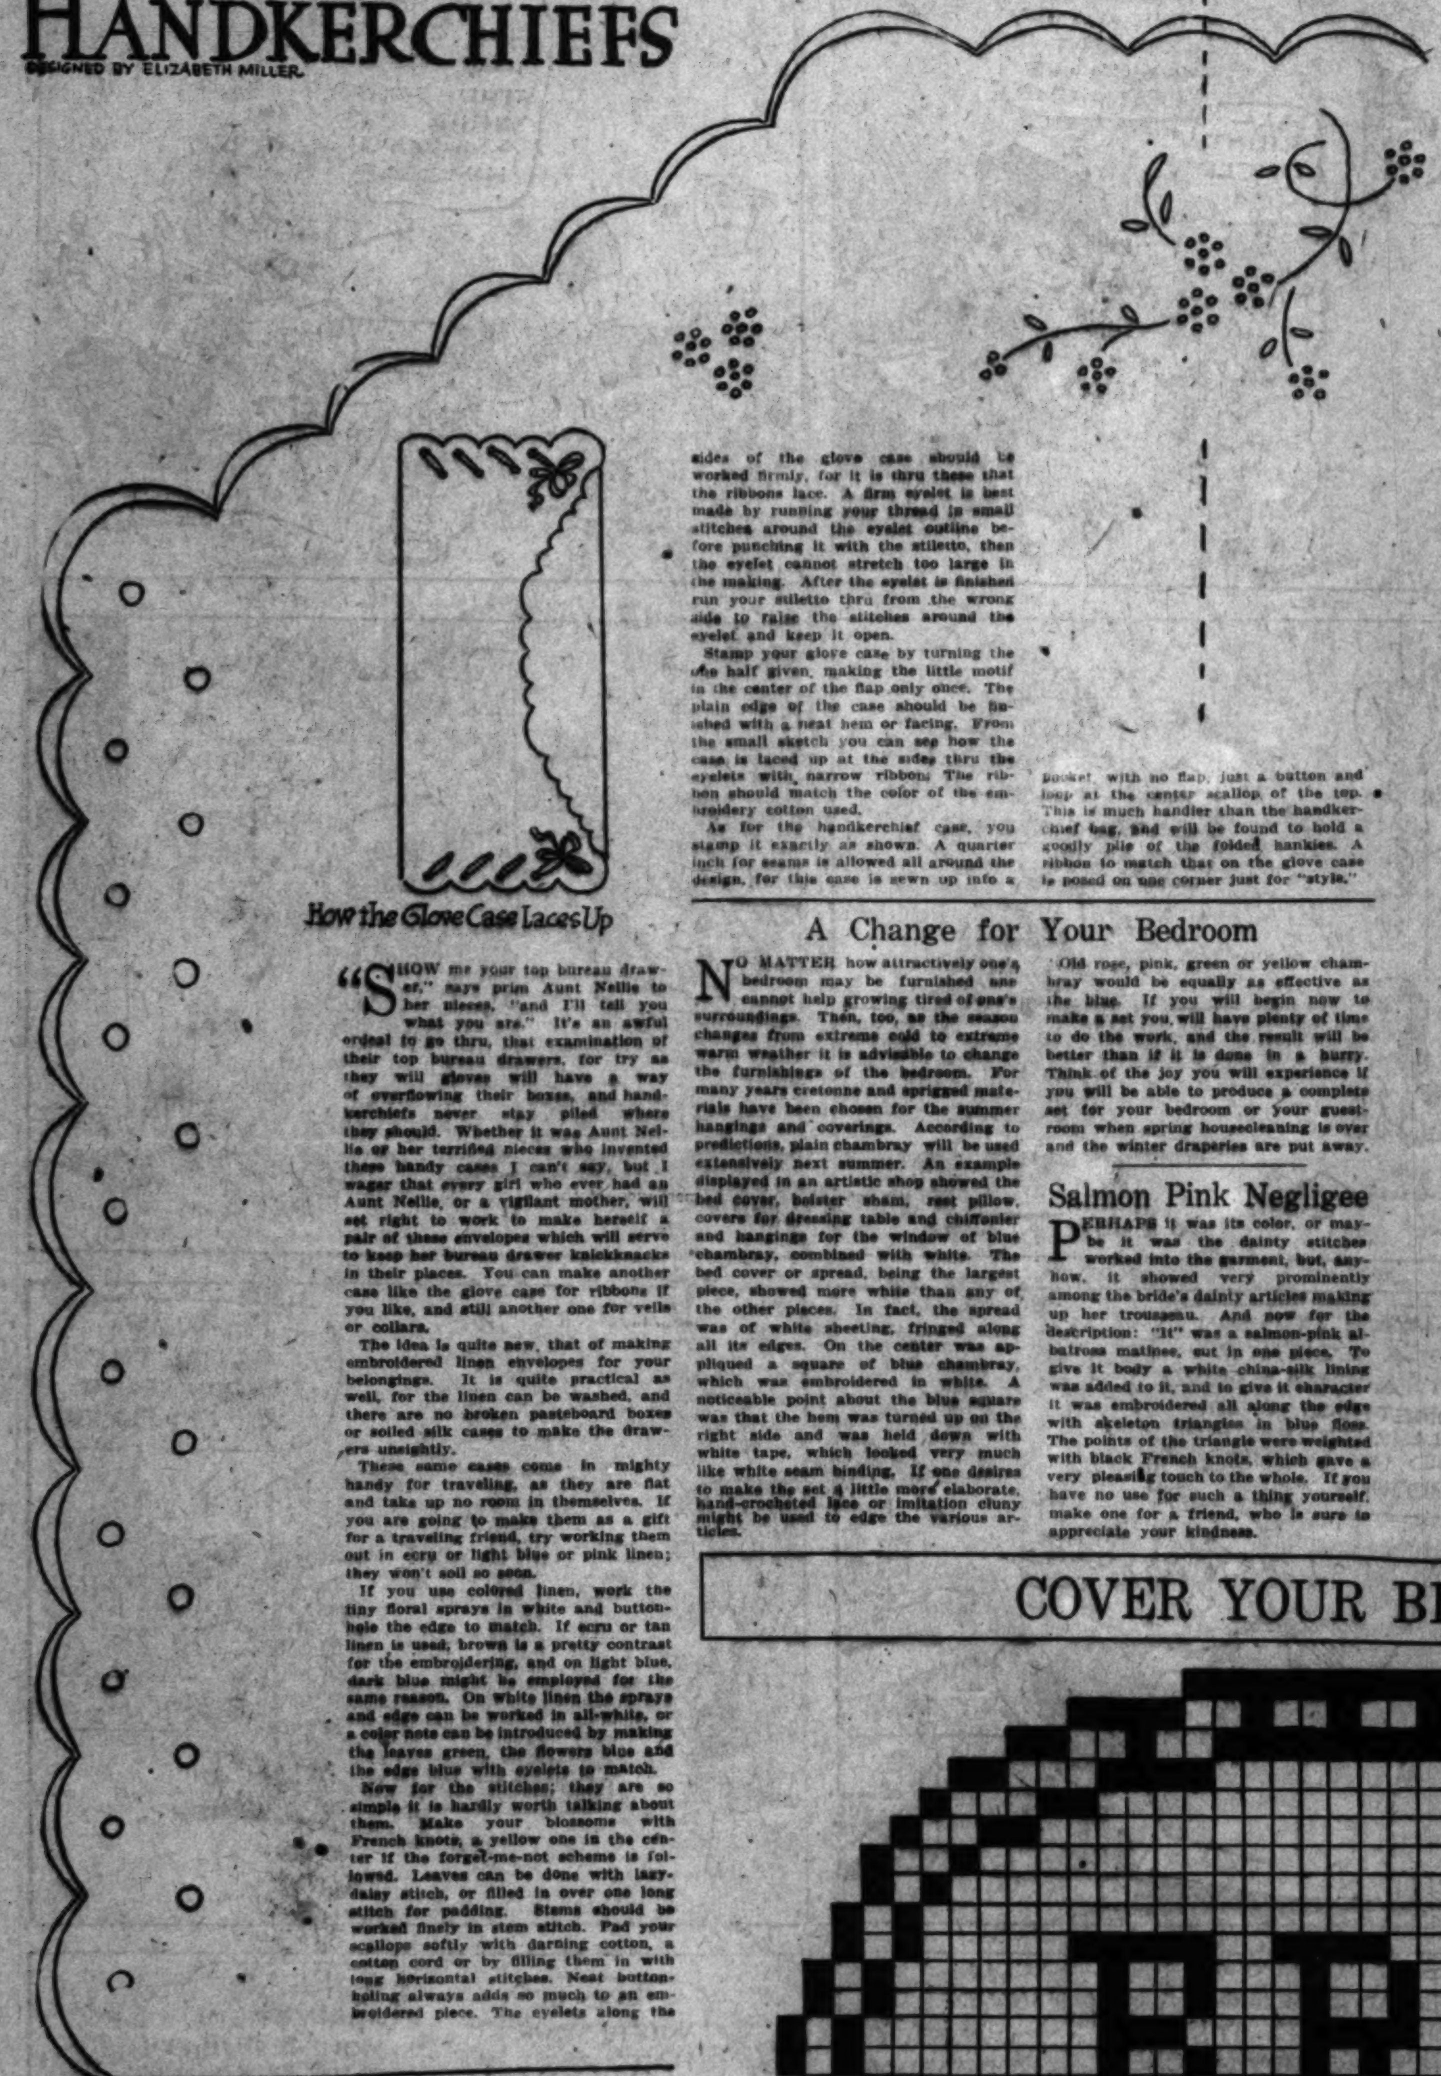
ENVELOPE CASES FOR GLOVES AND HANDKERCHIEFS

DESIGNED BY ELIZABETH MILLER



How the Glove Case Laces Up

Half of Glove Case

"SHOW me your top bureau drawer," says prim Aunt Nellie to her nieces, "and I'll tell you what you are." It's an awful ordeal to go thru, that examination of their top bureau drawers, for try as they will gloves will have a way of overflowing their boxes, and handkerchiefs never stay piled where they should. Whether it was Aunt Nellie or her terrified nieces who invented these handy cases I can't say, but I wager that every girl who ever had an Aunt Nellie, or a vigilant mother, will set right to work to make herself a pair of these envelopes which will serve to keep her bureau drawer knickknacks in their places. You can make another case like the glove case for ribbons if you like, and still another one for veils or collars.

The idea is quite new, that of making embroidered linen envelopes for your belongings. It is quite practical as well, for the linen can be washed, and there are no broken pasteboard boxes or soiled silk cases to make the drawers unsightly.

These same cases come in mighty handy for traveling, as they are flat and take up no room in themselves. If you are going to make them as a gift for a traveling friend, try working them out in ecru or light blue or pink linen; they won't soil so soon.

If you use colored linen, work the tiny floral sprays in white and buttonhole the edge to match. If ecru or tan linen is used, brown is a pretty contrast for the embroidering, and on light blue, dark blue might be employed for the same reason. On white linen the sprays and edge can be worked in all-white, or a color note can be introduced by making the leaves green, the flowers blue and the edge blue with eyelets to match.

Now for the stitches; they are so simple it is hardly worth talking about them. Make your blossoms with French knots, a yellow one in the center if the forget-me-not scheme is followed. Leaves can be done with lazy-daisy stitch, or filled in over one long stitch for padding. Stems should be worked finely in stem stitch. Pad your scallops softly with darning cotton, a cotton cord or by filling them in with long horizontal stitches. Neat buttonholing always adds so much to an embroidered piece. The eyelets along the sides of the glove case should be worked firmly, for it is thru these that the ribbons lace. A firm eyelet is best made by running your thread in small stitches around the eyelet outline before punching it with the stiletto, then the eyelet cannot stretch too large in the making. After the eyelet is finished run your stiletto thru from the wrong side to raise the stitches around the eyelet and keep it open.

Stamp your glove case by turning the one half given, making the little motif in the center of the flap only once. The plain edge of the case should be finished with a neat hem or facing. From the small sketch you can see how the case is laced up at the sides thru the eyelets with narrow ribbon. The ribbon should match the color of the embroidery cotton used.

As for the handkerchief case, you stamp it exactly as shown. A quarter inch for seams is allowed all around the design, for this case is sewn up into a pocket, with no flap, just a button and loop at the center scallop of the top. This is much handier than the handkerchief bag, and will be found to hold a goodly pile of the folded hankies. A ribbon to match that on the glove case is posed on one corner just for "style."

A Change for Your Bedroom

NO MATTER how attractively one's bedroom may be furnished one cannot help growing tired of one's surroundings. Then, too, as the season changes from extreme cold to extreme warm weather it is advisable to change the furnishings of the bedroom. For many years cretonne and sprigged materials have been chosen for the summer hangings and coverings. According to predictions, plain chambray will be used extensively next summer. An example displayed in an artistic shop showed the bed cover, bolster sham, rest pillow, covers for dressing table and chiffonier and hangings for the window of blue chambray, combined with white. The bed cover or spread, being the largest piece, showed more white than any of the other pieces. In fact, the spread was of white sheeting, fringed along all its edges. On the center was appliqued a square of blue chambray, which was embroidered in white. A noticeable point about the blue square was that the hem was turned up on the right side and was held down with white tape, which looked very much like white seam binding. If one desires to make the set a little more elaborate, hand-crocheted lace or imitation cluny might be used to edge the various articles.

Old rose, pink, green or yellow chambray would be equally as effective as the blue. If you will begin now to make a set you will have plenty of time to do the work, and the result will be better than if it is done in a hurry. Think of the joy you will experience if you will be able to produce a complete set for your bedroom or your guest-room when spring housecleaning is over and the winter draperies are put away.

Salmon Pink Negligee

PERHAPS it was its color, or maybe it was the dainty stitches worked into the garment, but, anyhow, it showed very prominently among the bride's dainty articles making up her trousseau. And now for the description: "It" was a salmon-pink albatross matinee, cut in one piece. To give it body a white china-silk lining was added to it, and to give it character it was embroidered all along the edge with skeleton triangles in blue floss. The points of the triangle were weighted with black French knots, which gave a very pleasing touch to the whole. If you have no use for such a thing yourself, make one for a friend, who is sure to appreciate your kindness.

A SURPRISE

DON'T you love surprises? And don't you suppose other people love them? Then do the unexpected thing and make for your dearest girl friend one of the cases for which designs are offered. Or crochet for her the bread-tray cover. Don't let the spirit of giving lie dormant until next Christmas. Your thoughtfulness will be doubly appreciated at this time.

Cut Flowers

THERE are many persons who object to buying cut flowers because they wither so soon. This is quite unnecessary, for if strictly fresh flowers are bought in the first place and if care is given the flowers they will last a surprisingly long time.

Flowers are like human beings in that they need fresh air and fresh water daily. To prolong their life cut off a fraction of an inch from the stem of each flower every day, and if the stem has a very thick covering peel off the bark or covering for a little distance. This enables the flower to absorb more water than it otherwise would.

Flowers should never be kept in the sleeping room at night. If one has flowers which have very thick petals they should be removed from the vase at night and placed in a bowl so that every part of them will be immersed.

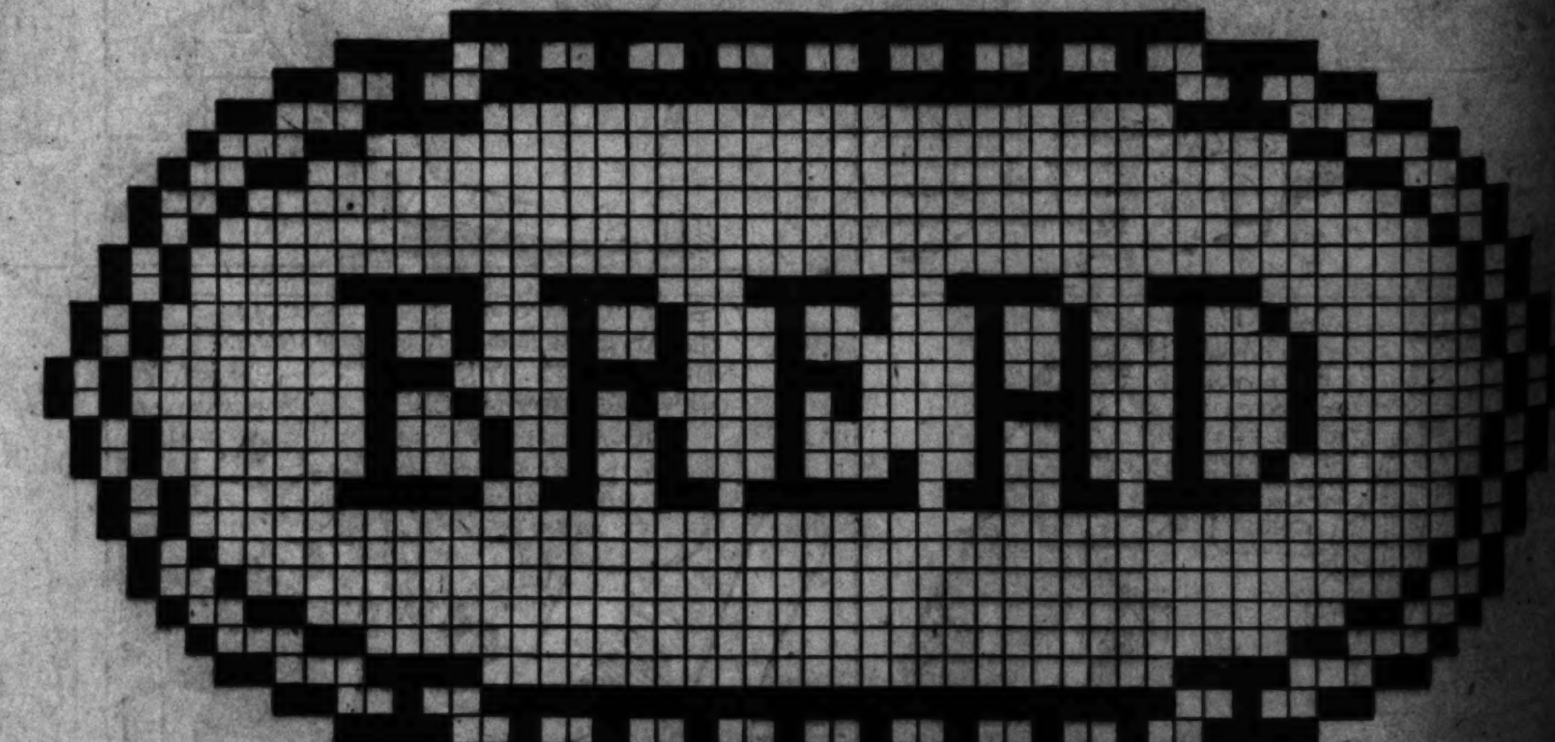
During the day place the vase containing the flowers in a position that will be most advantageous. That is, do not stand them near the stove or radiator and do not let them remain for too long a time in the sun. A little sunshine will prove beneficial provided it is not too hot.

If you have never tried the hot-water treatment for faded flowers you should experiment if you would like to be pleasantly surprised. Very often flowers which are sent from a distance are rather the worse for travel and lack of fresh air when they reach their destination. They can be revived by cutting the fraction of an inch from the stem of each and placing the flowers in a jar of steaming hot water. The jar should then be kept in a cool room for an hour or so. At the end of that time they will convince you that they have taken a new lease on life. If, however, the flowers have faded to such an extent that the treatment is of no avail, try this scheme: Take a fresh supply of hot water and into it drop a lump of camphor about as big as the top of the little finger. Place the stems into the solution. The camphor stimulates the absorption of moisture to a large degree and the blossoms should revive in a short while.

Damp sand and a glass covering have proved effective in encouraging flowers to live a considerable length of time. Place damp sand in a bowl and stick each stem in the sand. Cover each flower with a glass jar or a glass dish deep enough to cover the flowers without bending them. Should there appear mold on the flowers, place a piece of cotton saturated with carbolic acid beneath the glass covering and the mold will disappear.

Wiring a rose will prolong its life. For the purpose you will need two pieces of wire about five inches long. Insert them at right angles thru the base of the petals and bend them back downward and finally twist them around the stem.

COVER YOUR BREAD TRAY WITH FILET



IS THERE anything quite so refined on the table as filet lace or its noble substitute, filet crochet? Own up, now, don't you value your filet luncheon set above all the others, and haven't you a secret favoritism for that filet runner which Aunt Anne crocheted for you? Of course you have, so indulge your fancy while you may and start in on this cover for a bread tray in filet crochet.

You can see how effective it will be over silver or china, for an oblong tray. If it is not large enough, it can be set in a frame of linen and a tiny shell edge crocheted around the linen for a finish.

As to the actual work: Use a cotton somewhere from ten to thirty, according to the kind of cotton you use. Try it out until you find a cotton which will crochet five meshes to the inch. This will make a cover exactly this size. Remember, however, that if your thread is not shrunk before using your crocheted piece is going to shrink when first washed and allow accordingly. If you are going to set it in linen, be sure to shrink lace and linen separately before putting them together. This is a rule which the good needleworker never forgets. It does away with much worry afterward, for lace and linen shrink differently and make a puckering of one or the other.

In crocheting this cover you are apt to experience some difficulty in increasing at certain points. You see, in large filet designs where the outline need not be so fine an increase is made only on every second row, which to the filet worker who knows how to increase and decrease offers no extra difficulties. But in a small piece, where a certain neat outline must be preserved, the increase is made on every row, and consequently when you come to the end of a row where an increase seems impossible you will have to break your thread and attach it at the base of the last double made, proceeding to increase as by rule.

Thus, starting at the bottom of the cover, you will get along easily with the first row of doubles, whichever end you start. Say, when you come to the end of the row at the right, you perceive that you will have to add four extra meshes for the next row. This you know how to do by chaining fourteen, allowing the last three for the turn and filling the other eleven (starting with the fourth chain from the hook) with doubles. This brings you back to the top of the last row again. You go on with this row, until you reach the end of the first row and find that you have four meshes to add on the row you are crocheting. There is no way to do it, you think, and you are right. You must break your thread. You do this, finishing it with a tight knot and attaching it again at the bottom of the last double crocheted. Then you crochet a chain of fourteen, filling it with eleven doubles as you did at the other end. Instead of breaking your thread you may slip it thru the last double to its base and begin with your chains. This does seem like a [illegible] of trouble, but it is only in a [illegible] piece of work like this that it is [illegible] sary; and after all you only have to do it five times, for after you [illegible] rows which increase [illegible] row you are all right [illegible]

The decreasing [illegible] stitching thru the [illegible] meshes until you reach [illegible] gin the shorter row.

How to Transfer

HERE are suggestions for transferring the embroidery design before you to any material.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be [illegible] the goods. If [illegible] only is given, [illegible] the other side [illegible]

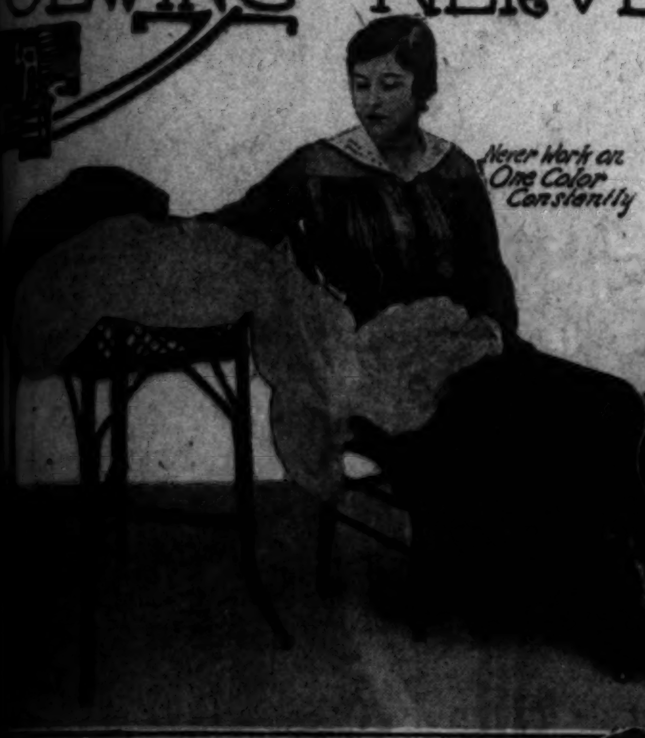
If you have [illegible] place the sheet [illegible] the newspaper [illegible] With a sharp [illegible] lines of the [illegible] be left in [illegible] worked.

GOOD FORM, HEALTH AND BEAUTY

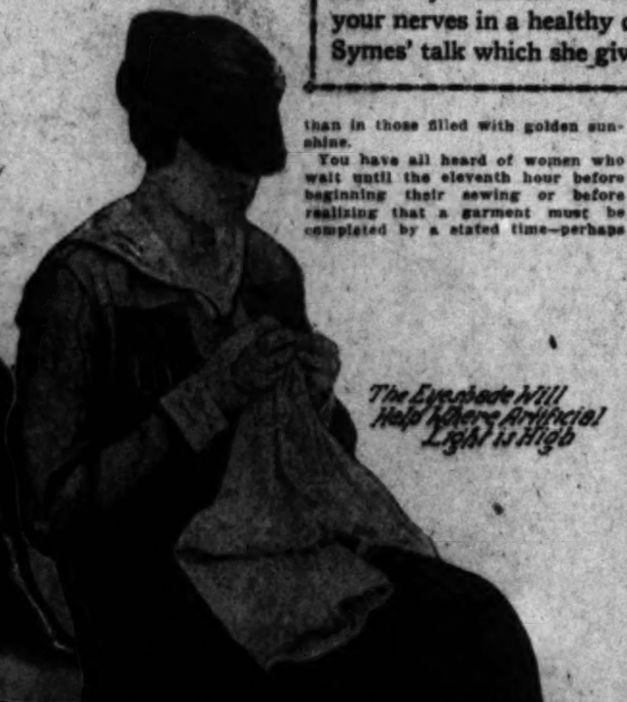
BEWARE OF SPRING "SEWING" NERVES

IF—

WHAT regrets do you have because of things that might have been otherwise if you had only done them in a different way? Don't be among the foolhardy. Listen to a word of warning and keep your nerves in a healthy condition by following Mrs. Symes' talk which she gives today.



Never Work on One Color Constantly



The Eyeshade Will Help Where Artificial Light is High

[illegible] stop to think how [illegible] of "nerves" there [illegible] of worry, over-[illegible] living, late hours [illegible] other things causing one [illegible] among the many [illegible]. This is especially true [illegible] of the year and at [illegible] one's complete [illegible] or has to be [illegible] new things. The [illegible] that "sewing" nerves [illegible]; a knowledge of [illegible] work will save one [illegible]. After all it is small [illegible] work themselves [illegible] conditions, for it is [illegible] there are any number [illegible] don't know how to [illegible] and most efficient [illegible] particularly true of the [illegible]. Various leagues [illegible] are doing much to [illegible], but in spite of [illegible] are ignorant souls [illegible] lack of the spirit of [illegible]. It is my aim today to [illegible] how to ward off [illegible] effort to economize [illegible] themselves individual [illegible]

[illegible] select all of the [illegible] and utensils before [illegible]. In this way you [illegible] many disturbing [illegible] from your work.

[illegible] select a comfortable [illegible] to sew. There are many [illegible] to sit on straight [illegible] sewing, while there [illegible] other women who will [illegible] a rocking chair. The [illegible] all very well provided [illegible] does not expend too [illegible] to and fro as she [illegible] occasionally is [illegible] it gives one an op-[illegible] a little. To avoid [illegible] back, it is a sensible [illegible] of wood beneath [illegible]. Of course, the [illegible] supposed to be more [illegible] sewing than is the [illegible]

[illegible] sitting at the ma-[illegible] a chair of comfort-[illegible]. One woman solved the problem by purchasing a stool and cutting off the legs to gain a stool of proper height. She might have also solved the question by using a piano stool at the sewing machine, lowering and raising it to suit her needs. A stool with a slanting seat would also prove an advantage. If there is much machine sewing to be done, the operator will find it restful to change seats, substituting a chair with a back for the stool.

No one who has any regard for one's eyesight should think of sewing in bad light. The proper thing to do is to sit so that the light falls over the left shoulder, and see to it that sufficient light is thrown on the material. If one is obliged to work in a room where the lighting is high, the wearing of a dark eyeshade will prove restful. In fact, not only is it advisable for the sewer to wear an eyeshade, but all persons engaged in close work should wear one. To the inexperienced, the comfort the shade gives will be valuable, and will cause the individual to wonder how he or she ever did without it.

Another precaution for the sewer to take to ward off nerves is to avoid working on one color constantly. Keep articles of various colors on hand, so that a change can be made frequently. There are some women who find that they cannot work on black at all at night. Then there are others who shun white. This goes to prove that the individual must decide for herself which colors to avoid. It is impossible to make any hard and fast rules about the matter.

The skirt hanging suggestion is sure to be hailed with delight by the women who have suffered long and often from crouching on the floor to do the work. The next time any one of you has a skirt to turn up just have your model step up on a table. Then you sit on a chair, and with a ruler or stiff tape measure mark off the proper length and pin up the material. From your position you will be able to see whether the result is satisfactory or not.

This may sound like a simple suggestion, but those who have tried it can testify as to its value. Before settling down to sew, or while waiting for hubbie to come home to dinner, thread a pack of needles with the various cottons or silks you will use during the sewing process, and you will find the preparation a great help in hastening your progress and preserving your nerves. Such a precaution will be found particularly helpful if one has night sewing to do. The eye of the needle seems to be much more elusive in the black hours than in those filled with golden sunshine.

You have all heard of women who wait until the eleventh hour before beginning their sewing or before realizing that a garment must be completed by a stated time—perhaps you are guilty yourself. In that case, it is needless for me to tell of the bad case of nerves brought on by such foolishness. I urge you to begin now to do your spring and summer sewing. Take your time at the work and the result is sure to be highly satisfactory.

Oh, yes, another hint for facilitating the work. A very long time spent at lap sewing produces pain in the back of the neck and causes a tired feeling in the eyes. If one must go on with the work a delightful rest for these tired parts can be gained by placing a pillow on the lap and resting the elbows on it. This changes the focus of the eyes and causes the head to be held in a different position. Just try it some time to prove the truth of the statement.

If sewing gives you too much time for gloomy or unpleasant thoughts, try whistling or singing while you work. Of course, have compassion on your associates if it so happens that you are not sewing in a room by yourself.

And now let the scarcity of complaints about "sewing" nerves this spring prove that you have followed my hints and suggestions.

LET US COMMEMORATE THE CHERRY TREE

ASSOCIATED with the idea of George Washington's birthday is the more or less colorful idea of candy cherries, flags, brilliant costumes, paper and wooden hatchets and bepowdered wigs. There are bright and happy suggestion for entertainment in all this, and a party to celebrate the cherry tree episode would not be amiss.

We will begin at the beginning and decide on the invitations. Written on silver paper hatchets, they might read something like this:

Here on this little hatchet
Is a wish—I hope you'll catch it—
To come frolic with me
Round the old cherry tree.
February 22. [illegible] Woodlawn avenue.

Next in consideration comes the decorative scheme, and there is so much material from which to choose. Artificial cherry tree branches, made from cranberries tied to laurel or smilax, are decidedly effective hanging from chandeliers, doorways and side-walls. Cherry tree place cards mounted on stands with the name of the guest written either on the tree trunk or on the white bristol board base could be supplemented by another tree of quite larger proportions used for the table centerpiece. Candy-filled hatchets, tiny silk flags, or colonial dames' powder puffs or pincushions make appropriate favors.

Next comes the feature most important of all—refreshments. What would contribute more to the patriotic spirit of things on Washington's birthday than hatchet-shaped sandwiches with a red and green filling of pickled beets and lettuce, or minced red peppers and olives, a cherry beverage, a cherry ice molded in the form of a huge cherry, garnished with greens and topped with a tiny silk flag? Green candysticks tied with ribbon form a brilliant contrast to heaps of bright candy cherries. You might serve a red and green salad, too, with the sandwiches. Wee red radishes on crisp lettuce leaves with peppers make a pretty and appetizing salad.

Now for the purely entertaining side of the gathering. And what hostess doesn't groan when confronted with the problem of providing new and interesting amusement? Of course, there is always music and dancing to "fall back on," so to speak; but everybody doesn't dance, and every home does not permit of sufficient dancing comfort for a large number. There is social salvation in fun-provoking games. Story-telling by the guests is invariably amusing; but with each one striving to tell the "biggest" there is an almost interminable amount of fun. This form of amusement is more successful and a great deal more skillfully indulged in after refreshments, as a rule. But when the guests are arriving it is better to leave them to themselves or let music provide the entertainment, else any attempt on the part of the hostess to "start things" so early in the evening may meet with unsuccess, or be mistaken for a desire to hurry things. When all, or nearly all, have arrived, and signs of the dreaded "calm" become apparent, then the discerning entertainer will propose some sort of amusement. Arrange the chairs in two rows, facing each other. Seat the boys in one row and the girls in that opposite. The idea is to have the boys make faces or witty remarks so as to provoke a laugh from the girls. Of course, the more one tries to suppress laughter the more difficult it becomes to do, and the greater is the outburst when laughter is finally yielded to. A booby prize goes to the one who yields first and a tiny jester on a stick to her who holds out longest. Of course, the boy who first succeeds in making some one laugh is due a really worthy reward. Then, another version of the donkey game is always welcome. Pin a sheet with a tree trunk painted thereon to any available wall space. Provide each of the guests with cloth hatchets and pins. A prize goes to him who pins his hatchet nearest the stump. The story-telling may be reserved until the last. Have the guests group themselves in a circle. Any one may begin. There is no obligation on the next one to continue the story of his predecessor unless he chooses to. The idea is to have each one relate some incident, seen or experienced, and so far from any probability of possessing a grain of truth that the game soon resolves itself into a close competition to see who is telling the "biggest." It ends with a prize for the most extravagant story.

SOLUTIONS TO SOCIAL PROBLEMS

Name for Sewing Circle

MY DEAR Mrs. Adams. Kindly send thru your paper a proper name for a sewing circle consisting of a few girls. Thanking you in advance, I am, M. M. C.

You might call the circle the Busy Bees, Nimble Fingers or the Industries.

Shall She Accept?

My dear Mrs. Adams. I am a young girl of 14. Will you please tell me if it is wrong to go with boys at my age? My girl friends at school all have boy friends. I have met a boy. He seems very nice and polite. He is 17 years old. He asked me to spend several evenings with him and I have refused. Please tell me if it would be wrong to accept his invitations. How long should I stay out in the evenings by myself or with other girls? A READER.

Yes, you are much too young to think seriously of the attentions of the opposite sex. If your parents do not object, you might accept the invitations. You should not remain out later than 9 or 9.30 o'clock.

Family Dissension

My dear Mrs. Adams. I am a young woman, 28 years old. I have been married several years. I have lived with my husband's parents since I was first married. My husband and I got along nicely the first few years, until his parents, who are known to be hard to get along with, began meddling in our business over things that did not concern them, and carrying tales to my husband. It is spoiling our happiness. I sometimes think that it is nothing but jealousy that makes them treat us so. My husband has a good position in this town; for this reason, we do not like to move away. Please give me your advice on what to do. A FRIEND.

Evidently your husband understands. For that reason, both of you should have no difficulty in ignoring any unpleasantness on the part of your relatives. Remonstrance will be of little avail in promoting peace. It would be wiser to ignore whatever is disagreeable.

Is She Too Old?

My dear Mrs. Adams. I am a young schoolgirl of 17. Am I too old to wear my hair down my back in curls? I usually do because I look better with it that way. Would it be better for me if attending a dance to wear my hair up with most the ends hanging down? If a young man sends you a gift, is it necessary to return it? What would be proper to send a young man graduating from high school? Should a young girl speak first to a young man on the street? Is 17 too young to be engaged? If a young man asks you to dance and you do not care to, what should you say? Thanking you in advance, I am, CURLY HEAD.

No; many girls wear their hair down until they are 20. You might even wear it down at the dance should you care to, or arrange it as you suggest.

It is not necessary to return the gift unless reasons best known to yourself warrant it. You might send the young man a book, a necktie, a scarfpin, a muffler, or something in leather goods. As a rule, it is most unwise for a girl of 17 to become engaged. If you do not care to dance, you might excuse yourself by saying that you prefer to sit the dance out, because you are tired.

Name for a Club

My dear Mrs. Adams. Will you suggest some names appropriate for a club of girls between the ages of 13 and 15 years? Please suggest a few names suitable for frolic. Thanking you for your kindness, I remain, ANXIOUS.

The following names: The Merrymakers, the Frolicksome Few, the Feminine Follies.

Trying to Forget

My dear Mrs. Adams. I have been reading your columns in the paper. I am a child 9 years old. A friend of mine died and was a beloved friend, too. Could you tell me what I could do to make me stop thinking of her? C. T.

Every time that you are tempted to grieve over the loss of your friend, you must stop yourself. Keep your mind occupied with bright, happy thoughts. Try to do your best work in school and play outdoors as much as you can afterward. In a short time you will stop grieving.

You Must Decide

My dear Mrs. Adams. I am a girl 13 years old. I would like your advice on what length to wear my dresses. I would also like your advice on whether to take the eighth grade another term in order to pass the examination, or should I run the risk of passing it this term after missing a large part of the term with whooping cough? ANXIOUS.

You yourself can best decide whether or not it would be a risk for you to attempt the examination after your prolonged absence. If you think it safer, you had better wait. You are very young, as yet, you know.

You might wear your dresses midway between knee and ankle.

A Youthful Lover

My dear Mrs. Adams. I think that I am in love with a girl who goes to the parties that I go to; but somehow I can't get to talk with her. She is dancing or talking to some other boy. I have escorted her to parties, but she is just a friend to me. She goes with another boy who always gets ahead of me and makes an engagement. H.

Perhaps you are shy when in the girl's presence. Overcome your "faint heart" and ask her if you may call on her. Do not, however, mistake every passing fancy for love. You are likely to have many such affections of the heart before you are mature.

IN MEMORIAM

AREN'T you glad George Washington was born on February 22? Suppose he had been born on Christmas day, or July 4? Then you never could celebrate his birthday by a cherry-tree party, because fireworks or Christmas trees would be too popular. Therefore rejoice, and have a party a la Mrs. Adams this year!

Dissolve the soap in the water and add the other ingredients. Rub well into the roots. Rinse thoroly in several waters, then dry carefully.

Thick Lips

My dear Mrs. Symes. Would you please tell me what will make my hair grow? It is getting thin and splits at the ends, and it falls out. Also, could you tell me how to reduce my lower lip, which is thick? Thanking you in advance, I am, GRAY EYES.

Below I am printing a tonic for falling hair which, if you rub it well into the scalp about three times a week, will in time bring nourishment to the impoverished roots and give results. The split ends may be due to hasty drying or to a sudden change from hot to cold water when washing the hair. Try to avoid whichever of these abuses to your hair you are guilty of.

If the lips are swollen or large only at times, hot applications will help to reduce them; or diluted witch hazel is quite as effective. Then, too, you can form a habit of controlling the lips so that they will not appear as thick as they are normally.

Tonic for Falling Hair

Phenol	½ dram
Tincture nux vomica	7½ grains
Tincture cinchona	1 ounce
Tincture of cantharides	½ dram
Cologne	4 ounces
Sweet almond oil	2 ounces

Apply to the roots of the hair with a soft sponge once or twice a day. This lotion is especially good for very dry hair.

Treatment for Whiteheads

My dear Mrs. Symes. Would you please tell me what causes such little holes in my face? Altho I rub my face with ice and use good cold cream, it doesn't seem to help. It grieves me terribly. Please tell me how to get rid of them, also of whiteheads. Your answer will be greatly appreciated. GERDA H.

The little holes are probably scars left from the whiteheads. If you would rid yourself permanently of the holes and the whiteheads you must be very particular about your diet. It is advisable that you avoid sweets, pastries, highly seasoned and indigestible foods. Get plenty of sleep, exercise in the open as much as you possibly can, and drink plenty of water. At night bathe the face with water as hot as you can comfortably bear it, rub a good cleansing cream into the open pores—I am printing one below should you care to try it—wipe off all surface dirt, dash cold water on the face; or, better still, rub with a bit of ice covered with a piece of old linen. Then you might massage the scars with a lotion composed of boracic acid, forty-eight grains, and lanolin, one ounce, letting it remain on all night. You must be careful in the selection of a powder, if you use one. Rice powder applied on a foundation of cold cream is perhaps the safest.

Cleansing Cream

White wax	2 ounces
Spermaceti	2 ounces
Sweet almond oil	12 ounces
Distilled water	3 ounces
Glycerin	3 ounces
Salicylic acid	10 grains

Preserving the Whiteness of the Skin

My dear Mrs. Symes. I have been reading your columns for many years, and I am now coming for advice for myself. Will you please give me some simple and inexpensive formulas for blackheads and freckles? Also something to preserve a white skin to keep it from getting darker? My hair is very thin and short, and the ends are split. Please tell me what to do to remedy the splitting and to make it thick and long. Thanking you in advance, I remain, TROUBLED.

Below I am printing formulas for blackheads and freckles. If you would rid yourself permanently of the blackheads, you must be careful of your diet, avoiding all rich, greasy and indigestible foods, sweets and pastries. Drink plenty of water and exercise in the open as much as you can; do not neglect to get sufficient sleep.

If you will add a few drops of lemon juice now and then to the rinsing water, it will do much to preserve the whiteness of your skin. If, however, you find that this has a tendency to dry your skin, you had better give up preventive preparations in favor of guarding your skin against wind and sun. Split ends may be due either to too hasty drying of the hair or a sudden change from hot to cold water when washing the hair. If you will rub the following tonic well into the scalp about three times a week, you can do much to restore the health to your scalp, and thus eliminate further trouble with split ends and thin hair.

Jaborandi Tonic

Quinine sulphate	20 grains
Tincture of cantharides	3 fluid ounces
Fluid extract of jaborandi	2 fluid drams
Alcohol	2 fluid ounces
Glycerin	2 ounces
Bay rum	4 fluid ounces
Rosewater	16 fluid ounces

The quinine should be dissolved in the alcoholic liquids by warming slightly, then the other ingredients added and the whole filtered. Rub into the roots of the hair every night.

Doctor Wilson's Treatment for Obstinate Freckles

(Recommended by Erasmus Wilson, and tho excellent in obstinate cases, does not suit all complexions equally well.)

Elder-flower ointment	1 ounce
Sulphate of zinc	20 grains

Mix well and rub the affected skin at night. In the morning wash the cerate off with soap and soft water, and afterward apply a lotion thus composed:

Citric acid	20 grains
Infusion of rose	½ pint

All local discolorations, Doctor Wilson affirms, will disappear under this treatment, or, if the freckles do not yield, they will at least be greatly ameliorated.

The length of time it takes to effect a cure varies with different persons.

Lotion for Blackheads

Pure brandy	3 ounces
Cologne	1 ounce
Liquor potassa	½ ounce

Apply at night, after washing the face thoroughly with soap and water.

A Changeable Taffeta Flowered and Striped

Self-Trimmed Flounce On a Jersey Top

SCIENTISTS tell us that rest is more beneficial to the human body than the individual realizes. The same conclusion holds good for the inanimate things of life; consequently, the long rest enjoyed by petticoats caused them to rise up more beautiful and unusual than ever before.

Very different from anything one has seen for many days is the purple petticoat with its two rows of shirred taffeta, each edged with corded silk, and its side panels of many ruffles. The panel idea is a reflection of a prominent fashion note in frocks, as is also the uneven line at the bottom of the skirt.

Changeable silks are considered very smart for petticoats, and most unusual color combinations are offered. According to the fall of the light one sees red or green in the petticoat with many stripes and flowers.

A very dainty and attractive model is the one in a shade of Alice blue. The top is jersey silk, a feature that is appreciated by the woman who wants as little bulk as possible about her hips. And then, too, the jersey tops are said to outlive those of taffetas. But be that as it may, this skirt is finished with a graceful flounce of soft taffeta. The scalloped edge is trimmed with taffeta ruchings, a decoration that is as effective as it is old-time. Triple rows of hemstitching are in keeping with a modish form of trimming, not only for petticoats but for every article of dress.

After the fashion of sheep, petticoats follow the leader that first revived lace trimming. On a flesh-colored petticoat of crepe de chine three flounces of wide lace are used with very pleasing effect. This model, as well as the one of light blue, is quite appropriate for the fluffy evening dress. To a light blue taffeta top flounces of Georgette crepe banded with the taffeta are attached. An important fashion note in the form of designs developed in soutache braid is introduced on the flounces.

From this collection you can surely have no difficulty carrying out the rule that one must have a petticoat for every costume.
